Dawn Primarolo: At the request of my right. hon. Friend the Home Secretary, the Government's advisory committee on drugs, the Advisory Council on the Misuse of Drugs (ACMD), carried out a substantial review last year of the harms associated with cannabis use, including the physical and psychological effects of cannabis. The report, 'Cannabis: Classification and Public Health (2008)', was published in May 2008 and copies have already been placed in the Library.

Additionally, the Department commissioned a systematic review of studies relating to cannabis and mental health. The peer-reviewed results of this review were published in the Lancet in July 2007 and confirmed the evidence of an association, possibly causal, between prior cannabis use and later development of psychosis and schizophrenia with a 40 per cent., increase in risk reported, up to a 200 per cent. increase for at-risk heavy users.

Care Homes: Standards

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many care homes in each region did not comply with minimum infection control standards in each of the last three years. [254151]

Phil Hope: We are informed by the Commission for Social Care Inspection (CSCI) that its inspectors assess the performance of care homes against each national minimum standard (NMS) and rate them on a four-point scale. A score of 4 indicates that a standard has been exceeded. A score of 3 shows that it has been met. A score of 2 denotes that the standard was almost met with minor shortfalls—this indicates that one of the numerous sub-sections in the standard has not been completely met. A score of 1 means the standard has not been met.

The following table shows the numbers and percentages of care homes with scores of two and one against the relevant NMS for Care Homes for Older People relating to hygiene and infection control for the years ending 31 March 2006-08.

Numbers of services per region which failed the hygiene and infection control standard (NMS for care homes for older people)

Chronically Sick

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) whether his Department's review of prescription charges for long-term conditions will take into account the socio-economic profile of the patient group affected by individual conditions; [253728]

(2) whether his Department's review of prescription charges for long-term conditions will take into account the views of patients with sickle cell disease and thalassaemia. [253730]

Dawn Primarolo: The president of the Royal College of Physicians (Professor Ian Gilmore) is carrying out the review of prescription charges that is considering how to implement the commitment to exempt patients with long-term conditions from prescription charges. The review is due to make its recommendations to departmental Ministers in summer 2009.

The review is engaging widely with stakeholders to seek the views of patients, the public, patient representative bodies, clinicians and healthcare organisations and to take account of the specific circumstances of patients with long-term conditions. It will do this via written consultation; web based consultation, oral evidence sessions; deliberative research with patients and the public and with general practitioners; stakeholder workshops, literature review and data analysis. The Government will carry out an Equality Impact Assessment of any policy proposals that emerge from the review prior to implementation.

The All Party Parliamentary Group on sickle cell and thalassaemia has been in contact with the review and the Sickle Cell Society has been invited to provide written evidence to the review.

Complementary Medicine

Mr. Binley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) whether any NHS patient wishing to choose (a) homeopathic treatment and (b) other forms of complementary medicine is able to receive it from an NHS homeopathic hospital; [254003]

(2) what assessment the Government have made of the potential for use of complementary and alternative medicines in place of conventional drugs on the NHS. [254004]

Phil Hope: The Government consider that it is the responsibility of the national health service to make decisions on what treatments are most appropriate for their patients, including complementary and alternative medicine treatments and referrals to homoeopathic hospitals. In some cases complementary and alternative medicine treatments may be appropriate and a general practitioner would make a decision to refer taking into account safety, clinical and cost effectiveness as well as the availability of suitably qualified and regulated practitioners. The Government are currently giving careful consideration to the issue of cost but would consider the provision of such treatments would usually be complementary to, rather than provided in place of, conventional treatments.

Contraception

Dr. Naysmith: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what training on the provision of advice on (a) contraception and (b) long-acting methods of contraception is available for nurses whose main duties do not relate to the provision of sexual health services. [253454]

Dawn Primarolo: Education and training for all nurses is the responsibility of their employers in light of local priorities and local assessment of training needs. The need for both general contraception and specifically long acting reversible contraception training has been identified as a priority, locally, regionally and nationally.

Training is available from a range of professional bodies, voluntary organisations and educational establishments.

Dr. Naysmith: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) if he will review the role of termination of pregnancy clinics in providing advice on contraception; [253455]

(2) if he will review his policy on the provision of advice on contraception immediately following (a) the termination of a pregnancy and (b) repeat terminations of pregnancies. [253456]

Dawn Primarolo: As set out in the NHS Operating Framework for 2009-10, from 1 April 2009, the standard national health service contract includes the requirement that abortion service providers should provide contraception advice and treatment services. The contract specifies that providers must draw up plans, to be approved by each commissioner, to improve access for women to the full range of contraception advice and treatment during attendance for medical or surgical abortion. This should include follow up arrangements for women who do not receive contraceptive advice or treatment at the time of abortion.

Contraception: Young People

Dr. Naysmith: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent steps he has taken to increase the level of awareness and knowledge amongst young people of the range of available contraceptive methods. [253458]

Dawn Primarolo: The NHS Operating Framework for 2009-10 calls upon primary care trusts to reduce teenage pregnancy rates by providing a full range of contraception services and methods.

In support of the £26.8 million additional funding for contraceptive services, a new targeted campaign will begin this year to highlight the full range of contraception available, including long acting reversible contraception.

We are also improving young people's access to contraceptive and sexual health advice, by making services more young people friendly and by locating services in places that fit with young people's daily lives, including in schools, further education colleges and other youth settings.

Dementia: Carers

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what support is available to carers of those diagnosed with dementia. [253942]

Phil Hope: The National Dementia Strategy, published in February 2009, a copy of which has already been placed in the Library, highlights the need to support carers of those diagnosed with dementia. We will do this by taking forward the Carers' Strategy.

The Carers' Strategy, "Carers at the heart of 21st century families and communities", published in June 2008, recognises the increasingly important role that carers play in our society and acknowledges that all carers, including carers of those diagnosed with dementia, need more help and support than has been available in the past. A copy has already been placed in the Library. The strategy contains a number of commitments including information and advice, new break provision and a recognition that family carers should be involved in decisions about treatment and support.

Dementia: Expenditure

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much his Department spent on medical research on (a) Alzheimer's disease and (b) dementia in the latest year for which figures are available; and what proportion of his Department's budget this represents. [253997]

Phil Hope: National health service support for degenerative neurological disorder research and National Institute for Health Research investment in dementia research amounted in 2007-08 to £22.2 million. The Medical Research Council (MRC) spent £10.2 million on dementia research in the same year. This total expenditure of £32.4 million amounts to some 2.5 per cent. of the combined departmental research and development and MRC expenditure for the year.

Details of expenditure on research specifically concerned with Alzheimer's disease are not available.

Departmental Pensions

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department is taking to advise staff of pension options available to them in relation to added years or additional voluntary contributions. [253270]

Mr. Bradshaw: In November 2007, the Department advised its staff via its intranet about the withdrawal of the added years facility as from 1 April 2008. They were also given details of the new added pension arrangements and directed to the pension reform pages on the Civil Service Pensions website, where they could get more detailed information and could access an added pension calculator.

Via its intranet, the Department directed staff to the civil service website which provides detailed information on the options for increasing pension—including the option of added voluntary contributions. Staff are also given a civil service pensions email address and telephone number, that they can use to obtain further information, and who to contact if they want specific information booklets.

Doctors and Nurses: Manpower

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many NHS doctors were working in (a) England, (b) the North East, (c) the Tees Valley and (d) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency in (i) 1997 and (ii) 2008; [253424]

(2) how many NHS nurses were working in (a) England, (b) the North East, (c) the Tees Valley and (d) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency in (i) 1997 and (ii) 2008. [253425]

Ann Keen: The following tables gives the number of national health services doctors and nurses working in England, the North East Strategic Health Authority (SHA) and the primary care trusts (PCTs) that make up the requested constituency. There is no geographical definition for the Tees Valley.

Work force statistics are compiled from data sent by more than 300 NHS trusts and primary care trusts (PCTs) in England. The NHS Information Centre for health and social care liaises closely with these organisations to encourage submission of complete and valid data and seeks to minimise inaccuracies and the effect of missing and invalid data. Processing methods and procedures are continually being updated to improve data quality. Where this happens any impact on figures already published will be assessed but unless this is significant at national level they will not be changed. Where there is impact only at detailed or local level this will be footnoted in relevant analyses.

Driving Under Influence: Health Services

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the cost of treatment of people involved in drink-driving incidents in the last year for which figures are available. [251745]

Dawn Primarolo: The Cabinet Office report "Alcohol misuse: How much does it cost?" published in 2003[1] estimated that the cost of medical and ambulance treatment for injuries as a result of drink-driving offences recorded as crimes in England and Wales in 2001 was £31.5 million. In addition, for the same year, the Department of Transport[2] estimated that the medical and ambulance costs of fatalities from drink-driving accidents was a minimum of about £0.35 million, based upon an average of £740 for each of the estimated 480 fatalities for Great Britain in 2001.

Drugs: Exports

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if his Department will undertake an assessment of the potential effects on the (a) availability of medicines and (b) budgetary provision for the NHS of the transition of the UK from being a net importer to a net exporter of medicines. [253568]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department is in regular contact with the national health service, pharmaceutical companies and wholesalers, and continues to monitor the availability of medicines. The Department and the pharmaceutical industry have published joint best practice guidelines in order to help manage the availability of medicines. A copy of these guidelines has been placed in the Library and can also be found on the Department's website at:

www.dh.gov.uk/en/Healthcare/Medicinespharmacyandindustry/Discontinuedmedicines/index.htm

Health Services: Standards

Mr. David Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what definition his Department uses of a quality standard, as referred to in the NHS Next Stage Review. [253709]

Mr. Bradshaw: As set out in High Quality Care for All, the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence's (NICE'S) role will be expanded to set quality standards. The Department is currently working with stakeholders, including NICE, to develop a commonly agreed definition of a quality standard. This definition will be considered by the National Quality Board at its first meeting in March 2009.

HIV Infection: Blood

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 15 January 2009, Official Report, column 962W, on blood: contamination, and with reference to the answer of 25 June 2008, Official Report, columns 362-3W, on HIV infection: blood, what analysis his Department has made of the reasons for the rate of reported deaths of haemophiliacs who contracted HIV as a result of taking contaminated blood products under the NHS between 2007. [251167]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department has not made any analysis of the reasons for the rate of reported deaths of haemophiliacs who contracted HIV as a result of contaminated blood products between 2007 and January 2009.

The figures reported in the answer given on 25 June 2008, Official Report, columns 362-3W (399 haemophiliacs alive in 2007) came from the United Kingdom haemophilia centre doctors' organisation (UKHCDO). The figures reported in the answer given on 15 January 2009, Official Report, column 962W (345 haemophiliacs alive at the end of 2008), came from the MacFarlane Trust. Neither source can be sure their information is complete and accurate. UKHCDO acknowledge that their figures are likely to be an overestimate, while not all patients will have registered with the MacFarlane Trust.

These figures do not mean that over 40 patients died during the period in question, because the organisations source their data in different ways.

The UKHCDO and the MacFarlane Trust are aware of these discrepancies, and both organisations have agreed to work together in order to try to harmonise relevant data while maintaining strict confidentiality.

Hospitals: Parking

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will direct hospital trusts not to charge for hospital car parking for out-patients. [253423]

Mr. Bradshaw: Car parking arrangements, including charges, are a matter for individual national health service bodies, based on their own local circumstances. However, guidance from the Department to support trusts in implementing parking policies, issued in December 2006, strongly recommends NHS bodies to provide free or discounted car parking to those patients and their relatives or primary visitors who have to use the car park regularly. The Department reminded NHS bodies of this in November 2008.

Hospitals: Standards

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department is taking to increase the quality of hospital care services in all regions. [253126]

Mr. Bradshaw: As part of the NHS Next Stage Review each strategic health authority published a regional clinical vision. High Quality Care for All sets out that quality should be at the heart of the national health service and sets out a quality framework to enable quality improvement at a local level.

Hospitals: Waiting Lists

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department plans to take to reduce NHS waiting lists in (a) England and (b) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency. [253113]

Mr. Bradshaw: From 1 January 2009, the operational delivery standards for the national health service in England are that 95 per cent. of non admitted and 90 per cent. of admitted patients will start treatment within 18 weeks of referral. These standards allow for patents who choose to wait longer or where it is clinically appropriate for patients to wait longer.

At a national level, figures for November 2008, which are the latest available, show the majority of patients are already being seen within 18 weeks of referral. 90 per cent. of patients whose treatment involved admission to hospital started their treatment within 18 weeks and 96 per cent. of patients whose treatment did not involve admission to hospital started their treatment within 18 weeks. The median wait for in-patient treatment has fallen to 8.1 weeks from 18.8 weeks in 1997. November data are available at:

www.dh.gov.uk/en/Publicationsandstatistics/Statistics/Performancedataandstatistics/18WeeksReferraltoTreatmentstatistics/index.htm

Figures for November 2008, which are the latest available, covering the primary care trusts and NHS trusts within the NHS North East strategic health authority (SHA), which includes the Middlesbrough and Cleveland area are set out in the tables.

Delivery of the 18-week operational standard will reduce unnecessary delays and improve the experience that patients have of elective care and the quality of the service that they receive.

Malnutrition

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many and what percentage of people in each age group (a) admitted to and (b) discharged from hospital were malnourished in the last year in which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [247152]

Dawn Primarolo: The data we have provided in the following table are the latest available and includes both the number diagnosed with malnutrition[2] and this as a proportion of the total admissions and last episodes (discharges[1]) into hospital for the following age groups; 0-4, 5-14, 15-24, 25-34, 35-44, 45-54, 55-64, 65-74, 75-84, 85-120 where there was a primary or a secondary diagnosis of malnutrition in 2006-07.

Admission figures do not include patients showing signs of malnutrition, who subsequently undergo tests during their hospital stay to establish the cause of their symptoms.

[1] Discharges

A discharge episode is the last episode during a hospital stay (a spell), where the patient is discharged from the hospital (this includes transfer to another hospital).

[2] Malnutrition is classified between the following ICD-10 codes. The ICD-10 coding for under nutrition is the same as that for malnutrition:

E40 Kwashiorkor
E41 Nutritional marasmus
E42 Marasmic kwashiorkor
E43 Unspecified severe protein-energy malnutrition
E44 Protein-energy malnutrition of moderate and mild degree
E45 Retarded development following protein-energy malnutrition
E46 Unspecified protein-energy malnutrition
O25 Malnutrition in pregnancy.

Medical Treatments

Ms Abbott: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his Department's definition is of directly observed treatment (DOT); under what circumstances DOT is (a) recommended and (b) mandatory; and if will make a statement. [253404]

Dawn Primarolo: Directly observed treatment (DOT) is one of the components of the World Health Organisation's (WHO) tuberculosis (TB) control strategy.

The Department recommends that TB services follow the guidelines developed by the national institute for health and clinical excellence (NICE). NICE define DOT as 'direct observation by a health professional or other person such as a family member, where swallowing of the medication is observed'. DOT may also include increased contact between the care provider and patient, support and provision of incentives (e.g. food vouchers).

NICE guidelines indicate that the use of DOT is not usually necessary in the management of most cases of TB, but all patients should have a risk assessment for adherence to treatment.

DOT is recommended for patients who have adverse factors on their risk assessment, in particular:

street—or shelter—dwelling homeless patients with active TB

TB patients with serious mental illness

TB patients with drug-resistances

TB patients with likely poor adherence, in particular those who have a history of non-adherence

In 2007, the Department initiated a 'Find and Treat' (F and T) project to actively look for cases of TB among the homeless and other vulnerable groups in London, and to promote the use of DOT, which provides supervised medication and support to patients to improve adherence to treatment. Currently, the F and T team is helping over 300 people with TB who have challenging lifestyles to complete their treatment.

DOT is not mandatory. The Public Health (Control of Disease) Act 1984 stipulates that a justice of the peace may, under certain circumstances, order that an individual undergo medical examination or be removed to or detained in a hospital. No-one can be forced to undertake medical treatment.

Mental Health Services

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when his Department's review of anti-psychotic prescribing in care settings will be concluded; and if he will make a statement. [253865]

Phil Hope: The review of the prescribing of anti-psychotics for people with dementia will now be concluded in the spring.

Mentally Ill: Medical Treatments

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent discussions he has had with the Chief Executive of the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) on the issuing of NICE guidance on the pharmaceutical treatments for personality disorders. [253294]

Dawn Primarolo: We have had no such discussions.

MMR Vaccine

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what estimate he has made of the proportion of (a) males and (b) females aged under 18 in each strategic health authority area who have not been immunised against measles, mumps and rubella; [252936]

(2) how many children in each strategic health authority area had not received measles, mumps and rubella vaccine in each of the last five years. [252937]

Dawn Primarolo: The Information Centre for Health and Social Care publishes annual reports which include tables of the percentage of children immunised with measles, mumps and rubella vaccine at two and five years of age in each strategic health authority. A copy of the most recent annual report, 'NHS Immunisation Statistics 2007-08', has been placed in the Library. Copies of the reports titled; 'NHS Immunisation Statistics, England, 2003-04', 'NHS Immunisation Statistics, England, 2004-05', 'NHS Immunisation Statistics, England, 2005-06', and 'NHS Immunisation Statistics, England, 2006-07' have already been placed in the Library.

Data on gender are not collected.

National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence

Mr. David Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he expects the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence to take responsibility for developing clinical strategies; and if he will make a statement. [253710]

Dawn Primarolo: As set out in High Quality Care for All, the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) will be expanded to set and approve quality standards. A new National Quality Board will offer transparent advice to Ministers on clinical priorities, including the setting of quality standards.

NICE will not be responsible for developing clinical strategies. Any future strategies produced by the Department will be aligned where appropriate with the work of NICE on quality standards.

National Quality Board

Mr. David Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he expects the first meeting of the new National Quality Board to take place; and whether the terms of reference and membership for the group have been (a) agreed and (b) published. [253708]

Mr. Bradshaw: The first meeting of the National Quality Board (NQB) is planned for the 30 of March 2009.

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State (Lord Darzi) announced in early December the appointment of the chief executive of the NHS (Mr. David Nicholson) as chair of the NQB and the following ex-officio members representing the Department and the health care system:

NHS Medical Director, Department of Health (Sir Bruce Keogh);

Chief Nursing Officer, Department of Health (Dame Christine Beasley);

Chief Medical Officer, Department of Health (Sir Liam Donaldson);

Director General for Social Care, Local Government and Care Partnerships, Department of Health (Mr. David Behan);

Chair of the Care Quality Commission (Baroness Barbara Young);

Chair of Monitor. (Dr. William Moyes);

Chair of the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (Sir Michael Rawlins).

The Appointments Commission is in the process of recruiting a further four expert representatives and four lay representatives to the board.

We are continuing to work with stakeholders to develop the NQB terms of reference.

NHS: Drugs

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the Government's policy is on implementation of the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence recommendations that are not being met routinely; and if he will make a statement. [253416]

Dawn Primarolo: National health service (NHS) bodies (including primary care trusts) are required by a statutory direction to fund health care interventions recommended in National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) technology appraisals within three months of publication of final appraisal guidance. The Department has made it clear that if a particular NHS body is failing to comply with a statutory funding direction it will expect the relevant strategic health authority to ensure that action is taken to address the situation.

Clinical guidelines and public health guidance published by NICE are not covered by the statutory direction but NHS organisations should be working towards their implementation over time.

NHS: ICT

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) which trusts have chosen to procure and implement an IT system different from the one selected for them by their local service provider; and what costs each has incurred in that process, broken down by cost category; [254157]

(2) what his Department's policy is on trusts which choose to implement IT systems not provided by the local service provider for their region. [254158]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department's Health Informatics Review report, published in July 2008 was in support of the Next Stage Review. A copy has been placed in the Library. It confirmed the national health service's continuing commitment to, and belief in, the strategic information services being developed and provided by local service providers. However, it recognised and supported the wish on the part of certain trusts to realise benefits earlier by implementing interim initiatives where there is a business case to do so. Such initiatives should support the aim of enabling patient information to be available across different IT systems, different care providers and different care settings ahead of the delivery of strategic systems.

[illegible] on software requirements and system deployment plans became a responsibility of local NHS trusts from April 2007 to provide greater local ownership of the planning and deployment process. Comprehensive information of the kind requested is therefore not collected centrally.

NHS: Management

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department is taking to improve the quality of management in the NHS. [253102]

Ann Keen: The steps that my Department is taking to improve the quality of leadership and management in the national health service are set out in chapter five of High Quality Care for All, the final report of the Next Stage Review (a copy of which has already been placed in the Library). This report sets out a number of commitments which start early and continue throughout the career path. A new National Leadership Council, chaired by the NHS chief executive, is being established to oversee the implementation of the commitments.

NHS: Translation Services

Mr. Duncan Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much NHS interpreters in Waltham Forest primary care trust cost for (a) 2006, (b) 2007 and (c) 2008. [253753]

Ann Keen: The data requested are not collected centrally. National health service bodies are not required to report their planned or actual spending on interpretation and translation services to the Department. When planning such services, NHS bodies should take account of their legal duties, the composition of the communities they serve, and the needs and circumstances of their patients, service users and local populations.

Nurses

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what conditions each type of specialist nurse is trained to deal with; [253573]

(2) how many specialist nurses there were in each specialty in each year between 2001 and 2008. [253574]

Ann Keen: The information requested is not collected centrally. national health service organisations are responsible for the skill mix of their work force. They are best placed to assess the health needs of their local community and must have the freedom to train and deploy staff in ways appropriate for local conditions.

Thalidomide

Mr. Meacher: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether he has discussed with his German counterpart the matter of culpability on the part of the manufacturers in relation to the impairments caused by thalidomide in the last five years. [254622]

Dawn Primarolo: We have had no such discussions in the last five years.

A private compensation settlement was agreed with Distillers, now part of Diageo plc, the company that marketed the drug in the United Kingdom, and the Thalidomide Trust, the charitable trust established to administer annual payments to victims.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Animal Experiments

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate her Department has made of the number of animals bred for use in animal scientific procedures but not used for such purposes and put down in 2008. [253996]

Meg Hillier: We do not record the number of animals bred for use in procedures regulated by the Animals (Scientific Procedures) Act but not used for such purposes and then put down. We have made no estimate of numbers for 2008. Other statistical data on animal use in 2008 under the 1986 Act are currently being collected and, when completed, will be laid before Parliament.

Animal Experiments: Primates

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many non-human primates from each overseas country were imported into the United Kingdom for use in research and testing in 2008. [253995]

Meg Hillier: The number of non-human primates acquired during 2008 from each overseas country for use in scientific procedures or breeding under the Animals (Scientific Procedures) Act 1986 is as follows:

	Number
Netherlands	100
Israel	50
Mauritius	1,456
Vietnam	1,036

Anti-Semitism

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will commission a report from the Commissioner of Police for the Metropolis on the number and location of anti-Semitic incidents in London since December 2008; and if she will make a statement. [252975]

Mr. Alan Campbell: The police are keeping a close eye on anti-Semitic incidents. However, the Home Secretary has not commissioned a specific report on this issue.

The Minister for policing and tackling violent crime (Vernon Coaker) has discussed this issue with the Community Security Trust (CST) and chief police officers. The CST have confirmed they are satisfied with the level of police co-operation and response to the matter.

Antisocial Behaviour

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment she has made of the economic effects of anti-social behaviour in each of the last five years. [253124]

Mr. Alan Campbell: An assessment of the economic effects of antisocial behaviour over the past five years has not been made. However, a one-day count undertaken by the Home Office to understand the effect of antisocial behaviour on key service providers estimated that the cost to government agencies of responding to reports of antisocial behaviour in England and Wales was approximately £3.4 billion per year. The costs related only to the financial costs to agencies of dealing with antisocial behaviour and did not include indirect costs to local communities and businesses, as well as emotional costs to victims and witnesses.

The cost of not taking action against antisocial behaviour is much higher.

The National Audit Office report in 2006 found that nine out of 10 people stop behaving antisocially after three interventions. Many of these were warning letters and antisocial behaviour contracts which are voluntary measures. The success of these interventions would have prevented escalation of behaviour and the possibility of consequential court costs.

Arrests: Lancashire

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many arrests were made in (a) Chorley, (b) West Lancashire and (c) South Ribble in each quarter of the last three years. [253729]

Mr. Alan Campbell [holding answer 2 February 2009]: The data requested are not collected centrally. The arrests collection held by the Home Office covers arrests for recorded crime (notifiable offences) recorded by the police forces in England and Wales. Data are not available below the police force area level.

Burglary: Yorkshire and the Humber

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many incidents of (a) theft and (b) burglary have been reported in each constituency in Yorkshire and the Humber in the last 12 months; and if she will make a statement. [251843]

Mr. Alan Campbell: The available information on the number of offences recorded by the police is given in the following table. Recorded crime statistics are not collected at constituency level, therefore figures have been provided at crime and disorder reduction partnership (CDRP) level.

Business: Crime

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent assessment she has made of levels of crime against businesses; and if she will make a statement. [250355]

Mr. Alan Campbell: Crimes against business that are reported to the police are recorded in national crime statistics. Some of these, such as robbery of business property, shoplifting, and theft by an employee are counted and recorded separately. The latest published statistics for these offences are for the year 2007-08 and show:

Shoplifting decreased 1 per cent. from 2006-07 to 2007-08, from 294,282 to 290,625 offences.

Robbery of business property decreased 3 per cent. from 2006-07 to 2007-08 from 9,454 to 9,141 offences.

Theft by an employee decreased by 3 per cent. from 2006-7 to 2007-8 from 16,323 to 15,838 offences.

We continually monitor trends in these crime types through the monthly submissions from police forces to the Home Office. Many crimes committed against business are, however, grouped with other un-related crimes and we are therefore planning to increase the range of business crimes which are counted separately. The separate recording of commercial burglary, for example, is being trialled in some police forces later this year.

We recognise, however, that some business crime may not be reported to the police and so are undertaking a scoping exercise to investigate the possible scope and methodology for a new survey of commercial victimisation. Previous surveys in 1994 and 2002 have provided a fuller and more accurate assessment of levels of crime against specific sectors (small and medium sized enterprises in the retail and manufacturing sectors).

The Government take very seriously crime committed against businesses and we are working closely with key business organisations, police and other Government Departments to tackle it. We have made it clear in our public service agreement 'Make Communities Safer', and in the policing Green Paper 'From the Neighbourhood to the National: Policing Our Communities Together' that crimes against businesses should be addressed by forces and their local partners. This is backed up by the reforms set out in the Green Paper to empower local communities, which will strengthen the voice of local businesses who are at the heart of many communities, in how their neighbourhoods are policed. The National Police Improvement Agency will shortly be publishing practical guidance for police forces on how to identify and address the specific needs and priorities of local businesses.

Crime: Merseyside

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department on how many occasions Merseyside Police have (a) closed premises that are being used for drug dealing or use causing disorder or serious nuisance, (b) issued penalty notices for truancy, (c) designated an area with a history of anti-social behaviour, (d) used the new controls to tackle the misuse of air weapons and replica guns, (e) used their new powers for dealing with public assemblies and trespassers, (f) used their new power to move on trespassing encampments where a relevant site is available, (g) used their new powers to intervene in neighbourly disputes regarding high hedges, (h) issued penalty notices to 16 and 17 year olds for disorder and (i) used their extended stop and search powers where reasonable suspicion is held that articles made, adapted or intended for use in offences of criminal damage are being carried in the last 12 months. [251344]

Mr. Alan Campbell: The information requested covers the operations of a number of different Government Departments and would require consultation between them, therefore providing the information requested would entail disproportionate cost.

Crime: Retail Trade

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department who the members of the National Retail Crime Steering Group are; and what its terms of reference are. [253146]

Mr. Alan Campbell: The current members of the National Retail Crime Steering Group are as follows:

Alan Campbell MP (chair): Home Office

Stephen Robertson (co-chair): Director-General, British Retail Consortium

Jane Milne: Director of Business Environment, BRC

Catherine Bowen: Crime Policy Adviser, BRC

Alan Brown: Group Security Director, Tesco

Phillip Wilsoner: Head of Operational Risk, Co-op

Peter Kaye: Head of Business Protection, John Lewis

Mike Cherry: Home Affairs Chairman, Federation of Small Businesses

Rosina Robson: Senior Policy Adviser, FSB

James Lowman: Chief Executive, Association of Convenience Stores

John Curtis: Deputy Director, Government Office West Midlands

David Fuller: Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform

ACC Allyn Thomas: ACPO Business Crime lead

Doug Russell: USDAW

Its terms of reference are as follows:

The purpose of a National Retail Crime Steering Group will be to drive a National Retail Crime Reduction Strategy focusing on reducing retail crime. This strategy will be based on the Terms of Reference agreed by the membership and will improve the co-ordination and delivery of retail crime reduction initiatives by all stakeholders.

1. Assess and improve the tools available to measure the scale of retail crime nationally, and encourage CDRPs to evaluate retail crime reduction initiatives locally

2. Identify and document initiatives currently being undertaken by Government, police, local business crime reduction partnerships and retailers to combat crime.

3. Identify and promote good practice for retailers to adopt in working with Government, police and local partnerships, to reduce retail crime (and the underlying causes of crime.)

4. Assess and improve local engagement between retailers and neighbourhood police, taking into account local crime reduction plans.

5. Investigate the opportunities for improving retailer involvement in Home Office and Ministry of Justice policy development.

6. Encourage the retail sector to include crime prevention at the heart of all its business policies and practices.

Driving Under Influence

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many people were (a) arrested and (b) convicted for drink driving in each of the last 12 months; [251529]

(2) how many people in Leicester were (a) arrested on suspicion of and (b) convicted of drink driving in each of the last 12 months. [251742]

Mr. Alan Campbell: The information requested on arrests is not available.

The arrests collection held by the Home Office covers arrests for recorded crime (notifiable offences) only, broken down at a main offence group level, covering categories such as violence against the person and robbery. The offence of drink driving is not a notifiable offence and does not form part of this collection.

Available information provided by the Ministry of Justice on convictions at all courts for offences of driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs for the year 2007 (latest available) is provided in the following table. Data for 2008 should be available in the autumn of 2009.

The data provided cover both drink and drugs offences combined, as convictions for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs cannot be provided separately.

It is not possible to separately identify data for Leicester, thus data for Leicestershire police force area have been provided in lieu.

Findings of guilt at all courts for offences of driving etc. after consuming alcohol or taking drugs[1] by Leicestershire police force area and England and Wales, 2007[2, 3]

Police force area	Number of offences Findings of guilt
Leicestershire	1,520
England and Wales	89,223

[1] Data provided cover summary offences of driving etc. after consuming alcohol or taking drugs (which cannot be reliably distinguished separately).
[2] It is known that for some police force areas the reporting of court proceedings in particular those relating to summary motoring offences, may be less than complete.
[3] Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the courts. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department with reference to the answer of 19 December 2008, Official Report, column 1076W, on driving under the influence, when she expects the statistics for the number of breathalyser tests by (a) month and (b) region for (i) 2007 and (ii) 2008 to be published. [254110]

Mr. Alan Campbell: Statistics relating to 2007 for the number of breathalyser tests by month and region will be published within the annual statistical bulletin covering Motoring Offences and Breath Test Statistics, England and Wales. This bulletin is due for publication in spring 2009. No date has yet been set for the release of the 2008 data.

Derek Twigg: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many former police community support officers were recruited as police officers in (a) 2005, (b) 2006, (c) 2007 and (d) 2008. [252774]

Mr. Coaker: The requested data are not collected centrally.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many incidents of (a) theft and (b) retail theft have been reported in (i) England and (ii) North Yorkshire in each year since 2000. [253145]

Mr. Alan Campbell [holding answer 3 February 2009]: Accident investigation is an operational matter for the police. The Home office has issued no guidance in this area.

SCOTLAND

Departmental Internet

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland which websites are operated by his Department in addition to its main website; and what the operating budget for these websites is. [251306]

Ann McKechin: The Scotland Office operates no websites other than its main departmental website.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland which websites were operated by his Department in addition to its main website in the last five years. [251309]

Ann McKechin: Until 2006 the Scotland Office also operated a website on behalf of the Commission on Boundary Differences and Voting Systems, chaired by Professor Sir John Arbuthnott.

Since completion of the Arbuthnott Commission's work it has only operated the departmental website: www.scotlandoffice.gov.uk.

Departmental Public Appointments

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland which of the public appointments for which his Department is responsible are due to be (a) renewed and (b) filled in the next 24 months; what the (i) remit, (ii) salary, (iii) political restriction, (iv) eligibility requirement and (v) timetable for each appointment is; and what records his Department keeps in respect of such appointments. [254246]

Ann McKechin: The Secretary of State for Scotland is responsible for appointing two commissioners to the Boundary Commission for Scotland. The commission is an independent and impartial advisory body, responsible for reviews of constituencies and regions for the Scottish Parliament, and constituencies in Scotland for the Westminster Parliament. One of the current commissioner appointments will run until 31 December 2010, the other until 6 June 2011. The posts are part time and require around one to two days work per month during the period of a boundary review. Commissioners are paid a daily fee, currently £486, for attending commission meetings and for meeting preparation. Applicants are expected to have a good understanding of the social geography of Scotland, the structure of constituencies for the Westminster and the Scottish Parliaments, and the electoral system. There are no statutory political restrictions, but it is recognised that commissioners are expected to be politically neutral. Appointments are made following Office of the Commissioner for Public Appointments (OCPA) and other relevant guidance.

The Secretary of State may also appoint, at the request of the commission, assistant commissioners, to "inquire into, and report to the Commission upon, such matters as the Commission think fit". In practice, assistant commissioners are appointed to conduct public inquiries into the commission's provisional recommendations. In Scotland, it is customary for Sheriffs Principal who preside over the relevant areas to be appointed for this purpose given their unquestioned independence and impartiality, and their local connection to the areas under consideration. These appointments are unpaid, and made for the duration of the inquiry process, typically a few months.

The Scotland Office retains all official records relating to the appointment of both commissioners and assistant commissioners.

Economic Situation

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what recent discussions his Department has had with outside organisations to discuss policy to reduce the impact of the recession on matters within his Department's responsibility. [254063]

Ann McKechin: As one would expect, the Secretary of State for Scotland has regular engagements with outside organisations including relevant Government Departments on a range of issues relating to the economy.

Mass Media

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what the cost of his Department's contracts with press monitoring services was in each of the last five years. [251265]

Ann McKechin: The information requested is as follows:

SOLICITOR-GENERAL

BAE Systems: Saudi Arabia

Harry Cohen: To ask the Solicitor-General what the cost to the Serious Fraud Office (SFO) was of defending the legal action challenging the decision to drop the investigation into allegations of bribery and corruption against BAE Systems plc in relation to Saudi Arabia; how much was paid to the legal team acting for the SFO in the case; what the fees were of Jonathan Sumption QC for representing the SFO in the appeal to the House of Lords; and from which budget these costs were met. [252134]

The Solicitor-General: The total cost to the Serious Fraud Office (SFO) of defending the legal action challenging the decision to drop the investigation into BAE Systems plc, as far as relating to Saudi Arabia, was £372,099.67. These costs comprise counsel fees, Treasury Solicitor fees and associated printing costs, and relate to both the hearing in the Divisional Court and the appeal in the House of Lords.

The legal team acting for the SFO (that is, external counsel and Treasury Solicitors) was paid £344,144.37.

Jonathan Sumption QC was paid £53,377 to represent the SFO in the appeal to the House of Lords.

All the above costs were met from the normal SFO budget.

All costs stated are exclusive of VAT.

I have recently met the Federation of Small Businesses Wales, the CBI and the Wales Trades Union Council. In addition I attend the regular meetings of the National Economic Council and the All Wales Economic Summits.

Non-domestic Rates

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales with reference to the Answer of 16 July 2008, Official Report, column 458W, on non-domestic rates: Wales, whether the 2005 council tax revaluation in Wales was revenue-neutral excluding the effect of transitional relief. [253518]

Mr. Paul Murphy: I refer the hon. Gentleman to my answer of 24 April 2008, Official Report, column 2180W. The 2005 council tax revaluation and rebanding exercise was revenue-neutral in that increases in council tax receipts during the year of the revaluation and subsequently arose from councils' decisions on raising council tax, rather than the revaluation. The rises were in line with increases in previous years.

The increase in band D council tax was 3.8 per cent. between 2004-05 and 2005-06; 4.5 per cent. between 2005-06 and 2006-07, and 4.4 per cent. between 2006-07 and 2007-08.

Shellfish: Dredging

Mark Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what discussions he has had with the Welsh Assembly Government on legislation to establish powers to prohibit scallop dredging in Welsh waters. [254264]

Mr. David: I recently discussed with the Welsh Assembly Government provisions in the Marine and Coastal Access Bill that will abolish Sea Fisheries Committees and provide Welsh Ministers further powers to manage fisheries, including scallop dredging, in Welsh waters.

At present local authority Sea Fisheries Committees are taking the lead role in managing scallop fisheries, within six nautical miles of the Welsh Coast. The Welsh Assembly Government have existing powers to regulate scallop dredging in Welsh waters—principally section 5 of the Sea Fish (Conservation) Act 1967.

I understand that discussions are taking place between WAG and other relevant organisations to develop a joint approach to seek to manage the situation in Cardigan bay.

Welsh Assembly Government

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales if he will place in the Library copies of correspondence between officials and Ministers in his Office and Welsh Assembly Government Ministers and officials on the Welsh Language Legislative Competence Order in the last two years. [254618]

Mr. Paul Murphy: We have had frequent exchanges with Welsh Assembly Government Ministers and officials on the Welsh Language Legislative Competence Order. To make all such exchanges available in the Library would restrict our ability to conduct business effectively.

However, the Wales Office has released some information relating to exchanges on the proposed order. It is available on the Wales Office website:

www.walesoffice.gov.uk/foi/disclosures

Welsh Language

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales if he will publish all legal opinions and advice obtained by his Department relating to the Welsh Language Legislative Competence Order. [254735]

Mr. Paul Murphy: We have received legal opinions and advice relating to the Welsh Language Legislative Competence Order from a number of sources. To make such advice available would restrict our ability to conduct business effectively.

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what (a) features, (b) rights and (c) sanctions will accrue to the Welsh language when it acquires official status under the Welsh Language Legislative Competence Order. [254737]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The Legislative Competence Order on the Welsh Language, when made, will confer legislative competence on the National Assembly for Wales in respect to the matters specified in the order. It will not confer official status on the Welsh language.

The explanatory memorandum accompanying the proposed order explains its scope and content in detail. I have today laid these documents as a Command Paper before the House for pre-legislative scrutiny. Copies have been placed in the Library and can be found in the Vote Office.

PRIME MINISTER

China

Mr. Evans: To ask the Prime Minister what recent discussions he has held with the Chinese Prime Minister on (a) human rights in China and (b) increasing British exports to China. [254573]

The Prime Minister: Premier Wen visited the UK on 31 January-2 February for the annual UK-China summit, during which time we held a series of discussions.

I refer the hon. Member to the 'UK-China Summit: Key Outcomes 2009' which is available on the number 10 website:

http://www.number10.gov.uk/Page18214

I also refer the hon. Member to the 'UK-China joint statement', issued on 2 February, which is also available on the website:

http://www.number10.gov.uk/Page18220

Copies of both web pages have been placed in the Library of the House.

Personal Care Services

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Prime Minister whether his Office has incurred any expenditure on his behalf for (a) haircuts, (b) make-up, (c) hairdressers and (d) make-up artists. [253657]

The Prime Minister: No.

DEFENCE

Absent Without Leave

Mr. Gray: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many and what percentage of service personnel (a) went absent without leave and (b) deserted in each of the last 10 years. [254034]

Mr. Quentin Davies: Records held centrally on service personnel who have gone absent without leave (AWOL) relate to the number of incidents reported, not to the number of personnel. Therefore, individuals with multiple periods of absence are recorded more than once. For this reason the percentage of service personnel who went absent without leave in each of the last 10 years cannot be provided. The following table shows absence without leave statistics for each service by calendar year for each of the last 10 years:

	Incidents of reported AWOL
	Royal Navy[1]	Army	Royal Air Force
1999	35	2,055	15
2000	95	2,710	25
2001	90	2,645	25
2002	110	2,950	25
2003	120	2,820	35
2004	185	3,030	55
2005	195	2,715	35
2006	155	2,330	10
2007	115	2,290	25
2008	125	2,105	5

[1] Over this period there have been a number of changes to the criteria for reporting absentees in the RN.

Notes:

1. Figures are rounded to the nearest 5.
2. While the figures reflect the number of reports of AWOL, it may come to light later that there are extenuating circumstances and therefore does not reflect the number of personnel who went on to be formally charged with AWOL.

The following table shows the number of service personnel convicted of desertion in each of the last 10 years:

	Convictions of desertion
2001	3
2002	7
2003	3
2004	3
2005	6
2006	8
2007	2
2008	[1]4

[1] This figure does not include the last quarter of 2008 for the RN.

Afghanistan: Official Visits

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many (a) delays and (b) cancellations of VIP visits there have been in Afghanistan in the last 12 months. [251649]

Mr. Hutton: Every effort is made to ensure that VIP visits to operational theatres proceed smoothly. However, on occasion, there are inevitably difficulties due to adverse weather, equipment serviceability and competing operational requirements for finite air and aviation resources. Visits are also on occasion cancelled for reasons without the control of my Department. We do not collate detailed statistics on the number of VIP visits delayed or cancelled and generating robust statistics could be achieved only at disproportionate cost.

Afghanistan: Peacekeeping Operations

Willie Rennie: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how long it will take to modify Merlin helicopters for use in Afghanistan; and how much this will cost. [254831]

Mr. Hutton: It is expected to cost around £50 million to modify the Merlin helicopters for use on operations in Afghanistan. We are doing all we can to ensure a swift transition to Afghanistan. Nevertheless, we envisage a short period of around four months for the Merlin force to prepare for operations in Afghanistan after extraction from Iraq.

Air Force: Contracts

Mr. Carswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what multi-activity contracts (MACs) the Royal Air Force has; and what the (a) scope, (b) monetary value and (c) date of expiry of each MAC is. [254361]

Mr. Quentin Davies: The scope of each individual multi-activity contract (MAC) is different, covering a range of services that support the operation of the station. These services may include, for example, cleaning, waste disposal, transport and supply and management of consumables. For large training units the MAC is often linked directly with the contract to provide the training output.

The monetary value and date of expiry of each RAF multi-activity contract is contained in the following table.

Location of MAC	Expiry date	Current estimated annual monetary value (£ million)
RAF Valley	March 2012	13.8
RAF Cranwell	March 2013	13.2
RAF Northolt/ Uxbridge	March 2010	9.7
RAF Brampton/ Wyton/Henlow	March 2011-March 2012	7.9
RAF Shawbury	March 2012	6.3
RAF Brize Norton	March 2010	5.4
RAF Lyneham	March 2012	4.5
RAF Cosford	December 2011	4.4
RAF High Wycombe	March 2010	4.2
RAF Halton	March 2010	4.0
RAF Linton	March 2010	2.0
Air Surveillance and Control System (ASACS)/RAF Fylingdales	March 2009	2.6

Armed Forces: Parades

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many military tattoos are held each year in the UK; and at which locations they are held. [254926]

Mr. Kevan Jones: Details of all military tattoos and locations are not retained centrally by the MOD. The MOD does not currently run any tattoos; they are operated by commercial organisations who will hold their own records.

Arms Trade: Treaties

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what discussions he has had with representatives from the defence industry about the proposed Arms Trade Treaty. [255007]

Mr. Hutton: I have regular discussions with representatives of the defence industry and defence trade associations on a range of issues, but to date have not specifically discussed the proposed Arms Trade Treaty.

The Ministry of Defence fully supports the Government's effort to establish an Arms Trade Treaty that will help prevent the irresponsible trade in conventional weapons. The Department is an active member of the cross-Whitehall team led by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office that is taking forward this work within the United Nations. The cross-Whitehall team maintains a dialogue with the defence industry through regular stakeholder group meetings. During 2009 this work will support the UN process, which is considering elements that might be included in an eventual legally binding treaty.

Defence Intelligence Staff

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the size of the Defence Intelligence Staff was in each year since 1997. [253716]

Mr. Quentin Davies: I refer the hon. Member to the answer my predecessor gave on 15 June 2006, Official Report, column 1384W, to the hon. Member for Lewes (Norman Baker), which provides the size of the Defence intelligence staff (DIS) for the years 1997 to 2006. The information for subsequent years is: April 2007—4,748; April 2008—4,308 staff; and is forecast as 4,365 staff for April 2009.

Defence: Industry

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) what discussions he has had with ministerial colleagues on measures to retain (a) skills and (b) employees vital to the defence industry in the current economic climate; [253465]

(2) what recent assessment he has made of the effect of the economic climate on the defence industry, with particular reference to the industry's capacity to (a) retain skilled workers and (b) meet procurement deadlines. [253464]

Mr. Quentin Davies: The Defence Industrial Strategy (DIS) promotes a sustainable and competitive UK defence industrial base. This ensures the retention of the specialist skills necessary to deliver the capabilities needed by our armed forces. Defence Ministers have regular discussions with representatives from the defence industry both individually and in the forum of the National Defence Industries Council on a wide range of issues including the effect of the current economic climate on the industry.

Departmental Catering

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 14 January 2009, Official Report, column 486W, on departmental catering, which ethically traded products the defence food services integrated project team has introduced; and if he will make a statement. [254100]

Mr. Quentin Davies: Ethically traded products purchased by defence food services integrated project team, which is responsible for the procurement of food for the armed services on operations and on exercises overseas, are set out in the following list:

90 per cent. of tea and coffee from fair trade sources

100 per cent. of pork from British sources

100 per cent. of milk from British sources

100 per cent. of eggs from British sources

100 per cent. of whole gammons from British sources

100 per cent. of fish from managed sources

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 14 January 2009, Official Report, column 486W, on departmental catering, what recommendations the Sustainability Working Group has made on the procurement of Fairtrade goods for use in (a) his Department's London headquarters and (b) the military establishment; and if he will make a statement. [254101]

Mr. Quentin Davies: The Sustainability Working Group was established within the Defence Food Service Integrated Project Team (DFS IPT) to identify opportunities to extend sustainable procurement of food for the armed services on operations and on exercises overseas. The procurement of catering for MOD's London headquarters and for all military establishments is therefore outside the scope of the Working Group.

Where, however, the DFS IPT identifies Fairtrade products that meet MOD quality requirements and offer value for money, they may be listed on the core range of products supplied for operational feeding to UK armed forces personnel "in barracks" not covered by the Pay As You Dine programme.

Catering in MOD's London headquarters is provided as part of a multi-activity contract. An extensive range of Fairtrade products is available that includes all coffee served in the deli bar, coffee bar and in the vending machines. A range of other Fairtrade beverages, fruit juices, snack bars and cakes is also available.

For those military establishments where catering is provided through the Pay As You Dine programme, or as part of a multi-activity contract, the catering contractor may choose to offer Fairtrade products as part of his strategy, although the requirement does not specify that he must. There are a wide variety of such contracts in place across the Department and information on Fairtrade products on offer is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Financial Penalties

Mr. Grieve: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether any administrative financial penalties may be levied by his Department and its agencies. [253597]

Mr. Kevan Jones: The MOD and its defence agencies and trading funds have no statutory powers to levy such penalties.

Departmental Procurement

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment he has made of the effects of his Department's procurement practices on British defence manufacturers. [253732]

Mr. Quentin Davies: MOD procurement practices are designed to ensure that our armed forces have the best equipment available while at the same time ensuring value for money for the taxpayer. The defence industrial strategy recognises the crucial role that the UK defence industry plays in delivery of capability to the front line and promotes a sustainable and globally competitive UK defence industrial base. Defence Ministers have regular discussions with representatives from the defence industry both individually and in the forum of the National Defence Industries Council.

EU Battlegroups

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to paragraph 90 of the Explanatory Memorandum of 11 December 2008 on the French Presidency Report on European Security and Defence Policy, European Union Document No. 16686/08, (a) how many troops and (b) what military assets the UK has contributed to the Force Catalogue. [254422]

Mr. Hutton: I refer the hon. Member to the answer my predecessor gave on 4 March 2008, Official Report, column 2348W.

Ex-servicemen: Military Decorations

Mr. Crausby: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many Veteran's Badges have been issued to residents of Bolton. [254610]

Mr. Kevan Jones: According to our records, a total of 1,679 veterans who have applied giving Bolton as part of their address, have been issued with HM Armed Forces Veterans Badge.

HMS Endurance

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) what reports he has received of the recent flooding incident on HMS Endurance; and if he will make a statement; [251893]

(2) what plans he has for transporting HMS Endurance to the United Kingdom; and what estimate he has made of the cost of such transportation; [251895]

(3) when he expects repairs to HMS Endurance to be completed; and when he expects HMS Endurance to be operational. [251894]

Mr. Quentin Davies: Ministers were notified of the flooding incident in HMS Endurance's engine room on 16 December 2008 and officials have kept us informed of the situation to date.

A contract has now been signed with Dockwise who will return HMS Endurance to the UK by the heavy lift vessel MV Target. It is currently estimated that the ship will return to the UK around 20 March 2009, weather permitting. Subject to detailed survey, our intention is that the ship will then be repaired prior to her return to service at a date yet to be agreed. I am withholding the cost of the heavy lift contract and the projected repair costs as they are commercially sensitive.

Service Accommodation

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what recent steps the Government have taken to improve service accommodation. [252615]

Mr. Kevan Jones [holding answer 9 February 2009]: In addition to the increased investment in service accommodation in recent years, over £8 billion will be spent in the next decade, including some £3 billion on improving and upgrading accommodation. The MOD is restrained in much of the work on SFA by the contract with Annington Homes signed in 1996.

Since 2003, some 29,000 new or improved single living accommodation bed-spaces have been delivered with a further 30,000 planned by 2013.

Regarding service family accommodation (SFA), over 13,000 properties have been upgraded to the highest standard for condition since 2001, with a further 600 planned in this financial year (FY) and 800 in each year thereafter.

In addition to upgrading SFA, around £32 million was spent in FY 2007-08 on improvements such as new kitchens or bathrooms, improving the quality of life for service families.

Service Personnel: Retention

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what steps are being taken to increase levels of retention of service personnel. [252613]

Mr. Kevan Jones [holding answer 9 February 2009]: Taking the armed forces as a whole, retention rates are relatively stable and we have seen no unexplained peaks of personnel leaving in the last 10 years. There is real concern, however, that in some important areas exit rates are too high and appear to be increasing, if only slightly, year on year. These pinch point trades are continuously monitored and specific action is taken to improve retention and indeed recruitment. The recent Command Paper (July 2008) set out over 40 measures aimed at addressing many of the disadvantages of service life while the Government's response to the Report of Inquiry into National Recognition of our Armed Forces has now been presented to Parliament detailing how we have accepted the majority of recommendations. In addition, a wide range of measures are in place to improve retention, including career management, improvement to conditions of service and work/life balance, commitment bonuses and targeted financial retention initiatives.

JUSTICE

Bail Accommodation and Support Services

Mr. Waterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the answer of 21 January 2009, Official Report, column 1554W, on approved premises; how many bail hostels other than those operated by ClearSprings (a) operate and (b) are planned to open in (i) Eastbourne and (ii) England. [254096]

Mr. Hanson: The properties provided by ClearSprings are not bail hostels. What were known as approved hostels, probation hostels and bail hostels are now approved premises. There are 97 approved premises in England, and four in Wales. None is in Eastbourne, and there are no plans to open one there or to expand the number of approved premises in England or Wales. The core purpose of approved premises is to protect the public from offenders who pose a significant risk of harm, and, at 30 November 2008, only 157 of the 2,205 places were filled by defendants on bail.

Civil Proceedings: Legal Costs

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice on how many occasions wasted costs have been ordered against the defence in Crown courts in each of the last five years; and what the total sum awarded was in each case. [254258]

Bridget Prentice: Information on wasted costs orders against the defence in the Crown court and the total sum awarded in each case is not held centrally and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Commissioner for Victims and Witnesses: Costs

Mr. Grieve: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the cost was of the 2006 recruitment campaign for a Commissioner for Victims and Witnesses. [254024]

Mr. Straw: The total cost of the 2006 recruitment campaign for the role of Victims' Commissioner was £96,625.

The recruitment exercise for the role of Commissioner for Victims and Witnesses was carried out according to the code of practice for public appointments. The recruitment exercise included the use of an executive search agency specialising in public appointments which targeted individuals perceived to be of the right calibre for the role and public advertisements in relevant publications. However, we were not successful in identifying a candidate with all of the appropriate skills necessary for the proposed role and Ministers decided not to appoint.

Coroners: Leicestershire

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) what the average time taken for a coroner to hold a treasure inquest, once requested, was for finds from Leicestershire in 2007; and if he will make a statement; [254575]

(2) what the longest time taken by a coroner to hold a treasure inquest, once requested, was for cases reported in (a) 2006, (b) 2007 and (c) 2008; and if he will make a statement. [254576]

Bridget Prentice: The Ministry of Justice collects statistics on the number of finds under the Treasure Act 1996 reported to coroners in England and Wales during each calendar year, the number of treasure inquests concluded during the year and, of these, the number of verdicts of treasure returned. Information is not collected on the time taken to conduct treasure inquests.

Informal figures are, however, collated by the British Museum. These show that in 2007, the British Museum requested that coroners in Leicestershire hold seven treasure inquests. An average time taken between the inquests being requested and a verdict being returned is not available because one of these inquests is still ongoing, although the time taken for the other six ranged from 82 days to 515 days. A statistical average based on such a small number of cases would be very volatile and heavily dependent on the particular circumstances of each case.

The longest time taken by a coroner to hold a treasure inquest for cases reported in 2006, 2007 and 2008 is not yet known from the British Museum figures, because some inquests from each of these years have still not reached a conclusion.

Departmental Public Appointments

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice which of the public appointments for which his Department is responsible are due to be (a) renewed and (b) filled in the next 24 months; what the (i) remit, (ii) salary, (iii) political restriction, (iv) eligibility requirement and (v) timetable for each appointment is; and what records his Department keeps in respect of such appointments. [254235]

Mr. Straw: The Ministry of Justice is responsible for 40 public bodies which have over 9,000 members. These appointments are not centrally co-ordinated and therefore the activity required to provide an answer to the question raised exceeds the acceptable cost parameters.

Ministerial appointments to public bodies are regulated by the Office of the Commissioner for Public Appointments in accordance with the Public Appointments Order in Council 2002 and conducted in accordance with the Office of the Commission for Public Appointments Code of Practice. Appointments to these bodies and the records pertaining to them are subject to audit conducted by external auditors engaged by the Commissioner.

Duchy of Cornwall

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what assessment he has made of the constitutional status of the Duchy of Cornwall; and if he will make a statement. [255056]

Mr. Wills: The Duchy of Cornwall is a private estate that funds the public, charitable and private activities of the Prince of Wales, the Duchess of Cornwall, Prince William and Prince Harry.

Information Commissioner: Finance

Mrs. Laing: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice when he plans to announce the Information Commissioner's budget for 2009-10. [255445]

Mr. Wills: The Information Commissioner is funded by a combination of grant in aid from the Ministry of Justice to pay for his freedom of information responsibilities and notification fees paid direct to the Commissioner by data controllers to pay for his data protection work.

Discussions are continuing with the Commissioner on the level of his grant in aid for 2009-10. A decision is expected shortly and will be notified to the Commissioner. The final figure will be published in the Main Estimate 2009-10 in April.

Following consultation last year, secondary legislation will shortly be introduced to Parliament to provide for tiered notification fees payable by data controllers. This will increase the Information Commissioner's funding in line with his estimate of the cost of meeting both his existing and proposed new statutory data protection responsibilities. The tiered notification fees will come into effect from October this year.

Magistrates Courts: Closures

Dr. Julian Lewis: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the answer of 19 January 2008, Official Report, columns 1125-6W, on magistrates' courts at Lyndhurst, for what reason any closure of Lyndhurst magistrates' court would be temporary; what criteria would be used to decide when to re-open it following such a temporary closure; and if he will make a statement. [251267]

Bridget Prentice: As part of the Ministry of Justice (MoJ), HMCS Hampshire and the Isle of Wight (HMCS HIOW) has to make efficiency savings over the next three years. The proposal to close Lyndhurst temporarily and transfer its work to Southampton, a modern purpose-built magistrates court is one of a series of measures identified by local management to improve efficiency and reduce the running costs of the area during this period.

No decision has yet been made but consideration will be given to the needs of those who live and work in the New Forest area and their ability to access justice.

A decision to re-open a court following temporary closure would depend on the prevailing factors at that time. All decisions to close individual courts permanently are for Ministers.

Magistrates Courts: Wisbech

Mr. Moss: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what plans HM Courts Service has for Wisbech magistrates court. [254005]

Bridget Prentice: Wisbech magistrates court is a two criminal court room building in an accessible part of Wisbech. The building is co-located alongside the local police station (Cambridgeshire Constabulary) and its custody suite which is accessed by the courthouse. Cambridgeshire Constabulary are the tenants of HMCS. Many of the building services are linked to the adjacent police station. The courthouse has the use of two cells under a shared arrangement with the police and the Prisoner Escort Service (PECS). Recently Cambridgeshire Constabulary has made public its intention to move custody arrangements to a new county facility in March, Cambridgeshire from the end of March 2009 and will no longer provide this at Wisbech police station. The Wisbech police station will remain as an operational unit. HMCS have been actively involved in discussions with both the Cambridgeshire Constabulary and the PECs delivery organisation (GSL) as to how HMCS can ensure practical occupation of the cell area in order for the HMCS business to continue to operate as usual. Without the use of an available and suitable on-site custody suite the use of the courthouse would be considerably reduced which is why the local HMCS area has been working proactively alongside both Cambridgeshire Constabulary and PECs to resolve this situation successfully. There are no current plans or proposals to change or reduce the use of this courthouse.

Mass Media

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the cost of his Department's contracts with press monitoring services was in each year since it was established. [251173]

Mr. Wills: The Ministry of Justice was created in May 2007. The cost for press monitoring services in 2007-08 was £103,385.63.

Media monitoring services include clippings of newspaper articles on subjects relevant to the Department that are compiled on a daily basis and summaries of broadcast news programmes throughout the day. It is important to monitor the climate of opinion so policy development can take place in the fullest context. Media monitoring is one way to do this and also provides useful instant feedback on policy announcements.

In common with other Government Departments of a similar size, the Ministry of Justice also monitors a wide range of media to ensure Government policy is reported accurately to the public to enable clear understanding of the work of Government and that inaccuracies are spotted and corrected.

Members: Correspondence

Sir Gerald Kaufman: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice when he plans to reply to the letter of 22 December 2008 from the right hon. Member for Manchester, Gorton with regard to Mr. I. Laing. [253874]

Mr. Straw: I wrote to my right hon. Friend on 30 January. I am sorry for the delay in replying.

National Identity: Languages

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice whether the United Kingdom has an official language. [254736]

Mr. Wills: The UK does not have an official language defined in statute, although English is the predominant language by custom and usage. In addition, under the European Charter for Regional and Minority Languages the UK Government have recognised Welsh, Scottish Gaelic, Irish, Scots, Ulster Scots and Cornish as minority languages within the UK.

Offenders: Personal Records

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the answer of 2 February 2009, Official Report, column 918W, on offenders: personal records, whether the Offenders Index is updated regularly; and when it was last updated. [254832]

Mr. Hanson: The Department no longer uses the Offenders Index to provide routine data on reoffending and criminal history. We are currently analysing the final cohorts of offenders extracted from the Offenders Index which are based on data up to December 2006. The Ministry of Justice has no plan for further updates.

Since 2005, the Ministry of Justice has been using data extracted from its police national computer database to provide the published figures on reoffending. This database is updated weekly.

Reoffenders

Mr. Kemp: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the average adult reoffending rate was for (a) men and (b) women ex-prisoners after their release in the last five years for which figures are available. [254010]

Mr. Hanson: The following table shows the one-year reoffending rates for offenders leaving custody in the first quarter of the years 2002 to 2006, by gender. The table shows the proportion of offenders who committed at least one further offence and the number of further offences committed per 100 offenders.

One-year reoffending rates, offenders leaving custody by gender, 2002-06

			Number of offenders	Actual reoffending rate (Percentage)	Number of offences per 100 offenders
Males	2002	Q1	14,385	55.0	283.8
	2003	Q1	13,202	53.9	276.8
	2004	Q1	14,359	51.8	249.9
	2005	Q1	13,353	49.1	227.0
	2006	Q1	13,178	46.6	207.5
Females	2002	Q1	1,193	55.8	340.9

¹ Reparation orders are only given to young offenders aged under 18

Notes:

1. The statistics given are on a principal offence and primary disposal basis. When a defendant has been found guilty of two or more offences the principal offence is the offence for which the heaviest penalty is imposed. Where the same disposal is imposed for two or more offences the offence selected are the offences for which the statutory maximum penalty is the most severe A defendant could be issued with more than one disposal for a committed offence. The statistics do not include number of reparation orders given as secondary disposal.

2. Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the courts and police forces. As a consequence care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.

Repossession Orders: Mortgages

Stephen Pound: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) how many suspended possession orders granted by county courts to mortgage lenders were re-activated and enforced during 2008 in cases where lenders obtained warrants for eviction after (a) three, (b) six and (c) 10 years or more had elapsed since the original possession order was made in a suspended form; [254071]

(2) for what reasons HM Courts Service automatically disposes of all court records of suspended possession orders after six years of inactivity. [254072]

Bridget Prentice: There were 866 cases which involved a warrant of possession being issued in 2008 and which followed the original suspended mortgage possession order being made three to five years previously. There were also 103 cases which involved a warrant of possession being issued in 2008 and which followed the original suspended mortgage possession order being made 6-10 years previously.

The Ministry of Justice does not currently hold statistical information relating to lags between suspended mortgage possession orders made and warrants of possession issues of more than 10 years.

These figures do not indicate the number of homes actually being repossessed. Issuing a warrant of possession does not necessarily result in repossession.

HM Courts Service automatically disposes of all possession action files including those involving suspended possession orders after three years' inactivity. Electronic records specifying the incidence and associated dates of suspended possession orders are still available for orders made within the last 10 years. However, record retention and disposition policies do not affect the enforcement of suspended possession orders. It is the duty of claimants to supply the order documents when applying for a warrant of possession to be issued.

Record retention and disposition policies fall within the remit of the Departmental Records Officer and Head of Record Information and Management Services for the Ministry of Justice. Retention periods are determined by (a) any legislative requirement and (b) the business need of the area to which the schedule relates. No special provisions are made for the retention and disposal of records involving suspended possession orders.

Repossession Orders: Yorkshire and the Humber

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many court orders have been issued for the repossession of homes in each parliamentary constituency in Yorkshire and the Humber in each of the last 20 years; and if he will make a statement. [252569]

Bridget Prentice: Figures for each parliamentary constituency in Yorkshire and Humberside region are not available. However, the following tables show the number of mortgage and landlord possession orders made in each county court within Yorkshire and Humberside Government office region.

The civil procedure rules state that all claims for the repossession of land must be commenced in the district in which the land is situated. However, county courts in the Yorkshire and Humberside Government office region may cover areas other than the parliamentary constituencies of this region. Therefore not all possession actions at these courts necessarily relate to Yorkshire and Humber constituencies.

Court level statistics on mortgage and landlord repossession actions from 1987 to 2007 are available on the Ministry of Justice website at:

http://www.iustice.gov.uk/publications/mortgatelandlordpossession.htm

These figures do not indicate how many homes have actually been repossessed. Repossessions can occur without a court order being made, while not all court orders result in repossession.

Notes:

[1] Mortgage data include all types of lender.

[2] Figures for the latest year are provisional.

[3] The court, following a judicial hearing, may grant an order for possession immediately. This entitles the claimant to apply for a warrant to have the defendant evicted. However, even where a warrant for possession is issued, the parties can still negotiate a compromise to prevent eviction.

[4] Includes outright and suspended orders, the latter being where the court grants the claimant possession but suspends the operation of the order. Provided the defendant complies with the terms of suspension, which usually require the defendant to pay the current mortgage or rent instalments plus some of the accrued arrears, the possession order cannot be enforced.

[5] The rollout of the Possession Claim On-Line (PCOL) system in late 2006 has affected the availability of court-level data. Only those county courts who do not have direct on site access to PCOL were affected. Consequently, upward adjustment has been made to estimate the effects of missing data. The figures for these courts are adjusted at HMCS regional level.

[6] County court closed or merged with other county courts.

[1] Landlord possession data include all types of landlord whether social or private.

[3] Landlord actions include those made under both standard and accelerated procedures. Landlord actions via the accelerated procedure enable the orders to be made solely on the basis of written evidence and shorthold tenancies, when the fixed period of tenancy has come to an end.

[4] Includes outright and suspended orders, the latter being where the court grants the claimant possession but suspends the operation of the order. Provided the defendant complies with the terms of suspension, which usually require the defendant to pay the current mortgage or rent instalments plus some of the accrued arrears, the possession order cannot be enforced.

Notes:

The court, following a judicial hearing, may grant an order for possession immediately. This entitles the claimant to apply for a warrant to have the defendant evicted. However, even where a warrant for possession is issued, the parties can still negotiate a compromise to prevent eviction.

Court level data are not available for all landlord possession actions prior to 1999.

Road Traffic Offences

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many vehicles have been seized from (a) disqualified and (b) uninsured drivers in each of the last two years. [254265]

Mr. Alan Campbell: I have been asked to reply.

This information is not collected centrally. Available information is held on the Motor Insurance Database maintained by the Motor Insurers' Information Centre and relates to vehicles seized from those reasonably believed to be driving without appropriate insurance. In 2007 there were approximately 150,000 vehicles seized and in 2008 approximately 185,000.

Shoplifting: Fixed Penalties

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will take steps to limit shoplifting offences in relation to which a penalty notice for disorder can be issued to first time offences. [253684]

Mr. Straw: There are already limits on the issue of penalty notices for disorder for shoplifting offences. Operational guidance makes it clear among other things that the disposal will be appropriate for first-time offences and not those who repeatedly offend. However the length of time since a previous shoplifting offence has been committed should be taken in account in considering whether a second penalty notice may be appropriate.

Following representations form the hon. Lady and from retail organisations, operational guidance covering shoplifting is being reviewed; a revised version will be issued shortly.

Television: Licensing

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many people in (a) the ceremonial county of Hampshire, (b) Test Valley borough and (c) the City of Southampton were prosecuted for not having a television licence in each of the last five years. [254017]

Maria Eagle: Information on the number of persons proceeded against for television licence evasion in the Hampshire police force area from 2003 to 2007 (latest available), is in the following table.

From information held centrally, it is not possible to provide borough or city level data.

These data are on the principal offence basis. The figures given in the table on court proceedings relate to persons for whom these offences were the principal offence for which they were dealt with. When a defendant has been found guilty of two or more offences, the offence selected is the one for which the heaviest penalty is imposed. Where the same disposal is imposed for two or more offences, the offence selected is the offence for which the statutory maximum penalty is the most severe.

Court proceedings data for 2008 will be available in the autumn of 2009.

Number of persons proceeded against for television licence evasion in Hampshire police force area, 2003-07[1, 2, 3]

	Number
2003	1,891
2004	1,889
2005	2,520

[1] The statistics relate to persons for whom these offences were the principal offences for which they were dealt with. When a defendant has been found guilty of two or more offences, the principal offence is the offence for which the heaviest penalty is imposed. Where the same disposal is imposed for two or more offences, the offence selected is the offence for which the statutory maximum penalty is the most severe.

[2] Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the courts and police forces. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.

[3] The TV licensing provisions of the Wireless Telegraphy Act 1949 were replaced by new provisions in section 363 of the Communications Act 2003 which came into effect 1 April 2004.

(2) how many organisations have agreed to become a strategic partner of the Creativity and Business International Network to date; and when he expects to announce these partnerships. [254388]

Andy Burnham: Discussions about financial support from the private sector, including strategic partnerships, are ongoing, and details will be announced in due course.

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what offers of support his Department's Creativity and Business International Network has received; and how many organisations have pledged to support the initiative with (a) technology and equipment and (b) travel. [254438]

Andy Burnham: The Creativity and Business International Network has been offered support from a large number of creative and business organisations, including the commitment of 24 international 'ambassadors'. A range of public sector bodies, trade organisations, businesses and individuals have also offered help and advice.

Heathrow Airport: Listed Buildings

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what estimate he has made of the number of listed buildings which will be lost as a result of the construction of a third runway at Heathrow Airport. [253693]

Barbara Follett: Based upon the information provided by the Department for Transport from its consultation document "Adding Capacity at Heathrow Airport" (2007), English Heritage estimates that six listed buildings will be lost as a result of the construction of a third runway at Heathrow airport. The consultation document is available at http://www.dft.gov.uk/consultations/closed/heathrow consultation/consultationdocument.

Malvern St. James School

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport when he plans to make a decision on the listing of the Edinburgh Sports Dome at Malvern St. James School. [254708]

Barbara Follett: Additional advice had to be sought from English Heritage before the assessment process on the Edinburgh Sports Dome could be completed. Consequently, it did not prove possible to reach a decision by the end of November 2008. The case is given high priority, and the Secretary of State will reach a decision as soon as possible. I will notify the hon. Member as soon as a decision has been made.

Members: Correspondence

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport when he plans to reply to the letter from the hon. Member for Northavon of 28 January 2008 on behalf of Mr. Richard Cleaver in respect of Pandora Radio, a second copy of which was faxed to his office on 18 June 2008. [254292]

Andy Burnham [holding answer 4 February 2009]: I offer the hon. Member an apology for the administrative error in dealing with this correspondence. The issues raised in the letter are the policy responsibility of the Intellectual Property Office, and I understand that a reply will be sent soon from the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills.

Memorials: World War II

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many Second World War pillboxes have been given statutory designation; and if he will make a statement. [254923]

Barbara Follett: A total of 148 individual second world war pillboxes have been given statutory designation.

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what steps he has taken to (a) record and (b) preserve defence structures from the Second World War; and if he will make a statement. [254924]

Barbara Follett: The Defence of Britain Project (1995-02) has recorded nearly 20,000 20th century military sites in the United Kingdom, including pillboxes. As well as recording the 20th century militarised landscape of the United Kingdom, the project also informs heritage agencies at local and national level with a view to the future preservation of surviving structures. Full details of the project are at:

http://www.britarch.ac.uk/cba/projects/dob

English Heritage has undertaken a series of research projects to improve our understanding of second world war defences in the context of the many other sites that represent our defence heritage. Options for preservation include statutory designation, although it would not be appropriate to designate all of the many thousands of surviving pillboxes—careful selection is necessary. Alternatively, many of these structures have local significance and their recording on local authority Historic Environment Records is another way of improving understanding and protection.

Music: Education

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many mentors have taken part in the music mentoring programme in each of the last three years. [254434]

Barbara Follett: The pilot music mentoring programme began in 2006-07 and is led by Youth Music. Youth Music advises that the number of mentors that have taken part in the programme is as set out in the following table.

Adult mentors	70	70	40
Peer mentors	170	170	50

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many people took part in the music mentoring programme in each year since 2006. [254437]

Barbara Follett: The pilot music mentoring programme began in 2006-07. This is led by Youth Music and has engaged over 1,000 young people in one to one, small group and large-scale mentoring activity in 14 areas in England. More than 700 positive outcomes have been recorded from the pilot phase, with around 180 of those linked to further education, training or employment or other transferable skills.

Music: North East

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what recent steps the Government have taken to promote access to music for young people in the north-east. [249576]

Barbara Follett: In November 2007, the Department for Children, Schools and Families announced a £332 million investment in music education. A share of that is automatically allocated to local authorities in the north-east. Since September 2005, the Government have also provided time-limited funding of £1.26 million to the Sage Gateshead to work in partnership with local authorities and other music education providers to enhance opportunities for children and young people across the north-east through its 'Access to Excellence' work. A significant proportion of the 'Access to Excellence' programme has been delivered through Redcar Community College.

Since September 2006, the Department for Children, Schools and Families' Music and Dance Scheme (which provides means-tested support for children with exceptional potential in music and dance) has invested £638, 000 to enable children to access specialist provision via the Sage Gateshead.

The Department for Culture, Media and Sport provides financial support for the arts through Arts Council England which has supported a number of projects that have helped promote music to young people in the north-east. This includes Youth Choir at Brinkburn Music Festival 2008 (Grants for the Arts Award of £22,000); Monumental Music CIC, Sunderland Music Club (Grants for the Arts Award of £13,420); and Interopera (Grants for the Arts Award of £13,420).

Since 1999, Youth Music, a regularly funded organisation of Arts Council England, has invested £4,583, 071 in the north-east, through open programmes, the Youth Music Action Zone (CoMusica) and the MusicLeader network for the region. Youth Music has provided a further £40,000 of direct investment in the north-east through Sing Up, the Music Manifesto National Singing Programme, of which Youth Music and the Sage Gateshead are partners.

Support has also been provided via other Arts Council England regularly funded organisations. This includes Jazz Action, which has set up the Milestones Project providing talented young musicians from the north-east with the opportunity to showcase their music in front of a live audience, and Monster Productions, based in the north-east, which run early year musicals throughout the country, including the north-east area.

Newspapers: North East

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport whether his Department plans to provide financial support to local newspapers in the north-east. [254896]

Andy Burnham: My Department has no plans at present to provide financial support to local newspapers in the north-east. The Digital Britain Interim Report, published on 29 January 2009, recognised that at a local level, the challenges for news organisations are intense. One of the actions recommended in the report is for Government to invite the Office of Fair Trading, together with Ofcom and other interested parties, to undertake an exploratory review across the local and regional media sector and make appropriate recommendations. I will consider any findings or further recommendations arising from this action.

Religious Buildings

Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what recent assessment he has made of English Heritage's performance in facilitating the conservation of churches and places of worship. [253910]

Barbara Follett: The Department for Culture, Media and Sport provides financial support for the historic environment through English Heritage, which makes funding decisions independently of Government. It is for English Heritage to determine where money is spent depending on its assessment of relative need across the wider historic environment. The Department is satisfied with English Heritage's performance on facilitating the conservation of churches and places of worship.

Sports: Finance

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what the value of (a) awards and (b) payments made from the New Opportunities Fund for physical education and sport initiatives was in each year since the fund was established. [250695]

Barbara Follett: The Big Lottery Fund has indicated that the value of awards and payments made by BIG and its predecessor body, the New Opportunities Fund, for physical education and sport initiatives are shown in the following tables. The figures are UK wide.

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport (1) how much his Department has paid to Fast Track to date for its work on the Medal Hopes scheme; and how much he expects to pay in each of the next three years; [254397]

(2) how much his Department has paid to Fast Track for its work on the Medal Hopes scheme to date; and how much he expects to pay to Fast Track for such work in each of the next three years. [254781]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 5 February 2009]: To date, the Department has made no payment to Fast Track, who are contracted on a commission-only basis.

Teachers: Music

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much his Department has spent on the scheme to fund professional development of music teachers in each of the last three years. [254394]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: I have been asked to reply.

Since September 2006, when the contract was let, £3.3 million has been spent to develop and deliver a programme of professional development for those working with children at Key Stage 2 in music. This breaks down as follows: £1.1 million in 2006-07, £1.3 million in 2007-08 and £0.9 million to date in 2008-09.

Television: Licensing

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will provide free television licences for poor families. [254898]

Andy Burnham: The Government looked at television licence fee concessions for a wide range of groups during the BBC Charter review process. There was little consensus as to who should receive concessions, the criteria on which they should be allocated, or how they should be funded. As a result there were no changes to the existing range of concessions.

Tourism

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what subjects were discussed at his

Department's most recent tourism summit; and if he will place a copy in the Library of the minutes of the meeting. [250242]

Barbara Follett: There are no official minutes from the Department's most recent tourism summit. However, the transcripts of the Prime Minister's and the Secretary of State's speeches are on Visit Britain's website including a transcript of the question and answer session. Details can be viewed at the following web link:

http://www.tourismtrade.org.uk/aboutvisitbritain/corporate events/tourismsummit.asp

Additionally, a number of outcomes stemmed from the summit including:

VisitBritain to compile a list of the industry's 'top five asks' of Government.

To explore ideas on a graduate job scheme for tourism and a development bank focused on supporting investment in the tourism industry.

The establishment of a cross-Whitehall ministerial group on tourism and high-level tourism advisory group, to be chaired by the Minister for Tourism.

To explore the feasibility of a British City of Culture, potentially every four years.

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport when (a) he and (b) the Minister for Tourism last met the head of tourism in each of the nine regions of England. [254453]

Barbara Follett [holding answer 5 February 2009]: The Secretary of State and I have met a number of representatives and received various representations from the regional development agencies and from the wider tourism sectors in the regions. Last summer the Secretary of State, Minister for Tourism and Minister for Sport met all the chairs of the regional development agencies and I plan to meet each of the regions in the spring to follow up on the fruitful discussions held at the tourism summit in Liverpool last month.

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much was spent by (a) UK tourists visiting overseas destinations and (b) overseas tourists visiting UK destinations in each of the last 10 financial years. [254557]

Barbara Follett: The amounts spent by UK tourists visiting overseas and overseas tourists visiting the UK in each of the last 10 years for which figures are available are as follows[1]:

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what percentage of global tourism the UK has received in each of the last 10 years. [254558]

Barbara Follett: VisitBritain have advised that the percentage of global tourism the UK has received, in each of the last 10 years for which figures are available, is as follows;

	UK share of global tourist arrivals (percentage)
1997	3.92
1998	3.88
1999	3.68
2000	3.41
2001	3.08
2002	3.18
2003	3.30
2004	3.37
2005	3.49

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will make a statement on the wish list his Department has requested from VisitBritain in relation to helping tourism to Britain during the economic downturn. [254560]

Andy Burnham [holding answer 5 February 2009]: VisitBritain has provided some initial thoughts on the industry's main needs, pending its final submission. When it is received, Ministers will give it full consideration with a view to how best to achieve the full potential of tourism to the British economy during the period of the global economic downturn.

Tourism: Greater London

Joan Ryan: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what plans his Department has to promote London as a tourist destination over the next 18 months; and if he will make a statement. [247214]

Barbara Follett: Visit London has advised that it undertakes a range of tourism marketing campaigns to promote the capital internationally, nationally and to Londoners themselves.

In December last year, Visit London, in partnership with the London Development Agency and the Mayor of London, launched a four-month marketing campaign to stimulate visits to the capital in the build-up to Christmas 2008 and the new year. This will run across the capital's key visitor markets including Britain, Europe and North America and will last until the end of March 2009.

Including match funding from the private sector, Visit London will in total spend £3.25 million in the four months to March on promotional campaigns, which it believes should deliver £70 million in economic benefit to the city. Further marketing activity to promote the capital beyond the end of March 2009 is due to be launched in February.

In addition, promotion of London will be included in the £6.5 million 'Value for Money Campaign' launched by VisitBritain and VisitEngland at the tourism summit held in Liverpool on 8 January. This will build on the current domestic and international Enjoy England campaign, which positions England and Britain as good value destinations.

Tourism: Olympic Games 2012

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what discussions he has had with the Chancellor of the Exchequer on additional funding for tourism to harness the marketing opportunities of the Olympics. [254559]

Barbara Follett: There have been no direct discussions between DCMS Ministers and HMT on additional funding for tourism to harness marketing opportunities of the Olympics. However HMT has been invited to attend a cross-Whitehall Ministerial Group on Tourism to discuss priorities within the tourism industry.

World Creative Business Conference

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport with reference to the answer of 14 October 2008, Official Report, column 1210W, on the World Creative Business Conference, how much his Department has paid to (a) Edelman and (b) Acclaim to date; and how much he expects to pay each company in each of the next three years. [250317]

Andy Burnham: The cost of Edelman and Acclaim is included within the £1 million allocated towards the running of the World Creative Business Conference in each of the next three years, including 2008-09.

World Heritage Sites

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport in respect of which World Heritage Sites he has submitted a progress report to the World Heritage Committee for examination at its 2009 session; and on what dates such reports were submitted. [255601]

Barbara Follett: My Department has submitted State of Conservation reports to UNESCO's World Heritage Centre for the City of Bath World Heritage Site on 30 January 2009; Edinburgh Old and New Towns World Heritage Site on 30 January 2009; Stonehenge, Avebury and Associated Sites World Heritage Site on 30 January 2009; and the Heart of Neolithic Orkney World Heritage Site on 2 February 2009.

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport which World Heritage Sites he expects to be considered by the World Heritage Committee for inclusion on its list of world heritage in danger in 2009. [255602]

Barbara Follett: My Department has no plans to put forward any UK World Heritage Sites for consideration by the World Heritage Committee for inclusion on the World Heritage in Danger List in 2009.

OLYMPICS

CompeteFor

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Minister for the Olympics whether there was an open tender process for the CompeteFor website contract. [251304]

Tessa Jowell: The London Development Agency used an existing list of approved companies who had successfully tendered for selection on the Office of Government Commerce's Catalist Framework for CompeteFor. The OGC framework is itself developed through an open competitive process. Its framework agreements are let using an Official Journal of the European Union procurement process that shortlists suppliers by category, which any business can tender for, and which helps to speed up the procurement process.

Departmental Lobbying

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Minister for the Olympics whether she received representations from (a) Lord Moonie, (b) Lord Taylor of Blackburn, (c) Lord Snape and (d) Lord Truscott in the last seven months. [255243]

Tessa Jowell: I have received no representations from any of the noble Lords in question.

Departmental Manpower

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Minister for the Olympics how many officials work directly for her. [254041]

Tessa Jowell [holding answer 3 February 2009]: In my Private Office I have five officials and a special adviser.

In addition, the Government Olympic Executive which reports to me through the Permanent Secretary of the Department for Culture, Media and Sport, comprises 87.3 full-time equivalent staff, a total which includes both established civil servants and agency and interim staff.

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what the job description is of each official who works for her in her capacity as Minister for the Olympics. [254454]

Tessa Jowell [holding answer 5 February 2009]: My Private Office comprises five officials and a special adviser. In addition, the Government Olympic Executive (GOE) which reports to me through the Permanent Secretary of the Department for Culture, Media and Sport, comprises 87.3 full-time equivalent staff, a total which includes both established civil servants and agency and interim staff.

The GOE is responsible for ensuring the Games are delivered on time, on budget and to the benefit of the whole of the UK. It works extensively with other organisations, such as the London Organising Committee (LOCOG) and the Olympic Delivery Authority (ODA), providing important oversight, management and accountability for the games as a whole. GOE is the only body overseeing the entire Olympic project.

There are five teams within GOE:

Build and finance—responsible for ensuring the delivery of the Games infrastructure and venues remains on time, and that the whole programme remains on budget and provides value for money;

Staging—responsible for the myriad Government commitments and legislative changes necessary to host the world's largest sporting event and assurance of LOCOG's plans and finances in Government's role as funder of last resort;

Legacy—responsible for ensuring that the Government's ambitious legacy commitments are delivered, including getting 2 million people more active, transforming the heart of east London and inspiring a generation of young people;

Operations—responsible for overseeing the entire Olympic Project, identifying risks and issues across organisations, managing the Olympic Board and ensuring we are accountable to Parliament and the public; and Communications—a small team responsible for working across Government to ensure events and activities are co-ordinated to avoid duplication and wasted resource.

Job descriptions for each official in my Private Office and in the GOE could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Olympic Games 2012: Facilities

Tom Brake: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what the average cost is of the units being built in the Olympic Village. [254843]

Tessa Jowell: Confidential commercial negotiations are continuing about the costs of the various elements of the Olympic Village. Therefore it is not possible to provide build cost information until those negotiations have concluded.

Tom Brake: To ask the Minister for the Olympics how much private sector funding for construction of the Olympic Village she expects. [254844]

Tessa Jowell: Confidential commercial negotiations are ongoing between the Olympic Delivery Authority, the preferred developer, Lend Lease, banks and Registered Social Landlords regarding investment for the Olympic Village. Therefore it is not possible to provide detail of the investment arrangements until those negotiations have concluded.

Tom Brake: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what discussions she has had with (a) the Mayor of London and (b) universities over proposals for the legacy use of the Olympics media centre as a university. [254847]

Tessa Jowell: My Department is working closely with the Mayor, the London Development Agency, London borough of Hackney and other partners to explore proposals for the legacy use of the International Broadcast Centre/Main Press Centre (IBC/MPC) to ensure that we are able to leave a positive sustainable legacy for the site and for local communities. As part of this work programme, we are working with the Greater London Authority, the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills and the Higher Education Funding Council for England to undertake a feasibility study on the need, size, scope and specialisms for a potential new university on the IBC/MPC site, or elsewhere on the Park, as part of the legacy planning for the Park site.

Olympic Games 2012: Waste Disposal

Bob Spink: To ask the Minister for the Olympics which sites have been used for disposal of materials and soil from the new Olympic stadium site in London; and if she will make a statement. [253644]

Tessa Jowell [holding answer 4 February 2009]: In the construction of the Olympic Park, the Olympic Delivery Authority (ODA) will transform a previously contaminated site into an integral part of the long-term regeneration of east London and the wider Thames Gateway. Across the whole site the ODA continues to exceed its 90 per cent. target of reclaiming demolition material for reuse or recycling.

Where possible, all excavation and demolition waste from the Olympic stadium site is treated at source and the cleansed material, where appropriate, reused or recycled in the landscaping and foundations work of the Olympic Park.

Where this has not been possible, waste material has been transported off-site for landfill disposal at Environment Agency approved sites across the UK. The locations of those sites are:

Kings Cliff, Cambridgeshire (Augean Kings Cliff)

Dudley, West Midlands (Himley Quarry)

Teesside, North Yorkshire (Impetus Waste Management ICI 3)

Barling Magna, Essex (Barling Landfill)

Purton, North Wiltshire (Parkgate Farm Landfill)

Middlesbrough, Cleveland (Augean Middlesbrough)

In addition, a small amount of arisings from the stadium site were identified in summer 2008 as containing—or potentially containing—asbestos above the agreed levels. This waste was taken off-site for safe disposal to Powerday landfill facilities at Old Oak Sidings in London.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Assets Recovery Agency

Mr. Paterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what discussions he has had with the Serious Organised Crime Agency (SOCA) on the continuation of work undertaken by the Assets Recovery Agency (ARA) in Northern Ireland; and what steps he is taking to ensure that casework initiated by the ARA in Northern Ireland is taken up by SOCA. [255271]

Paul Goggins: As chair of the Organised Crime Task Force I receive regular updates on the assets recovery work of the Serious Organised Crime Agency (SOCA) in Northern Ireland. Since the merger in April 2008 SOCA has adopted, and will continue to adopt, new civil recovery cases in Northern Ireland. Civil recovery is one of a number of tools at SOCA's disposal to tackle criminal finances and profits and it will ensure that the most effective and appropriate asset recovery powers (criminal, civil or tax) are used in each case.

Civil Proceedings: Legal Costs

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland on how many occasions wasted costs have been ordered against the defence in (a) Crown courts and (b) magistrates courts in Northern Ireland in each of the last five years; and what the total sum awarded was in each case. [254257]

Bridget Prentice: I have been asked to reply.

Information on how many occasions wasted costs have been ordered against the defence in Crown court in Northern Ireland in each of the last five years was not centrally recorded prior to the introduction of a new IT system in October 2006. Consequently, it is not possible to provide the requested information prior to this date.

There were no orders for wasted costs made against the defence between October 2006 and 31 January 2009 in Crown court in Northern Ireland.

The magistrates court in Northern Ireland has no power to make a wasted costs order.

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland on how many occasions wasted costs have been ordered against the Public Prosecution Service in (a) Crown courts and (b) magistrates courts in Northern Ireland in each of the last five years; and what the total sum awarded was in each case. [254262]

Bridget Prentice: I have been asked to reply.

There were no orders for wasted costs made against the Public Prosecution Service in a Crown court in Northern Ireland over the last five years.

The magistrates court in Northern Ireland has no power to make a wasted costs order.

Crime

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many people were convicted for (a) sexual crimes involving minors, (b) rape, (c) arson, (d) fuel smuggling, (e) cigarette smuggling, (f) credit card fraud, (g) bank fraud, (h) burglary, (i) driving under the influence of alcohol and (j) vehicle theft in Northern Ireland in the last 12 months. [254939]

Paul Goggins: In 2006 (the latest year for which figures are available) there were:

(a) 36 convictions for sexual crimes involving minors. Court datasets do not include victim information in relation to an offence and it is therefore possible only to give the number of convictions for those offences which, by their definition, identify a child as the victim.

(b) 11 convictions for rape; and

(c) 66 convictions for arson offences.

(d) and (e) Data relating to prosecutions for fuel and cigarette smuggling are the responsibility of HM Revenue and Customs from whom this information should be sought.

(f) and (g) The Northern Ireland court datasets do not contain background information in relation to an offence and it is not possible therefore to separate those convictions for fraud which related to credit card or bank fraud. It is, however, possible to determine the total number of convictions for fraud and forgery and in 2006 there were 333 such convictions.

(h) 532 convictions for burglary;

(i) 2,809 convictions for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs; and

(j) 350 convictions for vehicle theft.

Data are collated on the principal offence rule; only the most serious offence with which an offender is charged is included.

Departmental Buildings

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland with reference to the answer of 24 November 2008, Official Report, column 881W, on departmental buildings, what the cost of the works was before occupation. [250554]

Office name	Size (sq m)	Total cost of works, excluding VAT (£)
Lisburn Chambers, Linenhall Street, Lisburn, County Antrim	2493	1,159,580
Linum Chambers, Bedford Square, Bedford Street, Belfast	2802	998,753
Ballymena Chambers, Parkway, Ballymena, County Antrim	2494	1,055,500
Omagh Chambers, 2 Townhall Square, Omagh, County Tyrone	2265	1,070,633
Foyle Chambers, 35 Limavady Road, Londonderry, County Londonderry	2364	[1]945,000

[1] Anticipated total cost.

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many staff in his Department were disciplined for (a) bullying and (b) harassment of colleagues in each of the last three years. [254078]

Paul Goggins: The Northern Ireland Office (NIO) and its agencies have policies and procedures in place to deal with harassment and bullying. Staff in the NIO undergo mandatory training in equality and diversity, which includes guidance on appropriate behaviour in the workplace. The number of staff disciplined for bullying and/or harassment of work colleagues in each of the years requested is as follows:

	Bullying	Harassment	Bullying and harassment

Departmental ICT

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the (a) original expected cost, (b) original expected delivery date, (c) actual cost incurred and (d) actual delivery date was of each ICT project undertaken and completed by his Department in each year since 1997; who the contractors for each project were; what the (i) initial estimated and (ii) outturn payment to each contractor was; and if he will make a statement. [251143]

Paul Goggins: The majority of ICT projects are relatively small and are developed in-house with minimum cost. To compile information to support all projects would be at disproportionate cost. Therefore the information contained in the following table relates only to projects costing in excess of £1 million.

[1] The PRISM costs include the capital and recurring costs of the project and cover the period up to the completion of implementation in March 2008. The costs also include the provision of a range of additional functionality including biometric access controls.

Departmental Official Residences

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Rochford and Southend East of 6 October 2008, Official Report, columns 86-87W, on departmental official residences, who pays the council tax bills for the mainland Britain residential accommodation. [253641]

Mr. Woodward: My Department pays the council tax bills for residential accommodation used by staff based in London who are required to work away from their appointed office in Belfast.

Departmental Training

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland which external organisations his Department has engaged to provide training for fast stream civil service staff in the last three years; and how many civil servants in his Department have participated in the provision of training for external organisations in that period. [252218]

Mr. Woodward: The following list gives the external organisations engaged by the Northern Ireland Office to provide training for fast stream staff in the past three years.

External provider

National School of Government

Eglinton

During the past three years, 29 staff from Northern Ireland Office have participated in the provision of training to external organisations.

Drugs: Smuggling

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many Irish nationals were convicted of drug trafficking offences in Northern Ireland in the last 12 months. [255015]

Paul Goggins: In 2006 (the latest year for which data are available), 14 persons with Irish nationality were convicted of drug trafficking offences.

Data are collated on the principal offence rule; so only the most serious offence with which an offender is charged is included.

Mass Media

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the cost of his Department's contracts with press monitoring services was in each of the last five years. [251197]

Mr. Woodward: The following table details the Northern Ireland Office's expenditure, excluding agencies and Executive NDPBs, on contracts with press monitoring services in the last five years.

Financial year	Expenditure (£)
2006-07	2,600
2005-06	23,663
2004-05	0

Offensive Weapons

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many people were convicted of knife crimes in Northern Ireland in the last 12 months. [254938]

Paul Goggins: The information is not available in the format requested as it is not possible to separately identify the number of convictions for certain offences, for example murder, in which a knife was involved. It is only possible to provide conviction statistics for those offences which, in their definition, refer to an 'offensive weapon' (of which knives will be one sub-category) or 'article with blade or point'. These are:

Armed with offensive weapon with intent to commit offence;

Possessing offensive weapon in public place;

Possessing article with blade or point in public place;

Possessing instrument with intent to commit an offence;

Possessing article with blade or point on school premises;

Possessing offensive weapon on school premises.

In 2006 (the latest year for which data are available), there were 242 such convictions.

Data are collated on the principal offence rule; so only the most serious offence with which an offender is charged is included.

Prison Sentences

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what assessment he has made of the likely effects of sentences of imprisonment for public protection on levels of discipline among the prison population in Northern Ireland. [255446]

Paul Goggins: Our assessment, based on analysis of experience in other jurisdictions, would indicate that in many cases prisoners subject to public protection sentences are more likely to co-operate with the sentencing planning process in order to demonstrate risk reduction. NIPS do not anticipate that the new sentencing arrangements will have any impact on levels of discipline among the prison population in Northern Ireland.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

Arms Trade

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to his US counterpart on the US Administration's support for the Arms Trade treaty process; and if he will make a statement. [254030]

Bill Rammell: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave on 25 November 2008, Official Report, column 1194W.

Although the US voted against the resolution at the UN General Assembly vote in December 2008, the US delegation took part in the UN meeting in New York on 23 January 2009 preparing for the Opening Ended Working Group, which starts in March 2009. This is an encouraging sign, and shows that the US remains engaged in discussions on this issue.

We will be raising the Arms Trade treaty, alongside a wide range of other subjects with the new US Administration over the next few weeks, as both senior appointees and officials take up their new positions.

Bangladesh: Elections

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assistance his Department is providing to Bangladesh to ensure that the elections scheduled for 29 December 2008 are free and fair. [243879]

Bill Rammell: The Department for International Development contributed £10 million to compile the new voters register, £1.1 million through the Asia Foundation to promote accountability and issue-based non-violent campaigning. We funded a country-wide scheme to motivate vulnerable groups to register to vote. The UK also made financial or human resources available to the EU and ANFREL (Asian Network for Free Elections) election observation missions.

In his statement of the 31 December 2008, my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary commented on the successful elections. This is available on the Foreign and Commonwealth Office website at:

http://www.fco.gov.uk/en/newsroom/latest-news/?view=News&id=11710213.

Community Relations: Islam

Mark Pritchard: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much funding the Government have provided for research on the ways in which Muslims are perceived in the UK; which Departments have allocated funds for this purpose; and which of the Government's international counterparts have co-operated with the UK in funding the research. [253702]

Mr. Khan: I have been asked to reply.

The Government have not commissioned any research solely for the purpose of investigating perceptions of Muslims within the UK. A number of pieces of Government research do provide evidence from which it would be possible to infer how Muslims 'may' be perceived. Examples of these include:

The Communities and Local Government Citizenship Survey; a large scale nationally representative survey intended to understand people's views on issues such as race equality, faith, feelings about community, volunteering and participation. It is possible to analyse responses by the faith of respondents. In addition, questions on perceptions of the subjects of discrimination include an option to select 'Muslim' as one of a number of responses.

The University of Kent 'Equality, Diversity and Prejudice in Britain' (commissioned by the Government Equalities Office, previously part of CLG); includes research on positive/negative perceptions of 11 social groups, one of which was Muslims.

The Department for Work and Pensions 'Barriers to employment for Pakistanis and Bangladeshis in Britain and Constraints'; looks at a number of issues, including perceptions towards two minority groups that are predominantly Muslim.

All of the above research projects were funded solely by the UK Government. It is not possible to attribute costs to the specific elements or questions which relate to perceptions of Muslims in the UK, as one question or interview can be analysed from a number of standpoints.

Cyprus: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs which officer is in command of the Turkish army in northern Cyprus; what assessment he has made of that officer's (a) peacekeeping in that role and (b) peacekeeping record; and if he will make a statement. [251616]

Caroline Flint: The commander of the Turkish army in north Cyprus is Lieutenant-General Hilmi Akin Zorlu. He has served in a wide variety of assignments during his career, including as commander of the international security assistance force in Afghanistan in 2002 and 2003. In the UN Secretary-General's latest report on Cyprus, he reported that the situation in the buffer zone remained calm and stable and that the opposing forces extended in general good co-operation to the UN Peacekeeping Force in Cyprus (UNFICYP). He also commended the cancellation by both sides of their annual military exercises. The UK welcomes such steps and would encourage further such confidence building measures.

Cyprus: Politics and Government

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent representations he has made to Turkey to reduce its troop numbers in northern Cyprus; and if he will make a statement. [251414]

Caroline Flint: The Government have not recently raised the issue of the number of Turkish troops in northern Cyprus with Turkey. This is a central issue that will need to be addressed in the course of negotiations to achieve a comprehensive settlement. We would look to support any measure that helps build trust on the island. In this context, we welcomed both sides' recent cancellation of military exercises as an important confidence building measure.

Democratic Republic of Congo: Armed Conflict

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the report by the UN panel of experts (S/2008/773), with particular reference to its allegation that the Rwandan Government have provided support to the rebel group the National Congress for the Defence of the People in the Democratic Republic of Congo. [246297]

Bill Rammell: Accusations that the Governments of Rwanda and Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) are complicit in supporting rebels are serious, and should be considered carefully in light of the evidence presented. The UK broadly supports the recommendations of the UN Group of Experts in their most recent report.

However, whether these recommendations are followed, and whether sanctions will be applied against anyone as a result of the report, are questions for the DRC Sanctions Committee as a whole. Member states will need to consider collectively what the next steps will be.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make an assessment of the strength of the Lord's Resistance Army following the recent incidents of killing and abduction in the Democratic Republic of Congo. [250854]

Gillian Merron [holding answer 26 January 2009]: It is increasingly difficult to obtain accurate figures regarding the strength of the Lord's Resistance Army (LRA). The Government of Uganda estimate that there are currently 400-450 LRA combatants split into small groups across the north of the Democratic Republic of Congo towards the borders with Southern Sudan and the Central African Republic, as well as around 400 non-combatant women and children (grouped separately).

We have repeatedly condemned the actions of the LRA and the heinous crimes they have committed.

Departmental Catering

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what (a) directly-operated and (b) franchised catering outlets his Department and its agencies provide for staff. [249074]

Gillian Merron: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office has no directly operated or franchised catering outlets.

Departmental Internet

Departmental Pay

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many bonuses were awarded to senior civil servants working at his Department and its agencies in (a) 2007 and (b) 2008; and how much was spent on such bonuses in each of those years. [249867]

Gillian Merron: The information requested is as follows:

2008: £2,435,100 on variable pay for 288 staff.

Departmental Secondment

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many officials in his Department are on secondment, broken down by (a) job title, (b) grade and (c) Department or institution from which they are seconded. [253707]

Gillian Merron [holding answer 2 February 2009]: As at 1 January 2009 there were 267 officials seconded to the Foreign and Commonwealth Office from a wide range of other Government Departments or institutions. The 267 officials comprise 29 senior management level, 11 at D7, 98 at D6, 31 at C5, 84 at C4, 13 at B3 and one at A2 level. For security reasons it would be inappropriate to provide a breakdown by job title and Department or institution.

Departmental Training

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much his Department spent on digital media training courses provided by the Internet Advertising Bureau in 2008; how many such training sessions were held in 2008; and how many staff in his Department attended at least one such training course. [252268]

Caroline Flint: We are not aware of any digital media training courses provided by the Internet Advertising Bureau for the Foreign and Commonwealth Office in 2008.

EU Countries: Carbon Emissions

Jo Swinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions he has had with his Polish and Czech counterparts on carbon dioxide emission reductions. [242468]

Gillian Merron: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary's discussions with EU partners on emissions reduction targets have been largely in the context of delivering the EU's 2020 climate and energy legislative package. The package represents the delivery phase of the commitments which were agreed by heads of Government at the 2007 spring European Council, and puts the EU on track towards a low carbon economy. We welcome the agreement of the ambitious 2020 package at the December European Council.

Throughout 2008, Government officials had good contact on the package with their Polish and Czech opposite numbers and the Foreign Secretary also discussed climate and energy issues with Polish Foreign Minister Sikorski and Czech Foreign Minister Schwarzenberg.

Guantanamo Bay: Detainees

Gordon Banks: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps he is taking to seek the return to the UK of British residents detained in Guantanamo Bay. [249524]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 20 January 2009]: By December 2007 the Government had secured the return from Guantanamo Bay of four individuals previously lawfully resident in the UK. The UK has, since August 2007, sought the release and return of two further former residents, Mr. Shaker Aamer and Mr. Binyam Mohamed, who remain in detention at the facility.

We remain in ongoing discussions with the US regarding Mr. Mohamed's case and continue to press for his release and return at all levels. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has raised the case with former Secretary of State Rice, as has our Ambassador in Washington with senior members of the US Administration. Senior UK officials across Government have also raised with their counterparts in State Department, Department of Defence and NSC.

The US has not agreed to release and return Mr. Aamer to the UK in light of security concerns expressed in relation to his case. We maintain dialogue with them regarding Mr. Aamer's welfare but are no longer in active negotiations for his return to the UK. Our request for his release and return remains open should the US position change.

Israel: EU External Trade

Mr. Soames: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will seek a review at EU level of Israel's trade status with the EU. [247794]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 15 January 2009]: We do not believe that economic sanctions are the best way to engage or to influence Israel. We therefore have no plans to seek a review of Israel's trade status with the EU.

Languages

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs with reference to the answer of 16 July 2008, how many of his Department's staff received language training in (a) 2005-06 and (b) 2006-07, broken down by language. [242669]

Gillian Merron: I will write to the hon. Member separately, and place a copy of that letter in the Library of the House.

Middle East: Armed Conflict

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps his Department has taken to help bring an end to the conflict in Gaza. [248352]

Bill Rammell: We have been very active in seeking to bring an end to the conflict in Gaza. From the outset, we have called for an immediate and sustainable ceasefire. The Prime Minister and Foreign Secretary have spoken frequently to key leaders. Security Council Resolution 1860 was tabled by the UK, and the Foreign Secretary played a leading role in securing its adoption. We are now being similarly active in seeking to ensure that the ceasefire is built on.

Morocco: EU External Relations

Mark Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether Morocco's compliance with UN Security Council resolutions calling for a referendum on self-determination have been raised in EU-Morocco discussions on granting advanced status to Morocco. [244338]

Bill Rammell: The issue of Western Sahara was discussed at the 13 October 2008 meeting of the EU-Morocco Association Council. Western Sahara remains part of the political dialogue between the EU and Morocco, which will be strengthened as part of the advanced status.

The UK continues to believe that progress towards a negotiated solution to the dispute in Western Sahara providing for the self-determination of the people of Western Sahara is best achieved under the auspices of the UN. To this end and in accordance with UN Security Council Resolution (1813) of 30 April 2008, the UK fully supports the efforts of the UN in this respect and looks forward to the appointment of a new UN Secretary General Personal Envoy to the Western Sahara, and the resumption of the Manhasset negotiations.

Palestinians: Diplomatic Relations

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the Government's policy is on holding discussions with elected Palestinian representatives in Gaza. [252125]

Bill Rammell: President Abbas is the elected leader of the Palestinian people. We work very closely with him and his Government.

We do not believe it is productive to talk to Hamas directly until it makes significant movement towards the Quartet principles of rejecting violence, accepting Israel's right to exist and recognising previous agreements. The Arab League has mandated Egypt to communicate with Hamas. We are in regular contact with both the Arab League and Egypt. Turkey, Syria, Qatar and others are also speaking to Hamas.

Peace

Lembit Öpik: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much his Department has spent on (a) peace education, (b) mediation, (c) conflict prevention, (d) conflict resolution, (e) interfaith dialogue and (f) other peace development initiatives since January 2002; and if he will make a statement. [252109]

Gillian Merron: Most of this information is not held centrally in these specific categories, and obtaining it would incur disproportionate cost. However, the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) does hold information on conflict-related programme activity funded through trilateral (FCO, Ministry of Defence and Department for International Development) funds since 2002.

From 2000 to 2007, the FCO funded its conflict-related programme activity through the tri-departmentally managed and owned Global Conflict Prevention Pool (GCPP) and Africa Conflict Prevention Pool (ACPP). The Conflict Prevention Pool (CPP) was established in April 2008 to replace the GCPP and ACPP. The CPP funds a broad range of conflict prevention work including education and mediation initiatives, and currently supports work in a number of regions (the Balkans, the Americas, Africa, South Asia, Middle East and North Africa and Russia and the Commonwealth of Independent States). A separate Stabilisation Aid Fund (SAF) was established in April 2008 to fund stabilisation and reconstruction activity in Afghanistan and Iraq.

From financial year 2001-02 to 2007-08, GCPP expenditure amounted to approximately £448 million, and ACPP expenditure amounted to approximately £341 million. For financial year 2008-09, £112 million has been allocated to the CPP, and £73 million has been allocated to the SAF.

Somalia: Armed Conflict

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions he has had with his Ethiopian counterpart on Ethiopia's announcement that it will withdraw its troops from Somalia by 31 December 2008. [243874]

David Miliband: My noble Friend, the Parliamentary Under-Secretary for Security and Counter-terrorism at the Home Office, Lord West, discussed Ethiopia's withdrawal from Somalia during his meeting with the Ethiopian Prime Minister, Meles Zenawi, on 12 December 2008 in Addis Ababa. At the meeting, Mr. Meles confirmed that Ethiopian forces would withdraw from Somalia by the end of the year.

Sri Lanka: Armed Conflict

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his most recent assessment of the political situation in Sri Lanka is. [251996]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 29 January 2009]: I refer my hon. Friend to the written ministerial statement issued on 21 January 2009 by my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary, Official Report, columns 29-32WS.

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps the Government are taking on the Tamil conflict in Sri Lanka. [251998]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 29 January 2009]: I refer my hon. Friend to the written ministerial statement issued by my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary on 21 January 2009, Official Report, columns 29-32WS.

Sudan

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received of child victims of the Darfur conflict being passed in to slavery with the complicity of the Sudanese Army; and if he will make a statement. [250380]

Gillian Merron [holding answer 22 January 2009]: We are aware that, in a report published in December 2008, the Darfur Consortium group of non-government organisations (NGOs) described the abduction of women and children in Darfur. While we do not have independent verification of these allegations, we are deeply concerned and join the report's authors in condemning all instances of abduction, people trafficking and other forms of slavery.

We agree with many of the report's recommendations, including the need for full deployment of the UN-African Union Mission in Darfur (UNAMID), a comprehensive ceasefire and inclusive peace process for a sustainable resolution of the conflict in Darfur. We are working closely with UN, African Union and international partners to achieve these objectives, especially UNAMID's efforts to improve security for internally displaced persons and to ensure humanitarian agencies and NGOs can operate effectively in the region.

USA: Armed Forces

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs with reference to the answer of 26 November 2008, Official Report, columns 1795-96W, on USA: Central Asia, what the grade is of each of the two personnel from his Department contributing to the work of the American Central Command Assessment Team. [246311]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 12 January 2009]: Foreign and Commonwealth Office participation in the American Central Command Assessment Team comprised one D7 grade officer and one Senior Management Structure officer. The UK was pleased to be able to contribute to the wide-ranging discussion on security, rule of law and issues of global concern.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Carbon Emissions: Waste Disposal

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Peterborough of 22 October 2008, Official Report, column 361W, on carbon emissions: waste disposal, whether the work on estimating dioxin emissions from domestic burning has been completed. [252211]

Jane Kennedy: No. The current contract should be completed by the end of this financial year.

Departmental Buildings

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much has been spent on (a) maintaining, (b) decorating and (c) otherwise improving departmental buildings in the last five years; how much has been spent on wallpaper since 2001; and what plans there are for further spending on departmental decoration. [248053]

Huw Irranca-Davies: DEFRA has 230 properties in its portfolio, most of which have minor decorative work carried out as part of ongoing maintenance. These works are not always recorded separately from other associated works.

Gathering the data together would incur a disproportionate cost.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much his Department spent on works and refurbishment to offices allocated to Ministers in departmental buildings in the last 12 months. [252372]

Huw Irranca-Davies: No works or refurbishments have been carried out in offices allocated to DEFRA Ministers in the last 12 months.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much capital expenditure has been brought forward in response to the economic downturn by his Department, agencies and non-departmental bodies to (a) 2008-09, (b) 2009-10 and (c) 2010-11; from which years such expenditure has been brought forward; and if he will make a statement. [251484]

Huw Irranca-Davies: In response to the economic downturn, DEFRA has with HM Treasury approval brought forward capital expenditure from 2010-11 into 2009-10 as shown in the following table.

£ million

Organisation	Measure	2008-09	2009-10	2010-11
Environment Agency (non-departmental public body)	Flood and coastal erosion risk management	0	+20	-20
British Waterways (public corporation)	Waterways network infrastructure	0	+5	-5
Total		0	+25	-25

Domestic Waste: Contracts

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs with reference to the answer of 24 November 2008, Official Report, column 842W, on domestic waste: contracts, if he will place in the Library a copy of the (a) peer review of WR0106 and (b) the final report for WR0506. [252205]

Jane Kennedy: DEFRA's arrangements for publishing peer reviews are set out in its science handbook. This requires peer reviews to be carried out on completed, published reports in certain defined cases.

In this case, a peer review was carried out on a draft research report before its completion or publication. In accordance with standard practice, therefore, it would not be appropriate to publish it.

Fisheries: Licensing

Mark Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many boats have been licensed for scallop dredging in England in each of the last five years. [254273]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The following table shows the number of boats licensed for scallop dredging in England from 2004-08.

2005	183
2006	169
2007	172
2008	163

Fisheries: Quotas

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent assessment he has made of the effect of the EU sea fishing quotas for 2008 on the profitability of the British fishing industry; and if he will make a statement. [254073]

Huw Irranca-Davies: DEFRA has information on the monetary value derived from fish landings, rather than profitability, which is at best estimated.

DEFRA does not have all 2008 landings data, which should be available in May. On the basis of available 2008 information we understand that landings of quota species generated revenues of £459.2 million and revenues from all species landed amounted to £635.5 million. In 2007, for which we have a full year's worth of data, quota species generated £464.8 million in revenues, and all species landed generated £643 million.

Once all the data from 2008 are available DEFRA expects revenues generated in 2008 to exceed those generated in 2007.

Flood Control

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the contribution the Leader programme may make to reducing flood risk; what the budget for the next three years is; what type of project is eligible for consideration under the programme, and what criteria have to be met; and if he will make a statement. [253434]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The Leader approach is a delivery mechanism for the Rural Development Programme for England 2007-2013. It is a method of harnessing local knowledge to enable a bottom-up, community-led approach to the delivery of funding in rural areas. The Leader approach is being implemented through local action groups, which represent public and private partners and local interest groups covering broad sectors of the local society and economy.

Local action groups are implementing local development strategies setting out their plans for their areas, including selection criteria for local projects. The regional development agencies are responsible for the overall management of the delivery of the Leader approach.

A minimum of 5 per cent. of the EU funds within the Rural Development Programme for England will be spent through Leader. This means a minimum of £105 million across the country until 2013.

Reduction of flood risk has not been identified as a national priority for Rural Development funding. However, individual local action groups may have identified environmental management activity as a priority for them and within that there is scope for small-scale interventions to encourage community engagement in flood management.

Floods: Copeland

Mr. Jamie Reed: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will request that the North West Development Agency include in its plans for bringing forward major public works flood protection projects in Copeland constituency. [252556]

Mr. McFadden: I have been asked to reply.

The Environment Agency north-west region is currently planning a number of flood risk studies within the borough of Copeland around the Whitehaven and Egremont area. These include Nor Beck in Cleator Moor, and Skirting Beck in Egremont. Once completed, these studies may lead to flood defence capital improvement works. There are currently no plans to bring the possible construction works forward as this would require additional grant in aid and other funding. In addition, a small scheme at Low Mill, near Egremont, is currently nearing completion.

Fly-tipping

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs on what dates the Environment Agency's National Fly-tipping Prevention Group met in the last 12 months. [252199]

Jane Kennedy: The National Fly-tipping Prevention Group met on the following dates in the last 12 months:

4 March 2008;
24 June 2008;
24 September 2008; and
10 December 2008.

Inland Waterways

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what plans he has to grant cruiseway status to the Kennet and Avon canal. [254678]

Huw Irranca-Davies: British Waterways has the discretion to apply to DEFRA for cruiseway status to waterways of remainder status, such as the Kennet and Avon canal. British Waterways has confirmed that it intends to submit its proposal for reclassification of the Kennet and Avon canal shortly. Ministerial consideration of the proposal will then be subject to the outcome of the consultation and other statutory procedures prescribed by the Transport Act 1968.

Joint Waste Authorities

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which bodies will underwrite the liabilities of joint waste authorities. [252384]

Jane Kennedy: The detail of liabilities will be set out on a case by case basis as agreed between the authorities involved.

Nappies: Waste Disposal

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much was paid to Environmental Resources Management Limited for its research on the environmental impact of nappies; and if he will place a copy of the final research report in the Library. [252623]

Jane Kennedy: DEFRA, the Environment Agency and Waste and Resources Action Programme (WRAP) paid a total of £45,787.50 (excluding VAT) to Environmental Resources Management Ltd. for the updated study into the environmental impact of nappies. DEFRA's share of the cost was £16,762.50. A copy of the study will be placed in the Library.

Nature Conservation

Mr. Benyon: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the European Commission's proposals for an EU-wide regulatory approach on non-native invasive species in its Communication entitled "Towards an EU Strategy on Invasive Species". [253810]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The Commission's proposals are still at a very formative stage and detailed proposals have not yet been brought forward for thorough evaluation. I am aware that options are still being appraised by the Commission and we expect member states to be further involved in discussions soon. The UK has attended all previous meetings with the Commission on development of these ideas and as we now work to implement the "Invasive Non-native Species Framework Strategy for Great Britain", we are well placed to contribute to the development of an EU strategy. On 3 February I laid in Parliament an Explanatory Memorandum on the Commission's Communication.

Mr. Benyon: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the Convention on Biological Diversity's proposals for a global approach on non-native invasive species. [253811]

Huw Irranca-Davies: Invasive alien species are a major global threat to biodiversity and the Government support the work done under the Convention on Biological Diversity to promote concerted efforts to tackle this. The "Invasive Non-native Species Framework Strategy for Great Britain" has at its core one of the key invasive species guiding principles agreed by the parties to the convention—advocating prevention, early detection with rapid eradication and finally, management or control as the most cost effective policy approach. The GB strategy will enable us to take forward many areas of work relevant to implementing the decisions of the parties.

At the ninth conference of the parties in Bonn in 2008, along with a small number of other parties, we signalled our commitment to tackling this issue under the convention with a signed ministerial commitment presented at an event hosted by the global invasive species programme. As part of implementing a more strategic approach, the Government are also supportive of current proposals to develop a stronger EU framework to help address key issues at that scale.

Nitrate Vulnerable Zones

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent assessment he has made of the cost to farmers of compliance with the new nitrate vulnerable zones. [253928]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The Nitrates Pollution Prevention Regulations 2008 came into force on 1 January 2009. An impact assessment was laid with the regulations on 4 September 2008. It included an assessment of the potential costs to farmers of compliance.

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent assessment he has made of the effect of the nitrate vulnerable zone regulations on the sustainability of the farming industry; and if he will make a statement. [253929]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The regulations came into force on 1 January 2009. An impact assessment covering the impact on the farming sector was laid with the regulations on 4 September 2008.

Noise: Pollution

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what amendments have been made to local authority powers to tackle noise since 2001; and what his Department's policy is on noise from church bells. [252324]

Huw Irranca-Davies: Since 2001, the following amendments have been made to local authority powers to tackle noise.

The Noise Act 1996 has been amended by the Anti-Social Behaviour Act 2003 so that the Noise Act powers are easier for local authorities to use.

The Noise Act 1996 has been amended by the Clean Neighbourhoods and Environment Act 2005, which extended the Noise Act to licensed as well as domestic premises. Local authorities have a discretionary power to prosecute or issue a fixed penalty notice for night noise above the 'permitted level' emitted from a dwelling or licensed premises between 11 pm and 7 am.

Sections 69-81 of the Clean Neighbourhoods and Environment Act 2005 introduced new powers for local authorities to deal with audible intruder alarms in their area. A local authority may designate its area (or parts of it) as an alarm notification area. The occupier or owner in respect of any premises that are fitted with an audible intruder alarm in the designated area must nominate a key holder for those premises and notify the local authority of the contact details of that key holder.

The Clean Neighbourhoods and Environment Act 2005 also introduced powers for local authorities to enter premises in order to silence audible intruder alarms where key holders cannot be reached, or where the alarm is not in an alarm notification area. These powers of entry apply to audible intruder alarms sounding for 20 minutes continuously or one hour intermittently, and likely to cause annoyance to those in the vicinity.

Section 80 (2A) of the Clean Neighbourhoods and Environment Act 2005 introduced a discretionary power for local authorities to take such other steps as it thinks appropriate to persuade the appropriate person to abate a statutory nuisance from noise within a seven-day period without serving an abatement notice. An abatement notice must still be served after the seven-day period if the local authority thinks that a statutory nuisance still exists, or is likely to occur or recur, and the abatement notice can be served at any point within the seven days.

Complaints about noise from church bells would be subject to part III of the Environmental Protection Act 1990 (as amended), but we would expect common sense to be applied to the handling of complaints not least because church bells are part of our culture and heritage.

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

Civil Servants: Housing

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what guidance the Cabinet Office has issued on the provision of housing allowances for second homes as remuneration to staff in (a) the Civil Service and (b) non-departmental public bodies. [249919]

Mr. Watson: The rules and guidance for Departments on civil servants' pay and allowances are set out in the Civil Service Management Code. General guidance on terms and conditions for NDPB staff is set out in the Cabinet Office publication "Public Bodies: A Guide for Departments" and in the HM Treasury publication "Managing Public Money". Copies of all publications are available in the Library of the House.

Civil Service: Pensions

Mr. Baron: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what changes he intends to make to payments from the Civil Service Pension Scheme from April 2009; and whether savings are expected from these changes. [253982]

Mr. Byrne: Pensions paid by the civil service scheme are adjusted in April by the same amount as the state second pension. Pension payments will therefore be increased from April, based on the retail prices index for September 2008.

I refer the hon. Member to the written statement I gave to the House on 16 December 2008, Official Report, columns 111-12WS.

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster with reference to the answer of 1 September 2008, Official Report, column 1431W, on the Civil Service: pensions, for what reason the Principal Civil Service Pension Scheme resource accounts were not laid before Parliament after the House returned in the autumn of 2008; and when he plans to publish them. [249002]

Mr. Byrne: The accounts were laid before Parliament on 22 January 2009 [HC60].

In my written ministerial statement of 16 December 2008, I referred to some overpayments made to pensioners of public sector pension schemes, including the Principal Civil Service Pension Scheme.

The Civil Superannuation Resource Accounts contain reference to these overpayments. The decision was taken not to publish the accounts until such time as we had sufficient information to be able to inform those pensioners affected. Critical to this decision was the need to avoid unnecessary public concern among the vast majority (95 per cent.) of civil service pensioners who were entirely unaffected, but who would not have known that had a general announcement been made. Letters were sent to affected pensioners on 15 December and the statement, formally notifying Parliament of the overpayments, was made on 16 December.

Community Assets Programme

Ben Chapman: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster according to what criteria funds are allocated from the Community Assets Fund for councils to renovate community assets in preparation for the transfer of their management or ownership to community groups. [253713]

Kevin Brennan: To be eligible to apply for the Community Assets programme, applications had to be made by either the local authority that owned the asset to be transferred, or a third sector organisation that the asset would be transferred to. In each case the application had to be endorsed by the other partner, and supported by the wider community. The transfer could be in the form of a registered freehold or a registered and assignable lease of at least 20 years without a break.

Applications had to address the three programme outcomes to be considered for funding:

1. Local third sector organisations have greater security and independence, and are better able to meet the needs of the communities they serve.
2. Communities have more access to better quality facilities that respond to their needs.
3. There is more effective partnership working between local authorities and the third sector.

Subject to meeting the initial eligibility criteria, projects were then assessed against the two following criteria:

1. The proposed project outcomes meet an identified need and help to achieve the programme outcomes.
2. The organisation can deliver the project well and achieve the proposed outcomes.

On the basis of assessment against these criteria, 38 in-principle grants were awarded in April 2008. A full breakdown of the above criteria and published guidance on the Community Assets programme can be found at:

www.biglotteryfund.org.uk.

Departmental Location

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many Cabinet Office posts have been relocated away from London and the south-east since the adoption of relocation targets arising from the 2004 Spending Review; and when he expects these targets to be met. [249960]

Mr. Watson: The Lyons Review set relocations to be achieved by 2010-11. Details of the numbers of Cabinet Office posts relocated in relation to SR 2004 Lyons Review were last reported in Cabinet Office Autumn Performance Report 2008 which is available in the Libraries of the House for the reference of Members.

Departmental Manpower

Linda Gilroy: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many staff are employed in No. 10 Downing Street. [255677]

Mr. Watson: I refer the hon. Member to the answer the Prime Minster gave to the hon. Member for Fareham (Mr. Hoban) on 1 May 2008, Official Report, column 624W.

Departmental Pensions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many and what proportion of Cabinet Office staff are members of a Civil Service final salary pension scheme. [249907]

Mr. Watson: The total number of Cabinet Office employees in a civil service final salary pension scheme was, as at November 2008, 1,234 or 73.3 per cent. of staff. These figures include ex-HMSO employees with reserved rights who are no longer Cabinet Office staff but are included within the Department's pension administrator's database.

Departmental Publications

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster when he expects his Department to publish the next edition of "Public Bodies". [249922]

Mr. Watson: I refer the right hon. Member to the statement I made on 2 February 2009, Official Report, column 31WS.

Departmental Rail Travel

Norman Baker: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster on what date he last used a train in the course of his official duties. [242605]

Mr. Byrne: My official travel is undertaken in line with the requirements of the Ministerial Code. The last rail journey I undertook on official business was 8 January 2009.

Employment

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (1) how many people flowed from jobseeker's allowance into paid employment in each year since 2001; [255649]

(2) how many people flowed off jobseeker's allowance in each year since 2001; [255682]

(3) how many people flowed off jobseeker's allowance on to incapacity benefit in each year since 2001. [255686]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated February 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Questions asking: how many people flowed from Jobseeker's Allowance to paid employment in each year since 2001, how many people came off Jobseeker's Allowance in each year since 2001, and how many people flowed off Jobseeker's Allowance onto incapacity benefit in each year since 2001. (255649, 255682, 255686)

The table shows a breakdown of the destination of off-flows recorded by Jobcentre Plus in each year since 2001.

Information on the destination of off-flows from Jobseeker's Allowance comes from a form completed by Jobcentre Plus employees when terminating a claim. Although effort is made to complete the termination as accurately as possible for each claim, there are a significant proportion of off-flows that fall into non-specific categories such as ceased claiming, not known and failed to sign.

Table 1: Destination of off-flows from jobseeker's allowance

	Into paid employment[1]	Claimed incapacity benefit	All other specified reasons	Not known[2]	Total
2001	1,402,480	128,410	434,590	848.085	2,813,565
2002	1,324,640	118,725	466,660	892,095	2,802,120
2003	1,239,685	112,075	465,940	895,200	2,712,900
2004	1,107,175	102,150	440,430	883,925	2,533,680
2005	984,225	93,045	405,130	913,115	2,395,515
2006	983,495	97,450	415,990	1,041,685	2,538,600
2007	955,120	102,405	469,355	1,091,420	2,618,300
2008	938,735	85,045	484,050	1,109,925	2,617,755

[1] Either found work or increased work to 16+ hours per week.

[2] Includes ceased claiming and failed to sign.

Note:

Data are rounded to the nearest five.

Government Departments: Recruitment

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what estimate he has made of the total cost to the Government of (a) recruitment and (b) job advertising in the last year for which figures are available. [248494]

Mr. Watson: The information requested is not held centrally and therefore it could be provided only at disproportionate cost with no guarantee of accuracy.

Government Information: Public Participation

Margaret Moran: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster whether he plans to repeat the data mash up competition Show Us a Better Way in 2009. [248188]

Mr. Watson: The Show Us A Better Way competition generated a strong public response, with over 450 entries. The Power of Information Task Force will be concluding its work shortly. The Government are committed to harnessing the power of social media in order to spread innovation across the public sector.

Higher Civil Servants: Official Hospitality

David Taylor: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster with reference to the answer of 7 May 2008, Official Report, column 885W, on the recording of hospitality received by senior civil servants in 2007, how he plans to publish the list of hospitality received by members of departmental boards during 2007; and what timetable he has set for publication. [245315]

Mr. Watson: Hospitality received by members of departmental boards will be published shortly and copies placed in the Library of the House.

Horizon Scanning Forum

Mr. Hague: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster when the Horizon Scanning Forum led by his Department was established; what its role and composition is; how often it meets; and what the role of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office is in the forum. [246279]

Mr. Watson: The first meeting of the Horizon Scanning Forum (HSF) was held in September 2008. The HSF works closely with the new Cabinet Office Strategic Horizons Unit to meet the National Security Strategy commitment to > "strengthen the Government's capacity for horizon-scanning, forward planning and early warning."

The HSF acts as the main commissioning and co-ordinating body for national security-related horizon scanning work. The HSF will sit quarterly at working level, improving cross-government co-ordination between those involved in horizon scanning, identifying emerging themes and building an effective community that can share products, expertise and experience. For security reasons, it would not be appropriate to make public the precise composition of the HSF, but the Foreign and Commonwealth Office is represented.

House of Commons: Right of Search

Mr. Jenkin: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what meetings he has attended with Mr. Speaker on the arrest of the hon. Member for Ashford and the search of his office; what was discussed; if he will place in the Library a copy of records held by his Department of such meetings; and whether he has received a request under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 from the hon. Member for North Essex for this information. [248924]

Mr. Byrne: I have not attended any meetings with Mr. Speaker on the arrest of the hon. Member for Ashford (Damian Green) and the search of his office. I can also confirm that my Department has received a request, under the Freedom of Information Act 2000, from the hon. Member for North Essex asking for this information. A response confirming the position set out in this answer has been sent to the hon. Member for North Essex.

Migration

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster if he will rank the UK among other EU member states in terms of net migration in (a) 1997 and (b) the most recent year for which figures are available. [254538]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated February 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to respond to your question concerning how the UK ranks among other EU member states in terms of net migration in (a) 1997 and (b) the most recent year for which figures are available. (254538)

Eurostat publish net migration figures for all EU member states. These may differ from the estimates produced by individual national statistics institutes as Eurostat make adjustments to improve comparability across member states. These show that the UK had the fourth highest levels of net migration in 1997 and third highest in 2007, the latest year for which complete data are available. However care should be taken when comparing net migration estimates as a small net migration figure may mask large immigration and emigration flows.

Non-profit Associations

Mr. Grogan: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what the cost of the national survey of third sector organisations was; and what percentage of surveys were returned completed. [254481]

Kevin Brennan: The national survey of third sector organisations closed with a final national response rate of 47 per cent. The cost of the survey is commercially confidential, and the release of this information would adversely affect Government's commercial interests in contracting future work of this sort.

Property: Databases

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what estimate he has made of the cost of the property database being created for the 2011 census. [253765]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated February 2009:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking what estimate has been made of the cost of the property database being created for the 2011 Census. (253765)

The cost of developing an Address Register for the 2011 Census is now estimated to be about £12m over the years 2008 - 2011. The additional estimated cost since my reply to your previous question in November 2008 (Hansard reference 235103) is due to a decision following successful piloting to match fully the two key national address lists - the Royal Mail Postal Address File and Local Government's National Land and property Gazetteer.

It is misleading to refer to this as a 'property database' since the Address Register will contain a list of household and communal establishment addresses linked to higher level geographic areas. The pre-requisite for a successful strategy of post-out of Census questionnaires as the primary delivery method, is the availability of a comprehensive, high quality address register for all areas of England and Wales. The Office for National Statistics is developing an address register that meets Census requirements in terms of quality and coverage and which local authorities can be confident will effectively underpin Census enumeration and outputs.

Roads: Taxation

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what consideration the Office for National Statistics has given to the classification of (a) local and (b) national road pricing schemes for the purposes of taxation statistics. [252473]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated February 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question asking what consideration the Office for National Statistics has given to the classification of (a) local and (b) national road pricing schemes for the purposes of taxation statistics (252473).

ONS produces the United Kingdom's National Accounts. The National Accounts are an internationally comparable accounting framework that describes the activities in a national economy, including the transactions that take place between sectors of that economy. The relevant international manuals are the System of National Accounts 1993(SNA93) and the European System of Accounts 1995 (ESA95) in particular.

As part of the process of producing the National Accounts, ONS decides on the classification of institutions and transactions within the economy. This well-established process is set out in Annex A of the National Statistics Protocol on Statistical Integration and Classification available at:

http://www.ons.gov.uk/about-statistics/ns-standard/cop/protocols/index.html

Whilst ONS has not considered the classification of any proposed national road charging scheme, some other government schemes have been examined. Those examined include the London Low Emission Zone (LEZ); the London Borough of Richmond Upon Thames emissions based parking charge, the London congestion charge and road/bridge toll charges.

Government revenue is mainly divided into taxes or service charges. Taxes are compulsory unrequited payments, where unrequited means that the payer does not receive anything directly in return. Service payments are requited in that they include the delivery of a service in exchange for a payment. In some instances the classification of these receipts can be difficult to interpret and the international statistical manuals recognise that "the borderline between taxes and payments for services rendered is not always clear cut in practice". As a result ONS consider the nature of the receipts carefully before reaching a decision.

The London congestion charge and road/bridge toll charges are payments made for vehicles to use the roads within a defined zone. The charges are judged to be requited payments in line with international guidance and are therefore classified as payments for a service.

The LEZ and the London Borough of Richmond Upon Thames emissions based parking charge are classified as taxes. The LEZ charge is a compulsory payment for specific vehicles to drive within the LEZ. Although the vehicles gain access to roads within the LEZ, the charging policy relates to vehicles polluting the air within the zone rather the use of the roads. The LEZ charge on the use of the non-compliant vehicle is judged to be unrequited and classified as a tax on pollution.

Similarly, the London Borough of Richmond upon Thames's charge for a permit to park in a Controlled Parking Zone, which was implemented on 2 April 2007, is based on the emissions of the vehicle concerned. The decision to classify the charge as a tax on pollution is similar to the LEZ: the charge relates to the vehicle emissions rather than the direct consumption of a service.

Security Commission

Mr. Hurd: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many reports the Security Commission has produced since May 1997; and on what issues. [250319]

Mr. Watson: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister to the right hon. Member for Horsham (Mr. Maude) on 16 December 2008, Official Report, column 581W.

Suicide

Dr. Ladyman: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many (a) males and (b) females in each age group committed suicide in the last year for which records are available. [255546]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated February 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking how many (a) males and (b) females in each age group committed suicide in the last year for which records are available. (255546)

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Unemployment

Mrs. May: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many and what proportion of 16 to 24-year-olds resident in each (a) region, (b) parliamentary constituency and (c) local authority area were (i) unemployed and not in full-time education and (ii) economically inactive and not in full-time education in each (A) year since 1997 and (B) each month of the last five years for which figures are available. [252908]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking how many and what proportion of 16 to 24 year olds resident in each (a) region, (b) parliamentary constituency and (c) local authority area were (i) unemployed and not in full-time education and (ii) economically inactive and not in full-time education in each (A) year since 1997 and (B) each month of the last five years for which figures are available. (252908)

Information in the form requested is not readily available and could only be compiled at disproportionate cost.

Mrs. May: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many households contained no one in (a) work and (b) full-time work in each quarter of the last two years. [255125]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated February 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question how many households contained no one in (a) work and (b) full-time work in each quarter of the last two years. (255125)

The information available is provided in the attached table.

Estimates are only available for the April to June and October to December quarters in the source used; the Labour Force Survey household data set. Estimates for October to December 2008 will be available on 25th February 2009.

Figures for households are based on working age households. A working-age household is a household that includes at least one person of working-age, that is a woman aged 16 to 59 or a man aged 16 to 64.

The figures given for the April-June quarters are consistent with those published in the 'Work and worklessness among households' First Release—see web link:

http://www.statistics.gov.uk/pdfdir/work0807.pdf

It is vital to note that, as with any sample survey, estimates from the LFS are subject to a margin of uncertainty, as different samples give different results.

Voluntary Work

Peter Bottomley: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster with reference to the answer of 24 November 2008, Official Report, columns 1126-27W, on v, how many (a) full-time, (b) part-time and (c) short-term opportunities have been created by v to date; and how many volunteers on average have filled each of these opportunity types. [254099]

Kevin Brennan: Up to the end of January 2009 v had created over 875,000 opportunities to volunteer and 311,000 had been completed by volunteers. This is an increase from the 251,000 volunteers that had completed opportunities by the end of September 2008.

The following table provides a breakdown of opportunities commissioned and completed by the type of opportunity:

Type of opportunity	Opportunities commissioned	Opportunities completed
Full-time	17,000	5,000
Part-time	400,000	165,000
Short-term	458,000	141,000
Total	875,000	311,000

Volunteering opportunities can play a hugely important role in enabling people to develop new skills and improve their employment prospects. In recognition of this, today the Government are publishing 'Real Help for Communities: Volunteers, Charities and Social Enterprises', a £42.5 million plan to support the third sector to deliver real help to people, communities and businesses during the recession. The plan contains a volunteer brokerage scheme for unemployed people which will create over 40,000 opportunities to learn new skills and give back to communities through volunteering. Copies of 'Real Help for Communities: Volunteers, Charities and Social Enterprises' have been placed in the Library of the House.

TRANSPORT

Bus Services: Chorley

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much of the funding allocated to Chorley Borough Council for concessionary bus travel in (a) 2006-07 and (b) 2007-08 was used on (a) concessionary travel, (b) subsidy to bus routes and (c) other purposes. [254732]

Paul Clark: In 2006-07 and 2007-08 funding for the statutory minimum bus concession was provided exclusively through the Formula Grant system, which is administered by the Department for Communities and Local Government (DCLG).

Formula grant is an unhypothecated block grant i.e. local authorities are free to spend it on any services provided (not just transport services) that meet their statutory obligations. This enables local authorities to decide on their own priorities based on local requirements.

It is not possible to identify how much formula grant has been allocated to a local authority for any particular service. This single pot of non-ring fenced funding allows local authorities to decide on their own priorities and provides an incentive for them to maximise value for money.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether he has received a request for a meeting with representatives of Chorley Borough Council to discuss the national concessionary bus fares scheme. [253681]

Paul Clark [holding answer 2 February 2009]: No request has been received from representatives of Chorley borough council. However, departmental officials have recently been to Lancashire county council to discuss the council's issues with funding for concessionary travel.

The Secretary of State will shortly be meeting with a north-west MP (the right hon. Member for Fylde (Mr. Jack)), and I have also met a number of parliamentary colleagues to discuss this issue. I will be happy to meet with any other members who are concerned about funding for concessionary travel in their area.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much grant Chorley Borough Council received for the national concessionary bus travel scheme for 2008-09. [253682]

Paul Clark [holding answer 2 February 2009]: Chorley borough council will receive special grant funding of £280,000 in 2008-09 for the improvement to statutory concessionary travel to England-wide, which was implemented on 1 April last year. This additional grant represents 33 per cent. increase on outturn expenditure by Chorley in 2007-08 on concessionary fares. This is in addition to its existing funding for concessionary travel which is provided through formula grant. It is not possible to identify the precise amount received by each authority for concessionary fares from formula grant.

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport for which bypasses his Department funded the construction in each of the last 10 years; and if he will make a statement. [252061]

Dartford-Thurrock Crossing: Road Traffic

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate he has made of projected levels of traffic on the Dartford Crossing in each of the next 10 years. [254675]

Paul Clark: Projected traffic level figures for individual years are not available but existing forecasts suggest that traffic levels may rise to between 170,000 and 190,000 vehicles per day by 2016.

Departmental Equality

Mr. Leech: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what percentage of staff in his Department have recorded their ethnicity (a) in total and (b) in each bargaining unit. [253567]

Mr. Hoon: The central Department and its agencies recorded the following percentage declared ethnicity (a) in total and (b) in each bargaining unit as set out in the following table:

Staff in post on 31 March 2008	Percentage of staff who have declared their ethnicity
Central Department	86.4
Driving Standards Agency	94.4
Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency	93.3
Government Car and Dispatch Agency	99.3
Highways Agency	81.0
Marine and Coastguard Agency	89.5
Vehicle Certification Agency	100.0
Vehicle and Operator Services Agency	80.7
DFT (total)	88.7

Dredging: Thames Estuary

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport when the dredge in the Thames Estuary for the London Gateway Port channel is proposed to start; for what reason the dredge is to be carried out; what safeguards against disturbances of munitions will be in place; what the shortest distance is between the wreck of SS Richard Montgomery and the area affected by the dredge; who is to carry out the dredge; and what consultation took place with (a) communities affected and (b) users of the Thames Estuary before the proposal was finalised. [254478]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The timing of the proposed dredge is a matter for London Gateway Port Ltd., subject to completion of the statutory consent process. The dredge is required in order to accommodate deep sea container vessels serving the new London Gateway port.

Standard dredging practice in the Thames Estuary established by the Port of London Authority covers matters such as handling the incidental lifting of munitions left on the sea bed. Magnetometer surveys have also been conducted in order to provide the best advance information.

The shortest distance from the wreck of the SS Richard Montgomery to the southern edge of the proposed channel is just over 2.2 kilometres. The shortest distance from the channel to the edge of the wreck exclusion zone is 2.1 kilometres.

The choice of dredging contractor is an operational matter for London Gateway Port Ltd.

A public inquiry took place in 2003. Subsequently London Gateway Port Ltd. has set up a Marine Ecological Advisory Group which includes representatives from the Environment Agency, Natural England, the Marine and Fisheries Agency, the Port of London Authority and the Kent and Essex Sea Fisheries Committee, to consider among other matters the impacts of dredging.

Economic Situation

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent discussions his Department has had with outside organisations to discuss policy on reducing the effect of the recession on matters within his Department's responsibility. [254064]

Mr. Hoon: I have had regular engagements with outside organisations, including relevant Government Departments, on a range of issues relating to the economy.

First Capital Connect: Opening Hours

Joan Ryan: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will make it his policy to oppose the application by First Capital Connect to reduce the opening hours of the ticket offices it operates; and if he will make a statement. [254713]

Paul Clark: First Capital Connect has submitted their proposals under the procedures of the Ticketing and Settlement Agreement, which is the approved industry process for such matters.

First Capital Connect's proposals are currently under consultation. It would, therefore, be inappropriate to make any comment on them at present which may fetter the discretion of the Secretary of State if the proposals are referred by the operator for arbitration.

Freight: Grants

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will place in the Library a copy of the economic model against which freight facilities grant applications are assessed; when this economic model was last updated; and if he will make a statement. [254519]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The principles of the economic model used for the assessment of freight facilities grant applications are outlined in Department for Transport publication "Guide to Freight Facilities Grant (FFG) in England" which was published in November 2006 and is currently being reviewed. The document can be downloaded free of charge from:

http://www.dft.gov.uk/pgr/freight/railfreight/rfg/freightfacilitiesgrantguide.pdf.

The purpose of the economic model is to ensure that grants are only awarded when there is a financial need for funding. Annex 4 of the aforementioned guide deals with the financial appraisal of FFGs and, in its first paragraph, states that:

> "The main financial requirement for a FFG is that compared with the road alternative, the proposed rail or water scheme would not be financially justified without grant.... This can only be a general guide; it may not cover the entire issues specific to each application. The Department can offer help and advice on specific cases."

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the average length of time taken to process a freight facilities grant application is; how many applicants waited (a) more than six months, (b) more than nine months and (c) more than one year in the most recent five year period for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [254520]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department for Transport has aimed to assess standard freight facilities grant (FFG) applications within four months and more complex applications within six months. However the time taken to assess applications depends on many factors, including the completeness of the initial data supporting the application. There is also the potential for further information being received from the applicant through the course of the assessment and the potential need by the Department for clarification, which inevitably takes time.

In the past three years, the Department has assessed the following cases:

Year application received	Cases assessed within six months	Cases assessed within nine months	Cases assessed within one year

In addition, a further application was received in October 2008 which is currently being assessed.

The process of applying for FFGs is currently being reviewed, with a view to shorten the time taken to assess applications and make the process clearer for applicants.

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many grant applications were made to the freight facilities grant scheme for each year since 2000; how many of those applications were successful; and what the average value was of each (a) application and (b) grant. [254521]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department for Transport and the then Strategic Rail Authority (SRA) do not keep details of every application submitted. Details are retained for each offer of grant made to successful applicants.

The number of successful applications and the average value of grants awarded for each year since 2000 are set out in the following table.

	Successful applications	Average value of grant awarded (£)
2000	35	711,944
2001	28	797,076
2002	33	989,859
2003	7	822,188
2004	2	2,514,083
2005	4	565,978
2006	5	359,000
2007	3	843,483
2008	1	1,325,578

The SRA suspended the FFG programme for most rail projects in 2003, although grants continued to be available for aggregate-based facilities through the aggregates levy sustainability fund. FFGs were reintroduced for all rail schemes by the Department in 2007.

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the total public resource allocated to the freight facilities grant scheme was for each year since 2000. [254522]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department for Transport and the then Strategic Rail Authority has allocated the following budget for Freight Facility Grants (FFGs) since 2000.

Freight facility grants: Budget

	£ million
2000-01	32
2001-02	61.8
2002-03	50.5
2003-04	32.5
2004-05	9.7
2005-06	7
2006-07	7
2007-08	7
2008-09	4
2009-10	7
2010-11	10
2011-12	16
2012-13	20
2013-14	25

The SRA suspended the FFG programme for most rail projects in 2003, although grants continued to be available for aggregate-based facilities through the aggregates levy sustainability fund. FFGs were reintroduced for all rail schemes by the Department in 2007.

Funding for the FFG programme was boosted in September 2008 with the announcement of a long-term increasing budget to provide certainty for potential applicants. This included £61 million of capital funding over three years from April 2011.

Heathrow Airport: Exhaust Emissions

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many flight hours were expended by commercial aircraft in 2007-08 in stacking while awaiting clearance to land at Heathrow; and how much carbon dioxide was emitted by those aircraft while stacked. [254720]

http://www.dft.gov.uk/pgr/aviation/airports/improve airpassenqer.pdf

Data for 2007-08 are not available. However, in 2006-07, aircraft were held in aggregate for 18,679 hours. This is based on 56 per cent. of arriving aircraft being held in a stack and an average 8.5 minute hold for those held. This equates to roughly 50,000 tonnes of carbon dioxide emitted by aircraft stacking at Heathrow.

Heathrow Airport: Noise

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many individuals he estimates will live within the 57 decibel contour when the Heathrow third runway is expected to open. [253848]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Estimates of populations within the 57 decibel noise contour with a three-runway airport were presented in the November 2007 consultation document and supporting technical report on noise. Around 242,000 people are predicted to be within the 57 decibel contour in 2020 with around 605,000 annual movements, the maximum capacity we have supported initially. The new runway could open sooner with a lower capacity, but the timing and capacity will depend on the planning process and the mechanism we are establishing to ensure that local environmental limits, including noise limits are met, and will continue to be met.

Humber Bridge: Tolls

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport which groups of people are exempt from paying tolls for crossing the Humber Bridge; what estimate he has made of the annual revenue forgone as a result of such exemptions; and if he will make a statement. [255662]

Paul Clark: Concessions and exemptions are a matter for the Bridge Board. Exemptions are offered on a voluntary basis for certain disabled users (those on higher rate disability living allowance). Emergency services also receive exemption from tolls when on official duties.

In addition, on 28 July 2006, the Humber Bridge Board announced that it would discount toll charges for the local bus service (the X1) by 45 per cent. until the end of March 2008 to ensure it would continue to offer a service over the bridge. This concession remains in place and is subject to periodic review.

No estimation has been made by the Department for Transport for the amount of annual revenue forgone as a result of these exemptions.

M42: Lorries

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the findings were of the trial of heavy goods vehicle overtaking restrictions on the M42; what assessment he has made of those findings; and if he will make a statement. [254966]

Paul Clark: The trial overtaking restriction for HGVs introduced on the M42 between junctions 10 and 11 has shown that light vehicle journey times have reduced and that HGV journey times remained unchanged in the morning peak but decreased at other times. The proportion of HGVs using lane 2 has reduced significantly.

Although the results of the trial have not offered dramatic journey time savings, the Government believe that it would be beneficial to make the M42 restriction permanent as a useful tool in helping the Highways Agency to meet journey time reliability targets.

M48 Severn Crossing

David T.C. Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what plans he has for the future of the M48 Severn Crossing; and if he will make a statement. [254369]

Paul Clark: Legislation provides for the concession to last a maximum of 30 years and is due to end in 2022. But it may end sooner if certain financial objectives are met. Current estimates are that those objectives will have been met around 2016, when costs are expected to have been recovered.

Once the concession ends the undertaking will pass to the Government, which then has the power to charge tolls for up to a further five years. No decisions have been taken with regard to tolls beyond 2016, or whenever the concession period ends.

Motor Vehicles: Exhaust Emissions

Mr. Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what discussions he has had with the European Commission in relation to the alleged breaches of its legal duties referred to in paragraph four of his Department's letter to consultees in respect of its Consultation on Replacement Pollution Control Devices for Motor Vehicles; and if he will make a statement. [255493]

Jim Fitzpatrick: There have been no discussions with the European Commission on the delay to implementation of the EU legislation referred to the Department's letter.

The Department for Transport regrets the delay which has occurred in implementing the necessary point of sale controls and is seeking to remedy this. It is worth noting, however, that the EU regulations which set the standards to be met by new replacement pollution control devices for cars and vans have direct applicability on manufacturers.

Parking Offences

Sir Peter Soulsby: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate he has made of the number of vehicles which have been impounded by the police because of accurate insurance details not being held on the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency database. [254581]

Jim Fitzpatrick: All motor vehicle insurance details are held on the insurance industry's motor insurance database (MID) and it is the insurance industry's responsibility to provide data to it.

The number of vehicles wrongly identified by the police as being driven uninsured based on information from the MID and impounded is not known. However, such cases are thought to be rare. The MIB supplements the database with a dedicated police helpline which the police can use in cases of doubt, e.g. if a driver claims he took out insurance very recently. This enables a direct check to be made with the claimed insurer.

Railway Network

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps his Department has taken to identify corridors for potential future rail use; and what steps he is taking to safeguard the routes of disused railway lines. [253903]

Paul Clark [holding answer 3 February 2009]: Network Rail's strategic review of the case for new rail lines is considering five of Network Rail's strategic routes north and west of London: Chiltern, East Coast, West Coast, Great Western and Midland main lines. Initial results from this review suggest a future need for a new line between London and the West Midlands. To take forward the detailed work needed to make a firm decision on this, the company "High Speed Two (HS2) Ltd." has been created.

Local and regional authorities can use planning processes to protect sites or alignments if they deem this appropriate. In addition, we have used our national safeguarding powers in cases such as Crossrail and consideration will be given to more specific use of these powers as our long term transport planning advances.

Railways: Disabled

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps his Department is taking to provide high-quality and integrated disabled passenger assistance on the rail network. [254440]

Paul Clark: The Railways for All strategy, published in March 2006, identifies the importance of improved information, ticketing and assistance to improving access to the railway network.

Front-line railway staff are trained in disability awareness and will always endeavour to help disabled customers. Assistance can also be booked in advance using the Assisted Passenger Reservation Service (APRS) which is owned and maintained by the Association of Train Operating Companies (ATOC).

Access for All funding of £280,000 has already been provided to ATOC towards development of staff training materials, and a programme of station access audits to improve the quality of information available through the National Rail Enquiry Service.

In addition the £370 million Access for All programme is making enhancements to railway stations which help to promote independent travel for disabled people.

In light of passenger feedback, and in particular the recent Passenger Focus report into Assisted Passenger Reservation Service bookings, published in September 2008, the Department for Transport intends to work with the industry to address potential areas for improvement to the Assisted Passenger Reservation Service system, and to identify what resources may be available to support this.

Railways: Fares

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to the oral answer to the hon. Member for Lewes of 27 January 2009, Official Report, column 148, which rail fares have reduced because of the capping system. [254171]

Paul Clark [holding answer 3 February 2009]: The Department for Transport does not hold this information. The Office of Rail Regulation (ORR) does however track all rail fares, and reports on the high level results on a quarterly basis. The ORR can be contacted for more information at the following address:

Office of Rail Regulation
One Kemble Street
London WC2B 4AN

Railways: Finance

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what funding his Department provides to regional and local authorities to plan and implement expenditure on new rail stations and lines. [253691]

Paul Clark: The Department for Transport does not provide any funding to regional and local authorities specifically for the purposes of identifying and investing in opportunities for new rail stations and lines.

However, local authorities are free to use their revenue support grant for studies into new stations and lines and financially support new services. They can also use Local Transport Plan (LTP) integrated transport block funding for investing in new stations or lines. The region can also prioritise rail schemes for capital funding from within their regional funding allocation.

Railways: South East

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what discussions (a) he and (b) Ministers in his Department have held with the South West Regional Development Agency on rail transport in the last 12 months; and with what outcomes. [253689]

Paul Clark: Neither the Secretary of State nor any other Minister in the Department for Transport has had discussions with the South West Regional Development Agency on rail transport in the last 12 months.

Railways: Tickets

Joan Ryan: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will place in the Library a copy of the ticketing and settlement agreement produced by his Department. [255364]

Paul Clark: The ticketing and settlement agreement is a commercial document and is the property of the Association of Train Operating Companies. For this reason, there are no plans to place a copy in the Library of the House of Commons.

Roads: Accidents

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what research his Department (a) has undertaken, (b) plans to undertake and (c) has evaluated on the number of (i) minor, (ii) serious and (iii) fatal road accidents where speed was a contributory factor which drew on (A) UK and (B) international research; and if he will make a statement. [253011]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Since 2005 a report on the contributory factors, including speed, reported by police officers who attend personal injury collisions has been published as part of "Road Casualties Great Britain". The DFT-funded "On The Spot (OTS)" study involves additional non-police investigation of road collisions to explore the characteristics of personal injury collisions in depth. The OTS study is currently examining the characteristics of crashes that involve excessive or inappropriate speed.

In addition, there is a wide range of research on the link between speed and casualties which may be found on the Department's website at:

http://www.dft.gov.uk/pgr/roadsafety/research/

For example, the Transport Research Laboratory (TRL) published a review of non-UK studies in 1994 which established a link between vehicle speed and the risk of a collision. This indicated that, in broad terms, a 1 mph reduction in average speed can reduce accident risk by around 5 per cent. In 2000 TRL published a report investigating whether this general rule could be applied to different types of UK roads and to further understand the relationship between vehicle speed and accident frequency. The report concluded that the percentage reduction in accident frequency for a 1 mph reduction in average speed is between 2 per cent. and 7 per cent. depending on vehicle speeds and the nature and layout of the road.

Rolling Stock

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many contracts have been signed for new rolling stock in each month since the Rolling Stock Plan was published; what the (a) value of each contract and (b) company with which each contract was held was; and how much additional rolling stock each contract represented. [253311]

Paul Clark: Please see the table for detail of contracts:

	Number	(a) Estimated value (£ million)	(b) Company	Rolling Stock
January 2008	1	11	Bombardier	8 DMU vehicles
February 2008	0	—	—	—
March 2008	1	57	Bombardier	44 EMU vehicles
April 2008	0	—	—	—
May 2008	0	—	—	—
June 2008	0	—	—	—
July 2008	0	—	—	—
August 2008	0	—	—	—
September 2008	1	269	Alstom	106 EMU vehicles
October 2008	0	—	—	—
November 2008	0	—	—	—
December 2008	0	—	—	—

255 of the HLOS carriages were on order when the rolling stock plan was published in January 2008, bringing the total now in order to 423.

Speed Limits

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many roads in (a) Leicester East constituency and (b) England have a speed limit of 20 mph. [253858]

Jim Fitzpatrick: This information is not held by the Department. Local traffic authorities are responsible for setting local speed limits and have had powers to introduce 20 mph speed limits and 20 mph zones without seeking the approval of the Secretary of State since 1999. There is no requirement for local authorities to inform the Department when a speed limit is changed.

Speed Limits: Advertising

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much the Government has spent on television and radio advertisements to reduce speeding in (a) the last 12 months and (b) the last five years. [253859]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Speeding is a major factor in road safety, contributing to 727 deaths in 2007. Measures to prevent speeding on our roads are in the fields of enforcement, engineering and education including advertising.

The following table provides the amount spent on television and radio advertisements to reduce speed in each of the last five years.

TV and radio media spend

	TV	Radio
2004-05	1,186	477
2005-06	1,223	496

Speed Limits: Cameras

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what alternatives to enforcement cameras are available to reduce the speed of motor vehicles; and if he will make a statement. [253012]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Speeding is a major factor in road safety, contributing to 727 deaths in 2007.

Traffic calming measures are available to local highway authorities to reduce vehicle speeds on their roads. It is for the local authority to decide which measure would be the most effective in achieving safe and appropriate vehicle speeds in their area based on their knowledge of the local road network.

The Department for Transport provides guidance to local highways authorities on a wide range of traffic calming measures designed to reduce vehicle speeds in a variety of circumstances. The Department's latest technical guidance on traffic calming, Local Transport Note (LTN) 1/07 Traffic Calming, was published in March 2007. This provides local authorities with advice on the design and use of traffic calming measures and brings together in one comprehensive document a summary of relevant research.

James Duddridge: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many speed cameras are in use in (a) England and Wales, (b) Essex and (c) Southend. [254136]

Jim Fitzpatrick [holding answer 3 February 2009]: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer given to the hon. Member for Beverley and Holderness (Mr. Stuart) on 28 January 2009, Official Report, columns 537-38W. It should be noted that separate information for Southend is not held.

James Duddridge: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of speed cameras in improving road safety in Southend. [254138]

Jim Fitzpatrick [holding answer 3 February 2009]: The Department for Transport has not assessed the effectiveness of speed cameras in improving road safety in Southend. However, cameras operated by the Essex Safety Camera Partnership under the National Safety Camera Programme which ended on 31 March 2007 have proved to be very effective. Fatal casualties decreased by an average of 43 per cent. at fixed camera sites and killed or seriously injured casualties decreased by an average of 51 per cent. At mobile camera sites fatal casualties reduced by 42 per cent. and killed or seriously injured casualties decreased by an average of 22 per cent.

SS Richard Montgomery

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent assessment he has made of the state of the wreck of SS Richard Montgomery in the Thames Estuary. [254477]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The most recent assessment of the wreck was made in October 2008 using a high resolution multibeam sonar survey and laser scanning techniques. The data gathered during this exercise are now being analysed.

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what representations he has received on proposals to dredge the River Thames in the vicinity of the wreck of SS Richard Montgomery; and if he will make a statement. [254530]

Jim Fitzpatrick [holding answer 5 February 2009]: It is not proposed to dredge the River Thames in the vicinity of the wreck of the SS Richard Montgomery.

Taunton-Penzance Railway Line: Electrification

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether he has made an assessment of (a) the advantages and (b) the disadvantages of electrification of the main railway line between Taunton and Penzance; and if he will make a statement. [253694]

Paul Clark: Electrification makes most sense on busier routes, such as the Midland main line and parts of the Great Western main line, where the high cost of installing new electrification infrastructure can be offset by the lower costs of running electric trains.

A cross-industry working group led by Network Rail is assessing the case for electrifying a wide range of lines. The group is expected to publish its conclusions at the end of March.

Train Operating Companies

Mr. Tom Harris: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) what representations have been made to him by the Association of Train Operating Companies in support of changes to franchise service level commitments that would allow a reduction in services; [253344]

(2) what subjects were discussed at his meeting with representatives of the Association of Train Operating Companies on 20 January 2009. [253345]

Paul Clark: The Secretary of State has regular meetings with representatives of the Association of Train Operating Companies (ATOC) and the train operating companies themselves. The 20 January meeting, as is usually the case, covered a range of issues that affect the railway. ATOC have made no representations to reduce services by way of alterations to existing franchise service level commitments.

Transport: Costs

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much transport infrastructure maintenance cost the public purse in each year from 2003 to 2008. [253182]

Paul Clark: The following details Department for Transport grants to local authorities for maintenance of local roads and detrunking programmes.

2007-08	818
2006-07	757
2005-06	742

In 2005-06, 2006-07 and 2007-08 DfT also provided Nexus with capital grants of £4.180 million, £4.305 million, £4.391 million respectively for maintenance and renewals on the Tyne and Wear Metro. For previous years, funding was provided as a single grant for revenue with no separately identifiable maintenance element.

In addition to the funding detailed, local authorities receive other funding through various Government grants, business rates and council taxes. How much of this funding is spent on maintaining transport infrastructure or other public services is a matter for local decisions. The Department for Communities and Local Government publishes a set of tables detailing local authority expenditure using information collected directly from local authorities.

DfT also provides revenue and capital support to the rail industry, which is in the private sector. This funding is not generally linked to particular areas of spending, and so it is not possible to produce a figure for the amount of the funding support that is for infrastructure maintenance.

Highways Agency

2007-08	879
2006-07	850
2005-06	852
2003-04	726

The expenditure figures are for maintenance on the strategic road network managed and maintained by the Highways Agency. This includes renewal of the road surface and repairs to structures, as well as routine maintenance such as gully clearing, white lining, cleaning and winter maintenance. Costs excluded are those associated with our PFI contracts and our traffic and incident management service.

Expenditure figures have been adjusted to account for spend relating to roads trunked or detrunked in the financial year.

Transport: Repairs and Maintenance

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what projects his Department has undertaken to extend public transport infrastructure since 2003; and what measures have been taken to ensure that the infrastructure is adequately maintained over that period. [253183]

Paul Clark: The following table gives a breakdown of all Local Major Public Transport schemes supported by the Department for Transport. It does not include improvements to, or extensions of the road network, unless these are specifically for the purposes of public transport. Officials are in regular communication with local authority counterparts and measures are included in agreements of funding to ensure that maintenance is satisfactory. My earlier answer (UIN 235182) also showed the considerable amount of money that the Department provides for maintenance of the existing network.

Travel

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what percentage of leisure journeys by (a) rail, (b) car and (c) bus or coach were made by people aged (i) under 16, (ii) between 18 and 19, (iii) between 20 and 24, (iv) between 25 and 34, (v) between 35 and 44, (vi) between 45 and 59, (vii) between 60 and 64, (viii) between 65 and 69 and (ix) 70 years and over in each year since 1997. [253844]

Paul Clark: The figures provided as follows are from the National Travel Survey and reflect the percentage of leisure journeys made in Great Britain by age and main mode from 1996-98 to 2006. The National Travel Survey is readily available from:

Notes:

1. Leisure includes: Visiting friends at private home, visiting friends elsewhere, entertainment/public activity, sport: participate, holiday: base, day trip and other inc. just walk.

2. The sample size of the National Travel Survey was increased from 2002 which enables single years to be presented. Prior to 2002 data are shown for three year periods because of the smaller sample sizes, and for surface rail a larger number of survey years have been aggregated due to the small number of these types of trips.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Agriculture: Research

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what funding his Department has allocated for agricultural research and development in each of the last five years. [254714]

Mr. Michael Foster: The Department for International Development (DFID) is a major funder of international agricultural research. Details for the last five years are as follows:

	£ million
2003-04	29.6

	£ million
2004-05	37.7
2005-06	35.6
2006-07	35.3
2007-08	38.3

Democratic Republic of Congo: Overseas Aid

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what recent assessment he has made of the (a) recent humanitarian situation in the Democratic Republic of Congo and (b) adequacy of the (i) UK's and (ii) international community's long-term aid efforts; and if he will make a statement. [254115]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The humanitarian situation remains grave with up to 1.3 million displaced in eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC) and many conflict affected communities in need of emergency assistance. According to the UN, almost 130,000 people in Province Orientale have been recently displaced by the Lord's Resistance Army (LRA) attacks and almost 300 killed in January as Joint DRC/Ugandan/South Sudan military operations are underway. There are also Joint Rwandan and DRC military operations in North Kivu to tackle the Democratic Liberation Forces of Rwanda (FDLR). Humanitarian access and protection of civilians remain key areas of concern. John Holmes, UN Under-Secretary General and Emergency Relief Co-ordinator will be visiting DRC between 6-10 February to assess the humanitarian response and protection concerns in North Kivu and Province Oriental.

The UK Government are a major donor to DRC and will provide £230 million between 2009-10 and 2010-11. We have developed a development programme which responds to the needs and constraints of the country, balancing meeting short-term needs (e.g. humanitarian assistance) with helping to lay the foundation for long-term development. We have worked closely with the international community to develop a joint donor framework and donor co-ordination is slowly improving. Given the high levels of poverty DRC remains under-funded overall. However, there are currently significant operational constraints to absorbing further aid.

Departmental Overtime

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much his Department paid to staff in overtime payments in each of the last three financial years. [254028]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: The cost of overtime payments paid to DFID staff in each of the last three financial years is as follows:

	Cost of overtime payments to DFID staff (£)
2005-06	406,602.71
2006-07	392,890.25
2007-08	482,712.51

Economic Situation

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what recent discussions his Department has had with outside organisations to discuss policy on reducing the effect of the recession on matters within his Department's responsibility. [254059]

Mr. Thomas: Ministers and Officials at the Department for International Development (DFID) have regular engagements with outside organisations including relevant Government Departments on a range of issues relating to the economy.

Equality

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development who in his Department (a) has line management responsibility for the Director General Diversity Champion and (b) is responsible for making diversity plans publicly available. [253736]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: Line management responsibility for the Director General Diversity Champion in the Department for International Development rests with the Permanent Secretary. A diversity team in Human Resources Division is responsible for ensuring that the Department's diversity plans are published on our external website.

India: Irrigation

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what funding his Department has given to major irrigation projects in the Andhra Pradesh region of India. [254619]

Mr. Michael Foster: The Department for International Development (DFID) has not provided any funding in direct support of major irrigation projects in the state of Andhra Pradesh.

However, DFID has provided £39 million to the Government of Andhra Pradesh for community-based water management through the Andhra Pradesh Rural Livelihoods Project (June 1999 to December 2007). Technical support, worth a further £147,000, has been provided to increase the ability of the Andhra Pradesh state Government irrigation department to effectively manage irrigation systems in the state.

Inland Waterways

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development to which UN-sponsored conventions on watercourses the UK (a) is and (b) is not a signatory; and what plans he has to sign such conventions to which the UK is not presently a signatory. [253851]

Mr. Michael Foster: There are two principal UN sponsored conventions that deal with freshwater: the UN Conventions of the Non-Navigational Uses of International Watercourses (1997); and the UN Economic Commission for Europe, Convention on the Protection and Use of Transboundary Watercourses and International Lakes (1992).

The UK has not signed, ratified or acceded to the UN Convention on the Non-Navigational Uses of International Watercourses Convention and has no current plans to do so. To date, 16 countries have signed this convention (out of 35 required for it to enter into force) and there are 15 parties to the convention. DFID is currently working with WWF-UK to review the international architecture that supports water resources management, including the potential role for the convention.

The UK is a signatory to the UN Economic Commission for Europe, Convention on the Protection and Use of Transboundary Watercourses and International Lakes, 1992, but has not ratified it. Ratification would be led by the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (DEFRA).

Other key conventions that make specific reference to water include the UN Convention to Combat Desertification in Countries Experiencing Serious Drought and/or Desertification, particularly in Africa (UNCCD). The UK signed the UNCCD in 1994 and ratified in 1996.

Malawi: Diplomatic Service

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what the entertainment allowance was for his Department's office in Malawi in the last financial year for which figures are available. [254029]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The Department for International Development's Malawi office forecasted spend on office entertainment was £3,000 for the financial year 2007-08. Of this, £2,384 was spent.

TREASURY

Agriculture: Subsidies

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the UK's net financial contribution to funding the Common Agricultural Policy in (a) 2008-09 and (b) 2009 to 2011. [256103]

Ian Pearson: The United Kingdom makes its contributions to the EC Budget as a whole and not to individual expenditure areas within it. The Government publish forecasts of UK gross, after taking account of the UK abatement, and net contributions to the EC Budget in their annual European Community Finances White Paper. The 2009 White Paper will be published later this year and will include forecasts for the period 2008-09 to 2010-11.

Apprentices

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer with reference to the Answer of 22 May 2008, Official Report, column 434W, on apprentices, what progress has been made in increasing the number of apprentices in his Department and its agencies; and how many apprentices his Department and its agencies employ. [251925]

Angela Eagle: Since the previous question raised by the hon. Member, HM Treasury and its agencies have had no apprenticeships or advanced apprenticeships in place. Efforts are made to raise awareness of the programmes available and HM Treasury and its agencies will continue to seek to attract potential candidates to apprenticeship schemes including with our outsourced suppliers.

Methods used to promote the advantages of the apprenticeships and trying to recruit to the Government Pathway scheme include circulating literature and holding promotional events with external suppliers. The lack of take-up can be attributed to the highly skilled workforce that is already in place. A recent sample of HM Treasury and Office of Government Commerce colleagues found 98.6 per cent. of respondents were qualified to level 2 or above. This suggests the pool of potential applicants for apprenticeships is relatively small.

Banks: Audit

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) which banks regulated by the Financial Services Authority received a qualified audit report on their 2007-08 accounts; [254945]

(2) which banks regulated by the Financial Services Authority bought consultancy services from their auditors in the last two years. [255255]

Ian Pearson: The information requested is published in the annual reports of the individual institutions and is available in the public domain.

Banks: Directors

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will review the law on banking as it relates to (a) the fiduciary duties of directors and (b) the penalties for acting in ways which are negligent or reckless. [250208]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 22 January 2009]: It is important that any shortcomings identified in the management of banks are addressed to ensure proper governance of UK financial institutions.

Recent improvements in practice and supervision include the changes proposed to the FSA's approved persons regime (CP08/25) that will better allow the FSA to assess the fitness and propriety of directors of parent holding companies that control major UK banks. The fiduciary duties of directors and the consequences of breach of these duties are set out in company law.

Banks: Finance

Mr. Mudie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer with reference to the Statement of 13 October 2008, Official Report, columns 539-472, on financial markets, which institutions have taken up (a) the Government scheme for new lending between banks and (b) the £37 billion made available for bank recapitalisation; and what assessment he has made of the effect of these arrangements on levels of inter-bank lending. [250661]

Ian Pearson: RBS Group plc, Lloyds TSB plc and HBOS Group plc have announced the terms on which they are participating in the Government's recapitalisation scheme. Details are set out in the Placing and Open Offer Agreements that are available in the Libraries of both Houses of Parliament.

These banks are also eligible to use the Government's Credit Guarantee Scheme (CGS), under which up to £250 billion of bank lending will be guaranteed. Participating banks have accessed some £100 billion of funding under the CGS so far. A list of participating institutions is published by the Debt Management Office, at http://www.dmo.gov.uk/index.aspx?page=CGS/CGSEligible.

Figures for individual banks are confidential. As the Chancellor of the Exchequer noted on 19 January, these guarantees have been successful in helping to bring down the inter-bank lending rate.

Banks: Government Assistance

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what financial sum the Government has allocated for the (a) Special Liquidity Scheme, (b) Credit Guarantee Scheme, (c) Bank Recapitalisation Plan, (d) Homeowner Mortgage Support Scheme, (e) Working Capital Scheme for SMEs, (f) Enterprise Finance Guarantee, (g) Capital for Enterprise Fund and (h) Banking Plan; how much has been spent on each scheme to date; and whether the funding for each scheme will be provided from (a) borrowing and (b) quantitative easing. [250374]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 22 January 2009]: The breakdown of the allocations is as follows:

(a) At least £200 billion will be made available to banks in exchange for high quality assets. The Bank of England will disclose the final amount in due course.

(b) Up to £250 billion of bank lending will be guaranteed. These are not funds disbursed by the Government—all guarantees provided under the Credit Guarantee Scheme are contingent liabilities. Participating banks have accessed some £100 billion of funding under the CGS so far.

(c) Up to £50 billion has been made available in the Government's recapitalisation scheme. The Government have invested £19.97 billion in RBS and £16.96 billion in Lloyds TSB/HBOS.

(d) The Government are still working on the final design of the scheme. £3million has provisionally been allocated for costs in 2008-09, with further allocations yet to be finalised. No funds have been spent on the scheme to date.

(e) The WCS scheme is designed to break even but in the event that additional costs arise, we have given BERR additional flexibility to manage its resources effectively. This will ensure that up to £225 million is available should any costs arise. No funds have been spent on the scheme to date.

(f) £130 million has been allocated to the scheme which has started lending to businesses from reprioritisation within the BERR's departmental expenditure limit (DEL) and access to the HMT Reserve. No funds have been spent on the scheme to date.

(g) Up to £50 million will be made available from within BERR's departmental expenditure limit. No funds have been spent on the scheme to date.

(h) Up to £50 billion will be made available under the Bank of England asset purchase facility. With respect to the Asset Protection Scheme, the Government will publish further details by the last week of February.

Overall, the liabilities taken on will be backed by financial assets and fees will be charged for guarantees, safeguarding the taxpayers' interests.

Banks: Loans

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer on how many occasions since 2000 the accounts of a UK bank have been qualified by the auditors on grounds arising from concerns about loans made to (a) entities and (b) individuals overseas whose ability to repay was questionable. [250207]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 22 January 2009]: The directors of a UK financial institution are required to write down a loan in their accounts when they have doubts about the collectability of a loan (whether made to a domestic or offshore individual or entity).

If the auditor believes directors have understated or inappropriately disclosed the write down it must provide an emphasis of matter (if inadequate) or qualification (if misleading) in its audit report.

Audit reports and the qualifications they contain are published in conjunction with entities financial statements and filed at Companies House. No central database recording this class of audit qualifications is maintained.

Banks: Regulation

Chris Huhne: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what statutory powers there are to disbar an individual from practising as a banker; and in what circumstances they may be used. [252758]

Ian Pearson: Anyone carrying on regulated activities (such as accepting deposits) must be authorised under the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000.

Under section 56 of the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 (FSMA), the FSA can make an order prohibiting an authorised person from performing a specified or any regulated activity if it appears that the authorised person is not a fit and proper person to perform the functions of that regulated activity. The FSA also have power, under section 45 of FSMA, to cancel an authorised person's permission to carry out a regulated activity (and subsequently to withdraw their authorised status under section 33) if the grounds in section 45(1) of FSMA are satisfied.

Section 59 of FSMA sets out the requirement that a person carrying out a "controlled function" on behalf of an authorised person must be approved by the FSA. Under Section 63 of FSMA, the FSA may withdraw a person's approved status if it considers that the person is not fit and proper to perform the "controlled function".

Bradford and Bingley: Mortgages

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the estimated average date of redemption is of mortgages held as a result of the Bradford and Bingley acquisition. [254584]

Ian Pearson: The publicly-owned part of Bradford and Bingley is managed at arm's length from Government on commercial principles. It is a matter for the company's management to release specific business updates or provide any required disclosures in its annual report and accounts.

Child Tax Credit

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) how many people have received child tax credits in (a) the UK, (b) the North East, (c) the Tees Valley and (d) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency in each year since they were introduced; [254912]

(2) how much was paid out in child tax credits in (a) the UK, (b) the North East, (c) the Tees Valley and (d) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency in each year since they were introduced. [254913]

Mr. Timms: Estimates of the average number of families benefiting from tax credits including information on average annual entitlements in each Government office region, local authority and parliamentary constituency, based on final family circumstances and incomes, are available in the HMRC publication "Child and Working Tax Credits Statistics Finalised annual awards. Geographical analyses", for each relevant year. These publications are available on the HMRC website at:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/personal-tax-credits/cwtc-geog-stats.htm.

Child Trust Fund

Mr. Kemp: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what average payment has been made by parents into existing child trust fund accounts in (a) Houghton and Washington East constituency, (b) Sunderland, (c) the North East and (d) England in each year since the scheme's inception. [254009]

Ian Pearson: HMRC's Detailed Distributional Analysis, including details of average contributions made by parents and others in all years for which figures are available, was published on 6 November 2008. Geographically this data is only available at Government office region level and can be viewed on the HM Revenue and Customs' website at:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/child_trust_funds/dda-oct08.pdf.

The average contribution into a Child Trust Fund account registered in England was £261 in 2006-07 and £283 in 2007-08.

Delivery Unit

Simon Hughes: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recommendations were made to the Prime Minister by the Prime Minister's Delivery Unit between 1 July and 31 December 2008. [255392]

Yvette Cooper: In line with normal practices regarding PMDU advice to Ministers, the unit's recommendations to the Chancellor are never put in the public domain.

Departmental Contracts

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer with reference to the Written Ministerial Statement of 25 November 2008, Official Report, columns 47-48WS, on departmental expenditure limit (2008-09), what consultancy work required a transfer of £250,000 to the Prime Minister's Delivery Unit; and what consultancy firm or firms carried out this work. [250566]

Yvette Cooper: When PMDU transferred from the Cabinet Office to HMT in 2007, the remit of the unit changed significantly to include development of PSA policy and oversight of the delivery of the 30 key government PSAs. The unit's budget and staff levels were increased to reflect these two additional responsibilities. The Cabinet Office agreed to make a £250,000 contribution to cover part of the additional staff costs. When the money was transferred to HMT it was recorded as being for consultancy when it should have been recorded as an increase in the staff budget.

Departmental Correspondence

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many letters awaiting a reply from his Department have been waiting for more than his Department's target response period. [253198]

Angela Eagle: The Cabinet Office annually publishes a report to Parliament on the performance of departments in replying to Members' correspondence, which is available in the Library of the House.

Departmental Public Appointments

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer which of the public appointments for which his Department is responsible are due to be (a) renewed and (b) filled in the next 24 months; what the (i) remit, (ii) salary, (iii) political restriction, (iv) eligibility requirement and (v) timetable for each appointment is; and what records his Department keeps in respect of such appointments. [254231]

Angela Eagle: Information on appointments made by the Treasury is published in the annual departmental report, which can be accessed via the Treasury website:

More detailed information about individual appointments is set out in the relevant body's Annual Report. Vacancies may be advertised on the Cabinet Office Public Appointments website at

The process for making a public appointment, including guidance on political activity and eligibility criteria, follows the Cabinet Office publication "Making and Managing Public Appointments". For appointments regulated by the Commissioner for Public Appointments, the appointments process also complies with the "Code of Practice for Ministerial Appointments to Public Bodies". Copies are in the Libraries of the House.

Departmental Recycling

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much (a) paper, (b) plastic and (c) other waste was produced by his Department in each of the last three years; and what proportion of such waste was recycled. [252869]

Angela Eagle: HM Treasury is committed to recycling and reducing all forms of waste. Full information about waste and recycling, including volume by building, can be found in the HM Treasury Annual Report 2007-08, a copy of which can be found in the Library.

Departmental Training

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much his Department spent on digital media training courses provided by the Internet Advertising Bureau in 2008; how many such training sessions were held in 2008; and how many staff in his Department attended at least one such training course. [252264]

Angela Eagle: The Treasury's accounting system does not hold any record of spending with the Internet Advertising Bureau in 2007-08 or so far in the 2008-09 financial year.

Economic and Monetary Union

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when the Local Government Euro Preparations Working Group last met. [252468]

Ian Pearson: A meeting between local authorities and central Government officials to discuss euro preparations took place in September 2006.

Excise Duties: Alcoholic Drinks

Mr. Amess: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will review of the effect of his Department's alcohol excise policy on social clubs; and if he will make a statement. [255097]

Angela Eagle: As with all tax policy decisions, we will be monitoring the impact of alcohol duty increases on a range of factors, including retail outlets.

Excise Duties: Beer

Mr. Amess: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will freeze beer duty; and if he will make a statement. [255099]

Angela Eagle: Decisions on alcohol duty rates will be made by the Chancellor as part of the Budget process.

Gold and Foreign Exchange Reserves

Chris Huhne: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how foreign currency swaps undertaken by the Bank of England are reported in official figures, with particular reference to reporting on foreign exchange reserves. [252756]

Ian Pearson: Foreign currency swaps undertaken by the Bank of England with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York are reported in the Bank Return (within 'other liabilities') and in Bank Stats (Table D5.2, Bank of England foreign currency liabilities, within 'other liabilities') published on the Bank's website. Such swaps do not form part of foreign exchange reserves.

http://www.bankofengland.co.uk/publications/bankreturn/2009/090121cs.pdf

http://www.bankofengland.co.uk/statistics/ms/2007/Dec/tabd5.1.xls

Chris Huhne: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether the UK authorities activated their swap arrangements with (a) the US Federal Reserve and (b) the European Central Bank on Friday 10 October 2008. [252757]

Ian Pearson: On 10 October 2008 the Bank of England entered into an $8.484 billion overnight swap and a $29.998 billion one week swap with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Details can be found in the Bank of England market notice 'Result of US Dollar Repo Operations' of 10 October 2008.

http://www.bankofengland.co.uk/markets/money/documentation/usdreporesult081010.pdf

Chris Huhne: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what (a) contractual and (b) informal swap arrangements there are between the Bank of England and (i) the European Central Bank and (ii) the US Federal Reserve; what estimate he has made of the proportion of the UK financial system's short-term liabilities which could be covered by such arrangements; and if he will make a statement. [252759]

Ian Pearson: The Bank of England has a contractual swap arrangement with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. The existing swap line is such that there is no fixed limit to the amount of dollar liquidity that can be supplied to the system.

Details can be found in the Bank of England news releases 'Coordinated Central Bank Action to Improve US$ Liquidity' of 18 September, 'Coordinated Central Bank Action to Address Pressures in Global Money Markets' of 7 October, 'US Dollar Repo Operations' of 19 December, and market notice 'US Dollar Repo Operations' of 17 October 2008.

Private swap arrangements with other central banks may be put in place in appropriate circumstances, but the details may be kept confidential between the parties concerned.

Inheritance Tax

Mr. Gauke: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the full-year cost to the Exchequer for (a) 2009-10, (b) 2010-11 and (c) 2011-12 of raising the inheritance tax threshold to £1 million. [251168]

Mr. Timms: The cost of increasing the inheritance tax threshold to £1 million with effect from April 2009 is estimated at £500 million in 2009-10, £1.2 billion in 2010-11 and £1.3 billion in 2011-12.

Insolvency

Mr. Amess: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will estimate the loss to the economy caused by the insolvency of (a) large and (b) medium-sized businesses during the 2008-09 financial year; which businesses declared themselves insolvent during this period; and if he will make a statement. [247993]

Mr. Timms: The Government publish two economic forecasts per year, which are based on all relevant forecast factors and evidence. Although consistent with other forecasters, the economic forecast does not include a forecast of insolvencies by large or medium-size businesses. The Government last published a forecast in the pre-Budget report 2008 (Cm 7484) on 24 November and will publish an updated forecast at Budget 2009.

The Insolvency Service does not maintain a named list of insolvent companies. Companies House holds records of all registered companies on their registers, including those in insolvency and dissolution. However, these could not identify those which are "large" and "medium-sized" businesses, nor would a full record of all insolvent companies be available for the financial year 2008-09 until some time after the end of the year.

Members: Correspondence

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to reply to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire dated 11 November 2008 on pay for PCS members. [255350]

Yvette Cooper: I replied to the hon. Member on 19 December. A further copy has been sent to his office.

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) when he plans to reply to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire dated 14 October 2008 on small business costs, PO Ref: 1/61608/2008; [255351]

(2) when he plans to reply to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire dated 6 November 2008 on charities, PO Ref: 1/62894/2008. [255353]

Ian Pearson: Due to the large volume of correspondence received on these issues there has been a delay in sending some responses. The Financial Services Secretary hopes to be in a position to reply to the hon. Member shortly.

Mortgages: Arrears

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the number of mortgage accounts that were in arrears on (a) 1 April 2008, (b) 1 June 2008 and (c) 1 December 2008. [254204]

Ian Pearson: The Government do not hold these figures. The Financial Services Authority (FSA) publishes quarterly data on residential mortgage lending, covering the period from the first quarter of 2007, available at:

http://www.fsa.gov.uk/pages/Doing/Regulated/Returns/IRR/statistics/index.shtml

Pensions: Private Sector

John Mason: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the effect on private pensions of the recent stock market downturn. [255180]

Ian Pearson: The effect on private pensions of the recent stock market downturn varies with the share of assets individual schemes assign to equities. In general UK pension funds have substantially reduced their exposure to equities in recent years.

The Government have taken a number of steps to support good quality pension provision and are committed to helping scheme sponsors through this difficult time within the framework provided by the Pensions Regulator and the Pension Protection Fund.

We will continue to work with groups representing pension schemes, employers and scheme members to consider what further steps can be taken to support schemes.

Public Bodies: Finance

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many organisations providing public services in Wales have received a total of £200,000 or more from public funds in the last five years. [254706]

Yvette Cooper: In devolved areas of spending it is for the Welsh Assembly government to decide what organisations it funds. In reserved areas of spending it is for the relevant Government Department to decide what organisations it funds.

Public Works Loan Board

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much was owed to the Public Works Loan Board at the end of each of the last five financial years by (a) the Scottish Government and (b) parish councils in England. [248042]

Angela Eagle: The Public Works Loan Board lends only to local authorities in England, Scotland and Wales, therefore the Scottish Government has no outstanding debt with the PWLB.

The balance outstanding to the Public Works Loan Board in respect of parish and town councils in England at the end of each of the last five years was as follows:

	Balance of principal (£)
2003-04	66,237,455.29
2004-05	69,267,400.71
2005-06	75,419,106.37
2006-07	77,340,091.21
2007-08	81,016,768.50

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much was lent by the Public Works Loan Board to (a) the Scottish Government and (b) parish councils in England in each of the last five financial years. [248043]

Angela Eagle: The Public Works Loan Board lends only to local authorities in England, Scotland and Wales therefore the Scottish Government has no outstanding debt with the PWLB.

The total amounts lent to the parish and town councils in England in each of the last five years are as follows:

	Amount (£)
2003-04	11,709,583
2004-05	8,210,406
2005-06	11,737,008
2006-07	7,964,701
2007-08	9,415,688

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much was paid to the Public Works Loan Board by (a) the Scottish Government and (b) parish councils in England in each of the last five years. [248044]

Angela Eagle: Where PWLB debt is repaid by Scottish local authorities prematurely using proceeds from the sale of housing stock and where there is overhanging debt, the Scottish Government often contributes to the total sum repayable to the PWLB. Payments received from the Scottish Government by PWLB in this respect in each of the last five years are as follows:

	Principal	Interest	Premium	£ Total
2006-07	80,148,935.93	0	27,468,125.43	107,617,061.36
2007-08	71,226,117.65	0	18,354,399.65	89,580,517.30

Public Works Loan Board receipts from parish town councils in England in each of the last five years are as follows:

	Principal	Accrued interest	Premium	£ Total

2005-06	5,592,703.84	4,317,054.09	173,036.58	10,082,794.51
2006-07	5,855,311.45	4,285,239.25	47,130.43	10,187,681.13
2007-08	5,831,642.47	4,583,982.74	37,996.42	10,453,621.63

Repossession Orders

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many properties were repossessed in (a) England and (b) North Yorkshire in each year since 2004. [254203]

Ian Pearson: The Government do not hold these figures. The Council of Mortgage Lenders (CML) publishes the total numbers of properties taken into possession in the UK, available at:

http://www.cml.org.uk/cml/statistics.

Research and Development Tax Credit

Gregory Barker: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the level of uptake of research and development tax credits by (a) clean technology companies and (b) green technology companies was in 2008-09. [255088]

Angela Eagle: Information on R&D tax credits is not yet available for 2008-09. The most recent National Statistics, published on the HMRC website on 19 December 2008, cover financial years up to 2006-07.

Information on claims for R&D tax credits by clean tech and green tech companies is not available because the data are broken down by industry sector using the UK Standard Industrial Classification of Economic Activities (SIC), and clean tech and green tech are not identified as separate sectors in this classification.

Revenue and Customs: Complaints

Mr. David Hamilton: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many complaints his Department has received on the number of days between the date on which members of the public receive letters from HM Revenue and Customs and the date on the letter. [254517]

Mr. Timms: The information requested is not compiled centrally.

Revenue and Customs: North West

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what renovation and refurbishment works have been carried out on the HM Revenue and Customs' offices in (a) Blackburn and (b) St Helens in the last 12 months; and at what cost. [254759]

Mr. Timms: No renovation or refurbishment works have been carried out in HM Revenue and Customs' offices in Blackburn and St. Helens in the last 12 months.

Both of these offices are occupied under the terms of an estates private finance initiative (PFI) contract. Planned preventive and lifecycle maintenance will have been undertaken by HMRC's estates partner, Mapeley, who are responsible for maintenance of the sites to the required contractual accommodation standards.

Royal Bank of Scotland

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his policy is on answering parliamentary questions on (a) the Government's expenditure on and (b) the operations of RBS. [254541]

Ian Pearson: Treasury Ministers answer parliamentary questions about Government expenditure on RBS as fully and accurately as appropriate, consistent with the Department's responsibilities. Questions about the operations of RBS are a matter for the directors of the bank.

Smuggling

Mike Penning: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many offences of smuggling of illegal and counterfeit tobacco were recorded in each of the last five years. [253974]

Mr. Timms: The information requested is not available.

The following table shows the number of cases brought and the number of criminals sentenced for tobacco offences in each of the last five years.

	Cases brought	Number of people sentenced
2003-04	—	429
2004-05	—	204
2005-06	—	262
2006-07	237	299
2007-08	192	290

Valuation Office: Overseas Visits

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what overseas conferences have been attended by representatives of the Valuation Office Agency at public expense in the last 12 months; [252430]

(2) with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Bromley and Chislehurst, of 17 March 2008, Official Report, column 899W, on the Valuation Office: visits abroad, which overseas destinations have been visited by Valuation Office Agency staff since March 2008; how many visits were made to each destination; and what the purpose of each visit was. [252490]

Mr. Timms: The Valuation Office Agency (VOA) receives a number of requests to provide advice overseas. Where VOA participation is expected to be beneficial at an overseas conference or seminar some or all of the costs incurred are normally borne by the conference organisers.

Since March 2008 staff from the Valuation Office Agency have made the following visits:

Fully paid for by the event organisers;

One person visited Moscow as a Keynote speaker at Russian Society of Appraisers Conference; and

One person visited Kansas City to attend a meeting of the International Association of Assessing Officers to review mass appraisal courses and textbooks.

Costs paid by the VOA:

Five visits, consisting of one person each time, were made to Dublin to discuss valuation practice and procedures across England, Wales, Ireland and Scotland;

One person visited Toronto to attend the Mass Appraisal Valuation Symposium, partly paid for by the organisers;

One person visited Warsaw as a Keynote speaker at the European Valuers Conference;

One person visited Beijing to attend an International Property Tax Institute Conference, partly paid for by the organisers;

One person visited Adelaide as a Keynote speaker at the Australian Valuer General, Registrar General and Surveyor General's Conference, partly paid for by the organisers; and

One person visited Cannes to attend Gartner's Symposium / IT$^{\text{xpo}}$ 2008.

VAT

Mrs. May: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what estimate he has made of the average saving made by households in each income decile with people of working age as a result of the reduction in the rate of value added tax to 15 per cent. over the course of a year; [252977]

(2) what estimate he has made of the average saving which will be made by households in each income decile with people of working age with dependent children as a result of the reduction in the rate of value added tax to 15 per cent. over the course of a year; [252978]

(3) what estimate he has made of the average saving for pension age households in each income decile (a) mainly dependent on state benefits and (b) mainly dependent on other forms of income from the reduction in the standard rate of value added tax to 15 per cent. over the course of a year. [252979]

Mr. Timms: The benefit to a household from a reduction in VAT of 2.5 percentage points, net of increases to alcohol and tobacco duty, is, on average, £275. This amount is derived from HMRC revenue forecasts, and therefore cannot be used for analysis by decile and household type.

Household spending patterns vary widely within deciles and household types, so estimates of savings on such a basis should be treated with caution. This is exacerbated by there being greater sampling variability associated with estimates for deciles and groups of given household types due to the relatively small sample sizes.

However it is possible to infer the following estimates of the benefit of the VAT reduction by household type and income decile, based on figures for average expenditures on VAT published by the ONS in their article "The effects of taxes and benefits on household incomes, 2006-07".

The estimates assume the majority of the VAT reduction will be passed on to consumers in the form of lower prices in line with past experience, and that spending patterns remain unchanged.

VAT: Accountancy

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what proportion of valued added tax (VAT) registered traders who are eligible to use VAT cash accounting do not use it. [259051]

Mr. Timms: Businesses are not required to notify HMRC if they use cash accounting. As a result of research conducted in 2006, HMRC estimates that the scheme is used by at least one in three eligible businesses which would benefit from it. The scheme is already available to over 90 per cent. of the VAT registered population, but does not benefit businesses that already operate on a cash receipts basis such as retailers.

Welfare Tax Credits

Steve Webb: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the cost to the Exchequer of the increase in the tax credits income disregard from £2,500 to £25,000 in each financial year between 2009-10 and 2014-15; and if he will make a statement. [255659]

Mr. Timms: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Rayleigh (Mr. Francois) on 7 November 2006, Official Report, columns 1043-1044W.

Welfare Tax Credits: Chelmsford

Mr. Burns: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many claimants in West Chelmsford constituency were overpaid tax credits in each of the last five years for which figures are available. [254716]

Mr. Timms: Estimates of the number of families with tax credit awards, including information on overpayments by constituency, based on final family circumstances and incomes, for the years 2003-04, 2004-05, 2005-06 and 2006-07 are available in the HMRC publications "Child and Working Tax Credits Statistics Finalised Annual Awards. Supplement on Payments. Geographical Analyses", for each relevant year.

These publications are available on the HMRC website at:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/personal-tax-credits/cwtc-geog-stats.htm

Welfare Tax Credits: EC Nationals

Mr. Gale: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the amount of (a) child tax credit and (b) working tax credit paid to EU nationals in respect of family members resident in other EU member states in the last 12 months. [255297]

Mr. Timms: The information requested is not available for child tax credit. The working tax credit is not a family benefit within the scope of EC Regulation 1408/71 and it is therefore not payable in respect of a worker's family members resident in other EEA member states.

Welfare Tax Credits: Overpayments

Chris Grayling: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many individual cases of tax credit overpayment reclamation his Department has taken to court in (a) each year from 2006-07 and (b) each month of 2008-09 for which information is available; and what the average overpayment was. [249233]

Mr. Timms: HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) initiates court action only as a last resort. HMRC initiated 467 and 365 court actions for the recovery of tax credit overpayments through county court (England and Wales)[1], sheriffs court (Scotland) and magistrates court (Northern Ireland) in November and December 2008 respectively.

For information on earlier months and years, I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave to the hon. Member for Cardiff, Central (Jenny Willott) on 26 November 2008, Official Report, column 1926W.

Information on the total number of overpaid awards, and the aggregate amount overpaid, in 2006-07 is provided in the main aggregates table in the HMRC publication "Child and Working Tax Credits Statistics. Finalised Annual Awards. Supplement on Payments 2006-07". This publication is available on the HMRC website at:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/personal-tax-credits/cwtc-quarterly-stats.htm

Information on overpayments in 2007-08 is not yet available.

[1] For England and Wales, these figures relate only to actions commenced centrally and exclude actions commenced by local HMRC debt pursuit offices where it is not possible to readily disaggregate tax credit cases from the total number of local initiated court actions.

Welsh Language

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much (a) his Department and (b) its agencies spent on (i) translation and (ii) interpretation between English and Welsh in each year since 2000. [254200]

Angela Eagle [holding answer 4 February 2009]: No central record of spending on translations by language is held and the information could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

WOMEN AND EQUALITY

Charities

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality pursuant to the answer of 20 January 2009, Official Report, column 1312W, on charities, whether the Government Equalities Office plans to provide further funding to each of the charities referred to. [251979]

Maria Eagle: Decisions on any future funding to these or other charities will be announced in the usual way.

Departmental Buildings

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality what the location is of each office occupied by the Government Equalities Office which has been (a) newly occupied and (b) refurbished in the last 24 months; and what the floor area in square metres is of each. [251675]

Maria Eagle: The Government Equalities Office was established on 12 October 2007. It was based initially in Ashdown house, a Communities and Local Government building in Victoria street in London SW1. In February 2008, the GEO moved to Eland house, another CLG building, also in London SW1.

The GEO's area in Ashdown house was not refurbished during GEO's tenure and there are no plans to refurbish GEO's area in Eland house.

The GEO's floor area in Eland house is 372 sq m. No records exist of the floor area in Ashdown house but space there was less than it is now in Eland house.

Departmental Internet

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality from which providers the Government Equalities Office sources internet access. [251669]

Maria Eagle: The Government Equalities Office sources its internet access through Steria, the in-house provider for the Department of Communities and Local Government. Steria is, in turn, supplied by Cable and Wireless and the internet is accessed via the Government secure internet (GSI).

Departmental Public Appointments

Mr. Maude: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality which of the public appointments for which the Government Equalities Office is responsible are due to be (a) renewed and (b) filled in the next 24 months; what the (i) remit, (ii) salary, (iii) political restriction, (iv) eligibility requirement and (v) timetable for each appointment is; and what records the Government Equalities Office keeps in respect of such appointments. [254228]

Maria Eagle: The Government Equalities Office (GEO) sponsors two non-departmental public bodies (NDPBs): the Women's National Commission (WNC) an advisory NDPB, and the Equality and Human Rights Commission (EHRC) an Executive NDPB.

The WNC has a board and chair totalling 16 members. The existing terms of five of the commissioners are due to end in the summer of 2009. It is expected that recruitment of between two and five commissioners will take place during 2009.

The roles of the chair and 12 commissioners of the EHRC will be renewed or filled in the next 24 months. Remit, salary eligibility requirement and timetable have yet to be confirmed.

GEO complies fully with the Office of the Commissioner for Public Appointments (OCPA) guidance on political restrictions.

The remit, remuneration and further information about these posts will be made available via the public appointments website at:

http://www.publicappts-vacs.gov.uk and the GEO website at:

http://www.equalities.gov.uk

later this year.

Records and documentation evidence of these appointments will be retained by GEO for at least two years in accordance with guidelines from OCPA.

Departmental Recruitment

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality how many people aged over (a) 55 and (b) 60 years were recruited by the Government Equalities Office in 2007-08; and what percentage in each case this was of the number of new recruits. [251672]

Maria Eagle: The Government Equalities Office was established on 12 October 2007. Including those staff who came to us through the machinery of government changes that set up the GEO, in 2007-08 GEO recruited two staff over 55 years of age, representing 11 per cent. of new recruits, and one member of staff aged over 60 years, equivalent to 6 per cent. of new recruits.

Departmental Temporary Employment

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality with reference to the answer of 27 October 2008, Official Report, columns 688-89W, on departmental temporary employment, how many staff were recruited through each company in each year; and for how long on average staff recruited through these companies worked for the Department in each year. [242316]

Maria Eagle: With reference to the answer of 27 October 2008, Official Report, columns 688-89W, on departmental temporary staff, the total number of staff recruited through each company and the average length of contract, in weeks, is as follows:

Company	Number of staff recruited	Average contract length (Weeks)
Adecco	3	37
Brook Street UK Ltd.	13	26
Michael Page Associates	1	5
Morgan Hunt	4	17
Reed Employment Ltd.	13	14

Mass Media

Grant Shapps: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality what the cost of her Department's contracts with press monitoring services was in each year since its inception. [251215]

Maria Eagle: The Government Equalities Office was established on 12 October 2007. The Department for Work and Pensions met the costs of press monitoring services for the GEO from then until 31 March 2008. Since 1 April 2008, GEO has spent £11,428.25 on press monitoring services.

Political Parties: Finance

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Beckenham of 6 October 2008, Official Report, column 303W, on departmental procurement, what the purpose was of each of the three payments to political parties by the Equalities and Human Rights Commission. [252790]

Maria Eagle: The Commission has informed me that the three payments made by them, as referred to in the answer to the hon. Member for Beckenham (Mrs. Lait) of 6 October 2008, Official Report, column 303W, are related to charges for attending the 2007 annual party conferences. The Commission attended the conferences to build its profile with parliamentarians and key stakeholders and promote factual information about its work, to co-inside with the launch of the new Commission in October 2007.

Written Parliamentary Questions

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality how many and what proportion of questions for written answer on a named day have been answered on the day named in the 2008-09 session of Parliament to date. [251929]

Maria Eagle: My Department has received one named day question since the start of the current Session. The question could only be answered after collecting information from other Government Departments and the time taken to do this meant that GEO did not respond by the due date.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Bereavement Benefits

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when the bereavement payment lump sum was last increased; and what estimate his Department has made of the change in funeral costs which has taken place since that date. [252123]

Kitty Ussher: The bereavement payment was last increased in April 2001 with the introduction of the bereavement benefit scheme.

The Department does not hold information regarding the change in funeral costs since 2001.

Departmental Internet

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions which websites were operated by his Department in addition to its main website in the last five years. [251418]

Funeral Payments

Mr. Olner: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what definition his Department uses of respectful funeral, as referred to in his Department's technical guidance SB16; [253655]

(2) what expenses can be claimed by benefit claimants under Other Funeral Expenses as referred to in his Department's technical guidance SB16. [253656]

Kitty Ussher: There is no definition of a respectful funeral within the departmental guidance or in the legislation relating to funeral payments from the Social Fund. The person responsible for arranging the funeral may claim for items or services including:

the funeral director's fees church fee or minister's fee organist's fee flowers cost of an urn
hygienic treatment.

This is not a complete list of items and services that may be claimed under "other funeral expenses". A decision maker can award the necessary cost of certain specified items, including burial or cremation charges, in addition to an amount up to a limit of £700 for all other funeral expenses.

Housing Benefit

Lyn Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the expenditure which will arise as a result of the provision which makes excess payments of up to £15 to local housing allowance (LHA) claimants where their rent is less than the LHA rate applicable to their case in (a) 2008-09, (b) 2009-10 and (c) 2010-11. [252160]

Kitty Ussher: It has been estimated that the expenditure which will arise as a result of the provision which makes excess payments of up to £15 to local housing allowance claimants where their rent is less than the local housing allowance rate applicable to their case may be as follows:

	Estimated cost of excess (£ million)
2008-09	60
2010-11	240

It is important to note that these estimates are subject to a number of assumptions and estimates are sensitive to small changes in these assumptions.

Andrew Selous: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what his most recent estimate is of the amount of local housing allowance paid to tenants since April 2008 which has not been paid to landlords; and if he will make a statement. [253755]

Kitty Ussher [holding answer 2 February 2009]: The information is not yet available.

Incapacity Benefit: Forest of Dean

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the number of people in Forest of Dean constituency claiming incapacity benefit in respect of (a) mental and (b) physical impairments. [254526]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 5 February 2009]: The available information is in the following table.

Number of incapacity benefit/severe disablement allowance claimants in Forest of Dean constituency by mental or physical impairment—May 2008

	Number
Mental impairments	1,180
Physical impairments	1,830

Notes

1. To qualify for incapacity benefit/severe disablement allowance, claimants have to undertake a medical assessment of incapacity for work which is called the personal capability assessment. Therefore, the medical condition recorded on incapacity benefit/severe disablement allowance claim form does not itself confer entitlement to incapacity benefits, so, for example, the decision for a customer claiming incapacity benefit on grounds of mental or behavioural disorders would be based on their ability to carry out the range of activities in the personal capability assessment; or on the effects of any associated mental health problems. Causes of incapacity are based on the International Classification of Diseases, 10th Revision, published by the World Health Organisation.

2. Mental impairments are defined as organic, including symptomatic, mental disorders (F00-F09), mental and behavioural disorders due to psychoactive substance use (F10-F19), schizophrenia, scizotypal and delusional disorders (F20-F29), mood affective disorders (F30-F39), neurotic, stress related and somatoform disorders (F40-F48), behavioural syndromes associated with physiological disturbances and physical factors (F50-F59), disorders of adult personality and behaviour (F60-F69), mental retardation (F70-F79), disorders of psychological development (F80-F89), behavioural and emotional disorders with onset usually occurring in childhood and adolescence (F90-F98) and unspecified mental disorder (F99). All other medical conditions are included in the physical impairments category.

3. Figures are rounded to the nearest 10.

Mortgage Relief

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how many individuals have received support for mortgage interest in respect of mortgages taken out after October 2005 in each year since 2005-06; [253763]

(2) what his Department's net expenditure on mortgage interest support for those on income support with mortgages taken out after October 2005 has been in each year since 2005-06. [253766]

Kitty Ussher: The information requested is not available.

Post Office Card Account

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the answer of 14 January 2009, Official Report, columns 765-6W, on the Post Office card account, on what basis it was decided that the financial details of the contract will remain commercially confidential. [254963]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The financial details of the contract are subject to the normal principles of commercial confidentiality. It would not therefore be appropriate to make this public as this information relates to the commercial interest of the Department and Post Office Ltd.

Poverty: Children

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the Department's estimate is of the number and proportion of children who were (a) in poverty and whose parents were out of work and (b) who had moved out of poverty as a result of their parents moving into work in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [242185]

Kitty Ussher: The information on the number and proportion of children who were in poverty and whose parents were out of work is shown in the following table.

Number and risk of children living in households with incomes less than 60 per cent. of contemporary median household income whose parents are working age and not in work, before housing costs, United Kingdom

	Number (million)	Proportion (percentage)
2002-03	1.6	64
2003-04	1.5	61
2004-05	1.4	58
2005-06	1.4	58
2006-07	1.4	61

Notes:

1. These statistics are based on households below average income, sourced from the Family Resources Survey and Low Income Dynamics data, sourced from the British Household Panel Survey.

2. Small changes should be treated with caution as these will be affected by sampling error and variability in non-response.

3. The reference period for households below average income figures is single financial years.

4. The income measures used to derive the estimates shown employ the same methodology as the Department for Work and Pensions publication 'Households Below Average Income' series, which uses net disposable household income, adjusted (or "equivalised") for household size and composition, as an income measure as a proxy for standard of living.

5. For the households below average income series, incomes have been equivalised using OECD equalisation factors.

6. Numbers of children have been rounded to the nearest 100,000 children and proportions have been rounded to the nearest per cent.

7. Children have been counted as being in workless families where they are in lone parent families where the parent does not work or in couple families where both parents do not work.

8. Parents have been counted as being of working age if at least one is of working age (i.e. 64 or below for men, 59 or below for women).

Households Below Average Income

Information on the number and proportion of children who had moved out of poverty as a result of their parents moving into work is not available. Poverty is a complex and multidimensional issue with many different factors acting at the same time in moving individuals into or out of poverty.

The risk of a child being in a low income household in the United Kingdom in 2006-07 where one or more adult works is much lower at 14 per cent. than for children in workless families, where the equivalent proportion is 61 per cent. as shown in the table. Data from the Low Income Dynamics publication illustrate that an increase in the number of workers or full-time workers in a family with children greatly increases the likelihood of that household moving out of low income. The Low Income Dynamics paper is available in the Library.

Prisoners Release

Mr. Grieve: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much has been paid by his Department in subsistence payments to offenders on the end of custody licence scheme. [254027]

Mr. Hanson: I have been asked to reply.

I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 3 February 2008, Official Report, columns 1175-76W.

Unemployed

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many economically inactive people of working age wanted employment in each of the last five years. [254493]

Kevin Brennan: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated February 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking how many economically inactive people of working age wanted employment in each of the last five years. (254493)

The information requested is provided in the attached table. The estimates are consistent with those published in Table 13 of the Labour Market Statistics First Release Historical Supplement, which is available on the National Statistics website via the following link:

http://www.statistics.gov.uk/OnlineProducts/LMS_FR_HS.asp

The estimates are derived from the Labour Force Survey (LFS). As with any sample survey, estimates from the LFS are subject to a margin of uncertainty.

Economically inactive people[1] of working age[2] who want a job—three month period ending November, 2004 to 2008—United Kingdom, seasonally adjusted

	Total (thousand)
2004	2,016
2005	2,053
2006	2,102
2008[3]	*2,102

[1] Economically inactive people are neither in employment nor unemployed. The number of economically inactive people who want a job comprises: those who have not been looking for work in the last four weeks but who say that they would like to have a regular paid job; plus, those that have been looking for work but who were unable to start work within two weeks.

[2] Men aged 16-64 and women aged 16-59.

[3] Coefficients of Variation have been calculated as an indication of the quality of the estimates, as described below:

Guide to Quality:

The Coefficient of Variation (CV) indicates the quality of an estimate, the smaller the CV value the higher the quality. The true value is likely to lie within +/- twice the CV—for example, for an estimate of 200 with a CV of 5 per cent. we would expect the population total to be within the range 180-220.

Key Coefficient of Variation (CV) (%) Statistical robustness

* 0 = CV <5 Estimates are considered precise.

 5 = CV <10 Estimates are considered reasonably precise.

 10 = CV <20 Estimates are considered acceptable.

* CV = 20 Estimates are considered too unreliable for practical purposes.

Note:

It should be noted that the above estimates exclude people in most types of communal establishment (e.g. hotels, boarding houses, hostels, mobile home sites etc.)

Vacancies

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many job vacancies there were in (a) Vale of York constituency, (b) North Yorkshire and (c) England in (i) 2006, (ii) 2007 and (iii) 2008. [254271]

Kevin Brennan: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking how many job vacancies there were in (a) Vale of York constituency, (b) North Yorkshire and (c) England in (i) 2006, (ii) 2007 and (iii) 2008. (254271)

The Office for National Statistics estimates the number of vacancies from the Vacancy Survey, but estimates below UK are not available from this source.

An alternative source of information on job vacancies is administrative data from Jobcentre Plus. This data only includes job vacancies notified to Jobcentre Plus and consequently is inconsistent with the UK estimates from the Vacancy Survey; however geographical breakdowns of this data are available.

Table 1 attached, shows the number of live unfilled job vacancies held by Jobcentre Plus for the Vale of York constituency, North Yorkshire and England in December of 2006, 2007 and 2008. Figures from Jobcentre Plus for Great Britain, along with three month averages for the UK from the Vacancy Survey have also been included for comparison.

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the number of job vacancies in the East Riding of Yorkshire; and if he will make a statement. [254291]

Vocational Training

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what recent steps the Government has taken to provide training opportunities for people aged over 25 years. [253247]

Mr. Simon: I have been asked to reply.

People aged over 25 are eligible for all Government supported training for adults including apprenticeships. 27,200 adults aged 25 and over started an apprenticeship in 2007-08 and 16,800 between August and October in 2008-09. The Government are currently investing £4.5 billion in adult skills, through Train to Gain, Skills for Life and other work related training. There is now a legal right for all adults to get training up to national vocational qualification level 2 if they do not already have a qualification at this level.

The Department is also working with DWP to create a joined up employment and skills system that gives low-skilled and unemployed adults the skills and support they need to find sustained employment. The Employability Skills Programme has been designed to meet the complex needs of Jobcentre Plus customers, and Local Employment Partnerships aim to open up opportunities for people on benefits who are often overlooked in the labour market. The Government are making a reality of our commitment to integrate the employment and skills systems. The aim is that all of those out of work will get the help they need to address their skills needs, find employment and progress in work through continued skills development.

Winter Fuel Payments

Mr. Pope: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions on how many occasions those living within the postcodes BB1, BB4, BB5 and BB6 areas have qualified for cold weather payments since 1 October 2008. [251195]

Kitty Ussher: A cold weather payment is made to an eligible customer if the average temperature has been recorded as, or is forecast to be, 0°C or below over seven consecutive days at the weather station linked to the customer's postcode.

Eligible customers living in the postcodes BB1, BB4, BB5 and BB6 have qualified for cold weather payments twice since 1 October 2008 (based on the temperature criterion having been met up to 28 January 2009).

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions on how many occasions people living in postcode areas BB18, BB8 and BB9 have qualified for cold weather payments since 1 October 2008. [251703]

Kitty Ussher: A cold weather payment is made to an eligible customer if the average temperature has been recorded as, or is forecast to be, 0°C or below over seven consecutive days at the weather station linked to the customer's postcode.

Eligible customers living in the postcodes BB18, BB8 and BB9 have qualified for cold weather payments twice since 1 October 2008 (based on the temperature criterion having been met up to 28 January 2009).

Winter Fuel Payments: Maladministration

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (a) how many and (b) what proportion of cold weather payments have been paid in error in each year since the introduction of cold weather payments, broken down by reasons for error; and at what cost to the public purse the payments were made. [249448]

Kitty Ussher: Cold weather payments commenced in November 1988 but records are available only from the year 1999-2000 onwards.

While we do not hold the exact information requested in the PQ, the Department is able to provide summarised information that was reported in the Department for Work and Pensions Accounts from 1999-2000 to 2007-08 inclusive. During this period, cold weather payments totalling £87.382 million were paid out with £2,155.00 reported as being overpaid and the amount written off falling just below £1,000.00

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Adult Education

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Reading West of 28 January 2009, Official Report, column 594W, on vocational training: finance, what assessment he has made of the reasons for the increase in the number of learners aged 25 years and over in (a) 2004-05 and (b) 2005-06. [254451]

Mr. Simon [holding answer 5 February 2009]: The target audience for the Skills for Life strategy is adults in England with literacy and/or numeracy skills below Level 2 and this includes learners aged 25 years and over. The increase in the number of Skills for Life (literacy, language and numeracy) learners aged 25 years and over (and in all other age groups) in 2004-05 and 2005-06 was part of our Skills for Life strategy to improve the basic skills of 2.25 million adults between 2001 and 2010.

The strategy is based around boosting demand, ensuring capacity, raising standards and increasing learner achievement. The boosting demand element included work with employers to raise awareness of the issue and the successful 'Get On' campaign to encourage individuals to improve their skills. DIUS is refreshing its Skills for Life strategy and will soon be publishing a delivery document.

Apprentices

Simon Hughes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what estimate his Department has made of the number of apprenticeships there were in the public sector at 1 January 2009; and if he will make a statement. [255511]

Mr. Simon: In Quarter 3 2008, there were just under 10,000 people of working age[1] studying towards an apprenticeship in the public sector. This represents around 7 per cent. of those working age people in England studying towards an apprenticeship.

These data are taken from the most recent quarterly Labour Force Survey (LFS) which covers the period July to September (2008). Data up to 31 December 2008 will be available from 11 February.

[1] Men aged 16 to 64 and women aged 16 to 59

Apprentices: Cleveland

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many new (a) apprenticeships and (b) training places will be made available for the people in Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency in the next 12 months. [252552]

Mr. Simon: Information on projected apprenticeship volumes is available at national level only.

Table 1 shows FE and Skills participation for Middlesbrough and Redcar and Cleveland local authorities in 2007/08, the latest year for which we have fully audited information. This information is also available on the Data Service website, and was released alongside the post-16 education statistical first release, which was published on 18 December 2008:

www.thedataservice.org.uk/statistics

This information by parliamentary constituency is not available.

Table 1: FE and skills participation, Middlesbrough and Redcar and Cleveland local authorities, 2007/08 (provisional)

	Age
Local authority	16-18	19+	All learners
Middlesbrough	4,400	10,600	15,000
Redcar and Cleveland	4,800	12,000	16,900

Notes:
1. Volumes are rounded to the nearest hundred.
2. These figures include FE, University for Industry, WBL (including apprenticeships, Entry to Employment), Train to Gain and Adult Safeguarded Learning.
3. Final 2007/08 data will be published in March 2009.
4. This table uses learner volumes as a measure for comparative purposes. Full-year numbers are a count of the number of learners that participated at any point during the year.
5. Learners that are included in different data collections e.g. a learner undertaking an apprenticeship and a Train to Gain qualification, will be counted twice in this table.
6. Age is calculated based upon age as at 31 August of the academic year.
7. Local authority is based on the learner's home postcode.

Cumbria University: Finance

Mr. Jamie Reed: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (1) how much funding his Department has provided to help establish and develop the University of Cumbria; [255035]

(2) how much funding his Department is making available to continue the development of the University of Cumbria over the next three years. [255036]

Mr. Lammy: The Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE) has provided £10.3 million through its Strategic Development Fund to establish the University of Cumbria over a period of four years from 2007-08. In addition the university has received annual grant funding of £18,864,672 in 2007-08, and £19,584,615 in 2008-09. Grant allocations for 2009-10 will be announced by HEFCE in March.

Departmental Air Travel

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Rochford and Southend East of 6 October 2008, Official Report, column 527W, and pursuant to the answer of 18 December 2008, Official Report, column 1055W, on departmental air travel, if he will place in the Library the figures for the distance of air travel carbon offset in 2007-08 for his Department, broken down by (a) domestic, (b) short-haul and (c) long-haul flights. [250571]

Mr. Simon: The Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills (DIUS) was created as a result of the machinery of government changes in June 2007. The Department's predecessors DfES (now DCSF—Department for Children Schools and Families) and DTI (now BERR—Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform) provide travel bookings for DIUS. The number of air miles used to calculate the departmental payment for the 2007-08 for DIUS provided by BERR was:

	Miles
(a) Domestic	27,500
(b) Short haul	140,286
(c) Long haul	285,096

The number of air miles used to calculate the departmental payment for 2007-08 for DIUS provided by DCSF was included in the DCSF return because figures could not be separated for this period. To separate this data would involve disproportionate cost.

Departmental ICT

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what the initial estimated (a) cost and (b) delivery date was of each ICT project initiated by his Department since its inception; what the (i) outturn cost and (ii) completion date was of each such project subsequently completed; which contractors were hired for each project; and how much has been paid to each contractor in respect of each project to date. [251376]

Mr. Simon: From our records, the following ICT projects have been initiated by the Department and its agencies. Only projects where either the initial estimated or outturn cost is greater than £200,000 have been listed.

Project	(a) Initial estimated cost	(b) Initial delivery date	(i) outturn cost	(ii) completion date	Contractors	Total paid (£)
DIUS UnITE Project (ICT services contract)	1,700,000	February 2008	1,700,000	February 2008	Fujitsu	1,700,000
DIUS website redevelopment	425,000	March 2009	n/a	n/a	Atticmedia	38,000
					Edesery	Nil
Patents Electronic Case File System	3,000,000	March 2008	3,100,000	March 2008	n/a	3,100,000
Fast Track Trade Mark Application	290,000	April 2008	270,000	April 2008	n/a	270,000

Departmental Languages

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many (a) Ministers and (b) civil servants in his Department received coaching in a foreign language in the last 12 months; what expenditure his Department incurred in providing such coaching; and in what languages such coaching was provided. [248079]

Mr. Simon: Since 1 January 2008, one Minister in the Department has taken foreign language lessons.

For employees in the Department, the Professional Skills for Government framework sets out the skills and expertise needed in their job including the flexibility to specify foreign language skills where that is relevant. Costs for individual training are arranged locally for employees as part of their learning and development, and are not held centrally and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Publicity

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much is planned to be spent by (a) the Learning and Skills Council and (b) his Department on advertising apprenticeships in (i) 2008-09 and (ii) 2009-10. [254375]

Mr. Simon: The Learning and Skills Council (LSC) has been responsible for promoting apprenticeships since it came into existence in April 2001.

Since 1997 we have witnessed a renaissance in apprenticeships from a low point of 64,000 with only 27 per cent. completions to last year's record high of 225,000 with 64 per cent. completions, a remarkable achievement. This shows the huge demand for apprenticeships which is why we are examining every possible opportunity to create more apprenticeships which offer hope and real career opportunities for young people and adults.

The LSC plan to spend £2,845,439 nationally in 2008-09 on media advertising (excluding VAT and Central Office of Information fees). Planned advertising spend at regional level is not readily available. The national advertising campaign fronted by Sir Alan Sugar will run throughout February and March. I am pleased that Sir Alan has offered his time free of charge to support the Apprenticeships campaign. Planned advertising spend for 2009-10 has not yet been confirmed.

The Department and the Department of Children, Schools and Families have allocated funds to the LSC for marketing. The Department has no plans to spend money directly on advertising apprenticeships in 2008-09 and 2009-10.

Economic Situation

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what recent discussions his Department has had with outside organisations to discuss policy on reducing the effect of the recession on matters within his Department's responsibility. [254058]

Mr. Simon: DIUS immediate priority is to provide real help to support individuals and businesses through these challenging economic times.

Ministers and officials have regular and frequent engagements with outside organisations including relevant Government Departments, our delivery partners, businesses and other stakeholders on a wide range of issues relating to the current economic situation.

Educational Institutions: Construction

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what capital budget for rebuilding colleges has been allocated for (a) 2008-09, (b) 2009-10 and (c) 2010-11; and if he will make a statement. [255281]

Mr. Simon: In "Our Statement of Priorities—Better skills, Better jobs, Better Lives", published in November 2007, it was stated that we will invest £2.3 billion between 2008-09 and 2010-11 to ensure that colleges have world-class buildings.

The original annual capital grant allocations to the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) were set out as follows:

2008-09	694

These figures include the total LSC capital budget which includes funding for both 16 to 19-year-olds and adults.

However, as announced in the last pre-Budget report, investment of £110 million for 2009-10 has been brought forward into 2008-09, and a further £110 million for 2010-11 has been brought forward into 2009-10. This is in support of this Government's actions to help beat the current global economic downturn.

The revised annual capital grant allocations to the LSC are subsequently as follows:

2008-09	804

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what plans he has to bring forward capital expenditure on colleges to the year 2009-10; and if he will make a statement. [255282]

Mr. Simon: As announced in the last pre-Budget report, investment of £110 million for 2009-10 has been brought forward into 2008-09, and a further £110 million for 2010-11 has been brought forward into 2009-10.

This accelerated funding will be spent to bring forward building works, benefiting learners and regenerating communities, and will help us beat the current global economic downturn.

Employment: Young People

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what proportion of parents aged between 16 and 19 years in (a) Southampton, (b) Test Valley borough, (c) the ceremonial county of Hampshire and (d) England were in education, employment or training at the latest date for which figures are available. [254020]

Mr. Simon: The proportion of mothers aged between 16 and 19 years in education, employment or training in England in 2006-08 was 32.9 per cent. (source: Labour Force Survey sample, 2008). Data are averaged over three years because of small sample sizes and do not include information on the proportion of fathers aged between 16 and 19 participating in education, employment or training.

The proportion of parents aged 16 to 19 in education, employment or training in December 2008 in the ceremonial county of Hampshire was 33.7 per cent. and in the three authorities, comprising the ceremonial county, as follows: the administrative county of Hampshire 34.6 per cent.; Portsmouth 42.5 per cent.; Southampton 29.2 per cent. (source: Connexions Client Information System—CCIS). This information is not reported for borough council areas in county authorities.

Further Education

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills which further education colleges were required to halt their building programmes as a result of decisions taken at the Learning and Skills Council's December 2008 board meeting. [254342]

Mr. Simon: In 1997 the total capital expenditure in further education colleges in England was nil.

In total since that time, this Government have invested £2.4 billion and will be investing a record further £2.3 billion across the next three years.

But the pace of demand for capital funding has increased. Projects and the scale of Government funding they require are becoming increasingly ambitious. In addition there are signs that the ability of colleges to raise their own funds for proposed projects is being affected by the downturn.

It is for this reason that over the next few weeks the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) is working closely with colleges that have submitted or are working on bids, to look at the individual current positions before making future funding decisions. As a result of this the consideration of a small number of applications that were due for decision—both in principle and in detail—have been deferred from December to March.

However, the 253 colleges that have been given approval in detail and either have work already under way or have been previously been given the final go ahead for works to begin will not be affected, although the LSC will be in touch in due course to check progress.

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what estimate his Department has made of the indirect costs potentially payable by each further education college as a result of the Learning and Skills Council's decision to halt building programmes between December 2008 and March 2009. [254385]

Mr. Simon: In 1997 the total capital expenditure in further education colleges in England was nil.

Since 1997, this Government have invested £2.4 billion in redeveloping and modernising further education colleges. In addition we have plans to invest a further £2.3 billion in the next three years. Currently more than 250 projects are under way and funded by the Learning and Skills Council (LSC)—helped by the recent decision to accelerate £110 million in 2008-09 from future budgets to help beat the downturn.

The Learning and Skills Council is responsible for the administration of the further education capital budget. While the LSC does provide some support to colleges for the costs associated with developing their projects, as independent providers, colleges themselves are responsible for the management and financing of their capital projects. As a result, the Department does not collect information regarding any potential indirect costs colleges may or may not incur during the life of a capital project. However, the LSC is currently working closely with colleges that have submitted or are working on bids, to look at the individual current positions.

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what processes are in place to enable the Learning and Skills Council to prevent the halting of a further education college building project from resulting in significantly higher long-term costs. [254969]

Mr. Simon: The total capital expenditure in further education colleges in England in the financial year 1997-98 was nil.

In total since that time, this Government have invested £2.4 billion and will be investing a record further £2.3 billion across the next three years.

Currently more than 250 projects are under way and funded by the LSC—helped by the recent decision to accelerate £110 million in 2008-09 from future budgets to help beat the downturn.

But the pace of demand for capital funding has increased. Projects and the scale of Government funding they require are becoming increasingly ambitious.

It is for this reason that over the next few weeks the LSC will be working closely with colleges that have submitted or are working on bids to assess the whole programme before making further funding decisions. The LSC have yet to provide a full analysis of all of those schemes but this will include the impact of the current position on all affected projects.

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what discussions he has had with the Learning and Skills Council on whether building projects halted as a result of decisions taken at the Learning and Skills Council's December 2008 board meeting are expected to restart following the March board meeting. [254970]

Mr. Simon: In 1997-98, the total capital expenditure in further education colleges in England in the financial year 1997-98 was nil.

In total since that time, this Government have invested £2.4 billion and will be investing a record further £2.3 billion across the next three years.

In total, since the programme began under this Government, nearly 700 projects, at 330 colleges have been agreed. Only 42 colleges have not yet benefited from investment. The programme has therefore been a huge success.

But the pace of demand for capital funding has increased. Projects and the scale of Government funding they require are becoming increasingly ambitious.

It is for this reason that over the next few weeks the LSC will be working closely with colleges that have submitted or are working on bids to look at the individual current positions before making future funding decisions. As a result, consideration of a small number of applications that were due for decision by the LSC National Council where deferred from December to March.

At the March meeting of the LSC National Council it will decide when it can make a decision on the small number of applications that were deferred from December to March. It will also advise on when and on what basis it will consider other capital applications.

Further Education: Finance

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills if he will bring forward proposals to reimburse further education colleges for the interest they pay on money borrowed to finance their capital programmes; and if he will make a statement. [254013]

Mr. Simon: Since 1997, this Government has invested £2.4 billion in redeveloping and modernising further education colleges. In addition we have plans to invest a further £2.3 billion in the next three years. In total, since the programme began, nearly 700 projects at 330 colleges have been agreed.

The Learning and Skills Council (LSC) administers the further education capital budget on behalf of the Department.

The LSC, through its approval process, agrees an appropriate level of capital grant support based upon a range of factors including the affordability of the proposal to the college.

Further Education: Overseas Students

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what percentage of Learning and Skills Council-funded further education provision in the academic years (a) 2007-08 and (b) 2008-09 has been allocated to non-UK nationals. [254169]

Mr. Simon [holding answer 3 February 2009]: Table 1 shows the number of Learning and Skills Council (LSC) funded learners undertaking further education provision (further education colleges, University for Industry and work-based learning) in 2007-08, split by whether the learner is UK or non-UK domiciled.

To be eligible for LSC funding an individual needs to satisfy the residency criteria set out in LSC Learner Eligibility Guidance. In general, this means that they need to have been lawfully living in the UK, European Union (EU) or European Economic Area (EEA) for the three years prior to the start of their course.

2007/08 is the latest year for which we have fully-audited information across all learning routes. We do not currently hold information on country of domicile for adult safeguarded learning or Train to Gain.

Around 1 per cent. of learners in further education (FE, University for Industry, WBL) were non-UK domiciled in 2007/08. Non-UK domiciled learners will include those from the EU and EEA.

Table 1: LSC-funded further education (further education colleges, University for Industry, work-based learning) in 2007/08, by whether the learner is UK or non-UK domiciled

	Number of learners
UK domiciled learners	3,093,000
Non-UK domiciled learners	34,000
Not known	3,000

Notes:

1. Volumes are rounded to the nearest thousand.
2. This information is based on country of domicile—institutions are advised that the country of domicile field should be treated as a self-assessment field and reflect the country where the learner was ordinarily resident for the three years preceding the start of their programme.
3. These figures include FE colleges, University for Industry and WBL (including apprenticeships and entry to employment).
4. Information on country of domicile is not currently available for Train to Gain and Adult Safeguarded Learning.
5. Final 2007/08 data will be published in March 2009.
6. This table uses learner volumes as a measure for comparative purposes. Full-year numbers are a count of the number of learners that participated at any point during the year.
7. Learners that are included in different data collections e.g. a learner undertaking an apprenticeship and a Train to Gain qualification, will be counted twice in this table.

Further Education: Pay

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills when he plans to implement salary structures for lecturers in further education institutions equivalent to those for teachers in the maintained sector. [255816]

Mr. Simon: There are no plans to implement a salary structure for lecturers in further education institutions. This is a matter for FECs themselves, as independent organisations and employers of their own staff.

Higher Education: Admissions

John Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many school students from Leeds West constituency went on to higher education in each academic year since 2001. [255467]

Mr. Lammy: The latest available figures from the Higher Education Statistics Agency (HESA) are shown in the following table. Figures for the 2007/08 academic year were released on 29 January 2009. Figures for the 2008/09 academic year will be available in January 2010.

Learning and Skills Council

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills if he will place in the Library a copy of the minutes of the Learning and Skills Council's December 2008 board meeting. [254389]

Mr. Simon: The publication of the minutes of the Learning and Skills Council's (LSC) National Council meetings are an operational issue. Decisions about their publication are therefore a matter for the LSC. The LSC publishes a summary of its council minutes on their website. A summary of all meetings, including the December meeting, can be found at www.lsc.gov.uk.

Learning and Skills Council: Finance

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what the capital budget of the Learning and Skills Council is for (a) 2008-09, (b) 2009-10 and (c) 2010-11. [254382]

Mr. Simon: In Our Statement of Priorities—Better skills, Better jobs, Better lives, published in November 2007, it was stated that we will invest £2.3 billion between 2008-09 and 2010-11 to ensure that colleges have world-class buildings.

The original annual capital grant allocations to the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) were set out as follows:

	Amount (£ million)
2008-09	694

These figures include the total LSC capital budget which includes funding for both 16 to 19-year-olds and adults.

However, as announced in the last pre-Budget report, investment of £110 million for 2009-10 has been brought forward into 2008-09, and a further £110 million for 2010-11 has been brought forward into 2009-10. This is in support of this Government's actions to help beat the current global economic downturn.

The revised annual capital grant allocations to the LSC are subsequently as follows:

	Amount (£ million)
2008-09	804

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much Learning and Skills Council capital spending has been brought forward (a) from 2009-10 to 2008-09 and (b) from 2010-11 to 2009-10. [254384]

Mr. Simon: As announced in the last pre-Budget report, investment of £110 million for 2009-10 has been brought forward into 2008-09, and a further £110 million for 2010-11 has been brought forward into 2009-10.

This accelerated funding will be spent to bring forward building works, benefiting learners and regenerating communities, and will help us beat the current global economic downturn.

Postgraduate Education

Mrs. Ellman: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills if he will increase the funding available for students from poorer backgrounds to pursue postgraduate studies. [255307]

Mr. Lammy: This Government acknowledge the value of postgraduate studies. However, we have to prioritise the funding available. Our priority is to ensure that finance is no barrier to students achieving a first degree: that is why statutory student support is concentrated on undergraduates.

However, there are also a number of measures in place to help people finance postgraduate studies. For example, we recently announced proposals to reposition career development loans as a key additional source of support to help people finance learning, as new professional and career development loans (PCDLs). PCDLs will offer more people the opportunity to reskill and improve their employment prospects by offering more generous terms for the learner, such as loans up to £10,000 and lower interest rates.

Funding may also be available for individuals through the Access to Learning Fund (ALF). The fund allows universities and colleges to provide extra discretionary support for students in particular need; it is administered directly by universities and colleges, which are best placed to assess students' circumstances.

Postgraduate Education: Finance

Paul Farrelly: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (1) what assessment the Government (a) has made and (b) plans to make of the effects of (i) the recession and (ii) restricted availability of credit on the number of UK students wishing to study at postgraduate level; [254953]

(2) what steps the Government plans to take to maintain numbers of students wishing to study at postgraduate level in the current economic climate; [254954]

(3) what assessment he has made of the effect on postgraduate students of private finance providers being (a) unwilling and (b) not required to make binding funding commitments for the duration of courses in the current economic situation; [254955]

(4) what steps his Department takes to assist postgraduate students not eligible for career development loans whose financial support is withdrawn part-way through their course; [254957]

(5) what recent assessment he has made of the effect of the economic downturn on levels of financial assistance for postgraduate students from (a) employers, (b) private companies providing loans and (c) banks. [254958]

Mr. Lammy: The Government are determined to ensure that finance is no barrier to going to university. Having a degree remains one of the best pathways to a rewarding career: employers prize the highly-developed skills and talents that graduates bring to their businesses. Going to university is an investment for the future, with graduates benefiting over their lifetime from their decision to go into higher education. The Government's priority is to assist students to achieve a first degree. That is why statutory student support is concentrated on undergraduates.

No matter what the short-term outlook for the economy, it is sensible for individuals to look at how they can fulfil their potential—and for many that means postgraduate study. The number studying at postgraduate level have increased by 27 per cent. in the last decade. The Government continue to promote the importance of higher level skills and supports excellence in higher education, including through providing significant funding for internationally acclaimed research activity through the various research councils which support postgraduate study. In the decade since 1997, the Government's support for the UK research base has risen from £1.3 billion to £3.4 billion.

It is up to individuals themselves to decide which private finance providers to select to fund their postgraduate study. To help learners tackle the challenges arising from the economic downturn, we recently announced proposals to reposition career development loans as a key additional source of support to help people finance learning, as new professional and career development loans (PCDLs). PCDLs will offer more people the opportunity to reskill and improve their employment prospects by offering more generous terms for the learner, such as loans up to £10,000 and lower interest rates.

Like career development loans, PCDLs will be commercial loans offered by participating banks and supported by the Government. The decision on which course the loan is used for, including who provides the course, lies with the individual and that is made clear to them before they take out a loan. The Government pay the interest on the loan during the period of study, after which the individual must repay the loan capital plus remaining interest in full. Deferred repayment terms are subject to the banks' loan policy.

Further Government funding may be available for individuals through the Access to Learning Fund (ALF). The fund allows universities and colleges to provide extra discretionary support for students in particular need; it is administered directly by universities and colleges, which are best placed to assess students' circumstances.

We continue to work closely with the higher education sector to monitor the impact of the current economic climate on students and institutions; and the Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE) are considering further measures to address the immediate needs of the economy, including funding for short courses which might lead to up-skilling.

Students: Finance

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many Perfect Gift vouchers to help with the costs of further education have been sold (a) in each region and (b) by each college. [251128]

Mr. Simon [holding answer 28 January 2009]: The Perfect Gift scheme was launched as a pilot project in October 2007 in nine further education colleges across England (one college per Learning and Skills Council region). The following table sets out the number of gift vouchers sold by each of the participating colleges:

College	Region	Number of vouchers sold
Warwickshire College	West Midlands	18
New College Nottingham	East Midlands	1
College of North East London	London	0
Gateshead College	North East	0
West Herts College	East of England	0
York College	Yorks and Humberside	0
Blackpool and Fylde College	North West	0
Chichester College	South East	0
Filton College (Bristol)	South West	0
Total Take-up		19

Students: Loans

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps he is taking to ensure that those with student loans taken out before 1998 receive a reduction in interest rates. [254269]

Mr. Lammy: The interest rate applicable to pre-1998 student loans is governed by the Education (Student Loans) Act 1990 and the Student Loans (Regulations) 1998 which set out that for the period between 1 September and the following 31 August the interest rate is the daily rate which results in an APR equal to the RPI (retail price index). The interest rate used is the RPI for the preceding March. Setting the interest rate in this way ensures that borrowers, over time, repay in real terms only as much as they borrowed. Moreover, if a borrower's income falls below £25,936 per annum, they can apply for their repayments to be deferred.

Train to Gain Initiative

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much his Department has spent under the Train to Gain initiative on advertising in each month of the last 12 months; and how much he estimates will be so spent in the next six months. [250118][1]

Mr. Simon: National marketing and communications for Train to Gain is delivered by the national Learning and Skills Council (LSC) on behalf of the Department. Records indicate that during the period January to December 2008 total advertising expenditure excluding VAT was £4,092,266. There are no media costs for Jan 2009 and no projected media costs for February to March 2009. We are currently working with the LSC to develop a dedicated marketing and communications strategy for the financial year 2009-10.

Train To Gain Programme

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what the eligibility criteria regarding past academic achievement for individuals accessing the Train to Gain programme are; and if he will make a statement. [243555]

Mr. Simon [holding answer 15 December 2008]: All adults (aged 19 plus) in employment and volunteers can access Train to Gain regardless of previous academic qualifications.

For those without qualifications at level 2, full funding is available for a level 2 qualification. At Level 3, first full qualifications are fully funded for adult employees between 19-15 years of age and those who have not done a previous level 2. At Level 4, first full qualifications are fully funded for adults between the ages of 19-25 who have not done a previous Level 3. For others who already have a full level 2 and want to do another qualification above that level, some funding is available depending on individual circumstances. There are additional funding flexibilities available for SME employees and for employees in particular sectors through sector compacts.

Further detail on eligibility criteria can be found in the Train to Gain funding guidance at

www.lsc.gov.uk

Training: Journalism

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps his Department is taking to improve the level of skills and training of journalists, with particular reference to local journalists. [253109]

Mr. Simon: The Government work through Sector Skills Councils (SSCs) to improve the level of skills and training. Skillset is the SSC with responsibility for journalists.

Publishing joined Skillset's sector coverage in April 2008 and work was undertaken in the year to research the skills needs of the industry. This included a survey of the supply of training and educational provision. Further work is in progress on the development of the national occupational standards. There will be consultation with the industry this year on how to support skill levels, and agreement on a training strategy.

Skillset provide information on the providers offering courses and the skills needed to work across a variety of media, such as newspapers, journals and online content. For local journalists who are directly employed by local newspapers there are options for their employer to access training through Train to Gain.

Vocational Training

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many organisations provided skills brokerage services to employers under contracts with the Learning and Skills Council in 2007-08. [254348]

[1] [Official Report, 19 March 2009, Vol. 489, c. 13MC.]

Mr. Simon: In 2007-08 the Leaning and Skills Council contracted with 17 organisations to provide skills brokerage services to employers.

From April 2009 the Train to Gain skills brokerage service will be integrated with Business Link to provide an all-in-one service for employers as part of the Government's Business Support Simplification Programme.

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (a) how many and (b) what proportion of people who undertook Skills for Life training while on employer training pilot-funded provision have achieved qualifications. [254390]

Mr. Lammy [holding answer 5 February 2009]: The employer-training pilot ran from 2002 to 2006. In total, there were 45,300 Skills for Life learners on employer-training pilots (ETP). Of those learners, 32,500 (72 per cent.) achieved their qualification. This information is provided by the ETP database administered by the Learning and Skills Council.

Vocational Training: Car Industry

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what direct access to training schemes is available to car component firms. [253816]

Mr. Simon: Businesses in the automotive industry can access:

The core Train to Gain offer:

Full funding for:

Literacy and numeracy support at all levels;

First full level 2 qualifications (equivalent to five GCSEs(;

First full level 3 (equivalent to 2 A-levels) for 19-25 year olds and for people without a first level 2;

First level 4 for 19-25 year olds who do not already have a level 3;

Repeat level 2 qualifications in certain sector specific areas, through the sector compact.

Shared investment between the employer and Government for:

English for Speakers of Other Languages qualifications at all levels;

Level 3 qualifications in certain sector specific areas, through the sector compact;

Apprenticeships.

In addition to quality-assured, impartial and independent advice from skills brokers which is available to those businesses who want help to identify skills needs at all levels, and to identify and source high quality, vocational skills training.

The SME flexibilities:

A new package of support to help the employees of small and medium sized businesses in the private and third sector:

Fully funded level 2 qualifications and subsidised level 3 qualifications, regardless of whether the employee already has a qualification at this level;

Bite sized courses in subjects demanded by businesses including: business improvement, business systems and processes, team working and communications, sales and marketing, IT User, IT support, customer service, new product design, finance and credit, cash flow and profit management, and risk management;

Funding for leadership and management training for businesses with five to 250 employees.

Pre-employment/redundancy flexibility:

Those who have been given notice of redundancy or who are coming back into work after unemployment can access full funding for level 2 qualifications and part funding for level 3 qualifications, regardless of whether they already have a qualification at this level, and irrespective of the size of employer they join. This is part of a wider Government package to help those made redundant during the economic downturn.

Both the SME and the pre-employment/redundancy flexibilities have been available since 2 January 2009.

To support the industry further we have agreed to boost the funding available through the sector compact from £65 million to £100 million. We will work with the sector to ensure this additional resource meets employers' priority skill needs.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Illegal Immigrants

13. Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent assessment she has made of the effectiveness of measures to remove illegal immigrants from the UK. [254649]

Mr. Woolas: The huge shake-up we have made to the immigration system is paying off. Our borders are tougher than ever before and we are removing record numbers of foreign law breakers.

In the three months to September 2008 around 17,500 people were removed. This included a 14 per cent. increase in non asylum removals—a group that includes foreign national prisoners.

Last year the UK Border Agency removed 5,000 foreign prisoners, a record performance that is nearly four times the number removed in 2005.

Drug-related Crime

14. Mr. Burrowes: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent assessment she has made of the effectiveness of measures to combat drug-related crime. [254650]

Mr. Alan Campbell: A key indicator of the effectiveness of measures to combat drug-related crime is the Drug Harm Index; since 2002 this has fallen 28 per cent., representing a substantial fall in drug-related crime types.

Recorded acquisitive crime—to which drug-related crime makes a significant contribution—has fallen by a similar amount.

Criminal Activity: Dogs

16. Mr. Francois: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps her Department takes to prevent the use of dogs in criminal activity. [254652]

Mr. Alan Campbell: The Government require Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnerships/and Community Safety Partnership in Wales to identify local crime problems and to work in partnership to prioritise them. While DEFRA leads on dangerous dogs legislation, the police have a range of powers under this and other legislation to take action if dogs are being used in a criminal manner.

21. Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps her Department takes to prevent the use of dogs in criminal activity. [254657]

Mr. Alan Campbell: The Government require crime and disorder reduction partnerships and community safety partnerships in Wales to identify local crime problems and to work in partnership to prioritise them. While DEFRA leads on dangerous dogs legislation, the police have a range of powers under this and other legislation to take action if dogs are being used in a criminal manner.

Independent Police Complaints Commission

17. Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent representations she has received on the work of the Independent Police Complaints Commission. [254653]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office receives a regular flow of representations on the operations of the IPCC on particular cases and occasionally, on general issues. The Home Office works closely with the IPCC to enable it to make a vital contribution to building public confidence and improving the police complaints system.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department on how many days the Independent Police Complaints Commission met in each of the last three years. [253014]

Mr. Coaker: This is a matter for the Independent Police Complaints Commission (IPCC). A copy of your question has been sent to the IPCC and they will respond to you directly.

Forensic Science Service

18. David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent representations she has received on the future of the Forensic Science Service. [254654]

Mr. Alan Campbell: No recent representations have been received on the future of the Forensic Science Service.

Leave to Remain: Convictions Abroad

19. Mr. Lilley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many non-UK nationals convicted of murder in their countries of origin have been granted leave to remain in the UK in the last three years. [254655]

Mr. Woolas: The UK Border Agency works hand in hand with other Agencies, including the Serious and Organised Crime Agency, to ensure that the information required to prevent foreign criminals from entering or remaining in the UK is made available to those that need it.

We already have one of the toughest borders in the world and we are determined to ensure it stays that way.

We are expanding our watch-lists, working more closely with foreign Governments to share information, and speeding up the re-documentation of those being removed.

European Arrest Warrant

20. Willie Rennie: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent assessment she has made of the effectiveness of European arrest warrants. [254656]

Meg Hillier: Although there is no ministerial involvement in the EAW process, my officials and those agencies and services responsible for its operation continually review its effectiveness. Additionally, member states' operation of the EAW is subject to peer evaluation at EU level.

In 2007 (the last year for which figures are available), the UK extradited 320 people to other EU member states under the EAW. In the same period, 96 people were returned to the UK to stand trial or serve custodial sentences.

Counter-terrorism: West Midlands

22. Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent steps the Government has taken to improve counter-terrorism policing in the West Midlands. [254658]

Mr. Coaker: We have worked with Association of Chief Police Officers and west midlands police since 2004-05 to establish the Counter Terrorism Unit in Birmingham. It is one of three strategically located national assets that enhance the work of forces by providing co-ordination and specialist support to deliver our counter-terrorism strategy.

National DNA Database

23. Mr. Russell Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many convictions for serious crimes resulted from prosecutions which utilised DNA samples from the national DNA database in the last 12 months. [254659]

Mr. Alan Campbell: Data are available on the number of detections with DNA, but not the number of prosecutions or convictions, by financial year. In 2007-08, 83 homicides and 184 rapes were detected in which a DNA match was available. Convictions are achieved through integrated criminal investigation so it is not possible to say whether the DNA match was the key factor in solving the crime.

24. Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent discussions she has had with the Information Commissioner on the length of time for which samples are held on the national DNA database. [254660]

Jacqui Smith: We will publish a Forensics White Paper later this year setting out how we propose to implement the judgment of the European Court of Human Rights on 4 December 2008 in the case of S and Marper. Discussions with key stakeholders will take place ahead of publication.

Criminal Gangs

Mary Creagh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent steps she has taken to tackle the activities of criminal gangs. [254641]

Mr. Alan Campbell: Since the Tackling Gangs Action Programme delivered a 51 per cent. drop in firearms-related injuries across four cities, we have committed a further £1.8 million for enforcement, risk management and prevention work; launched guidance to CPS, schools and parents; and plan to legislate to provide local areas with civil powers to manage gangs.

Departmental Spending

Dr. Palmer: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what she expects the change in her Department's spending in real terms to be between 2008-09 and 2009-10. [254642]

Mr. Woolas: The Home Office budget for 2008-09 is £9.8 billion, and in 2009-10 it will rise to £10.1 billion. This represents a real terms growth of 1.5 per cent.

Visa Applications

Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent assessment she has made of the performance of her Department's commercial partners in carrying out work on visa applications. [254643]

Mr. Woolas: The UK Border Agency processes around 2.5 million visa applications a year.

Its commercial partners currently operate 106 visa application centres in 48 countries and assist with over 80 per cent. of all visa applications. They provide support services but play no part in decision making.

The performance of UKBA's commercial partners engaged in visa services is continually assessed by regional managers against contract service levels and other key performance indicators.

In addition, UKBA senior managers review a dedicated commercial partner balanced scorecard with senior executives from both companies on a bi-monthly basis.

Community Crime Fighters

Joan Ryan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she expects the first community crime fighters to receive training. [254651]

Mr. Coaker: 500 people have attended the first three community crime fighters one-day training courses, so far.

3,600 activists will go through community crime fighter training by the end of 2009.

Crime Prevention

Alun Michael: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps she is taking to ensure that police commanders co-operate with local authorities to maintain the effectiveness of local crime and disorder partnerships. [254639]

Mr. Coaker: The Crime and Disorder Act 1998 Act places a statutory duty on the police and local authorities working with others in their local area to tackle local crime and disorder problems that matter to the public.

To further strengthen the delivery of effective partnership working, we will commence provisions for councillor call for action and crime and disorder overview and scrutiny committees in April 2009.

Detection Rates

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the average number of crimes solved by each police officer was in England in 2007-08. [254691]

Mr. Alan Campbell: There were 1,373,933 recorded crimes detected by the police in 2007-08. There were 144,939 full time equivalent police officers as at 31 March 2008. Figures include the 43 police forces of England and Wales plus the British Transport Police.

On this basis, there were 9.5 detections per officer in 2007-08, although the real figure is likely to be much higher. This is because many officers are deployed on functions other than crime solving, and the detection total does not include non-notifiable crimes: that is, almost all summary offences.

Driving Offences: Insurance

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the Answer of 13 January 2009, Official Report, column 704W, on driving offences: insurance, how many cars were seized for insurance offences and not returned in 2008; how many were sold; and how much was raised from their sale. [255017]

Mr. Alan Campbell: This information is not collected centrally. Available information provided to the Motor Insurance Database indicates that in 2008 there were 185,000 vehicles seized by the police for being driven without appropriate insurance. The Motor Insurers' Information Centre, which is responsible for the database, indicated that in the preceding year about 40 per cent. of seized vehicles were subsequently destroyed or sold, rather than returned. The proceeds of disposal are paid to the vehicle owner, less any sums due in respect of removal and storage charges.

Drugs: Crime

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate she has made of the level of acquisitive crime associated with drug addiction in each of the last five years; and if she will make a statement. [247098]

Jacqui Smith: No annual estimates are made of the levels of acquisitive crime associated with drug addiction.

It is estimated that between a third and half of acquisitive crime is drug related. More recent government survey data points to the extent of acquisitive crime that is drug-related. For example, Home Office research has found that:

> 81 per cent. of arrestees who used heroin and/or crack cocaine (HC) on at least a weekly basis reported committing acquisitive crimes in the 12 months prior to arrest, in comparison to only 30 per cent. of those arrestees who did not take HC weekly.

> Around two-fifths (39 per cent.) of drug treatment seekers reported committing an acquisitive crime in the four weeks prior to interview. This figure rose in the case of heroin and crack cocaine users, with 55 per cent. reporting that they committed an acquisitive crime in the four weeks before interview.

Economic Situation

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent discussions her Department has had with outside organisations to discuss policy on reducing the effect of the recession on matters within her Department's responsibility. [254057]

Mr. Alan Campbell: The Government have long-standing, sound systems and flexible policies in place to deal with crime. These have led to significant reductions: overall crime, as measured by the British Crime Survey, has fallen by 39 per cent. since 1997. They also mean that we are well placed to prevent future rises in crime. As the Association of Chief Police Officers pointed out in January, the police service has never been in a better and stronger position to meet challenges caused by the economic downturn.

The Government are not complacent about crime and are taking early action to ensure that crime stays down. Burglary is a crime that people worry about during hard times; there are good programmes in place to tackle burglary but the Government are rightly keen to explore what more can be done to support people to protect their homes. That is why the Home Secretary held a summit on 4 February with a number of public, private and voluntary sector partners, including leading DIY retailers, the police, local government colleagues, British insurance industry representatives, residential landlords, Age Concern and others to discuss further practical measures to support people, particularly the most vulnerable.

Identity and Passport Service: Data Protection

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many officials in the Identity and Passport Service are authorised to access electronic files and databases relating to an individual's (a) immigration status, (b) asylum application and (c) passport application. [254446]

Meg Hillier: 15 Identity and Passport Service (IPS) staff have authorised access to an electronic database relating to an individual's immigrations status and asylum application. 2,964 IPS staff have access to the electronic passport application support system (PASS), which supports the processing of passport applications. In addition, 1,711 staff of Siemens IT Solutions and Services, who IPS contract to support and maintain PASS, have authorised access to this system.

All IPS and Siemens staff that have authorised access have been subject to the relevant background checks and hold the appropriate security clearance in accordance with current Home Office policy.

Access is limited to staff who have a legitimate business need and is strictly controlled.

Identity Cards: Fees and Charges

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much revenue is expected to be generated by fees, including charging for taking biometric information, for (a) identity cards and (b) biometric passports in each of the next 10 years. [243530]

Jacqui Smith: The fees and charges strategy for the next 10 years is still being developed and so the fee revenue for identity cards and biometric passports for each of the next 10 years is not available at this stage. Fee revenue from ID cards and biometric passports will be set to recover the operational resource costs incurred in delivering the products and the fees will be set so that the provision of both identity cards and biometric passports will be self financing for the Identity and Passport Service.

The exact price customers will be charged for a digital photo plus recording of fingerprints will be determined by the market, through commercial competition. So the total fee revenue for taking biometric information is not yet known at this stage.

Independent Police Complaints Commission: Costs

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the average cost to the Independent Police Complaints Commission was of dealing with a complaint in the last 12 months; and if she will make a statement. [253016]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office does not hold this information. This is a matter for the Independent Police Complaints Commission (IPCC). A copy of your question has been sent to the IPCC and they will respond to you direct.

Interception of Communications Commissioner

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the timetable for the publication of the (a) Interception of Communications Commissioner's Report for 2007 and (b) Intelligence Services Commissioner's Report for 2007 is. [253780]

Mr. Coaker: The Interception of Communications Commissioner's Report for 2007 and the Intelligence Services Commissioner's Report for 2007 were published on 22 July 2008 and presented to Parliament by The Prime Minister as required under sections 58(6) and 60(4) respectively of the Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act 2000.

Members: Correspondence

Sir Gerald Kaufman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) when she plans to reply to the letter of 8 December 2008 from the right hon. Member for Manchester, Gorton on Mrs A. Rehman; [247850]

(2) when she plans to reply to the letter of 8 December 2008 from the right hon. Member for Manchester, Gorton with regard to Mrs A. Rehman. [250860]

Jacqui Smith: I wrote to my right hon. Friend on 19 January 2009.

Sir Gerald Kaufman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she plans to reply to the letter of 7 November 2008 from the right hon. Member for Manchester, Gorton on Mr Faqir Hussain. [247851]

Jacqui Smith: I wrote to my right hon. Friend on 19 January 2009.

Passports

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment she has made of the contribution to the local urban economy of passport offices; and if she will make a statement. [253669]

Meg Hillier: While there has been no formal economic assessment, there is likely to have been some beneficial impact on the local economy of establishing passport offices and interview offices in multiple separate locations throughout the UK.

Passports: Manpower

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many full-time equivalent staff are employed in each passport office; what her Department's projections are of future staff numbers in each such office; and if she will make a statement. [253671]

Meg Hillier: IPS currently employs the following number of FTEs (full-time equivalent) per regional passport office and the forecasted FTEs for end March 2009:

Regional office	Currently employed FTEs	Forecasted FTEs end March 2009
Belfast	155	150
Durham	520	584
Glasgow	143	115
Liverpool	332	365
London	246	236
Newport	286	291
Peterborough	418	411
Total regional office FTEs	2,101	2,152

Police

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what definition her Department uses of front line duties in determining how police officer time is allocated. [253687]

Jacqui Smith: The front line policing measure was based on the proportion of police officer time engaged in frontline activities. It was introduced to cover the period from April 2004 until March 2008. In line with the Government's drive to reduce police bureaucracy and to remove centrally imposed top down targets (except one on improved levels of public confidence), the measure has been discontinued.

Police Custody

Mr. Moss: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many police station cells in England were closed for health and safety reasons in each of the last five years, broken down by (a) location and (b) police authority; how many are scheduled for closure; and how many are under review; [254144]

(2) what timescale has been estimated for closure of all police station cells which have been classed as unsuitable to house detainees on health and safety grounds; [254145]

(3) whether police authorities have access to additional grant funding to cover the cost of providing replacement police cells for those closed on health and safety grounds; [254146]

(4) what police cell closures have taken place in the Central Division of Cambridgeshire constabulary in each of the last five years; and what cell provision is planned. [254164]

Mr. Coaker: The management of the police estate and allocation of resources are matters for each police authority and chief constable, who are responsible for assessing local needs.

Police: Demonstrations

Michael Fabricant: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department for each of the demonstrations about Gaza and Israel held since 1 January 2009, how many police were injured; what damage to police vehicles took place; and what the cost of policing was; and if she will make a statement. [248609]

Mr. Coaker: Information provided by the Metropolitan Police Service is that to date police officers have reported 55 assaults by protestors and nine police vehicles have been damaged. The Metropolitan Police Service estimates that the total cost of the policing operation, between 29 December 2008 and 24 January 2009, is £2.7 million.

Police: Electronic Surveillance

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department on how many occasions the police remotely accessed personal computers (a) in the UK and (b) outside the UK without the owner's consent in each of the last five years; under what powers this remote searching took place in each case; and if she will make a statement. [247112]

Jacqui Smith: Police investigations are independent of Government and there is no requirement on the police to report to Government authorisations made under the relevant legislation. That is, under Part III of the Police Act 1997 that provides lawful authority for police interference with property.

Part III of the Act is overseen by the Chief Surveillance Commissioner whose Annual Report is laid before the House and can be found on the internet at:

http://www.surveillancecommissioners.gov.uk

Police: Welsh Language

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what costs each police force in England and Wales incurred on (a) translation and (b) interpretation between Welsh and English in each year since 2000. [254199]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 4 February 2009]: The information requested is not held centrally. Decisions on the distribution of resources are matters for the Chief Constable and the Police Authority for each force concerned.

Smuggling: Tobacco

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many offences of supply of illegal and counterfeit tobacco were recorded in each police authority area in each of the last five years; [253970]

(2) how many (a) charges and (b) prosecutions were brought for offences relating to the supply of illegal and counterfeit tobacco in each of the last five years. [253973]

Mr. Timms: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested is not available.

The following table shows the number of cases brought and the number of criminals sentenced for tobacco offences in each of the last five years.

	Cases brought	Number of people sentenced
2003-04	—	429
2004-05	—	204
2005-06	—	262
2006-07	237	299
2007/08	192	290

Tackling Knives Action Programme

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) whether any of the search wands allocated to the Tackling Knives Action Programme were redeployed from other uses; [252151]

(2) whether any of the search arches allocated to the Tackling Knives Action Programme were redeployed from other uses; [252153]

(3) how many new search wands her Department has purchased in each of the last 10 months; [252114]

(4) how many new search arches her Department has purchased in each of the last 10 months. [252115]

Jacqui Smith: As part of the Tackling Knives Action Programme, the Home Office provided funding for the purchase of additional search arches and wands, supplying a total of 85 arches and 589 wands for the TKAP police forces. These commitments were over and above any equipment already available to TKAP forces and did not involve any redeployment of equipment. It is not possible to break this down by month.

In addition, prior to the establishment of the TKAP, the Home Office separately provided police forces in England and Wales with a total of 100 portable search arches and 400 wands to support search operations.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Bankruptcy: Hampshire

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many people were declared bankrupt in (a) Southampton, (b) Test Valley borough and (c) the ceremonial county of Hampshire in each year since 1997. [251097]

Mr. McFadden: Table 1 shows the number of bankruptcies in (a) Southampton, (b) Test Valley and (c) Hampshire in each year from 2000 to 2007, derived from postcodes provided by bankrupt individuals[1,2]. Earlier years figures are not available.

[1] Classifying bankrupts into administrative geographies is done using the postcode that the bankrupt individual provides. The use of this in assigning an individual to a borough is thus only as reliable as the postcode information provided.

[2] In particular, inaccurate or missing postcodes mean that the numbers in the above table will be subject to an element of missing data. Nationally, this proportion has been decreasing from about 12 per cent. in 2000 to less than 4 per cent. in 2007.

Table 1

Number

	2000	2001	2002	2003	2004	2005	2006	2007
Southampton	68	89	99	125	199	274	359	371
Test Valley	41	30	46	65	73	91	139	113
Hampshire	432	430	482	634	872	1,154	1,491	1,352

Beer: Prices

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what recent discussions he has had with Pubcos on beer pricing. [253986]

Mr. Thomas [holding answer 3 February 2009]: I have not met with Pubcos to discuss beer pricing. This is a commercial matter for the businesses concerned.

Business: Government Assistance

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what funds his Department provides to assist companies to attend trade fairs for the purpose of new business development. [253321]

Mr. Thomas: UK Trade and Investment provides grant support for small and medium sized enterprises to exhibit at overseas trade fairs under the Tradeshow Access Programme (TAP). Grants are set at £1,000, £1,400 or £1,800 depending on the exhibition. From 1 April 2009 the support limit has been raised so that an eligible business may receive up to six grants in its lifetime (the previous limit was three). Details of TAP support are on the UKTI website at:

http://www.uktradeinvest.gov.uk/ukti/tap

Departmental Buildings

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform pursuant to the answer of 13 January 2009, Official Report, column 561W, on departmental buildings, what (a) works and (b) refurbishments were carried out in each Minister's office in each of the last 12 months; and what the cost was of each. [252382]

Mr. McFadden: The previous answer referred to by the hon. Member included spend incurred in August 2007 following refurbishments resulting from Machinery of Government changes. The following information therefore dates back to August 2007.

The following costs relate to the Department's accommodation refurbishments for both Ministers and their outer offices:

August 2007: £36,643.

May 2008: £352;

June 2008: £263,991 (included major demolition, construction and redecoration work to standardise and 'future proof' offices should ministerial numbers increase in future;

July 2008: £11,016;

September 2008: £19,958.

January 2009: £57,040.

Departmental Sick Leave

Jenny Willott: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the average duration of single periods of sick leave taken by staff in (a) his Department and its predecessor, (b) its agencies and (c) the non-departmental bodies for which his Department has responsibility who gave (i) stress and (ii) mental health and behavioural disorders as the reason for their absence was in each of the last 10 years; and if he will make a statement. [241352]

Mr. McFadden: Information for 2004, 2005 and 2006-07 for the Department, its predecessor and its agencies can be found on the civil service website at:

http://www.civilservice.gov.uk/about/statistics/sickness.asp

Stress, mental health and behavioural disorders all fall within the category of 'mental and behavioural disorders'.

For years prior to 2004, sickness absence data is not available in the form requested and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

India: EU External Trade

Mr. Soames: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether the EU/India free trade agreement under negotiation includes provision for movement of workers from India into the UK. [253508]

Mr. Thomas [holding answer 2 February 2009]: We would expect the chapter on international trade in services in an EU/India Free Trade Agreement to include provisions on the temporary movement of highly-skilled professionals both from India to the UK and from the UK to India.

At this point, FTA negotiations with India generally are at an early stage. Negotiations on services are at a very early stage and there has been no exchange of offers in services.

Minimum Wage

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what percentage of 18 to 21 year olds in (a) full-time and (b) part-time employment are being paid the national minimum wage; and if he will make a statement. [254122]

Mr. McFadden: According to the ONS April 2008 Annual survey of Hours and earnings: (a) around 2 per cent. of all full-time 18 to 21-year-olds earn £4.60 an hour (the 18 to 21-year-old national minimum wage in April 2008). (b) Around 4 per cent. of all part-time 18 to 21-year-olds earn £4.60 an hour in April 2008.

The percentages reported above do not include those in employment reported as earning less than the 18 to 21-year-old national minimum wage rate.

Mobile Phones: Contracts

Derek Wyatt: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what estimate he has made of the cost to the consumer of the setting of mobile termination rates above marginal costs in each year since 2003. [250339]

Mr. McFadden: It falls to the Office of Communications (Ofcom) as the regulator in the telecommunications sector to reach decisions on how to set regulated mobile termination rates. In March 2007, Ofcom published a market review statement for the period 1 April 2007 to 31 March 2011 following a two-year market review and extensive industry consultation. This statement is currently subject to two appeals before the Competition Appeal Tribunal and the Competition Commission. The outcome of these appeals will determine the appropriate mobile termination rates in the near term.

Mobile Phones: Rural Areas

Sir Robert Smith: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the availability of mobile phone signals in rural areas. [253666]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 2 February 2009]: The mobile network operators build base stations in order to meet customers need for coverage and service. The decision to build in a particular location is largely a commercial matter for the operators.

For 2G or GSM networks the original coverage obligations laid on GSM operators were discharged many years ago and have been significantly exceeded on a voluntary basis. In the case of new 3G networks, an 80 per cent. population coverage obligation by 2007 was placed on each licence holder to encourage network rollout.

In July 2006 Ofcom consulted on the technical approach it would take in its assessment of compliance with this obligation. Site data was issued to Ofcom by the mobile operators on 14 November 2007.

Four of the five 3G licensees were in compliance with the obligation, but O2 was found to reach only 75.69 per cent. of the population, a shortfall that meant around 2.5 million people could not access its service.

In February 2008 Ofcom issued O2 with a notice under the Wireless Telegraphy Act for breach of licence. This proposed that if the 80 per cent. obligation was still unmet by the end of June 2008, Ofcom would shorten the term of O2's licence by four months.

In May 2008 Ofcom confirmed that O2 had met its obligation.

Newspaper Press: Government Assistance

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether the Government plans to provide support to local and regional papers which are in financial difficulties. [253111]

Ian Pearson: I refer my hon. Friend to his Westminster Hall debate on the local press, which I responded to, 20 January 2009, Official Report, column 185WH.

This is a complex issue, given the requirement that freedom of editorial control must not be threatened by state intervention. I want to reassure him that the situation of local and regional papers is being considered within the Digital Britain initiative, which Lord Carter of Barnes is taking forward. My hon. Friend will also be aware of the announcements that were made on 19 January about additional support for the banks to ensure that they maintain lending, and of the support that was announced on 14 January, through the enterprise finance guarantee and the working capital scheme. Those schemes are available respectively to companies with an annual turnover of up to £25 million and up to £500 million. They are applicable right across industrial sectors and therefore could include local news organisations.

Ofcom: Fines

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many organisations Ofcom has found to have breached the Broadcasting Code in each of the last five years; how many were subsequently fined; and how much Ofcom has imposed in fines in relation to such breaches. [254390]

Andy Burnham: I have been asked to reply.

The matters raised are the responsibility of the Office of Communications (Ofcom) as independent regulator. Accordingly, my officials have asked the chief executive of Ofcom to respond directly to the hon. Member. Copies of the chief executive's letter will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

Pharmaceutical Industry: Redundancy

Sir Nicholas Winterton: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many redundancies from positions in the pharmaceutical industry in (a) the United Kingdom, (b) the North West and (c) Macclesfield constituency have been notified to his Department in the last 12 months. [255049]

Mr. McFadden: I cannot give you details of the actual number of redundancies as there is no requirement for employers to provide that information. However, employers who propose to make 20 or more redundancies at one establishment are required to notify my noble Friend the Secretary of State of the proposal under provisions contained in the Trade Union and Labour Relations (Consolidation) Act 1992. During the period 1 January 2008 to 31 December 2008, the Department was notified of 6,240 proposed redundancies in the pharmaceutical industry in Great Britain. The records are not maintained in the format you have requested so I regret that I am unable to break them down by region or parliamentary constituencies.

Postcodes

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what gross income the Post Office received for granting access to its postcode address file in each of the last three years for which figures are available. [244336]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 17 December 2008]: The provision of the postcode address file is an operational matter for which Royal Mail has direct responsibility. I have therefore asked the Chief Executive of Royal Mail, Adam Crozier, to provide a direct reply to the hon. Member.

A copy of the response will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the cost to the Post Office of maintaining and updating the postcode address file was in each of the last three years for which figures are available. [244335]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 17 December 2008]: The provision of the postcode address file is an operational matter for which Royal Mail has direct responsibility. I have therefore asked the Chief Executive of Royal Mail, Adam Crozier, to provide a direct reply to the hon. Member.

A copy of the response will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will investigate the operation by the Post Office of the postcode address file to ensure that it offers users value for money. [244336]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 17 December 2008]: I have no plans to investigate the operation of the postcode address file. The provision of this service is an operational matter for which Royal Mail has direct responsibility.

Postcomm, the postal industry regulator, has responsibility for ensuring that Royal Mail maintains the postcode address file and that the file is made available to anybody who wishes to use it.

Regional Development Agencies: Finance

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform with reference to the Answer of 10 January 2008, Official Report, column 782W, on regional developement agencies: South East Region, when the evaluation of the effects of the South East England Development Agency's spending was completed; and if he will place a copy of the evaluation report in the Library. [253486]

Mr. McFadden: The Government have commissioned PricewaterhouseCoopers to conduct an independent evaluation of the economic impact of RDAs. The evaluation of the impact of South East England Development Agency's spending is incorporated in the report. The evaluation report has just been completed and I will place a copy in the Libraries of the House shortly.

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform with reference to the Written Ministerial Statement of 25 November 2008, Official Report, column 41W, on departmental expenditure limits (2008-09), for what reason there was a re-allocation of £2.5 million from the London Development Agency to the regional development agencies. [253487]

Mr. McFadden: As part of the management of the "single pot" funding model, the regional development agencies (RDAs) and the London Development Agency (LDA) have the authority to agree "loans" between themselves, as a way of maximising the use of their overall budget allocation. This is often utilised to overcome issues around the timing of expenditure. Whilst there is no need to process such transactions between the RDAs generally (because they are all non voted), funds to the LDA are voted (because it is governed by the Greater London Authority) and any changes are, therefore, necessarily reflected in supplementary estimates.

Regional Development Agencies: Public Appointments

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform with reference to the Written Ministerial Statement of 25 November 2008, Official Report, columns 43-4WS, on Regional Development Agency (Board appointments), what political activity has been declared by each of the listed Board members. [253488]

Mr. McFadden: The declared political activity of each of the 23 appointed board members named in the written statement of 25 November are:

Advantage West Midlands

Cllr Mike Whitby—was leader of the Conservative group on the Birmingham city council and since 2004 has been leader of Birmingham city council.

Sight Impaired

Tom Levitt: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what guidelines his Department follows in respect of making printed materials and forms accessible to people suffering red/green colour blindness. [245708]

Mr. McFadden: Most of the Department's printed materials are produced through the central communications directorate. These are produced following departmental branding guidelines which do not allow the use of red and green together as background and foreground colours.

Small Businesses: Insolvency

Mr. Leech: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many small businesses have gone into (a) administration and (b) liquidation in each quarter since the beginning of 2005. [248991]

Mr. McFadden: The Insolvency Service does not hold information on business size and, therefore, cannot provide an estimate of the numbers of small businesses entering administration or liquidation since the beginning of 2005.

Total numbers of companies entering liquidation and administration are published quarterly and are available on the Insolvency Service' website :

http://www.insolvency.gov.uk/otherinformation/statistics/200811/index.htm

(Tables 1 and 3 for England and Wales).

Summertime

Andrew Stunell: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what consideration the Government has given to a review of daylight-saving arrangements throughout the year; and if he will make a statement. [254037]

Mr. McFadden: The Government believe that the current summer time arrangements are a satisfactory compromise between those who prefer lighter mornings and those who prefer lighter evenings. There are no plans to commission a review of the arrangements but the Government will continue to listen to arguments for and against change.

Supermarkets

Mr. Drew: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will direct the Office of Fair Trading to investigate supermarket chains with a view to directing them to divest themselves of stores they have acquired through takeovers. [253906]

Mr. Thomas [holding answer 3 February 2009]: Merger control functions in the UK are carried out by the UK's independent competition authorities. Cases are considered on grounds of their impact on competition in the relevant markets. This provides the primary method of protecting the interests of UK consumers and promoting economic growth.

The Office of Fair Trading (OFT) has a duty to make a reference to the Competition Commission (CC) if it believes that the merger may be expected to result in a substantial lessening of competition within any market or markets in the United Kingdom for goods or services. Under section 73 of the Enterprise Act 2002 the OFT may, instead of making a reference to the CC, accept appropriate undertakings to take such action as it considers appropriate.

One recent example is the acquisition by Co-operative Group Limited (Co-op) of Somerfield Limited. Under the terms of the undertakings accepted by the OFT on 15 January, the Co-op will divest stores in 133 areas across the UK to resolve competition concerns raised by the merger.

Textiles: Overseas Trade

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what services his Department provides to the textile sector to enable companies to pursue business opportunities overseas. [253389]

Mr. Thomas: UK Trade and Investment provides a wide range of support measures to companies seeking to do business in overseas markets, including financial assistance, through the Tradeshow Access Programme (TAP), to companies wishing to market their products or services at overseas exhibitions.

In financial year 2007-08 the TAP scheme supported 93 businesses at a cost of £240,000 in the Textiles sector. In the current financial year, 2008-09, we forecast supporting 106 businesses at a cost of £268,000.

The textile sector has also received £29,000 of support this year from UKTI's Regional Challenge Fund, for activities such as enhancing the UK textile sector's international media profile. The fund will be operating again in financial year 2009-10 and the textile sector will again be able to apply for support for suitable projects.

Trade: International Cooperation

Mr. Soames: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether the EU's proposals for Mode 4 of the General Agreement on Trade in Services include numerical limits in regard to the number of workers who could be granted entry to the UK. [253505]

Mr. Thomas [holding answer 2 February 2009]: The current EU services offer in the DDA negotiations proposes a system of numerical ceilings for the temporary entry of highly-skilled foreign professionals in the categories of contractual service suppliers and independent professionals in a limited number of services sub-sectors.

For the UK, the current offer retains the option of a numerical ceiling for contractual service suppliers and independent professionals for only one sub-sector—computer and related services.

The offer, setting out the strict criteria for entry in all categories and in all services sub-sectors committed, is in the public domain and can be found on the WTO website. However, the offer remains incomplete. It does not yet contain either numbers or modalities. These remain to be worked out in the negotiations.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Aerials: Planning Permission

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the Answer of 4 February 2008, Official Report, column 890W, on aerials: planning permission, when she expects to publish the conclusions of the review of planning procedures for new base stations; and if she will make a statement. [252496]

Mr. Iain Wright: We are still undertaking our review of the planning procedures relating to applications for new base stations.

We are currently considering whether the two reviews published on 24 November—the 'Killian and Pretty Review: Planning applications—a faster and more responsive system: Final Report' and the 'Final report into Non householder minor development consent review' by White Young Green Planning—have any implications for the work on telecommunications.

Should we decide that the telecommunication regulations need changing we will consult publicly on any options.

Building alterations: Planning permission

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what guidance has been given to local authorities on the use of section 106 agreements to levy lump-sum charges on household extensions. [255295]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Government's guidance on the use of planning obligations (also known as section 106 agreements) is set out in Circular 05/05. This is available in the House Library.

Community Development: Referendums

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what criteria her Department plans to apply for deciding on the use of referendums to promote community empowerment. [254770]

Mr. Khan: The use of local referendums to promote community empowerment is a matter for local authorities to decide.

Council Tax: Lincolnshire

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the average Band D council tax in each billing authority in Lincolnshire was in 2008-09 (a) before and (b) after the designation of the Lincolnshire police authority and the issuing of new bills. [253887]

John Healey: Details of the average Band D council tax in each billing authority in Lincolnshire in 2008-09 before the designation of the Lincolnshire police authority were published in a statistical release on 27 March 2008 and available on the Communities and Local Government website at:

http://www.local.communities.gov.uk/finance/ctax/ctax089old.htm.

Details of the average Band D council tax in each billing authority in Lincolnshire in 2008-09 after the designation of the Lincolnshire police authority were published in a statistical release on 21 August 2008 and available on the Communities and Local Government website at:

http://www.local.communities.gov.uk/finance/ctax/ctax089.htm.

Council Tax: Overpayments

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what procedures apply to refunding by local authorities of overpayments of council tax in cases where a domestic property has been incorrectly banded by the Valuation Office Agency. [253868]

John Healey: The administration of council tax, including refunds of overpayments, is a matter for local authorities.

Departmental Contracts

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the answer to my hon. Friend the Member for Welwyn Hatfield (Grant Shapps) of 18 November 2008, Official Report, columns 376-9W, on departmental contracts, what the timetable is for the completion of the Contact Point for the North West Territorial Co-operation Programme; to whom the contract was awarded and at what cost; and what the full project specification is. [255189]

Mr. Khan: This contract was for the provision of UK Contact Points for the North West Europe Territorial Cooperation Programme. The timetable for completion of the programme is 31 March 2011 and the contract was awarded to two individuals at an overall cost of £318,000. A copy of the specification has been lodged in the Library of the House.

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the answer to my hon Friend the Member for Welwyn Hatfield (Grant Shapps) of 18 November 2008, Official Report, columns 376-9W, on departmental contracts, what the timetable is for the completion of the Enabling Most Efficient Information Sharing Across Government Project; to whom the contract was awarded and at what cost; and what the full project specification of the research is. [255194]

Mr. Khan: The timetable for the completion of the Enabling more efficient information sharing across Government project is 28 February 2009. The contract was awarded to Xantura Limited and the maximum approved cost of the contract is £89,800.00. A copy of the full specification of the project has been deposited in the Library of the House.

Departmental Legal Proceedings

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many legal proceedings naming her Department as a defending party have been (a) filed, (b) concluded and (c) dismissed in each of the last five years. [255251]

Mr. Khan: Legal proceedings involving the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government are handled on behalf of the Secretary of State by the Treasury Solicitors Department, which has supplied the information requested in the following table.

The upper part of the table ('client group DCLG') shows the cases in which the Department was directly involved. The lower part of the table ('client group PINS') shows cases where, although the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government was cited as the respondent, the challenged decisions had been delegated by the Secretary of State to a Planning Inspector, and so in practical terms the Planning Inspectorate (PINS) and not the Department was the respondent.

This right hand column shows the number of cases filed in the calendar years 2006, 2007, 2008. The number of cases filed, and in which the Department was directly involved were, respectively 2006: 162, 2007: 135, 2008: 99. The corresponding figures for cases handled by the Planning Inspectorate were 2006: 172, 2007: 181, 2008: 212.

The table also shows the number of cases closed per year. For example, of the 162 cases directly involving the Department which were opened in 2006, 17 were closed in 2006, 56 were closed in 2007, 47 were closed in 2008, one has been closed in 2009, and 41 still remain open. The table shows the equivalent figures for cases opened in 2007 and 2008, and the figures for cases handled by the Planning Inspectorate.

The Department of Communities and Local Government was created on 5 May 2006, so no legal proceedings naming the Department were filed before that date. The figures for 2006 in the table do however include cases opened between 1 January 2006 and 5 May 2006 involving the predecessor Office of the Deputy Prime Minister.

Departmental Lobbying

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether Ministers in her Department received representations from (a) Lord Moonie, (b) Lord Taylor of Blackburn, (c) Lord Snape and (d) Lord Truscott in the last seven months. [255226]

Mr. Khan: The only representations received from the Noble Lords referred to in the question are as follows. After the Secretary of State issued her decision to refuse planning permission for development of a natural gas storage facility at Preesall Saltfield, Fleetwood, Lancashire on 16 October 2007, Lord Taylor of Blackburn asked my noble Friend Baroness Andrews whether representatives of Canatxx Ltd. could meet officials. Representatives of Canatxx met policy officials on 6 December 2007 to discuss general policy on gas storage facilities.

In the summer of 2008 Lord Taylor of Blackburn requested information from my noble Friend Baroness Andrews about Newark as a growth point and related planning cases.

Departmental Mass Media

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the Answer to my hon. Friend the Member for South-West Surrey (Mr Hunt) of 26 November 2008, Official Report, column 1491W, on departmental mass media, for what reasons her Department is monitoring the media for the keywords of 'civil unrest'. [255190]

Mr. Khan: 'Civil unrest' is included as a keyword search term for CLG's contracted media monitoring provider in order to ensure relevant coverage relating to community cohesion and resilience issues, for which the Department is responsible, is captured.

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to my hon. Friend the Member for South-West Surrey (Mr Hunt) of 26 November 2008, Official Report, column 1491W, on departmental mass media, on what date Durrants was instructed by her Department to monitor the keywords 'Haringey Social Services'. [255191]

Mr. Khan: The Department asked for this search term to be added to Durrants' list of key words on 17 November 2008.

Departmental Plants

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much has been spent by her Department on (a) pot plants since 1 March 2008 and (b) flowers in each of the last three years. [254873]

Mr. Khan: A low level of internal planting within the CLG HQ buildings is maintained under our integrated facilities management contract. The cost of this is included within the fixed contract price for cleaning, grounds maintenance and pest control and is not separately identifiable.

Since 1 March 2008 additional new plants have been provided at a cost of £725.25.

It is not departmental practice to provide cut flowers for office use and so expenditure on this is nil.

Departmental Recruitment

Justine Greening: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many new recruits her Department took on in (a) 2005-06, (b) 2006-07, (c) 2007-08 and (d) 2008-09, how many of these were taken on as (i) permanent, (ii) temporary and (iii) agency staff; and what estimate she has made of the equivalent figures for (A) 2009-10 and (B) 2010-11. [254466]

Mr. Khan: Communities and Local Government have taken on the following number of staff since2005:

Count of staff ID

Staff Type	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08	2008-09	Grand Total
Permanent Staff	56	68	96	86	306
Short Term Contracts	32	33	34	46	145
Agency Staff	228	208	363	374	1,173
Grand Total	316	309	493	506	1,624

In 2009-10 and 2010-11, as in the current year, our administration budget is planned to fall by 5 per cent. in real terms. There is also evidence that the rate at which permanent staff are leaving the Department is falling. Against this background, I would expect to see some reduction in recruitment.

Departmental Training

Mr. Hands: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the Answer of 13 November 2008, Official Report, column 1326W, on departmental training, what personal training courses at public expense Ministers in her Department have undertaken since 1 January 2008. [251313]

Mr. Khan: Other Ministers in Communities and Local Government have taken the following personal training courses at public expense since 1 January 2008: advice on continuing professional development; and advice on speeches.

Departmental Travel

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what expenditure her Department has incurred in providing transport for Ministers between Parliament and departmental premises in each year since her Department was established. [251882]

Mr. Khan: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Transport on Monday 26 January 2009, Official Report, column 6W. All ministerial travel is undertaken in accordance with the 'Ministerial Code'.

Domestic Visits: Essex

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government on how many occasions the Minister for the East of England has visited areas of the administrative county of Essex other than those in the unitary authorities of Southend and Thurrock; and what the purpose was of each visit. [254835]

Mr. Khan: Since her appointment in July 2007, the Minster for the East of England has visited the administrative county of Essex on six separate occasions. The most recent visits were focussed around the economy such as the Regional Economic Forum held in Chelmsford and her visit to Jobcentre Plus and a local business in Basildon as part of the roll-out of the pre-Budget report.

The Minister has also visited Essex on skills related events including leading the East of England Talent Debate at Stansted, visiting Rickstones Academy in Witham as part of the Grand Schools Tour, and visiting a children's centre in Harlow.

The Minister recently chaired the Regional Partnership Group in Chelmsford.

Eco-Towns: Internet

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much it cost to set up the website http://ecotownsyoursay.direct.gov.uk; and what the monthly maintenance costs of the website are. [254126]

Margaret Beckett: The set up and development costs for the website

http://ecotownsyoursay.direct.gov.uk

totalled £76,786 and to date £6,000 has been incurred in maintenance costs. The website has the specific aim of encouraging participation in the eco-towns consultation.

Eco-Towns: Pennbury

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether English Partnerships has been involved in the proposed eco-town bid near Leicester. [252950]

Margaret Beckett: Proposals for an eco-town at Pennbury, near Leicester have been put forward by the Co-operative Group in conjunction with English Partnerships, now part of the Homes and Community Agency (HCA), who are landowning partner and have contributed to the design ad preparation of the proposals.

English Housing Survey

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many (a) households and (b) social housing households were identified by the English Housing Survey as having a non-UK national as head of household in the latest period for which figures are available; and if she will make a statement. [253979]

Margaret Beckett: Over the two years 2006-07 and 2007-08 there were, in England, an estimated:

(a) 1.5 million households headed by a foreign national;

(b) 310 thousand social housing households headed by a foreign national.

These figures were derived from the Survey of English Housing. The English Housing Survey started in April 2008 and the first estimates from this survey will be available in January 2010.

The definition of "foreign national" used above is consistent with that used in published results from the Survey of English Housing; namely a foreign national is someone who is not a national of the UK or Ireland.

Fire Services

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much has been spent on the FireControl project; and what further expenditure is expected until the time when all regional fire control centres become operational. [255296]

Mr. Khan: £139 million has been spent to date on FiReControl. The total project cost for FiReControl is expected to be £380 million. A significant proportion of the remaining expenditure is already committed through agreed contractual costs. Full details of the contract costs are set out in the FiReControl business case, a copy of which is available in the Library of the House.

Fire Services: Contracts

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to my hon. Friend the Member for Ruislip-Northwood (Mr. Hurd) of 26 January 2009, Official Report, column 810W, on Fire Service: contracts, what legal advice her Department sought prior to any advice given to contracting parties in respect of non-inclusion of break clauses in the contracts for regional fire control centres; and if she will make a statement. [254624]

Mr. Khan: The Department took advice from its own lawyers and from commercial property advisers and solicitors throughout the development of the building leases for regional control centre buildings. The fire and rescue authorities have taken and continue to take their own legal advice.

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what her Department's policy is on the inclusion of break clauses in the contracts for regional control centres; and if she will make a statement. [254729]

Mr. Khan: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Ruislip-Northwood (Mr. Hurd) on 26 January, Official Report, column 108W.

Fire Services: Crimes of Violence

Mr. Denis Murphy: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many recorded attacks on fire crews there were in each of the last three years, broken down by fire and rescue service area. [254215]

Mr. Khan: The Department collects figures on attacks on firefighters based on returns from fire and rescue authorities. The following table shows the number of attacks over the last three years by fire and rescue authority (FRA) for England.

Number of attacks notified to CLG by year of incident and FRA

First Time Buyers

Derek Wyatt: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what further financial support she will make available to local authorities to help first-time home buyers. [253220]

Margaret Beckett: The Government are already investing £8 billion in affordable housing (for both social rent and low cost home ownership) through the new Homes and Communities Agency in 2008-11—a £3 billion increase compared to previous years.

The low cost home ownership programme is helping to make home ownership more affordable to first time buyers throughout England through a range of shared ownership and shared equity schemes. In response to the current difficult market conditions, we have expanded the availability of shared equity, which allows qualifying first time buyers to buy a property with the help of an equity loan (which can be used as a deposit). This includes the introduction of the new HomeBuy Direct scheme (which will give up to 18,000 first time buyers the opportunity to access affordable home ownership with an equity loan of up to 30 per cent. (funded on equal terms by Government and the participating developers).

We recently announced that local authorities would be invited to bid for social housing grant to build new affordable housing. We are now consulting on changes to the revenue and capital rules which would enable them to compete for this subsidy.

France (Channel)-England Programme Managing Authority

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many meetings of the France (Channel)-England Programme Managing Authority representatives of (a) her Department and (b) the Government office for the south-east have attended in the last 12 months. [252465]

Mr. Khan: Officials from CLG have attended five meetings over the last 12 months of the programme Managing Authority of the 2007-13 Interreg IVA Cross-Border France-England Channel programme.

Officials from the Government office for the south-east have attended three meetings of the programme Managing Authority over the same period.

Home Information Packs

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many (a) home information packs and (b) home condition reports have been subsidised through central funding. [253893]

Margaret Beckett: Our records show that as part of the Area Trials research, which ran from November 2006 to April 2007, 4,315 HIPs were subsidised by central Government of which 1,487 included a subsidised home condition report.

Homebuy Scheme

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much has been spent on the Social Homebuy scheme since its inception. [254198]

Margaret Beckett: Social HomeBuy is a voluntary demand-led scheme. Registered social landlords who choose to offer the scheme to their tenants bid to the Homes and Communities Agency for grant to cover the discount offered to the tenant. From April 2006 to end of January 2009, spend through the National Affordable Housing programme totalled £3.4 million.

No funding is provided to local authorities offering the scheme other than £132,770 given to help early pilots with development and set up costs in 2006-07.

Housing Challenge

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the written ministerial statement of 16 July 2008, Official Report, columns 17-19WS, on the Housing Challenge document, if she will place in the Library a copy of the letter sent to regional assembly chairs on the National Housing and Planning Advice Unit's advice. [252432]

Margaret Beckett: The letters sent in July 2008 by the Minister for Housing and Planning to the chairs of the regional assemblies concerning the NHPAU's advice have been deposited in the Library.

These letters were published on the 16 July 2008 and are available online:

www.communities.gov.uk/publications/planningandbuilding/guidanceregionalstrategy

Housing: Sales

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the evidential basis was for the statement made by the Minister of State (Housing) that there had been an upturn in the property market in her interview with The Sunday Times on 18 January 2009; who the Minister of State consulted before making this statement; and if she will make a statement. [250234]

Margaret Beckett: The Government recognise that the housing market faces significant challenges.

In my interview with The Sunday Times I did not state that "there has been an upturn in the property market". I was asked about the state of the housing market. In my reply, I mentioned that a number of recent surveys and professional groups have reported that buyer inquiries are rising, including the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors (RICS). However, mortgage availability remains a key barrier.

To help people who are struggling to get onto the housing ladder we introduced the HomeBuy Direct scheme which is designed to help up to 18.000 first time buyers through shared equity. Measures announced by the Chancellor on 19 January are intended to support lending.

Housing: Standards

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the minimum Code for Sustainable Homes standard will be for private sector homes built in eco-towns; and what the minimum standard is for new sector private housing built in other areas. [251724]

Margaret Beckett: The standards homes built in eco-towns must reach, are set out in the draft Eco-towns Planning Policy Statement (PPS), published for consultation on 4 November 2008. Copies of the draft PPS are available in the House Library.

Building regulation sets the minimum standards for house building. The Code for Sustainable Homes is a voluntary standard for new private sector housing, unless there is a planning requirement as set out by the Planning Policy Statement on Climate Change (supplement to PPS 1).

Local Government

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much funding her Department plans to provide for the (a) establishment and (b) running costs of local authority leaders' boards. [253867]

John Healey: Development of regional strategies will require close working between local authorities and the Regional Development Agency (RDA) and each region will need to establish structures which best suit their overall arrangements.

When local authority leaders' boards are established they will receive funding on the basis of an agreed business plan to cover their work on the Regional Strategy and any other agreed functions. It will be for the RDA and the local authority leaders' board to decide between them how their joint working arrangements are resourced.

Local Government Finance

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what requirements there are on local authorities to provide (a) cashable and (b) non-cashable efficiency savings in (i) 2009-10 and (ii) 2010-11. [253891]

John Healey: Government have committed to achieving at least 3 per cent. value for money savings per year across central and local government over the 2007 comprehensive spending review (CSR07) period of 2008-09 to 2010-11. As their contribution to this challenge, councils in England are expected to achieve at least £4.9 billion cash-releasing efficiencies. The local government value for money delivery plan (www.communities.gov.uk/publications/localgovernment/deliveringvaluefor money) sets out a trajectory of £1.5 billion cumulative savings by the end of March 2009 and £3.2 billion by the end of March 2010. There are no expectations with respect to non- cashable efficiencies in CSR07.

There are no mandatory efficiency targets for individual councils, although targets have been agreed as part of seven local area agreements. The value of efficiencies achieved by all English councils and fire and rescue services will be published on and with council tax bills from this year so that citizens can see what progress is being made by their local authorities.

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether account is taken of the level of local authority reserves in allocating central grants to local authorities. [253892]

John Healey: No.

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate has been made of the level of exposure of local authorities' (a) pension funds and (b) deposits with funds operated by Mr. Bernard Madoff. [253896]

John Healey: No estimate of the level of exposure of local authorities' pension funds and deposits to the Madoff hedge fund has been made. With regard to pension funds, investment/funding strategy and individual stock selection is a matter for the 89 individual pension funds in England and Wales, who are accountable for their decisions.

Under the Local Government Act 2003, local authorities are responsible for their own investment decisions. The Department's guidance on local government investments is available at:

http://www.local.communities.gov.uk/finance/capital/data/lginvest2.pdf

Local Government: Coastal Areas

Chris Ruane: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which seaside towns were included in the first wave of multi-area agreements; and which seaside towns she expects to enter into agreements as part of future waves of the multi-area agreement scheme. [253611]

John Healey: Ten MAAs have been signed. The local authorities with seaside towns included in these are Bournemouth and North Tyneside, which includes Whitley Bay, and Sefton council, which contains the seaside town of Southport.

Other agreements in development include the West of England MAA, which involves Weston-super-Mare, and Fylde Coast MAA, which involves Blackpool.

A copy of the 10 multi-area agreements will be deposited in the Library.

Local Government: Fraud

Mr. Duncan Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the target maximum period of time is for a council to conduct an anti-fraud investigation. [253752]

John Healey: Fraud investigations undertaken by councils operate within the rules, procedures and codes required for the particular type of investigation being undertaken, typically criminal, civil or employment focused in nature. As such there is no specific maximum period for a council to conduct an anti-fraud investigation.

Local Government: Lancashire

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many (a) chief executives of local authorities and (b) local authority employees in Lancashire earned more than £100,000 in 2007. [254571]

John Healey: Central Government do not collect the information requested. However, the local government employers conducts an annual survey of chief executive and chief officer salaries and workforce numbers. The results of this survey are available on their website at:

http://www.lge.gov.uk/lge/core/page.do?pageId=119009

Local Government: Publicity

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) whether she plans to make an assessment of the appropriateness of the legislative requirements on local authorities to place statutory notices in local newspapers; [253883]

(2) which recommendations of the Killian-Pretty review of planning she plans to implement. [254762]

Mr. Iain Wright: At the launch of the final report on 24 November 2008, my right hon. Friend, the Minister for Housing identified two recommendations on extending further permitted development rights for businesses and public services and reducing information requirements that we would be taking forward immediately. Among the other recommendations of the review was one that local authorities should be given greater autonomy and flexibility to determine the best approaches to use in order to notify the public about planning applications. We will set out the Government's response to the remaining recommendations in the Killian Pretty Report shortly. Any proposals for substantive policy changes would be subject to consultation.

Local Government: Standards

Chris Ruane: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what progress has been made towards the development of an indicator to monitor numbers of benefit claimants in defined small areas under the new Local Government Performance Framework; and which bodies will be responsible for (a) data collection and (b) distribution of information on performance against the indicator. [253612]

John Healey: Indicator 153 in the National Indicator Set measures 'Working age people claiming out of work benefits in the worst performing neighbourhoods'. The data for this indicator is collected through Jobcentre Plus. We have no current plans for any new indicator monitoring benefit claimants in small areas. Consideration of any new indicators within the National Indicator Set will be taken forward as part of preparations for the next government spending review.

Performance against all the National Indicators in each local area will be included in annual reporting of the new Comprehensive Area Assessment (CAA) by the local public service inspectorates. The first CAA reports are expected in November 2009.

Lord Truscott

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether (a) she and (b) Ministers in her Department have received representations from (i) Lord Truscott, (ii) Lord Moonie, (iii) Lord Taylor of Blackburn and (iv) Lord Snape in the last 12 months. [253648]

Mr. Khan: The only representations received from the noble Lords referred to in the question are as follows:

After the Secretary of State issued her decision to refuse planning permission for development of a natural gas storage facility at Preesall Saltfield, Fleetwood, Lancashire on 16 October 2007, Lord Taylor of Blackburn asked my noble Friend Baroness Andrews whether representatives of Canatxx Ltd. could meet officials. Representatives of Canatxx met policy officials on 6 December 2007 to discuss general policy on gas storage facilities.

In the summer of 2008, Lord Taylor of Blackburn requested information from my noble Friend Baroness Andrews about Newark as a growth point and related planning cases.

Luton Borough Council: Finance

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what grants, other than local government finance settlements, her Department and its predecessors have made in respect of the Luton Borough Council area in each year since 1997. [252648]

Mr. Khan: I refer the hon. Member to the answer my right hon. Friend the Minister for Local Government gave on 7 February 2008, Official Report, column 1304-05W.

Furthermore, the following table gives an update on the final outturn figures for 2007-08 and planned expenditure for this financial year for grants made by this Department other than local government finance settlements.

[2] Figures are allocated funding.

[3] Direct funding from Communities and local Government for local Area Agreement grants, which was a pooling of many different types of grants previously funded separately, ceased, in 2008 and was absorbed by the commencement of the Area Based Grant in April 2008.

McKinsey

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the Answer of 21 July 2008, Official Report, column 779W, on McKinsey, if she will place in the Library a copy of each document provided to participants in the Communities High Level Seminar. [252423]

Mr. Khan: The documents have been placed in the House Library.

Non-Domestic Rates

Mr. Prisk: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the change in revenue which will result from the planned revaluation of national non-domestic rates in April 2010. [254731]

John Healey: No estimate has been made of the change in revenue which will result from the planned revaluation of national non-domestic rates in April 2010. After a revaluation, the overall national multiplier is set to ensure that the national non-domestic rates yield stays the same, only allowing for a change in inflation.

Non-Domestic Rates: Business

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what her estimate is of the average business rate bill in England in (a) 2008-09 and (b) 2009-10. [253876]

John Healey: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 19 January 2009, Official Report, column 1081W

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what her estimate is of the percentage change in the level of business rates bills in England between 2008-09 and 2009-10. [253877]

John Healey: Data are currently being collected from local authorities and details of the level of non-domestic rates to be collected in England in 2009-10 will be published in due course.

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how the transitional relief in the 2010 business rates revaluation will be financed. [253881]

John Healey: The legislation requires that the transitional scheme be designed with the objective of being self financing. We will be consulting on the details of the 2010 scheme over the summer 2009.

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether workplace parking spaces are valued for business rates purposes. [253888]

John Healey: Workplace parking spaces can add to the rental value of office or other business premises and are therefore taken into account in arriving at rateable value for non-domestic rates.

Non-domestic Rates: Empty Property

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what representations her Department has received on the abolition of empty property tax relief for commercial premises in the last 12 months; and if she will make a statement. [253866]

John Healey: The Department have received representations on empty property tax relief from industry representative groups, individual property owners both directly and through ministerial correspondence.

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the answer of 24 November 2008, Official Report, column 111W, on non-domestic rates: empty property, if she will place in the Library a copy of the written representation from the urban regeneration companies. [253519]

John Healey: I have placed in the library a copy of the letter received from the urban regeneration companies.

Non-Domestic Rates: Ports

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the Answer of 6 October 2008, Official Report, column 351W, on non-domestic rates: ports, how the figure of approximately £200 million for the aggregate rateable value was calculated. [254012]

John Healey: The figure of £200 million was an initial estimate, for England, of the aggregate of the port operators' and port occupiers' properties in the large ports of their rating assessments, based on information available at the time.

Since 6 October 2008, work has been undertaken to deal with inquiries and appeals in respect of those properties within ports, following consultation with ratepayers.

Non-Domestic Rates: Small Businesses

Mark Pritchard: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much small business rate relief was claimed in (a) 2007-08, (b) 2006-07 and (c) 2005-06; and if she will make a statement. [253630]

John Healey: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave the hon. Member for Hornsey and Wood Green (Lynne Featherstone), 22 January 2009, Official Report, column 1660W.

Planning Permission

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what planning advice or guidance her Department and its predecessors have issued to local planning authorities on diversity and equality in planning since 1997. [254855]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Department (then the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister) published 'Diversity and Equality in Planning: A good practice guide' in 2005, aimed at helping planners to better understand the important role that planning can play in supporting the Government's commitment to tackling disadvantage.

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when the Infrastructure Planning Commission will start assessing planning applications; and what the target time is for the Commission to process such applications. [255214]

Mr. Iain Wright: Our expectation is that the Infrastructure Planning Commission (IPC) will be ready to begin receiving applications in spring 2010. In most circumstances, cases will be decided within a year from application.

Regional Ministers: Official Engagements

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the official engagements were for the Minister for (a) London, (b) Yorkshire and the Humber, (c) the South East, (d) the North West; (e) the East of England, (f) the East Midlands, (g) the South West, (h) the North East and (i) the West Midlands in their roles as regional ministers from 1 to 31 January 2009; and what the length of time spent on each engagement was. [254961]

Mr. Khan: I am depositing a table of this information in the Library.

Accurate information on the length of time spent on each engagement could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the official engagements were for (a) the Minister for the North West, (b) the Minister for the East of England, (c) the Minister for the East Midlands, (d) the Minister for the South West, (e) the Minister for the North East and (f) the Minister for the West Midlands in their roles as regional ministers from (i) 1 to 31 October, (ii) 1 to 30 November and (iii) 1 to 31 December 2008; and what the length of time spent on each engagement was. [255323]

Mr. Khan: I am depositing a table of this information in the Library. Accurate information on the length of time spent on each engagement can be provided at only disproportionate cost.

Rented Housing: Foreigners

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many general needs lettings were made by (a) local authorities and (b) registered social landlords to nationals of (i) EEA countries and (ii) non-EEA countries in the latest year for which figures are available. [254172]

Margaret Beckett: Information on the number of foreign national households allocated social housing is collected in the Continuous Recording of Letting form (CORE). A question on nationality was first introduced to the form for the 2006-07 data collection period. CORE is collected on behalf of the Department for Communities and Local Government by St. Andrew's University. Historically CORE has only collected information from registered social landlords. An increasing number of local authorities are now providing information through this process as well, but there are still some gaps in the data.

In 2007-08 for registered social landlords, there were 2,060 new general needs lettings made to foreign nationals from European Economic A[illegible]EA) countries and 2,020 from non-EEA coun[illegible]

The number of local authority general needs lettings is estimated using an adjustment for missing data. This is not yet available for 2007-08 and is expected to be completed by March 2009.

Right to Buy Scheme: Chelmsford

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much local authority housing stock in West Chelmsford constituency has been sold under the right-to-buy scheme in each year since 1997. [254718]

Margaret Beckett: We do not have figures at constituency level, so all figures are shown for Chelmsford borough council.

The following table shows the number of local authority right to buy sales in the borough of Chelmsford , for each year since 1997-98. Chelmsford borough council transferred its housing stock to registered social landlords (RSLs) in March 2002. There have consequently been no sales of local authority housing stock under the scheme in Chelmsford since that date.

The preserved right to buy scheme is available to RSL tenants who were formerly local authority secure tenants and moved to RSL landlords with their homes under the stock transfers. Figures for preserved right to buy sales alone are not available at local authority level, but combined figures for RSL right to buy, right to buy and right to acquire sales are available, and the following shows these figures for the borough of Chelmsford.

Social Mobility

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of the likely effects of the reduction in levels of sub-prime lending upon social mobility. [252695]

Margaret Beckett: The Government recognise that access to financial assets can play a key role in determining future outcomes. We are committed to supporting people's ambitions to own their own home, where this is sustainable, and we are determined to improve access to assets for all families.

We recognise that, despite the recent fall in house prices, the turbulence in the global financial markets has resulted in severe restrictions on mortgages and in many cases a requirement for purchasers to have significant deposits, making it harder for first time buyers to get on the housing ladder.

We are taking a range of measures in response to these difficult market conditions. For example, we have introduced HomeBuy Direct, a new scheme offered in partnership with house builders that is designed to help up to 18,000 first-time buyers into affordable home ownership with the aid of an equity loan of up to 30 per cent. (which can be used as a deposit). We are also taking steps to improve mortgage funding markets, as this is key to lowering mortgage costs and increasing the availability of affordable mortgages. Following on the Crosby Report's recommendations on mortgage finance markets, the Government will provide up to £50 billion of guarantees on new mortgage lending (and eventually on other assets).

Social Rented Housing: Standards

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the costs of renovating social housing which does not meet the decent homes standard in (a) Ribble Valley, (b) Lancashire and (c) nationally to a condition which does meet the standard. [254572]

Mr. Iain Wright: The cost per house of meeting the decent homes standard varies across the country and the Department does not collect those figures separately.

Local authorities are refurbishing the houses in their areas either at or above the decent homes standard. What the improved standard is and how it will be achieved will be determined by local circumstances and the level of resources that can be brought to the programme locally.

Ribble Valley borough council transferred its housing to a registered social landlord, Ribble Valley Homes, on 31 March 2008 under large scale voluntary transfer arrangements, in order to deliver the Decent Homes investment required.

Valuation Tribunal Service

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will ensure that Valuation Tribunal decisions relating to council tax liability cases are published in full on the Valuation Tribunal Service website, with personal information redacted. [253894]

John Healey: No. This is a matter for the Valuation Tribunal Service to decide.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Bristol

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the (a) transport, (b) staff and (c) administrative costs were of the visit made by the Minister of State for Schools to Bristol West constituency on 12 May 2008. [255389]

Jim Knight: I did not visit Bristol West on 12 May 2008.

Children in Care

Mr. Kidney: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps he is taking to ensure that children in care are provided with stable accommodation. [253624]

Beverley Hughes: Through the White Paper "Care Matters: Time for Change" and the Children and Young Persons Act 2008 the Government have put in place a range of measures to improve stability for looked after children.

Through the Fostering Changes training programme and the Multi-dimensional Treatment Foster Care and Social Pedagogy pilots we are taking action to help improve the range of support and skills for foster carers and residential workers to help them meet the needs of looked after children to prevent placement breakdown.

Children: Databases

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the Written Ministerial Statement of 26 January 2009, Official Report, columns 2-3WS, on ContactPoint, on what date he next intends to provide an update on progress on ContactPoint. [252954]

Beverley Hughes: As mentioned in the written ministerial statement of 26 January 2009, Official Report, columns 2-3WS we will provide an update in spring 2009.

Children: Day Care

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how much Ofsted received in registration fees from all child care settings in each of the last five years; [251412]

(2) how much Ofsted received in registration fees from child minders working with children aged (a) under five and (b) five to eight years old in each of the last five years. [251413]

Beverley Hughes [holding answer 26 January 2009]: These are matters for Ofsted. The chief inspector, Christine Gilbert, has written to the hon. Member and copies of her replies have been placed in the Library.

Letter from Christine Gilbert, dated 26 January 2009:

Your recent parliamentary question has been passed to me, as Her Majesty's Chief Inspector, for a response.

Table A shows figures for the total received by Ofsted in childcare registration fees. The data referring to childminder registration fees relate to the registration of individual childminders. The data referring to daycare relate to the registration of providers who provide more than four hours of childcare per day. The data referring to sessional daycare relate to the registration of providers who provide less than four hours of childcare per day.

Table A: Total received by Ofsted in child care registration fees

	2003-04	2004-05	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08

Day Care	1,553,119	1,794,011	2,016,046	2,108,607	2,381,325

	2003-04	2004-05	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08

Total	2,636,677	3,116,958	3,105,180	3,264,880	3,579,188

A copy of this reply has been sent to Rt Hon Beverley Hughes MP, Minister of State for Children, Young People and Families, and will be placed in the library of both Houses.

Letter from Christine Gilbert, dated 26 January 2009:

Your recent parliamentary question has been passed to me, as Her Majesty's Chief Inspector, for a response.

Prior to the introduction of the Early Years Foundation Stage in September 2008, the age of the children using a provider did not affect its registration fee. We are, therefore, unable to readily identify the total received in registration fees from childminders working with children aged (a) under five and (b) five to eight years old in each of the last five years. Data covering the total received by Ofsted in childminder fees in the last five years are included in my response to Parliamentary Question 251412.

A copy of this reply has been sent to Rt Hon Beverley Hughes MP, Minister of State for Children, Young People and Families, and will be placed in the library of both Houses.

Citizenship: Education

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the findings of the sixth annual Citizenship Education Longitudinal Study report; and what changes he has made to citizenship educational policy as a result. [253134]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The findings from each annual report of the Citizenship Education Longitudinal study cannot be viewed in isolation. Together they will inform policy development and enable us to improve the quality and delivery of citizenship education. The sixth annual report recognises that citizenship education, although a very helpful measure, is unlikely by itself to address the 'democratic deficit'. It suggests that schools and citizenship education provision are likely to have an indirect influence through democracy in schools and student efficacy on student attitudes and intentions. As we set out in the Children's Plan, the Government's aim are for all young people to want and be able to participate and take responsible action. We believe that the new duty on schools to invite and consider the views of pupils on matters that affect them will help to strengthen efficacy levels among children and young people and encourage them to continue to play an active part in their community.

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many schools have adopted the Active Citizens in Schools programme. [253135]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Department does not collect information on the number of schools who have adopted the Active Citizens in Schools programme.

Crimes Against Humanity: Anniversaries

Martin Horwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the merits of the observance in educational institutions of a day of remembrance for crimes against humanity. [253758]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: It is for schools to decide whether to observe days of remembrance or celebration and how that might fit with the curriculum or the wider education of the students. However, there are some elements of history that we believe are of vital importance and will continue to ensure that they are covered by all schools—the study of the Holocaust is one of these. Holocaust Memorial Day aims to encourage greater awareness among young people of the relevance of the Holocaust and the need for mutual respect and understanding. It is supported by a Government funded education pack.

Departmental Air Travel

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many official journeys (a) he and (b) his officials have made by plane since his Department was established. [247506]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families has not made any official journeys by plane.

The number of plane journeys taken by DCSF officials was 815. The data provided is based on bookings dealt with by the DCSF's business travel booking service provider (Carlson Wagonlit Travel).

Any flights not booked by the Department's travel provider can be provided only at disproportionate costs.

Travel by Ministers and civil servants is undertaken in accordance with the "Ministerial Code" and the "Civil Service Management Code" respectively.

There has been nil expenditure on work and refurbishment to offices allocated to Ministers in the Department for Children, Schools and Families.

Departmental Computers

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether officials of his Department who have lost laptops that were the property of his Department have been charged the full replacement value of the item in each case. [253640]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Department for Children, Schools and Families has not charged any of its officials the full replacement value for lost laptops.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much his Department and its predecessors spent on (a) salaries and (b) bonuses for staff in each year since 1997. [247305]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The following table summarises the gross salaries and other payments made to permanent staff (including ministers and special advisers) from financial year 1999-2000 to 2007-08. These figures are drawn from the Department's published resource accounts. Figures prior to 1999-2000 were produced using different accounting principles and can only be reproduced on a comparable basis at disproportionate cost.

Separate information on bonus payments made to staff would be available only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Public Relations

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the cost of his Department's contracts with public relations consultancies was in each year since it was established. [251330]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Department for Children, Schools and families was established on 27 June 2007. Including its predecessor (the Department for Education and Skills) the Department's expenditure on public relations in 2007-08 was £2,333,000. There are no figures available for 2008-09 at present.

The Department employs public relations agencies for specific communications tasks, most commonly working alongside our press office to provide campaign support in local, regional and specialist media.

Departmental Redundancy

Justine Greening: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many staff in his Department left under (a) involuntary and (b) voluntary staff exit schemes in each year since 2005-06; how many of them in each case were paid (i) up to £25,000, (ii) £25,001 to £50,000, (iii) £50,001 to £75,000, (iv) £75,001 to £100,000 and (v) over £100,000 in the year before they left; and how much (A) was spent in each of those years and (B) is planned to be spent on such schemes in (1) 2008-09 and (2) 2009-10 by his Department. [242251]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Department was created on 27 June 2007. Since its inception, the number of employees released under the voluntary release scheme and the total cost over the remaining years stated are set out in the following table:

	Number of employees	Total Cost[1] (£ million)
2007-08	110	[1]9.2
2008-09	24	[2]—
2009-10	58	[2]—

[1] The £9.2million shown in the table covers releases agreed and accounted for in 2007-08 and agreed release dates up to 2009-10.

[2] Indicates brace.

Information on individual voluntary exit scheme payments to staff for each of those years is not available in the form requested and could only be provided at disproportionate cost.

There have been were no compulsory redundancies.

Departmental Surveys

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much his Department's central media and communication unit spent on public surveys in each of the last three years. [247922]

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much was spent by his Department on (a) agency and (b) temporary staff in each year since it was established. [251298]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Since its inception, the Department's spend on agency staff for each year is set out as follows:

	Agency (£)
July-December 2007	333,015
January-December 2008	1,219,420

The Department also employs people on other short term contracts but information on salary costs by length of contract could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Hands: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families with reference to the Answer of 3 November 2008, Official Report, column 186W, on departmental training, what personal training courses at public expense other Ministers in his Department have undertaken since 1 January 2008. [251321]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Ministers in the Department for Children, Schools and Families have taken the following personal training courses at public expense since 1 January 2008:

Induction Workshop, Action Learning Set, Media Training, Select Committee Training.

Departmental Working Hours

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what the policy of his Department and its agencies is on granting staff time off in lieu for working (a) in lunch breaks, (b) in evenings and (c) at other times outside contracted working hours; and if he will make a statement; [252041]

(2) how many days off in lieu were granted to staff in (a) his Department, (b) its agencies and (c) its non-departmental public bodies for working (i) in lunch breaks and (ii) at other times outside contracted working hours, in the last year for which figures are available. [252042]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The information requested is not held centrally in the Department or in non-departmental public bodies and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

As part of the Department's flexible working arrangements, employees from Grade 6 to Executive Assistant can work flexitime. These arrangements do not apply to members of the senior civil service

The Department has no agencies.

Dyslexia

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what support his Department provides to schools to assist pupils with dyslexia; [253114]

(2) what plans his Department has for future teaching methods for dyslexic children. [253112]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Sir Jim Rose is currently developing recommendations, in the light of evidence, on the identification and teaching of children with dyslexia. We are now looking forward to Sir Jim publishing these recommendations in the spring.

All local authorities, schools and early years settings must have regard to the special educational needs (SEN) code of practice which provides advice on carrying out statutory duties to identify, assess and make provision for pupils' with SEN. Children with dyslexia should have their needs identified and support put in place in the same way as for other children with SEN.

We have launched a professional development resource for those working in schools, called the Inclusion Development (IDP) Programme. This is being distributed to local authorities and schools through the National Strategies. It offers professional development in key areas of SEN, starting with training on communication difficulties including dyslexia.

We are also working with a number of dyslexia organisations to promote best practice in identifying and supporting children and young people with dyslexia in schools. This includes helping fund the 'No to Failure' project which brings together dyslexia organisations in trailblazing and evaluating the impact of both specialist training for teachers and specialist tuition for pupils with dyslexia, and the British Dyslexia Association helpline which provides advice about dyslexia to teachers as well as parents.

Education: Assessment

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what research his Department has commissioned to assess the effect of testing in schools upon the mental well-being of pupils. [253303]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families, has established an Expert Group on Testing and Assessment. The group is reviewing pupil well being as part of its remit, giving consideration to what advice should be provided to schools to ensure that preparation for national curriculum tests at Key Stage 2 is proportionate and educationally appropriate. The group's findings will be used to inform future plans for testing and assessment.

The evaluation of Single Level Tests under the Making Good Progress pilot included consideration of pupils' experience of testing in an interim Report (Evaluation of the Making Good Progress, Research Report DCSF-RR065), which was published in December 2008. The majority of interviewees who commented on pupils' Single Level Test experiences in the report, considered that pupils were generally not stressed by the tests involved, because they were pitched at the 'right' level.

Education: Standards

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the effects of the implementation of the recommendation in the Faith in the System report on education as a whole; and what costs to his Department arose in the production and distribution of the report. [253696]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: "Faith in the System: the role of schools with a religious character in English education and society" was launched on 10 September 2007 and outlined the Government's and faith schools providers' shared vision on the role of faith schools in the English education system and wider society. The document does not represent a set of new policy initiatives but aims to dispel some of the common myths and misunderstanding around faiths schools. In it, the Government and faith leaders of all faiths that have publicly funded schools in England reaffirmed their commitment to continue to work together and with all schools to improve the life chances of children, to build bridges to greater mutual trust and understanding, and contribute to a just and cohesive society, while nurturing children in their faith and as engaged citizens. We know that the principles of "Faith in the System" are embedded in faith schools and that they are committed to working with other schools and to meeting the needs of all pupils, whether they are of the faith or not.

For example, the Board of Deputies of British Jews have developed the "Shared Futures" linking project, which aims to link minority faith schools and schools without a religious character where the significant majority of pupils are of a single faith. The Church of England (CofE) is now committed to reserving 25 per cent. of school places at new CofE schools for pupils from the local neighbourhood regardless of faith background or none; and last year, the Catholic Education Service (CES) launched new preliminary guidance for all Catholic schools in England on the statutory duty to promote community cohesion.

The faith groups are now working together to take forward "Faith in the System", with the CES taking the lead in organising a follow-up conference, which is due to be held in autumn this year.

The costs of printing the "Faith in the System" document were £5,208 (£6,119 including VAT). No other substantial additional costs have arisen in relation to this resource as staff time in facilitating the working groups and drafting the document does not represent an additional cost.

Equality: Education

Martin Horwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what assessment he has made of the merits of teaching intercultural competencies; [253726]

(2) whether his Department plans to issue guidance to its agencies on the use of the descriptors of key competencies for intercultural communication in the design and implementation of curricula at all levels of education, including teacher training. [253754]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry [holding answer 2 February 2009]: It is crucial that young people have the right skills to compete in an increasingly fast changing global economy. Communication skills in other languages, combined with an understanding and appreciation of other cultures, will become increasingly important for the jobs of the future. We have made no specific assessment of this issue and have no plans to issue specific guidance to schools on intercultural competencies. However, intercultural understanding is a key concept within compulsory language learning for 11 to 14-year-olds, where pupils learn to appreciate other cultures, recognise different ways of seeing the world, develop an international look and communicate with native speakers where possible.

Citizenship education equips pupils with the knowledge and skills needed for effective and democratic participation. This includes such areas as the changing nature of UK society, the diversity of ideas, beliefs, cultures, identities, traditions, perspectives and values that are shared; migration to, from and within the UK and the reasons for this, the UK's relations with the European Union and the rest of Europe, the Commonwealth, the United Nations and the world as a global community.

Foreign Languages: Assessments

Mr. Hands: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what criteria are used when assessing whether a foreign language should be approved as a new GCSE subject; [254796]

(2) if he will support the introduction of a foreign language (a) GCSE and (b) A Level qualification in Serbian. [254797]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Decisions as to which languages are offered at GCSE or A-level are for awarding bodies to take in the light of demand. The Department is not aware of any plans to introduce a GCSE or A-level qualification in Serbian. Further details on getting qualifications accredited are available from the Office of the Qualifications and Examinations Regulator, whose website is www.ofqual.gov.uk.

Free School Meals: Chelmsford

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many children received free school meals in West Chelmsford constituency in (a) 1997 and (b) each of the last five years. [254715]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The requested information is shown in the table, together with the numbers of children eligible for free school meals. The numbers receiving free school meals on census day are regarded as less reliable than the numbers eligible.

Functional Skills Qualifications

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the outcomes of the first 1,000 pilots of the Functional Skills qualifications. [247240]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Functional Skills pilot is being managed by the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority (QCA) and will last for three years. It started in September 2007 and ends in 2010. QCA are evaluating the pilot throughout that period and will be publishing summaries of the evaluation reports.

Mr. Rob Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what percentage of students received lower A level grades than predicted in each of the last 10 years for which figures are available. [244445]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Department does not hold this information as we do not collect information on predicted A level grades.

2. Figures include attempts by these pupils in previous academic years. Only one attempt is counted per pupil.
3. The figures are derived from the Achievement and Attainment Tables data.

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many students took both mathematics and physics GCSE in (a) independent and (b) maintained schools in the last five years for which figures are available. [252604]

Literacy: Advisory Services

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many literacy advisers are employed by the National Strategies for early years, primary and secondary teachers, practitioners and managers. [254728]

Jim Knight: There are 46 English/literacy advisers employed by the National Strategies across the early years, primary and secondary sectors. Their principle role is to provide support to local authorities, schools and early years settings, including training and professional development materials which are provided free.

Music Standards Fund

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much funding his Department has provided to the Music Standards Fund as by (a) baseline funding and (b) the Music Standards Fund grant in each of the last five years. [254360]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The following table shows how much funding has been allocated through the Music Standards Fund in each of the last five years. In addition to the baseline amount of £297.5 million a further £52 million has been allocated to local authorities to encourage the development of programmes designed to increase the number of pupils at KS2 able to learn a musical instrument.

Music: Education

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much has been (a) allocated and (b) spent on musical instrument tuition for young people in schools since December 2007. [252924]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Department allocated £82,567,000 to local authorities in both 2007-08 and 2008-09 through the Music Standards Fund. We have asked local authorities to prioritise the provision of instrumental and vocal tuition at Key Stage 2 with this funding but we neither specify nor collect information on the actual amount that is spent on instrumental tuition. We are also investing £10 million per year to 2011 for the purchase of musical instruments.

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps his Department is taking to encourage an increase in uptake of music (a) GCSE and (b) A level courses. [253497]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Department allocated £82,567,000 to local authorities in both 2007-08 and 2008-09 through the Music Standards Fund. We have asked local authorities to prioritise the provision of instrumental and vocal tuition at Key Stage 2 with this funding. We are also investing £10 million per year to 2011 on Sing Up, the National Singing Programme spearheaded by Howard Goodall. With this early introduction to quality music experiences we believe that children will come to see themselves as musicians and will have a real and long-lasting enjoyment of music which will encourage them to continue their learning as they move into secondary school. The compulsory Music Curriculum at Key Stage 3 is now much more focussed on performance and hands-on music making. The curriculum builds on students' own interests and skills and should, therefore, engage them more fully which in turn will encourage them to continue with their studies in music through to GCSE and A Level.

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many (a) primary and (b) secondary school pupils were learning a musical instrument in each year since 2000. [254579]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: While this information is not collected centrally, I refer the hon. Member to the reply given on 15 July 2008 Official Report, column 384W. That reply states the percentage of Key Stage 1 and Key Stage 2 pupils reported as receiving specialist instrumental or vocal tuition in the surveys conducted by the Institute of Education, University of London in 2002, 2005 and 2007.

Data on secondary school pupils was not collected from Music Services in 2007. The 2005 Survey of Local Authority Music Services reported that overall, 8.4 per cent. of pupils Key Stage 1 to Key Stage 4 were learning to play an instrument, a small increase on the figures for 2002. The 2005 report also pointed out that one of the obstacles to increasing the number of pupils playing was the legislation preventing charging for groups larger than four pupils. That legislation has since been amended.

The survey reports are available at www.dcsf.gov.uk/research.

Music: Teachers

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much has been spent from the public purse on the fund established for the professional development of music teachers in each year since it was established. [259922]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Since September 2006, when the contract was let, £3.3 million has been spent to develop and deliver a programme of professional development for those working with children at Key Stage 2 in music. This breaks down as follows: £1.1 million in 2006-07, £1.3 million in 2007-08 and £0.9 million to date in 2008-09.

Physical Education: Finance

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much funding has been (a) allocated and (b) spent as part of the PE and Sport Strategy. [253302]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Since 2003, investment in the PE, School Sport and Club Links (PESSCL) Strategy and the PE and Sport Strategy for Young People (PESSYP) has totalled over £2.2 billion. This has been allocated and spent, as follows:

	Allocated	Spend
PESSCL (2003-08)	1,500,000,000	1,500,000,000
PESSYP (2008-11)	755,000,000	[1]251,000,000

[1] Forecast spend as at 31 March 2009.

Playgrounds

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many local authorities have obtained capital funding to support the delivery of stimulating local places to play since the publication of the children's plan; [247195]

(2) how many of the proposed new adventure playgrounds referred to on page 101 of his Department's Annual Report have been built; [247194]

(3) when the (a) play strategy and (b) outcomes of the consultation on the strategy was published. [246997]

Beverley Hughes: In April 2008 a first wave of 63 (20 Pathfinder and 43 Playbuilder) local authorities started receiving their play capital and revenue funding. By April 2009, all local authorities will have been offered funding of at least £1 million.

On average over the course of the programme, each play Pathfinder authority will receive around £2 million capital funding and £500,000 revenue funding, and each Playbuilder authority will receive around £1 million capital and £45,000 revenue funding.

Each play Pathfinder authority will deliver a staffed adventure playground to support local children most in need of improved play opportunities. Wave 1 Pathfinders are scheduled to complete 20 adventure play grounds in total by April 2010, and are on track to do so. The wave 2 Pathfinders starting in April 2009 have until 2011 to deliver 10 adventure playgrounds in total.

The Play Strategy was on launched Wednesday 10 December 2008, by a written ministerial statement, Official Report, column 51WS—and a launch event at the White Horse Adventure Playground, Tower Hamlets, attended by my noble Friend Baroness Morgan of Drefelin, the Parliamentary Under Secretary of State for Children.

The Play Strategy directly responds to a huge consultation response, including over 9,400 responses from children and young people themselves. 12 per cent. of responses came from disabled children. Key findings from the consultation response are highlighted throughout the Play Strategy document. Children, young people and families were clear that they want improved local play opportunities that are safe and exciting, and communities that are more child-friendly.

Pre-School Education: Manpower

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what proportion of staff in the childcare sector were qualified to at least level three in each of the last 30 years. [252070]

Beverley Hughes: The Childcare and Early Years Providers Survey collects information on the proportion of staff in the child care sector qualified to at least level three. The following table shows the proportion of staff in the child care sector qualified to at least level three for 2003, 2006 and 2007 by different type of child care provider. The proportion of staff qualified to at least level 3 rose in all types of child care setting from 2003 to 2007. Data for earlier years are not available.

Primary schools with reception but no nursery classes	64	71	73

Notes:

1. Data include all paid child care staff from Childcare and Early Years Providers Survey.
2. Data are not available for all types of providers for 2003.

Primary Education

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what his Department's policy is on allowing children born in August to delay starting school until after they have reached the age of five. [253701]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The latest a child can start primary school is at the beginning of the term immediately following their fifth birthday. There are no plans to change this.

The remit for the Independent Review of the Primary Curriculum, asks Sir Jim Rose to consider whether it be appropriate to allow more choice and flexibility in start dates for children entering school. The final report and recommendations will be published this spring.

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what his policy is on the framework for the primary curriculum laid out in Sir Jim Rose's interim report. [254182]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: We welcome the provisional findings of the Independent Review of the Primary Curriculum set out in the interim report. We look forward to receiving Sir Jim Rose's final report and recommendations for consideration in the spring.

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families when he expects the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority to complete its work on progression statements and programmes of learning for the framework for the primary curriculum proposed in Sir Jim Rose's interim report. [254183]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Qualifications and Curriculum Authority are working to a timetable that will allow Sir Jim Rose to provide his final advice and recommendations, including programmes of learning, in the spring.

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what consideration he plans to give in his response to the Rose Review to the final report from the Cambridge Primary Review. [254184]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Sir Jim Rose is currently producing his final report of the Independent Review of the Primary Curriculum. As part of his review he is taking into account a wide range of evidence and research. Jim Rose has met with members of the Cambridge Primary Review.

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps his Department is taking to ensure that primary school children are not put under too much pressure academically. [254903]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families, has asked Sir Jim Rose to undertake a review of the primary curriculum. As part of his remit, Sir Jim will be reviewing the content of existing programmes of study and reducing prescription where possible. His interim report sets out proposals providing an entitlement to a broad and balanced curriculum and a greater emphasis on children's personal development.

We have set up an Expert Group on assessment who are examining the assessment system up to Key Stage 3. Part of their remit specifically states that they should state what advice schools should be given so that test preparation is proportionate, educationally appropriate, and that the delivery of a broad and balanced curriculum is not inhibited.

Primary Education: Class Sizes

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many five to seven-year-olds were educated in classes of at least (a) 25 and (b) 20 pupils in each local authority area in the latest year for which figures are available. [253177]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The requested information on pupils with one or more episodes of fixed period exclusion is provided in the table.

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many pupils were given more than two fixed-period exclusions in each local authority in the last 12 months. [251117]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The latest available information covers the school year 2006/07; this has been placed in the Library.

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many children were permanently excluded from school in the most recent year which figures are available; and what percentage of those children were looked-after children. [251781]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: In 2006/07, the latest year for which information is available, there were 8,680 permanent exclusions from primary, secondary and all special schools (including CTCs and academies). This figure is given in table 3 of the 'Permanent and Fixed Period Exclusions from Schools in England 2006/07' Statistical First Release:

http://www.dcsf.gov.uk/rsgateway/DB/SFR/s000793/index.shtml

In 2006/07, the latest year for which data is available, there were 220 permanent exclusions from schools for looked-after children[1]. This figure is given in table A of the 'Outcome Indicators for Children Looked After, 12 months to 30 September 2007—England' Statistical First Release:

http://www.dcsf.gov.uk/rsgateway/DB/SFR/s000785/index.shtml

Looked-after children who have been permanently excluded as a percentage of total permanent exclusions cannot be calculated because the figure for the total number of permanent exclusions and the figure for the number of permanent exclusions for looked-after children come from different sources and are on different bases.

[1] If a child has been permanently excluded more than once in the previous school year, each occasion has been counted.

Pupil Referral Units

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what consultation he has undertaken with representatives of the education sector on the proposed renaming of pupil referral units; and if he will make a statement; [252448]

(2) how many Link schools there are; and how many such schools have the word link in their official titles. [252449]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Our proposal to re-name pupil referral units was put forward in the White Paper "Back on Track: A strategy for modernising alternative provision for young people", published in May 2008. A full public consultation was held on the contents of the White Paper, including the proposed name change, and we received a number of responses suggesting new names for pupil referral units.

The ministerial stakeholders' group on behaviour and attendance, which includes representatives from the professional associations unions, school governance organisations and local authority organisations, was also consulted on the Back on Track proposals, as was the national organisation for PRUs, which held a survey on its website to identify popular names.

Once a shortlist of names was collated, schools in England who already use the potential new names were contacted by officials.

My officials have identified five schools in England called 'Link' or 'Links'.

Pupils: English Language

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families with reference to the answer of 26 January 2009, Official Report, column 165W, on pupils: English language, if he will provide the same information for (a) 2004 and (b) 1999. [253398]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry [holding answer 9 February 2009]: The requested information has been placed in the Library.

Recycling: Education

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what funding his Department has provided to improve education about recycling in schools in the last five years. [253695]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Education about recycling in schools comes within the National Framework for Sustainable Schools which was launched in May 2006. The Department's spending on sustainable schools has been to date:

Financial year 2006-07: £600,000

Financial year 2007-08: £1,015,000

And we have forecast to spend in 2008-09:

Financial year 2008-09: £1,015,000.

Since 2006, the Department has provided support to schools by producing a Top Tips guide for reducing waste; a guide to Bursars which includes advice on waste minimisation and recycling which could save schools' money; and a Carbon Detectives' Kit (carbon footprint tool) which enables young people to investigate their school's sustainability performance and supports them in finding ways to improve it.

Investigations into waste and recycling are included in the Carbon Detectives' Kit.

School Meals

Joan Walley: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what proportion of children have school meals in each local authority area. [247515]

Beverley Hughes: The Department does not collect this information.

However, the School Food Trust's (SFT) annual survey on school meals take-up in England provides information on take-up by region.

All secondary	37.6	37.7	-0.3	-0.1

[1] The apparent 6 per cent. increase in take up in East Midlands is attributable to a difference in the reported value for take up in one LA from 17 per cent. in 2006-07 to 29 per cent. in 2007-08. In April 2008, the reported value for the same LA for 2006-07 was 44 per cent. suggesting that the original value of 17 per cent. may have been in error. Also, two LAs with take up lower than the national average reported in 2006-07 but not for 2007-08.

[2] The apparent 6 per cent. increase in take up in South East is attributable to increases in take up of 5 per cent. and 6 per cent. in two of the largest LAs in South East. Once weighting is applied, these increases make a significant contribution to the regional average.

[3] The apparent 8 per cent. decrease in take up in South East is attributable to different LAs reporting in 2008 and 2007, with one LA with higher than average take up reporting in 2007 but not 2008, and one LA with lower than average take up reporting in 2008 but not 2007. Also, an 8 per cent. drop in take up in the second largest LA in South East will have significantly affected the weighted average.

[4] The apparent 4 per cent. increase in take up in South West is attributable to more survey responses in 2007-2008 (5 LAs) compared with 2006-2007 (3 LAs).

Note:

Base (unweighted): Primary: 97 (2007-2008); 86 (2006-2007). Secondary: 78 (2007-2008); 64 (2006-2007). Analysis: weighted by number of pupils attending schools catered for.

The SFT has also published partial take-up data at local authority (LA) level, in a technical paper "NI 52 - take up of school lunches" (December 2008) that discusses the impact of the introduction of the new national indicator for take-up of school meals (NI52). The first official NI52 data collection will be in April 2009. Following this, take-up data at LA level will be available in the summer of 2009.

Schools: Collective Worship

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether he has any plans to remove the requirement for a daily act of worship in schools. [253807]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: We have no plans to remove the requirement for a daily act of worship in schools.

Schools: Finance

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether he plans to bring forward additional capital expenditure on schools; and if he will make a statement. [255294]

Jim Knight: Local authorities have been invited to bid to bring forward funding allocated at local authority level from 2010-11 to 2009-10. Their views have also been requested on bringing forward projects funded by Devolved Formula Capital (DFC) at school level. The decision on whether to bring forward DFC will be made in the light of these responses.

Schools: Standards

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many schools were in the National Challenge as at 25 January 2009; and if he will make a statement. [253176]

Jim Knight: There is good progress towards meeting the National Challenge. In 2007 there were 631 schools where fewer than 30 per cent. of pupils achieved five A*-C grades including English and mathematics at GCSE. This figure has reduced to 440 on the basis of final published data which is a reduction of 191 schools. All schools below the threshold will receive bespoke support as appropriate from the National Challenge.

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families by what means his Department plans to evaluate school-level indicators of well-being. [253743]

Beverley Hughes: Our joint consultation with Ofsted on school-level indicators of well-being has just finished and we are currently considering responses before making final decisions on what the indicators will be. The next steps will be for Ofsted to trial the indicators and for this Department to work with Ofsted to develop an evaluation plan.

Science: Education

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps he is taking to raise the school science examination standards in (a) England, (b) the North East, (c) Tees Valley and (d) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland. [249819]

Jim Knight: The Department for Children, Schools and Families has responsibility for the curriculum in England only; responsibility for the rest of the United Kingdom was devolved to the Scottish Parliament and the Assemblies for Wales and Northern Ireland.

The Government's ambition is to create an education and training environment throughout the whole of England that delivers the best in science teaching and learning at every stage. To support this ambition we announced in January 2008 a £140 million strategy over the period 2008-11 to educate the next generation of scientists and mathematicians and help recruit and train more science and mathematics teachers. Much work is already under way to improve standards of science teaching and learning, including:

> Raising attainment through the Secondary National Strategy;
> Streamlining the curriculum to make it more manageable and focus on the key concepts of science, as well as its excitement and relevance;
> Supporting 500 science and engineering clubs for pupils at key stage 3 with an interest and aptitude for science.
> Providing additional incentives to recruit more high quality science graduates into science teaching.
> Improving the quality of teaching by making available good quality continuing professional development through the network of Science Learning Centres, which we fund jointly with the Wellcome Trust.

Science: GCSE

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what percentage of pupils eligible to receive free school meals attained a GCSE in (a) physics, (b) chemistry and (c) biology in the latest period for which figures are available. [241793]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The table shows the number and percentage of pupils achieving A*-G in physics, chemistry and biology by eligibility of free school meals in 2007.

Serbo-Croat Language: General Certificate of Secondary Education

Mr. Randall: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the merits of reintroducing Serbo-Croat as a GCSE option in schools. [254180]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: No assessment has been made. Decisions as to which languages are offered are for awarding bodies to take in the light of demand.

Social Workers: Recruitment

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much was spent on recruiting children's social workers in 2008. [253392]

Beverley Hughes: Social workers are directly recruited by their employers. The Department for Children, Schools and Families does not collect information on how much employers spend on recruiting children's social workers.

Special Educational Needs

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many pupils (a) were eligible for free school meals and had statemented or non-statemented special educational needs, (b) were eligible for free school meals and were children in care, (c) had statemented or non-statemented special educational needs and were children in care and (d) were eligible for free school meals, had statemented or non-statemented special educational needs, and were children in care in each of the last five years. [252672]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Information on children in care is usually sourced from the Looked After Children database but this cannot be used to answer this question. However, data on pupils in care is also collected via the School Census and the latest information is shown in the table.

This census shows that there were 34,390 pupils aged five to 19 attending primary, secondary and special schools classed as being in care as at January 2008. Data published by the Department as SFR 23/2008: Children looked after in England (including adoption and care leavers) year ending 31 March 2008, shows 47,600 children aged between five and 19 as being looked after as at 31 March 2008. However the School Census does not cover all looked after children; information is not collected for pupils in alternative provision, including pupil referral units, FE colleges, voluntary provision and those not in education or training. These differences in coverage will explain the different counts to an extent, but it is possible that the School Census undercounts the number of looked after children in primary, secondary and special schools.

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what support his Department is providing to schools to improve educational provision for children with behavioural needs in 2008-09. [253121]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Government are implementing a comprehensive national programme to strengthen schools' capacity to manage behaviour. This includes targeted support for schools, high quality training, curriculum materials and consultancy support. We have also strengthened the law to help protect schools from challenges to their authority from pupils or parents, and enable them to foster a safe and orderly learning environment.

We are encouraging schools to develop a whole-school approach to improving social and emotional wellbeing and continuing to reduce behavioural difficulties, by promoting the Social and Emotional Aspects of Learning (SEAL) Programme and by publishing guidance on the management of behaviour.

In this context, last May we issued revised guidance on the education of children and young people experiencing behavioural, emotional and social difficulties as a special educational need (BESD). We have also commissioned the National Strategies to provide a wide range of support and advisory services, including continuing a professional development scheme, which includes study materials on managing behaviour in schools and addressing BESD.

Special Educational Needs: GCSE

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families in which special schools more than 50 per cent. of pupils achieved five A* to C grades at GCSE in 2008. [253673]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Four special schools are published in the Achievement and Attainment Tables showing more than 50 per cent. of pupils achieving five or more GCSEs in 2008.

These are:

Edington and Shapwick School, Somerset;
Mary Hare Grammar School, West Berkshire;
More House School, Surrey; and Mark College, Somerset.

Special Educational Needs: School Leaving

Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment his Department has made of the merits of children with profound and multiple learning difficulties remaining at a specialist school until the age of 18 years. [252754]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: We believe that all young people should participate in education or training until at least 18. Young people who stay on after 16 are more likely to gain higher levels of qualifications by 18 than those who do not and are less likely to commit crimes, behave antisocially or to suffer ill health. The Education and Skills Act 2008 introduced compulsory participation until 18 for all young people and this will ensure that the entire education system focuses on the needs of the all young people, including those with profound and multiple learning difficulties. It may be that the most suitable and appropriate provision for a particular young person would continue to be a special school, in which case this should be the key factor in determining where that young person receives their education.

There is a vital and continuing role for special schools as part of an inclusive education system, meeting young people's needs directly and working in much closer partnership with mainstream schools to build expertise throughout the system. The present Special Educational Needs statutory framework provides for children and young people with statements to be taught in mainstream schools where this is what their parents want and is compatible with the efficient education of other children. It also provides for parents to seek a special school place and to have this preference considered. If a young person with SEN remains at school after reaching age 16, the school and the local authority continue the SEN arrangements already in place, subject to further regular reviews. If a young person with SEN continues their education at a further education college the Learning and Skills Council has a duty to take regard of the young person's learning difficulties and disabilities.

The Children, Skills and Learning Bill creates the conditions for local authorities to assume responsibility for funding for learners with profound and multiple disabilities in 2010 and we believe this is the best way to develop a continuous system of support and provision from age 0-25.

Special Educational Needs: Teachers

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what percentage of teachers have received teacher training in special educational needs beyond their initial teacher training in each local authority in the last 12 months for which figures are available. [252670]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Special Guardianship Orders

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many special guardianship orders have been made in each local authority area in each of the last five years; [251850]

(2) how many special guardianship arrangements have broken down in each of the last five years. [251851]

Beverley Hughes: Information on the number of looked after children who ceased to be looked after as a result of a special guardianship order, in each local authority in each of the last three years ending 31 March 2006 to 2008, can be found in the following table.

Information on the number of special guardianship orders that have been made is only available for the last three years as they were first introduced on 30 December 2005. The figures for year ending 31 March 2006 only account for the last three months of the data collection year.

Information on the number of special guardianship arrangements that have broken down is not collected centrally by the Department.

[2] Only the last occasion on which a child ceased to be looked after in the year has been counted.

[3] Figures exclude children looked after under an agreed series of short term placements.

[4] Special Guardianship orders were introduced on 30 December 2005. Consequently figures for year ending 31 March 2006 only account for the last three months of the data collection year.

[5] To ensure that no individual can be identified from statistical tables, we use conventions for the rounding and suppression of very small numbers. National figures have been rounded to the nearest 100 if they exceed 1,000 or to the nearest 10 otherwise. Numbers at local authority level have been rounded to the nearest five and numbers at region level have been rounded to the nearest 10. Numbers of five or less have been suppressed and replaced with a hyphen (—) except where the number is zero.

Steer Review

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families when he expects the next report arising from the Steer Review to be published. [247414]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: I am expecting Sir Alan to issue his latest report within the next three weeks.

My right hon. Friend, the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families, has asked Sir Alan to use this report to advise him on how to make school partnerships for improving behaviour and tackling persistent absence more effective; what more might be done to encourage early intervention and more consistent good practice in provision for pupils with special educational needs; and the links between pupil behaviour and school policies on learning and teaching.

Teaching Methods

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what strategies his Department has introduced to encourage personalised teaching and learning; and what mechanisms he has established by which the effectiveness of these strategies will be assessed. [253300]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: £1.6 billion is being made available across 2008-11 for personalised learning and special educational needs (SEN). This money is not ring-fenced and schools are free to spend it in a way which best supports their individual needs. In October 2008 we launched "Personalised Learning—A Practical Guide" to provide support and guidance to schools in prioritising their spending.

Core strategies underpinning personalised teaching and learning include:

> The Assessment for Learning Strategy to help schools improve and plan their Assessment for Learning (AfL) provision, underpinned by £150 million being made available to schools across 2008-11. Progress against strategy objectives and their impact is being monitored and driven forward in partnership with key agencies including the National Strategies (NS) and the QCA.
> From September 2010, access to a named personal tutor for every secondary school pupil and their parents. The personal tutor will know them in the round and will normally be the first point of contact for parents to discuss a range of academic and pastoral issues with the school.
> One-to-one tuition in reading, writing and mathematics, being introduced nationally from 2009 in Key Stages 2 and 3 and, in National Challenge schools, at Key Stage 4. One-to-one tuition is being rigorously evaluated as part of the Making Good Progress Pilot.
> Focused support in reading, writing and mathematics through the Every Child a Reader (ECaR), Every Child a Writer (ECaW), and Every Child Counts (ECC) suite of programmes.

Public Service Agreements and national targets for 2011 have a dual focus on ensuring that pupils reach the levels expected for their age in both English and mathematics (threshold targets) and improving the rates of progress made by pupils from ages 5-16 (new progression targets), with increased attention to achieving faster progress for underachieving groups.

HEALTH

Abortion

Mr. Goodwill: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many terminations of pregnancies where severe disability was suspected were carried out in the most recent 12 month period for which figures are available. [254563]

Dawn Primarolo [holding answer 5 February 2009]: There were 1,939 abortions performed under section l(l)(d) of the Abortion Act in England and Wales in 2007, the last year for which figures are available. The full table showing the breakdown by principal medical condition for abortions performed under section 1(1)(d) is available in the Abortion Statistics, England and Wales: 2007, copies of which have been placed in the Library.

The number of physical assaults reported against staff in ambulance trusts in the period 2005-06 to 2007-08 are shown in the following tables.

Anorexia: Internet

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what discussions he has had with ministerial colleagues on the Pro Ana web sites relating to anorexia; and if he will make a statement. [254580]

Phil Hope: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State has not discussed this issue with ministerial colleagues. Responsibility for the regulation of the internet rests with the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform.

The Department is concerned about the risks posed by websites which encourage anorexia or bulimia, but cannot take any legal action against them. Such sites are not in themselves illegal and may also be hosted overseas.

We continue to explore a variety of courses of action. For example, we have worked with a media agency which offered their expertise pro bono to run advertisements directing youngsters to more appropriate sites.

Blood: Donors

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether he plans to allow gay men to donate blood. [254900]

Dawn Primarolo: Current policy excludes men who have ever had sex with men, whatever their sexual orientation, from blood donation.

The United Kingdom adopts a highly precautionary approach to blood safety. The guiding principle is that if the best available evidence shows that there are reasonable grounds to believe that a course of action will improve the safety of the blood, this action should be taken. The Department is committed to regularly reviewing this evidence, and has asked its expert advisory committee on the Safety of Blood, Tissues and Organs to do this in 2009.

Care Homes: Elderly

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many visits the Minister for Care Services has made to (a) care homes, (b) day centres and (c) other services for older people. [254591]

Phil Hope: I have undertaken visits to the following care homes for older people, day care centres for older people and other services for older people:

Visits for 2008

Date	Visit	Organisation	Location	Purpose
13 October 2008	Dignity tour—North East England	Service for older people	Dementia Care Partnership, Bradbury Centre	Tour of centre and meet staff and residents.
3 November 2008	Dignity tour—East of England	Services for older people	The Julian Hospital, Norwich, Norfolk and Waveney Mental Health NHS Trust	Tour of wards for older people, meet with staff and patients.
10 November 2008	Dignity tour—South East Coast	Care Home for older people	Red Oaks Care Home, Barchester Healthcare	Tour of home and meet staff and residents.
18 December 2008	Dignity visit, East Midlands	Services for older people	Cynthia Spencer Hospice, Manfield Health Campus, Northampton Northamptonshire	Tour of hospice and meet staff and patients.

Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease

Mr. David Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment his Department has made of the resources needed to implement the forthcoming National Service Framework for chronic obstructive pulmonary disease; and whether there will be ring-fenced funding from his Department for this purpose. [253711]

Ann Keen: The Department is currently developing a detailed Impact Assessment for the National Strategy for chronic obstructive pulmonary disease and any financial implications of implementing the programme will be published alongside the strategy.

Complementary Medicine

Mr. Binley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment his Department has made of (a) the side-effects of (i) Vioxx, (ii) SSRI antidepressants and (iii) Salmeterol and (b) the use of complementary and alternative medicines to treat the conditions such drugs were developed to address. [254114]

Dawn Primarolo: The safety and efficacy of medicinal products is formally assessed from clinical trials submitted at the time of marketing authorisation. These data are carefully evaluated by the independent scientific advisory committee, the Commission on Human Medicines (CHM), and the Medicines Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA) prior to authorisation for evidence that the products work and are acceptably safe. The longer term safety of the use of medicines in routine clinical practice is closely monitored by the MHRA, including reports of suspected adverse drug reactions (ADRs) submitted by health professionals and patients through the Yellow Card scheme, to ensure that benefit risk balance continues to be favourable.

The safety of Vioxx (rofecoxib), the Selective Serotonin Reuptake Inhibitor antidepressants (SSRIs) and salmeterol has been under continuous review by the MHRA since these medicinal products were first authorised. Any new data or possible safety issue to emerge have been carefully evaluated and, as necessary, appropriate action taken to update the product information for prescribers and patients to reflect the emerging safety profile and where necessary revised prescribing advice has been issued.

Vioxx (rofecoxib) was a selective COX-2 inhibitor, a type of non-selective anti-inflammatory drug, licensed for the treatment of osteoarthritis, rheumatoid arthritis and acute pain conditions. In 2000, comparative clinical trial data raised concerns over the risk of heart attacks and other thrombotic cardiovascular events in association with use of rofecoxib. The Committee on Safety of Medicines (CSM, the predecessor to the CHM) reviewed the safety of rofecoxib on several occasions between 2000 and 2003. This led to updates to product information and prescribing advice on the risk of thrombotic cardiovascular events. In 2004, the manufacturers of rofecoxib withdrew the product after clinical trial data comparing rofecoxib with placebo (a dummy pill) provided the first definitive evidence of an increased risk of heart attack and stroke, evident after 18 months of treatment. The safety of other selective COX-2 inhibitors and non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDs) was fully reviewed between 2004 and 2006 and the conclusion was that the benefits of the authorised NSAIDs continue to outweigh the risks in the licensed indications.

SSRI antidepressants are used to treat depression and anxiety disorders. Ongoing concerns about the safety of the SSRIs in early 2003 prompted a review by an Expert Working Group of the CSM of the risk of suicidal behaviour and withdrawal reactions associated with the SSRIs. The Expert Working Group conducted a comprehensive review of the safety of this entire class of drugs, examining all available evidence and reviewing all the regulatory advice issued. The MHRA published key findings and updated advice to healthcare professionals and patients as the review progressed.

Salmeterol is a long-acting adrenoceptor beta agonist (LABA) used in the management of asthma and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease. The CSM and CHM have reviewed the safety of salmeterol on a number of occasions, leading to updates to product information and communications to remind healthcare professionals of the appropriate use of LABA in the treatment of asthma. The balance of risks and benefits of LABA was recently reviewed at the request of CHM, and was considered positive in the treatment of asthma in adults and adolescents, provided LABA are used with inhaled corticosteroids. The outcome of the review was published in the MHRA bulletin Drug Safety Update, which is available on the MHRA website.

There are currently no complementary or alternative medicines with marketing authorisations for the treatment of major conditions such as osteoarthritis, depression or asthma therefore the MHRA does not hold any information on the usage of complementary and alternative medicines for these conditions.

Some years ago the MHRA considered a number of applications for marketing authorisations for products containing St. John's Wort (Hypericum perforatum L.) for mild to moderate depression. However, the applications were refused due to lack of adequate evidence of safety and efficacy.

Dementia: Devon

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people were diagnosed with (a) Alzheimer's disease and (b) dementia in (i) East Devon constituency and (ii) Devon in each of the last five years. [253999]

Phil Hope: The national Quality and Outcomes Framework (QOF) records the number of people recorded on practice disease registers with a diagnosis of dementia but this does not distinguish between Alzheimer's disease and other forms of dementia. The publication 'Revisions to the GMS Contract 2006/07', from NHS Employers, states that Alzheimer's disease accounts for 50-75 per cent. of cases of dementia. This register count is available for the two latest releases of QOF, covering 2006-07 and 2007-08.

We are unable to supply this information for parliamentary constituencies, as the data are only available for general practices (GPs) and can be aggregated to primary care trust (PCT) level. We have supplied figures for the smallest health area that covers Devon, namely Devon PCT.

These QOF figures are given in the following table. They are the totals for patients with dementia.

Notes:

1. QOF is the national Quality and Outcomes Framework, introduced as part of the new General Medical Services contract on 1 April 2004.
2. Participation by practices in the QOF is voluntary, though participation rates are very high, with most Personal Medical Services practices also taking part.
3. The published QOF information was derived from the Quality Management Analysis System (QMAS), a national system developed by NHS Connecting for Health.
4. QMAS uses data from general practices to calculate individual practices' QOF achievement. QMAS is a national information technology system developed by NHS Connecting for Health to support the QOF.
5. The system calculates practice achievement against national targets. It gives general practices, PCTs and strategic health authorities objective evidence and feedback on the quality of care delivered to patients.
6. QMAS captures the number of patients on the various disease registers for each practice. The number of patients on the clinical registers can be used to calculate measures of disease prevalence, expressing the number of patients on each register as a percentage of the number of patients on practices' lists.
7. Figures presented here are just the number of patients on the disease register for dementia.

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many beds for people diagnosed with dementia there were in Devon in each of the last 10 years; and if he will make a statement. [254000]

Phil Hope: This information is not held centrally.

Dementia is one of the most important issues we face as the population ages. Around 570,000 people already have the condition in England and this number is set to double in the next 30 years, with the costs of dementia tripling.

That is why the Department published the first National Dementia Strategy on 3 February 2009. It sets out how we can transform services, through a combination of better training, earlier intervention and real support for people with dementia and their families.

Dental Services

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many courses of treatment dentists carried out in (a) the North Yorkshire and York primary care trust area and (b) England in each year since 1997. [254279]

Ann Keen: The information is not available in the format requested. However, information is available on the numbers of courses of treatment (CoTs) in England in the years ending 31 March, 1997 to 2006 in Table 3 of the "NHS Dental Activity and Workforce Report, England: 31 March 2006" report.

This information is based on the old contractual arrangements which were in place up to and including 31 March 2006. This report has already been placed in the Library and is available on the NHS Information Centre website at:

www.ic.nhs.uk/pubs/dwfactivity

The number of CoTs performed in England in 2006-07 and 2007-08 are available in Table A4 of Annex 3 of the "NHS Dental Statistics for England: 2007/08" report. Information is provided by primary care trust and strategic health authority. This information is based on the new dental contractual arrangements, introduced on 1 April 2006. This report, has already been placed in the Library and is also available on the NHS Information Centre website at:

www.ic.nhs.uk/pubs/dental0708

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many practising dentists there were in (a) the North Yorkshire and York primary care trust area and (b) England on 1 April in each year since 1997. [254280]

Ann Keen: The numbers of national health service dentists, as at 31 March, 1997 to 2006 are available in annex E of the "NHS Dental Activity and Workforce Report England: 31 March 2006". Information is available by strategic health authority (SHA) and by primary care trust (PCT).

This measure counted the number of NHS dentists recorded on PCT lists as at 31 March each year. This information is based on the old contractual arrangements, which were in place up to and including 31 March 2006. This report has already been placed in the Library and is also available on the NHS Information Centre website at:

www.ic.nhs.uk/pubs/dwfactivity

The numbers of dentists with NHS activity during the years ending 31 March, 2007 and 2008 are available in table G1 of annex 3 of the "NHS Dental Statistics for England: 2007/08" report. Information is provided by SHA and by PCT. This information is based on the new dental contractual arrangements, introduced on 1 April 2006. This report has already been placed in the Library and is also available on the NHS Information Centre website at:

www.ic.nhs.uk/pubs/dental0708

This measure is based on a revised methodology and therefore supersedes previously published work force figures relating to the new dental contractual arrangements. It is not comparable to the information collected under the old contractual arrangements. This revised methodology counted the number of dental performers with NHS activity recorded via FP17 claim forms in each year ending 31 March.

Both sets of published figures relate to headcounts and do not differentiate between full-time and part-time dentists, nor do they account for the fact that some dentists may do more NHS work than others.

Dental Services: Fees and Charges

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if his Department will conduct an investigation of the effects of the banding of charges for dentistry on the NHS. [254975]

Ann Keen: Professor Jimmy Steele of Newcastle university is currently chairing an independent review of national health service dentistry in England. The review will consider how the Department can respond to the conclusions and recommendations the Health Select Committee (HSC) recently made, following their inquiry into dental services. The system of banded patient charges is one of the issues the HSC raised and that Professor Steele and his team will consider, taking views from a wide range of stakeholders. Professor Steele will publish his findings later in the spring, and the Department will then respond to his recommendations.

Dental Services: Prescriptions

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many prescription items were dispensed by dentists in (a) the North Yorkshire and York Primary Care Trust area and (b) England in each year since 1997; [254251]

(2) what the net ingredient cost of prescriptions dispensed by dentists in (a) the North Yorkshire and York Primary Care Trust area and (b) England was in each year since 1997. [254252]

Ann Keen: Information on prescribing by dentists is available from the Prescription Cost Analysis (PCA) system. It is available only for England as a whole. It is available by calendar year from 2003.

The number and net ingredient cost of prescriptions dispensed by dentists in each year is given in the following table.

Calendar year	Number of items (thousand)	Net ingredient cost (£000)
2007	4,569	10,657
2006	4,481	10,078
2005	4,651	9,186
2004	4,706	9,154
2003	4,768	9,231

Notes:

PCA Data
Prescription information is taken from the PCA system, supplied by the Prescription Services Division of the NHS Business Services Authority, and is based on a full analysis of all prescriptions dispensed in the community ie by community pharmacists and appliance contractors, dispensing doctors, and prescriptions submitted by prescribing doctors for items personally administered in England. Also included are prescriptions written in Wales, Scotland, Northern Ireland and the Isle of Man but dispensed in England. The data do not cover drugs dispensed in hospitals, including mental health trusts, or private prescriptions.
The vast majority of these prescriptions are written by general medical practitioners in England; however, prescriptions written by nurses, dentists, other non-medical prescribers and hospital doctors are also included provided they were dispensed in the community.
The figures are taken from separate tables relating to prescribing by dentists only.

Ann Keen: The number of dental students who have been awarded an NHS bursary in each of the past five academic years is shown in the following table.

Departmental Impact Assessments

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many equalities impact assessments his Department has undertaken in the last 12 month period for which figures are available; and what estimate he has made of the cost to the public purse of such assessments. [255072]

Phil Hope: Equality impact assessment is an integral part of how the Department develops its internal and external policies and carries out its functions. The Department undertook over 350 screening and full assessments from 1 February 2008 to 31 January 2009. The cost of undertaking the assessments is not available as it is not separately identified in the policy development process.

Departmental Manpower

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many staff were directly employed by his Department in each of the last 10 years; and how many self-employed workers were engaged by the Department in each such year. [254833]

Mr. Bradshaw: The following table presents the number of staff directly employed by the Department. Figures for 1999 to 2007 are taken from the annual departmental reports. Information about staff employed in 2008 will be published in the 2009 departmental report later in the year.

	Core Department of Health (full-time equivalents)
2007	2,178
2006	2,250
2005	2,245
2004	2,050
2003	2,964
2002	3,390
2001	3,809
2000	3,632
1999	3,753

The information on the number of self-employed workers is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Public Appointments

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which of the public appointments for which his Department is responsible are due to be (a) renewed and (b) filled in the next 24 months; what the (i) remit, (ii) salary, (iii) political restriction, (iv) eligibility requirement and (v) timetable for each appointment is; and what records his Department keeps in respect of such appointments. [254240]

Ann Keen: The Appointments Commission recruit and appoint public appointees on behalf of the Secretary of State for Health. Appointments are made on merit and are regulated by the Office of the Commissioner for Public Appointments. The appointments do not carry with them a salary as they are not employees, but appointees are usually remunerated for their work either annually, per meeting or through receiving expenses. Levels of remuneration vary according to the type of body.

We have asked the Appointments Commission to write to the right hon. Member with further more detailed information.

Drugs: Rehabilitation

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many and what proportion of people who received drug treatment had to wait (a) less than three weeks and (b) more than three weeks in each of the last three years, broken down by the smallest geographical area for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [251247]

Dawn Primarolo: The National Treatment Agency for Substance Misuse collects data on local services via the National Drug Treatment Monitoring System.

The information requested is only available for 2006-07 and 2007-08 and is shown in the table, broken down by Drug Action Team (DAT).

Numbers under five have been suppressed in accordance with procedures to preserve the confidentiality of information which could potentially identify individual patients.

Economic Situation

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent discussions his Department has had with outside organisations to discuss policy on reducing the effect of the recession on matters within his Department's responsibility. [254056]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department has regular engagement with a range of outside organisations and stakeholders. The Department will continue to maintain this dialogue including on issues related to the economy and the implications for health and social care.

General Practitioners

Mr. Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for Health with reference to the answer of 6 November 2008, Official Report, column 693W, on general practitioners, what reasons have been identified for the reduction in numbers of GP referrals to consultants between 2003-04 and 2007-08. [255620]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department has not undertaken any specific research into the reasons for the slight decrease in general practitioner (GP) referrals to first consultant-led outpatient appointments between the period 2003-04 to 2007-08.

GP written referrals for first outpatient appointment (consultant-led): All specialties, England provider based

To improve the appropriateness of care patients receive, i.e. the right treatment from the right health care professional, in the right place and at the right time, the Department has issued guidance to the NHS 'Care and Resource Utilisation' (December 2006) (a copy of which has been placed in the Library), which sets out a range of ways in which primary care trusts and clinicians can work together to improve care provided to patients.

Health Services: Milton Keynes

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the (a) average, (b) maximum and (c) minimum wait time has been at the Milton Keynes walk-in centre in January 2009. [255044]

Mr. Bradshaw: This information is not held centrally, but can be obtained from Milton Keynes Primary Care Trust.

Health Services: Public Consultation

Roger Berry: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many responses the Department has received to the consultation, The case for change - why England needs a new care and support system. [254540]

Phil Hope: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Buckingham (John Bercow) on 15 December 2008, Official Report, column 238W.

Healthcare Commission

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the cost to the Healthcare Commission of investigating healthcare complaints in 2008-09. [254254]

Ann Keen: We understand from the chairman of the Healthcare Commission that for the period April to December 2008 the cost to it of investigating complaints was £6.6 million. There were 6,011 complaints resolved in this period at an average cost of £1,102.

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many complaints the Healthcare Commission has referred to the Health Services Ombudsman in 2008-09. [254255]

Ann Keen: We understand from the chairman of the Healthcare Commission that in the period April to December 2008, 16 complaints were referred to the Parliamentary and Health Service Ombudsman.

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether the Healthcare Commission has targets for the time it takes to (a) accept and (b) resolve complaints; and if he will make a statement. [254256]

Ann Keen: We understand from the chairman of the Healthcare Commission that there are no targets for accepting cases. The Commission has a target of closing 95 per cent. of independent review requests within 12 months of the date of receipt. The Commission is currently closing 95 per cent. of cases within six months of receipt.

We are reforming the way complaints are responded to across health and social care. A new single system will be in place from April 2009. We have already started trying out the new approach in over 90 national health service and social care organisations across the country, known as 'Early Adopters'.

The new approach is about making it easier and simpler for people wishing to make a complaint. Under the new arrangements for health, instead of the current three tiers of complaints handling (local NHS provider, the Healthcare Commission, then the Health Service Ombudsman) there will be a two tier system, with local resolution by the provider and then recourse to the Health Service Ombudsman.

Heart Diseases

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people were (a) diagnosed with and (b) received treatment for heart disease in (i) England, (ii) the North East, (iii) the Tees Valley district and (iv) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency in each of the last 10 years. Notes:

The Information Centre (IC) have provided data from the national Quality and Outcomes Framework (QOF) to answer part (a) and data from the Hospital Episode Statistics (HES) to answer part (b). (a) The national QOF records the number of people recorded on practice disease registers. A register exists for coronary heart disease (CHD). Register counts are available for the last four financial years. The IC are unable to supply information for all the areas requested as some are not health regions. Where this occurs we have supplied information for the health areas that best fit those requested. Furthermore, some of these health areas have changed under the reconfiguration of PCTs and SHAs in 2006. (b) Figures from the HES give a count of hospital admission episodes with a primary diagnosis of "coronary heart disease" (CHD). This is not a count of people treated as the same person could have been admitted several times and this also excludes treatment taking place in primary care. Definitions Table 1 QOF is the national Quality and Outcomes Framework, introduced as part of the new General Medical Services contract on 1 April 2004. Participation by practices in the QOF is voluntary, though participation rates are very high, with most Personal Medical Services practices also taking part. The published QOF information was derived from the Quality Management Analysis System (QMAS), a national system developed by NHS Connecting for Health. QMAS uses data from general practices to calculate individual practices' QOF achievement. QMAS is a national IT system developed by NHS Connecting for Health to support the QOF.

The system calculates practice achievement against national targets. It gives general practices, PCTs and SHAs objective evidence and feedback on the quality of care delivered to patients. The QMAS captures the number of patients on the various disease registers for each practice. The number of patients on the clinical registers can be used to calculate measures of disease prevalence, expressing the number of patients on each register as a percentage of the number of patients on practices' lists. CHD Register—definition In order to call and recall patients effectively in any disease category and in order to be able to report on indicators for coronary heart disease, practices must be able to identify their patient population with CHD. This will include all patients who have had coronary artery revascularisation procedures such as coronary artery bypass grafting (CABG). Patients with Cardiac Syndrome X should generally not be included in the CHD register. Practices should record those with a past history of myocardial infarction as well as those with a history of CHD.

Table 2 Ungrossed data Figures have not been adjusted for shortfalls in data (i.e. the data are ungrossed).

Finished admission episodes (hospital admissions)

A finished admission episode is the first period of inpatient care under one consultant within one health care provider. Finished admission episodes are counted against the year in which the admission episode finishes. Admissions do not represent the number of inpatients, as a person may have more than one admission within the year. Primary diagnosis The primary diagnosis is the first of up to 20 (14 from 2002-03 to 2006-07 and seven prior to 2002-03) diagnosis fields in the HES data set and provides the main reason why the patient was admitted to hospital. The ICD-10 codes used to identify CHD are as follows: I20—Angina pectoris I21—Acute Myocardial infarction I22—Subsequent myocardial infarction I23—Certain current complications following acute myocardial infarction I24—Other acute ischaemic heart diseases I25—Chronic ischaemic heart disease. Number of episodes in which the patient had a (named) primary diagnosis

These figures represent the number of episodes where the diagnosis was recorded in the primary diagnosis field in a Hospital Episode Statistics (HES) record. Data quality HES are compiled from data sent by more than 300 NHS trusts and PCTs in England. Data are also received from a number of independent sector organisations for activity commissioned by the English NHS. The NHS Information Centre for health and social care liaises closely with these organisations to encourage submission of complete and valid data and seeks to minimise inaccuracies and the effect of missing and invalid data via HES processes. While this brings about improvement over time, some shortcomings remain.

PCT/SHA data quality

PCT and SHA data were added to historic data years in the HES database using 2002-03 boundaries, as a one-off exercise in 2004. The quality of the data on PCT of treatment and SHA of treatment is poor in 1996-97, 1997-98 and 1998-99, with over a third of all finished episodes having missing values in these years. Data quality of PCT of general practitioner (GP) practice and SHA of GP practice in 1997-98 and 1998-99 is also poor, with a high proportion missing values where practices changed or ceased to exist. There is less change in completeness of the residence-based fields over time, where the majority of unknown values are due to missing postcodes on birth episodes. Users of time series analysis including these years need to be aware of these issues in their interpretation of the data. Assessing growth through time HES figures are available from 1989-90 onwards. The quality and coverage of the data have improved over time. These improvements in information submitted by the NHS have been particularly marked in the earlier years and need to be borne in mind when analysing time series. Some of the increase in figures for later years (particularly 2006-07 onwards) may be due to the improvement in the coverage of independent sector activity. Changes in NHS practice also need to be borne in mind when analysing time series. For example, a number of procedures may now be undertaken in outpatient settings and may no longer be accounted for in the HES data. This may account for any reductions in activity over time. Source: Hospital Episode Statistics (HES), The NHS Information Centre for health and social care.

Heart Diseases: Medical Treatments

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his Department's most recent assessment is of the effectiveness of trans catheter aortic valves. [255828]

Ann Keen: The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) is the independent organisation responsible for assessing the effectiveness of new procedures and providing guide valve implantation was published by NICE in June 2008. NICE found that the evidence for effectiveness was limited to small numbers of patients who were considered to be at high risk for conventional cardiac surgery. It showed good short-term efficacy for such patients but there was little evidence available on long-term outcomes.

The Department has worked with NICE and the relevant professional bodies to ensure that proper clinical audit of all patients receiving transcatheter aortic valve implantation is carried out so that outcomes can be assessed.

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many times the NHS funded transcatheter aortic valve implants in each region in the last 12 months. [255609]

Ann Keen: The Department does not collect this information centrally.

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 27th January, Official Report, column 403W, on heart disease: medical treatments, which primary care trusts have permitted the funding of transcatheter aortic valve implants. [255671]

Ann Keen: The Department does not collect this information centrally. The Specialised Services Commissioning Groups, which are responsible for decisions on funding highly specialised services (subject to the funding priorities of their constituent primary care trusts), are in the process of agreeing a framework based on service criteria agreed by the relevant professional societies which will lead to designation of certain centres for this procedure within each strategic health authority area. Designated centres would then receive funding. It is understood that Yorkshire and Humberside Specialised Commissioning Group has already reached an agreement ahead of finalising the commissioning framework.

Heathrow Airport: Respiratory Diseases

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many children under the age of 18 years have been admitted to hospital with (a) acute asthma, (b) acute emphysema, (c) acute bronchitis and (d) other acute respiratory disorders within (i) one mile, (ii) three miles, (iii) five miles and (iv) 10 miles of Heathrow Airport in each year since 1997. [253850]

Ann Keen: The Department does not hold centrally information on hospital admissions in the format requested, and such information could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

The Department is currently part-funding the Small Area Health Statistics Unit at Imperial College to study health effects in the vicinity of Heathrow airport associated with air pollution and noise using data on mortality, cancer incidence and hospital admissions. A report is due for publication in 2010.

Hepatitis

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what steps he plans to take to reduce the number of undiagnosed cases of hepatitis C; and if he will make a statement; [255000]

(2) what plans he has to increase public awareness of the modes of transmission of hepatitis C; and if he will make a statement. [255001]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department is continuing to run a hepatitis C awareness campaign for health care professionals and the public that uses a range of channels of communication such as press, radio and ambient advertising, leaflets and guidance, a campaign website, and a confidential and free telephone line to provides information about modes of transmission.

The campaign aims to encourage those at risk of infection to seek testing and to assist health care professionals in identifying patients who may be at risk so that they can be referred for specialist care.

In addition, the Department and the National Treatment Agency for Substance Misuse (NTA) launched a joint harm reduction campaign last year for injecting drug users and those working with them that includes information about the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of hepatitis C. The campaign supports implementation of the joint departmental and NTA action plan on reducing drug-related harm. A copy of the plan has been placed in the Library.

Hospitals: Admissions

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the five most common causes of admission to hospital for (a) children and (b) adults were in the latest period for which statistics are available. [252154]

Mr. Bradshaw: The five most common reasons for admission to hospital for (a) children and (b) adults, where children are defined as under 16 years of age and adults over 16 years of age, in the latest period for which data are available are shown in the following tables.

16 and under (children)

Primary diagnosis[1]	Number of finished admission episodes[2]
(Liveborn infants according to place of birth[3]	452,451)
Acute upper respiratory infections of multiple and unspecified sites	41,494
Disorders relating to short gestation and low birth weight	40,363
Dental caries[4]	36,530
Viral infection of unspecified site	34,800
Acute tonsillitis	32,674

Over 16 (adults)

Primary diagnosis[1]	Number of finished admission episodes[2]
Pain in throat and chest	257,113
Abdominal and pelvic pain	237,959
Other cataract	193,986
Malignant neoplasm of breast	158,765
Perineal laceration during delivery	144,848

[1] Primary diagnosis—The primary diagnosis is the first of up to 20 diagnosis fields in the Hospital Episode Statistics (HES) data set and provides the main reason why the patient was treated in hospital.

[2] Finished admission episodes—A finished admission episode is the first period of inpatient care under one consultant within one health care provider. Finished admission episodes are counted against the year in which the admission episode finishes. Please note that admissions do not represent the number of inpatients, as a person may have more than one admission within the year.

[3] Z38 (Liveborn infants according to place of birth) is used as a diagnosis code for babies who are well and do not require any care. Every episode (including birth episodes) must contain a primary diagnosis so this code is used for 'well babies'. To account for this, we have provided the top six most common conditions for 16 and under children.

[4] Prior to 2001 general dental practitioners (GDPs) were allowed to give general anaesthetics for dental procedures within their practices. Following their acceptance of the recommendations in the report "A Conscious Decision" Ministers agreed that by 31 December 2001 general anaesthesia for dental treatment should be administered in a hospital setting with critical care facilities. During 2001 regulations were put in place in respect of the administration of general anaesthesia for dental treatment under arrangements to provide general dental services and in the private sector. Thus anyone doing this in the primary care setting for the last year had to be inspected and registered by their local health authority. The large numbers of general anaesthetics undertaken by general dental practitioners (GDPs) and also the Community Dental Service had to be transferred to the hospital setting. Currently a large proportion of those general anaesthetics for treatment of dental caries are provided by the Salaried Dental Services, but out of acute hospital Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery departments under a services level agreement. They are usually out-patient in nature but because general anaesthetic has been given are counted as elective procedures.

Kidney Patients

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans his Department has for reducing levels of late diagnosis of chronic renal failure. [253575]

Ann Keen: The quality requirements of National Service Framework for renal services aim to minimise the impact of chronic kidney disease in its early stages.

Since 2006 the Quality and Outcomes Framework has encouraged general practitioners to identify people in the earlier stages of chronic kidney disease. This can help to postpone or prevent the onset of end stage renal failure, a serious condition which can lead to death if untreated. Treatment of end stage renal failure can include transplantation or dialysis (renal replacement therapy or RRT).

In addition, the vascular checks programme will put in place an integrated, systematic, population-wide vascular risk assessment and management programme for those between the ages of 40 and 74. This national programme will assess people's risk of heart disease, stroke, diabetes and kidney disease and offer individually tailored prevention. Phased implementation will begin from April 2009-10. This programme has the potential to detect at least 20,000 cases of diabetes or kidney disease earlier, allowing individuals to be better managed and improving their quality of life.

Medicine: Internet

Dr. Stoate: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he is taking to tackle the online purchase of counterfeit medicines. [254540]

Dawn Primarolo: The Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA) is responsible for tackling the availability of counterfeit medicines in the United Kingdom.

A strategy to combat counterfeit medicine was published by the MHRA in November 2007. This strategy includes steps to combat the availability of counterfeit medicines through the internet. A copy has been placed in the Library and it can also be found at:

www.mhra.gov.uk/home/groups/ei/documents/websiteresources/con2033156.pdf

Part of the strategy focuses on providing the public with sufficient information to make an informed choice on how to obtain their medicines safely. This includes raising awareness through national advertising campaigns with industry and patient groups, and media articles.

MHRA routinely monitor and investigate rogue websites offering medicines for sale on the internet. The agency can take enforcement action against wrong-doing based in the UK. MHRA work closely with the European Union and other international regulatory authorities to ensure that, wherever possible, offending websites based in those countries are amended to reflect the law and to request any appropriate enforcement action is taken by the authorities in those countries.

In addition the MHRA is active in monitoring the internet and co-ordinating international action, including enforcement activity focused against those sites either operating, or fulfilling orders from within the UK. MHRA have brought 14 successful prosecutions, for illegal activity over the internet, in the UK over the last five years, including the supply of counterfeit medicines.

Mental Health Services: Expenditure

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much his Department has spent on (a) child and adolescent mental health services and (b) adult mental health services in each of the last 10 years. [253998]

Phil Hope: Data on additional funding given to the national health service and local authorities between 1999-2000 and 2007-08 for child and adolescent mental health services (CAMHS) are in the following table. This funding is additional to expenditure from NHS and local authority baseline budgets. The annual CAMHS Mapping, which started in 2003-04, has reported the total expenditure by the NHS and local authorities on CAMHS as follows: 2003-04—£322 million; 2004-05—£431million; 2005-06—£461 million; 2006-07—£523 million.

1. Allocations in 2004-05, 2005-06 and 2007-08 included NHS capital funding. In 2007-08 this was specifically used to increase the number of in-patient beds for children and young people. Since 2006-07, CAMHS NHS revenue funding has been included in baseline allocations.
2. Data on adult mental health services spending over 10 years are not available. Information provided is for working age adults over the last seven years.

MRSA

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of his Department's Clean Safe Care strategy for reducing MRSA infections and deaths. [254964]

Ann Keen: The "Clean, safe care" strategy was published in January 2008, and gave an overview of our strategy and initiatives, many of which were already well established, to tackle health care associated infections (HCAIs) and improve cleanliness. A copy of the strategy has already been placed in the Library.

We have significantly reduced meticillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) infections. The latest Health Protection Agency data for July to September 2008 show a reduction in MRSA bloodstream infections of 33 per cent. compared to the same quarter in 2007. In 2008, the national health service met the nationwide target to halve the number of MRSA bloodstream infections compared to 2003-04 levels. Latest figures also show a 62 per cent. reduction compared to the quarterly average in 2003-04, making further progress.

The number of death certificates that mentioned MRSA decreased by 4 per cent. from 1,652 in 2006 to 1,593 in 2007. This is the first time the number of death certificates mentioning MRSA has fallen since ONS records began in 1993.

The following table details the number of death certificates with MRSA mentioned and MRSA as the underlying cause, England and Wales, 2003-07.

Number of death certificates in England and Wales

	2003	2004	2005	2006	2007
Mentions of MRSA	968	1,138	1,649	1,652	1,593
Number of these where underlying cause of death is MRSA	322	357	465	519	480

Source:

ONS Health Statistics Quarterly

Many patients who become infected with a HCAI have other serious and potentially fatal underlying medical conditions. Doctors are not supposed to record all diseases or conditions present at death, only those that contribute directly to it. It is a matter of individual professional judgment whether the doctor lists an HCAI as a contributory cause. There have been a number of initiatives to raise the profile of HCAIs and improve their acknowledgment as diagnoses in their own right. In October 2007 and July 2005 the chief medical officer reminded doctors of the importance of giving full and accurate information on the death certificate, particularly in relation to HCAIs.

We have commissioned an evaluation of the effectiveness the HCAI and Cleanliness Improvement Programme (one strand of the "Clean, safe care" strategy) with a specific focus on the work streams focused on reductions in the incidence of MRSA. We are also commissioning work to understand the ways in which hospital cleanliness relates to other aspects of a good environment, and how this might have an impact on HCAIs. These studies are in their initial stages and will provide results later in 2009.

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the number of NHS clinical staff who are carriers of MRSA. [254965]

Ann Keen: It is estimated that 3-5 per cent. of staff are colonised with MRSA.

NHS Treatment Centres: Private Sector

Mr. Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many general practitioner referrals to independent sector treatment centres there were in each year since such centres were established. [255590]

Mr. Bradshaw: Through the Independent Sector Treatment Centre (ISTC) programme, more than 1.49 million operations, diagnostic assessments and primary care consultations have been provided to national health service patients (as at 31 December 2008).

The Department does not hold information about the number of general practitioner referrals to ISTCs.

Mr. Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidance his Department has issued to general practitioners on the referral of patients to independent sector treatment centres. [255591]

Mr. Bradshaw: Independent sector treatment centre (ISTC) providers and primary care trusts (PCTs) ensure patients and referring general practitioners (GPs) are provided with appropriate information regarding ISTCs.

The Department does not directly issue guidance to GPs on the referral of patients to ISTCs. When patients are referred by their GP for a first consultant-led outpatient appointment they are entitled to choose the organisation that provides their NHS care and to the information to support that choice. As set out in the NHS constitution this will become a legal right from 1 April 2009.

Mr. Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many independent sector treatment centres there are. [255613]

Mr. Bradshaw: The centrally procured Independent Sector Treatment Centre (ISTC) procurement process was conducted in two stages: Wave 1 and Phase 2. There are currently 25 fixed-site Wave 1 ISTCs, eight Phase 2 ISTC schemes, a mobile magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) service, a mobile cataract service and six commuter walk-in centres. There are also two Phase 2 ISTC schemes in mobilisation.

A full list of the centrally procured ISTC schemes is provided as follows.

NHS: Fees and Charges

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether the next stage of the NHS co-payments review will examine means of reducing inequality between patients who can and cannot afford to co-pay for treatments which are unavailable on the NHS. [254719]

Dawn Primarolo: Professor Mike Richards completed his review in October 2008, and the Secretary of State made his report, "Improving access to medicines for NHS patients", public on 4 November 2008. A copy of the report has already been placed in the Library.

In his report, Professor Richards carefully considered equity issues before making recommendations to the Secretary of State about policy on additional private care. In line with Professor Richards' recommendations, the Secretary of State announced a package of measures to improve access to drugs on the national health service, including a new scheme from the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence to introduce greater flexibility in appraising expensive drugs for end of life conditions with small numbers of patients. These measures will mean that more drugs are available on the NHS, which will reduce the number of patients who may wish to buy additional private drugs.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what mechanism will be put in place to ensure that the possibility for patients to co-pay for a treatment does not act as a disincentive for NHS primary care trusts to fund that treatment. [254722]

Mr. Bradshaw: It is one of the guiding principles of the national health service that a person should have access to health services based on clinical need, and not on the ability of a patient to pay. Professor Richards' review, "Improving access to medicines for NHS patients", was based on, and reinforces, this principle. "The NHS Constitution", published on 21 January 2009, also reaffirmed this as one of the key principles underpinning all that the NHS does. Copies of both documents have already been placed in the Library. Decisions by primary care trusts on funding for individual patients are no exception to this.

NHS: Finance

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his estimate is of the capital budget of the NHS for each year from 2006-07 to 2010-11, in real terms using 2006-07 prices. [255288]

Mr. Bradshaw: The requested statistics are given in the following table.

NHS Capital Expenditure 2006-07 and 2010-11

		Capital net NHS expenditure (nominal) £ billion	Capital net NHS expenditure (real 06-07) prices)[1]

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many penalties have been imposed on suppliers for security breaches under the NHS national programme for IT in the last 12 months; and what the total monetary value of those penalties was. [255359]

Mr. Bradshaw: There have been no confirmed security breaches attributable to suppliers under the national information technology programme in the period concerned. In consequence, the question of penalties has not arisen.

Official Engagements

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the official engagements of Ministers in his Department were from 1 November to 30 November 2008. [255553]

Patient Choice Schemes

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what percentage of slots on the Choose and Book system were reported to be unavailable when requested by patients in the last 12 weeks for which figures are available. [254155]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department does not collect information on the percentage of slots unavailable for patients to book into.

The Department does collect the number of instances of slot unavailability as reported by The Choose and Book Appointments Line (TAL), expressed as a ratio of all successful direct bookings. This is presented for the last 12 weeks for which figures are available covering the period week ending 9 November 2008 to week ending 25 January 2009 in the following table.

	Slot unavailability	Total weekly directly bookable service outpatient bookings	Slot issues as percentage of bookings
9 November 2008	11,121	77,534	14.3
16 November 2008	11,234	77,141	14.6
23 November 2008	12,302	74,370	16.5
30 November 2008	12,221	73,206	16.7
7 December 2008	11,305	73,498	15.4
14 December 2008	9,412	69,313	13.6

	Slot unavailability	Total weekly directly bookable service outpatient bookings	Slot issues as percentage of bookings
21 December 2008	8,506	70,731	12.0
28 December 2008	3,357	35,312	9.5
4 January 2009	3,145	66,099	4.8
11 January 2009	6,125	86,109	7.1
18 January 2009	6,583	84,902	7.8
25 January 2009	7,099	87,567	8.1
	102,410	876,282	11.7

Notes:
1. The weekly report expresses the percentage as a percentage of successful directly bookable service bookings.
2. Individual national health service trusts are responsible for ensuring that enough appointments slots for first outpatient appointments are made available through the Choose and Book system to ensure patients and general practitioners can book into them electronically.

Smoking: Young People

Mr. Cramby: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department is taking to help teenagers give up smoking. [254609]

Dawn Primarolo: Reducing smoking among young people is a priority for the Government. Much has already been achieved in this area, including raising the age of sale of tobacco products, legislation to strengthen sanctions available against retailers who persistently sell tobacco to children and young people, and smoking is addressed in the National Curriculum and through the Healthy Schools Programme.

Protecting children and young people from smoking was one of four key aspects of the Department's "Consultation on the future of tobacco control" published on 31 May 2008. A copy has already been placed in the Library. Responses to the consultation are informing the development of a new strategy on tobacco control, which will include action to continue to tackle the uptake of smoking by young people.

The Government this year are taking forward tobacco control legislation intended to protect and support young people in the Health Bill. The Health Bill includes a prohibition on the display of tobacco products, which will help to eliminate the marketing of tobacco products, to which young people are susceptible. The Bill will also provide powers to restrict or ban the sale of tobacco from vending machines, removing a major source of tobacco for young people.

Local stop smoking services are able to provide a range of support options to anyone wanting to quit smoking, including young people. Resources are also available that can be accessed by smokers direct on smoking cessation, these include the NHS "gosmokefree" website and from the general NHS Smoking Helpline (0800 169 0 169).

Social Security Benefits: Compensation

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much money has been recovered by the NHS under the provisions of the Social Security (Recovery of Benefits) Act 1997 in each year since it entered into force. [252336]

Kitty Ussher: I have been asked to reply.

The Department for Work and Pensions administers recoveries on behalf of the NHS. However those recoveries are not under the Social Security (Recovery of Benefits) Act 1997, but the Road Traffic (NHS Charges) Act 1999, and The Health and Social Care (Community Health and Standards) Act 2003.

Those recoveries are in the following table:

NHS Recoveries

	£ million
1999-00	30.05
2000-01	75.83
2001-02	98.28
2002-03	105.03
2003-04	105.63
2004-05	117.50
2005-06	121.50
2006-07	128.19
2007-08	137.04
2008-09[1]	111.19

Spinal Injuries: North East

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the longest time was that a patient had to wait to receive treatment for spinal cord injury in the North East in the last five years. [254908]

Mr. Bradshaw: The information is not available in the format requested. The following table shows the count of finished admission episodes by time waited with a primary diagnosis of spinal cord injury, for hospitals in the north-east of England from 2002-03 to 2006-07.

	All admission episodes	Up to 1 week	1 up to 2 weeks	2 up to 3 weeks	3 up to 4 weeks	4 up to 5 weeks	Unknown Time Waited
2003-04	5	2	0	2	0	0	1

	All admission episodes	Up to 1 week	1 up to 2 weeks	2 up to 3 weeks	3 up to 4 weeks	4 up to 5 weeks	Unknown Time Waited

Notes:

1. Finished admission episodes: A finished admission episode is the first period of inpatient care under one consultant within one healthcare provider. Finished admission episodes are counted against the year in which the admission episode finishes. However, admissions do not represent the number of inpatients, as a person may have more than one admission within the year.

2. Primary diagnosis: The primary diagnosis is the first of up to 20 (14 from 2002-03 to 2006-07 and seven prior to 2002-03) diagnosis fields in the HES dataset and provides the main reason why the patient was admitted to hospital.

3. Time waited (days): Time waited statistics from HES are not the same as the published waiting list statistics. HES provides counts and time waited for all patients admitted to hospital within a given period, whereas the published waiting list statistics count those waiting for treatment on a specific date and how long they have been on the waiting list. Also, HES calculates the time waited as the difference between the admission and decision to admit dates. Unlike published waiting list statistics, this is not adjusted for self-deferrals or periods of medical/social suspension.

4. Spinal cord injury is defined as one of the following ICD-10 codes recorded in primary diagnosis field:
S140 Concussion and oedema of cervical spinal cord;
S141 Other and unspecified injuries of cervical spinal cord;
S142 Injury of nerve root of cervical spine;
S143 Injury of brachial plexus;
S240 Concussion and oedema of thoracic spinal cord;
S241 other and unspecified injuries of thoracic spinal cord;
S242 Injury of nerve root of thoracic spine;
S340 Concussion and oedema of lumbar spinal cord;
S341 Other injury of lumbar spinal cord;
S342 Injury of nerve root of lumbar and sacral spine;
S343 Injury of cauda equina;
S344 Injury of lumbosacral plexus;
T060 Injuries of brain and cranial nerves with injuries of nerves and spinal cord at neck level;
T061 Injuries of nerves and spinal cord involving other multiple body regions;
T093 Injury of spinal cord, level unspecified;
T094 Injury of unspecified nerve, spinal nerve root and plexus of trunk.

Thalassaemia

Mr. Burrowes: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his Department's policy on the treatment of thalassaemia is. [253739]

Ann Keen: The Government support the availability of treatment services for thalassaemia that fit the model outlined in "High Quality Care for All", that care should be fair, personalised, effective and safe.

Key to this is the development of clinical networks of specialist care and the concept that every patient should have access to optimal specialist management and care, as well as routine care provided conveniently close to home. Clinical networks for Haemoglobinopathy disorders (thalassaemia and sickle cell) have now been established and initial meetings of stakeholders have taken place.

We are also currently undertaking a peer review of service provision and commissioning arrangements for haemoglobinopathies. This will inform a programme of supportive action later in the year, in partnership with the national health service and stakeholders.

Mr. Burrowes: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent assessment his Department has made of the variation in funding of oral iron chelation drugs for the treatment of thalassaemia patients between primary care trusts. [253740]

Ann Keen: We have made no such assessment.

Thrombosis

John Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what discussions the Healthcare Commission has had with the Care Quality Commission on including risk assessment for venous thromboembolism as a clinical audit indicator. [254810]

Mr. Bradshaw: Discussions between the Healthcare Commission and the Care Quality Commission are matters to be raised with them directly.

John Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to include risk assessment for venous thromboembolism in hospitalised patients as an indicator in the 2009-10 Care Quality Commission periodic review of NHS providers. [254811]

Mr. Bradshaw: We expect indicators to be included in periodic reviews of NHS providers to reflect the existing commitments and tier 1 and 2 vital signs that were set out in the 2009-10 operating framework.

John Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to include risk assessment for venous thromboembolism in hospitalised patients as a topic for special review by the Care Quality Commission in 2009-10. [254812]

Mr. Bradshaw: In addition to its core statutory functions, the Care Quality Commission also has the power to carry out special reviews into specific or general issues to do with health or adult social care provision.

The Care Quality Commission is currently consulting on the list of topics it is considering for special reviews and studies for 2009-10. This consultation remains open until 12 March 2009 see www.carequalitycommission.org.uk/consultations/reviews_in_0910.aspx).

Transplant Surgery

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many organs were successfully transplanted in each year since 1997, broken down by (a) type of organ and (b) transplant centre. [254154]

Ann Keen: Based on the definition that a transplant is successful if the patient survives beyond the point of their three month check-up, figures for the number of organs successfully transplanted in each year since 1997, broken down by type of organ and transplant centre have been placed in the Library.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 14 January 2009, Official Report, columns 827-32W, on transplant surgery: figures, if he will break down by year the figures given for organ and ocular tissue transplants in the UK. [illegible]

Ann Keen: Information showing organ and ocular tissue transplants in the United Kingdom in each year since 1998, broken down by transplant centre and organ, has been placed in the Library.

TRANSPORT

A303

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what plans he has for completion of the dualling of the A303. [254680]

Paul Clark: Following our decision to give regions a greater role in determining priorities for major transport schemes within indicative allocations, it is for the South West region to advise on the relative priority of dualling improvements to the A303 alongside other proposed schemes in the region. We are expecting advice on the priorities for transport investment in the South West in the period to 2018-19 by the end of this month.

A303: Stonehenge

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what consultation he had with Visit Britain on his Department's review of the Stonehenge improvement scheme. [255776]

Paul Clark: The Highways Agency carried out a widely publicised consultation between January and April 2006 on alternative options for improvements to the A303 running past Stonehenge. There is no record of Visit Britain having responded to this consultation.

Cars: Insurance

Sir Peter Soulsby: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what system the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency has in place to ensure that accurate and up-to-date car insurance information is held on its databases. [254582]

Jim Fitzpatrick: All motor vehicle insurance details are held on the insurance industry's motor insurance database (MID) and it is the insurance industry's responsibility to provide data to it. The Department requires 95 per cent. of new records to be on the database within seven days. The industry estimates that nearly 99 per cent. of all appropriate records are now on the database within seven days.

Sir Peter Soulsby: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many vehicle excise duty online renewals have been refused in the last period for which figures are available because car insurance details have not been held on the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency database. [254583]

Jim Fitzpatrick: When customers apply for a tax disc on Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency Electronic Vehicle Re-licensing (EVL) service, the vehicle's insurance is electronically checked with the Motor Insurance Bureau (MIB), these details are not held on DVLA's database. If the insurance details cannot be traced with the MIB, customers are not able to make a re-licensing transaction through the EVL service. If customers have recently renewed, updated or changed the insurance policy, the vehicle details may not have been updated yet on the MIB. The reason for this is that the MIB only records the expiry date of the current insurance period. Once that current period ends the new insurance period updates the database.

The number of incomplete transactions from November 2008 to January 2009, where insurance details could not be found are:

November 2008: 109,050 out of 1,691,556 transactions

December 2008: 89,633 out of 1,622,678 transactions

January 2008: 130,231 out of 1,961,037 transactions

Driving Tests

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what research he has (a) commissioned and (b) evaluated on revisions to the standard driving test. [254760]

Jim Fitzpatrick: In parallel with our wide ranging learning to drive consultation which looks at reforming the way that people learn to drive and are tested, we have initiated a programme of research to trial and evaluate the measures proposed. These include:

Evaluation of classroom-based discussion groups exploring young people's attitudes to safe driving.

Assessing the impact of different educational interventions and access to learning materials on performance at the theory test.

Development of a self evaluation tool that could help learners identify their attitudes towards risk and safety.

Assessing possible changes to the content of the practical driving test, such as examiners giving candidates less direction for part of the test.

Development of a revised marking scheme for the practical test, based on a candidate's demonstration of defined competencies rather than the current fault-based assessment.

We propose to publish reports of each of the research projects in due course.

Great Eastern Railway

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps he plans to take to increase capacity on the Chelmsford to Liverpool Street railway line. [254748]

Paul Clark: The Secretary of State for Transport set out his requirements for additional peak capacity into London Liverpool Street in the White Paper "Delivering a Sustainable Railway" published in July 2007.

The Department for Transport is actively engaged in discussions with National Express East Anglia (NXEA) aimed at achieving early commercial agreement that will enable NXEA to increase the capacity it provides to meet this requirement. This will include services between Chelmsford and Liverpool Street.

Heathrow Airport: Greenhouse Gas Emissions

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many schools within the boundaries of areas surrounding Heathrow airport currently have air quality with a nitrogen dioxide level of 40 micrograms/m3 or greater. [254120]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The technical report "Population Exposure to Air Pollution", published as part of the "Adding Capacity at Heathrow Airport" consultation in November 2007, shows (Table 3.4) 16 'sensitive receptors' (which includes schools) with nitrogen dioxide levels above the limit of 40 micrograms/m3 in 2002. Data for the current year are not available but no such exceedances are predicted in 2010 or future years, with or without airport expansion.

Heathrow Airport: Job Creation

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate has been made of the number of new jobs which would be created by the expansion of Heathrow Airport. [254888]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The assessment of additional jobs from a third runway are set out in the recently published 'Adding Capacity at Heathrow Airport—Impact Assessment'. This is available at:

http://www.dft.gov.uk/pgr/aviation/heathrowconsultations/heathrowdecision/impactassessment/

Table A1, page 92 shows the incremental impact of a third runway relative to the base case of no third runway. Additional capacity is likely to lead to around 8,000 additional on-site jobs by 2030.

Heathrow Airport: Noise

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent estimate he has made of noise levels in each London borough resulting from the establishment of the Heathrow third runway. [253847]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Noise impacts of a three-runway airport at Heathrow were presented in the November 2007 consultation document and supporting technical report on noise, both of which are still available on the Department's website. The documents include a geographical presentation of noise contour details but do not provide figures by borough.

Highways Agency: Finance

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) pursuant to the answer of 27 January 2009, Official Report, column 300W, on motorways: repairs and maintenance, whether the £6 billion programme of national major schemes will be in addition to the annual budget for the Highways Agency programme of national major schemes; [255093]

(2) what the Highways Agency budget in (a) 2009-10, (b) 2010-11, (c) 2011-12 and (d) 2012-13 is for national major road schemes. [255094]

Paul Clark: In our July 2008 document "Roads - Delivering Choice and Reliability" we announced that up to £6 billion was being made available for improvements to national strategic roads in England. On 15 January 2009, we announced which schemes this funding would support up to 2015. This funding is in addition to the provision for major improvements to regional strategic roads and other Highways Agency activities such as maintenance and the Traffic Officer Service.

The budgets for the Highways Agency are set on an annual basis and published in their annual Business Plan. The 2009-10 Highways Agency Business Plan is due to be published by the end of March 2009. Precise budgets are subject to annual confirmation as part of determining overall public sector investment and the Highways Agency's business planning process.

Humber Bridge: Tolls

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the toll for the Humber Bridge was for a single car crossing in each year since the bridge was opened; and if he will make a statement. [254774]

Paul Clark: The toll for a single car crossing in each year since the bridge was opened is:

1 January 1986 to 31 December 1987	1.20

This information is publicly available on the Humber Bridge website.

Kent

Dr. Ladyman: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much (a) revenue payment, (b) capital grant and (c) supported borrowing funding has been made available by his Department to (i) Kent County Council, (ii) Thanet District Council and (iii) Dover District Council in 2008-09; and how much is planned in each case for 2009-10. [255092]

Paul Clark: The following tables show the transport capital and revenue funding the Department for Transport has allocated to Kent county council for 2008-09 and 2009-10. In county areas, funding is made to the upper tier authority. Allocations are not ring-fenced and local transport authorities have discretion to spend their allocations in line with their priorities.

The tables indicate the proportion of capital allocations allowed for within the Department for Communities and Local Government's formula grant settlement as supported borrowing, and the proportion of grant provided by the Department. Figures shown are in £ millions.

The following table shows the allocations that the Department for Transport makes to Thanet and Dover district councils in respect of concessionary fares. (These authorities also receive additional concessionary fares funding through the Department for Communities and Local Government's formula grant.)

Liquefied Petroleum Gas: Chelmsford

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many petrol stations in West Chelmsford constituency have active liquefied petroleum gas pumps. [254740]

Jim Fitzpatrick: This information is not held centrally by Government. However, information on geographical locations is available on the UK LPG website at:

www.drivelpg.co.uk

Local Authorities: Debt Collection

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Welwyn Hatfield of 19 November 2008, Official Report, columns 509-10W, on local authorities: debt collection, whether the powers for local authorities to use certified bailiffs to collect unpaid parking fines existed prior to the introduction of the 2007 regulations. [246948]

Paul Clark: The Road Traffic Act 1991 enabled London local authorities to use certificated bailiffs. These provisions have been replicated for authorities outside London through parking designation Orders made by the Secretary of State on an individual basis.

M6: Tolls

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many vehicles per day travelled between (a) junctions 3 and 4, (b) junctions 7 and 8, (c) junctions 8 and 11a, (d) junctions 11a and 15 of the M6 motorway and between (e) junctions 3a and 7, (f) junctions 7 and 9, (g) junctions 9 and 10 of the M42, (i) for each of the five years before and (ii) each year after the opening to traffic of the M6 Toll. [253849]

Paul Clark: The following table shows available traffic figures for the specified lengths of the M6 and M42 for each of the five years before and after the opening of the M6 Toll in December 2003.

Parking: Disabled

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps his Department has taken to standardise the use of Blue Badges and dedicated disabled parking facilities across public and private car parks; and if he will make a statement. [255039]

Paul Clark: The Blue Badges scheme only applies to on-street parking. The provision of parking spaces in off-street car parks, whether local authority owned or privately owned, falls under the requirements of the Disability Discrimination Act (DDA) 1995. In both types of car park, service providers need to ensure that they provide an adequate number of parking spaces for disabled people and that these spaces are readily available. The Department for Transport will be working with the British Retail Consortium and other stakeholders to support improved enforcement in car parks.

Railway Stations

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps he plans to take to improve the efficiency and delivery of larger station projects as part of the future delivery of the Railways for All Programme; and if he will make a statement. [254934]

Paul Clark: Setting efficiency targets for Network Rail activity is a function of the Office of Rail Regulation. The "Regulator's Period Review", published in October 2008, sets challenging targets for Network Rail to improve efficiency over the five year period from April 2009.

Network Rail are moving towards a modular station design, and an integrated approach to station planning, in order to leverage efficiencies and minimise disruption to passengers during enhancement, renewal and maintenance works, including access for all.

The Department for Transport is working closely with Network Rail to support initiatives which improve performance and delivery of station projects, and present opportunities to realise economies of scale.

Railway Stations: Yorkshire

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many new rail stations are scheduled to be opened in Yorkshire in the next three years; what the location is of each; and what car parking provision is planned to be provided at each. [254942]

Paul Clark: Responsibility for promoting new stations rests primarily with local authorities and passenger transport executives (PTEs). The Department for Transport has received outline proposals for four new stations in the West Yorkshire PTE area at Apperley Bridge, Kirkstall Forge, Horsforth Woodside and Low Moor and one in the City of York area at Haxby.

West Yorkshire PTE and the City of York council should be able to provide information on proposed opening dates and car parking provision at these stations.

Railway Track

Mr. David Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what proportion of sets of points are heated in the national rail network. [255011]

Paul Clark: This is an operational matter for Network Rail as the owner and operator of the national rail network. My hon. Friend should contact Network Rail's chief executive at the following address for a response to his question:

Iain Coucher
Chief Executive Network Rail
Kings Place
90 York Way
London, N1 9AG

Railways

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how decisions are taken on whether Network Rail or train operating companies are used to deliver major projects. [254928]

Paul Clark: The majority of major rail projects are delivered by Network Rail as the company best able to undertake such tasks. It has ownership of the railway infrastructure and can co-ordinate such activities with its responsibility for both maintenance and renewal.

Some smaller scale schemes are delivered by individual train operators, often where these form part of their franchise agreement obligations.

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what proportion of Railways for All projects have been delivered by (a) Network Rail and (b) train operating companies. [254929]

Paul Clark: So far 100 per cent. of the Access for All main schemes to reach completion have been delivered by Network Rail.

Work has started on site for a station being delivered by a train operating company, but progress has been slower than anticipated and the delivery proportions as yet unaffected.

Further opportunities for train operating company led delivery are being explored for projects reaching the design stage.

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment he has made of the performance of (a) Network Rail and (b) train operating companies in delivering Railways for All projects, including Small Schemes fund projects. [254930]

Paul Clark: Assessment of Network Rail's efficiency is a function of the Office of Rail Regulation, which publishes independent monitoring of current projects. The most recent report, which includes assessment and recommendations for the Access for All programme is available on the Office of Rail Regulations' website at:

http://www.rail-reg.gov.uk/upload/pdf/conrep-projmon07-Halcrow.pdf

The Department for Transport works closely with Network Rail to monitor delivery of the programme, and is aware that initial progress has been slower than anticipated. Following an internal review in summer 2009, Network Rail put in place a revised contracting and delivery strategy, and delivery is now gaining momentum.

Network Rail are excluded from bidding for Access for All Small Scheme funding, the majority of which has been awarded to Train Operating Companies and local authorities. Of the train operating company schemes, 96 per cent. of 505 station projects were completed in 2006-08, delivering enhancements to over 480 stations. A further 149 stations are due to receive enhancements by train operating companies by 31 March 2009, under the 2008-09 programme, 56 of which are currently complete.

Stephen Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what matters were discussed at his recent meeting with the Association of Train Operating Companies and chief executives of the train operating companies; and if he will make a statement. [255982]

Paul Clark: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer I gave to my hon. Friend the Member for Glasgow, South (Mr. Harris) on 9 February 2009, Official Report, column 1609W.

Railways: Disabled

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what arrangements are in place to evaluate performance against the undertakings made by those bidding for rail franchises in terms of the disability element of franchise bids. [254931]

Paul Clark: The Department for Transport's evaluation of franchise bids includes an assessment of compliance with the invitation to tender, which reflects the Department's equality of access policies.

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps he plans to take to ensure that the disability element of rail franchising is scored in accordance with the Government's disability equality duty. [254932]

Paul Clark: The Department for Transport's evaluation of franchise bids includes an assessment of compliance with the invitation to tender which reflects the Department's equality of access policies.

Details that bidders are required to submit include:

compliance with their duties under the Disability Discrimination Act applicable to both stations and trains, including trains' compliance with time scales required in accordance with the Rail Vehicle Accessibility Regulations; consultation process to identify and address the reasonable needs of disabled passengers concerning existing facilities and planned enhancements; procedures for the sale of tickets to disabled passengers;

staff training in disability awareness.

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how local disability organisations are consulted on options for access improvements in major transport projects. [254933]

Paul Clark: Major transport project promoters are responsible for deciding how to consult with their local stakeholders, including disability organisations. If they are public bodies they have obligations under the disability equality duty to secure the views of a wide range of disabled people.

Railways: Franchises

Stephen Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether his Department has agreed Transport for London's Metro Standards for the Southern Franchise; and whether he has had (a) representations from and (b) discussions with bidders for the Southern franchise on deferral of the bidding deadline. [256020]

Paul Clark: The Department for Transport worked closely with Transport for London in the development of the South Central franchise. The Government franchise specification has a number of service and staffing enhancements that will deliver significant improvements in the London area.

Alongside this, Transport for. London is funding a number of additional incremental enhancements that will bring the franchise specification nearer to the Metro standard aspired to by Transport for London.

The Department's discussions with bidders during the bid preparation phase have not included consideration of an extension to this stage of the procurement process, and we have received no representations to this effect.

Rescue Services: Hope Cove

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will take steps to ensure that the Hope Cove lifeboat service is re-instated in time for the Easter weekend. [254918]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Maritime and Coastguard Agency's boat at Hope Cove may operate from 1 April 2009 in line with its standing instructions.

Road Traffic

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will bring forward proposals to amend the Traffic Management Act 2004 so that its provisions can be enforced in England on vehicles registered in Scotland; and if he will make a statement. [254925]

Paul Clark: We have no plans to amend the Traffic Management Act. Local authorities that follow the procedures set out in paragraph 10.66 of the Department for Transport's Operational Guidance to local authorities about parking policy and enforcement should have no difficulty in taking enforcement action against vehicles where the address of the registered keeper is in Scotland.

Roads: Freight

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what research his Department has carried out on charges for foreign haulage vehicles to enter the UK; what estimate he has made of (a) the maximum feasible charge per vehicle and (b) the potential annual revenue to accrue from such charges; and if he will make a statement. [254758]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department for Transport undertook a freight data feasibility study last year to identify realistic and legal options to deliver a database to link non-UK HGVs to their hauliers and enable enforcement agencies to better target their resources. This included consideration of a "vignette" scheme, a time-based user charging system.

The study found that less than 11 Euros, on average, could be raised per foreign HGV per day under a vignette—due to the limitations imposed by the EU's E'urovignette Directive. Such a scheme offered a benefit to cost ratio of between 1.06 and 1.25 including 'optimism bias', with potential gross revenues of around £350 million over 10 years from non-UK hauliers.

Roads: Snow and Ice

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what contingency reserves for salt and grit the Highways Agency has; for how many days of adverse weather conditions he estimates such supplies would last; and what steps he plans to take to ensure that supplies are adequate. [255555]

Paul Clark [holding answer 9 February 2009]: The Highways Agency, for which the Department for Transport is responsible, operates a routine and winter service regime that requires its service providers to maintain sufficient supplies of salt for the treatment of the Strategic Road Network (SRN) for a continuous period of six capability days.

In the present conditions of continuous severe weather, and the provision of mutual aid to local authorities, enabling them to treat local roads and routes onto and off the SRN, the Highways Agency will aim to have salt supplies for at least three capability days.

Supplies for salt are being replenished by the Highways Agency's service providers suppliers, but the national demand is placing a strain on availability. The Highways Agency is fully engaged with these suppliers to ensure that supplies are being targeted towards areas of the network that have the highest demand and is itself marshalling its existing supplies of the salt, where this is practical, to ensure the continued availability of the network.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much grit the Highways Agency holds; and how many days use this amount represents. [255660]

Paul Clark [holding answer 9 February 2009]: The Highways Agency normally retains supplies of salt that enable treatment of the Strategic Road Network for a continuous period of six capability days.

The volume of this equates to 85,000 cu m.

In the current conditions, the Highways Agency will aim to have supplies for at least three capability days.

Transport

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport when the period served by the Ten Year Plan for Transport will end; what assessment he has made of the merits of drawing up a successor programme; and if he will make a statement. [254699]

Mr. Hoon: The Department's approach to long-term strategic planning has been set out in the publications "Towards a Sustainable Transport System" and, more recently, "Delivering a Sustainable Transport System" which enhance the direction first set out in the 10-year plan.

HOUSE OF COMMONS COMMISSION

Parking: Disabled

Roger Berry: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission (1) what provision is made for disabled holders of parliamentary passes to park in (a) Star Chamber Court and (b) Royal Court; [254408]

(2) how many disabled parking spaces there are on the Parliamentary Estate; and how many are reserved for disabled (a) hon. Members and (b) Members of the House of Lords. [254413]

Nick Harvey: There are four car parking spaces in Star Chamber Court which are reserved for the holders of blue disabled parking badges. Five car passes entitling the holder to park in Star Chamber Court have been issued; four of these are to Members. Parking in the House of Lords estate is a matter for that House.

WALES

Departmental Lobbying

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales whether Ministers in his Department received representations from (a) Lord Moonie, (b) Lord Taylor of Blackburn, (c) Lord Snape and (d) Lord Truscott in the last seven months. [255240]

Mr. Paul Murphy: No.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Departmental ICT

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions which ICT projects initiated by his Department were abandoned before completion in each year since 1997; what costs were incurred on each project; who the contractors were; what the date of (a) commencement and (b) abandonment was in each case; and if he will make a statement. [251138]

Jonathan Shaw: The Department for Work and Pensions (DWP) was created in June 2001. Prior to that, the provision of detailed project information was the responsibility of different Departments and agencies.

Although the DWP does not have any discrete IT projects, it has a number of projects and programmes that include changes to, or new enabling, IT to a greater or lesser extent.

At present the Department has over 200 change projects, a significant number of which have an IT element which is critical to the success of the project. The number of projects in train at any one time will vary and the duration of the project lifecycle is usually more than one calendar year.

Provision of all information requested can be provided only at a disproportionate cost. We have provided such information as is readily available in the following table. This includes:

those projects that have been formally abandoned before completion, in the last five years where the IT element is such that non-delivery of the IT would have significantly affected the project's ability to deliver the intended outcomes and where the investment in the project exceed £1 million;

the investment costs incurred and the main IT contractors involved, where appointed; and the financial years in which the project commenced and was abandoned.

Project name	Main IT Contractor	Commencement	Abandonment	Investment expenditure (£ million)
Benefits Processing Replacement Programme[1]	IBM—Solution Design Services	2004-05	2006-07	143.0
Document Management	None appointed at time of cancellation	2004-05	2006-07	1.4

[1] BPRP: Of the total investment in BPRP, £73 million of the £143 million has been of continuing value to the Department. This is detailed in the Jobcentre Plus 2006-07 annual accounts. Part of the residual investment has been reimbursed to the Department, in work and kind, by the project's main contractor.

[2] Retirement Planner: A closure date of 2004-05 was reported in a previous parliamentary question response. Ministerial agreement to suspend the project was finalised in 2005-06.

[3] Including future commitments.

The costs of running the solutions implemented by the projects and programmes are not included as in the great majority of cases they are more than compensated for by the financial and non financial benefits they generate.

Any initiatives that are associated with ongoing system improvements or enhancements as part of normal Departmental business are also excluded.

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions for what proportion of time each of his Department's 25 critical systems were available in each month in 2008. [254527]

Jonathan Shaw: The information is not held in the format requested. The availability of the Department's IT systems is calculated in a service measurement period (SMP) and not on a monthly basis. This cycle is based on the fiscal year.

The following information supplied shows the availability of the Department's top 25 IT systems covering the period from 14 January 2008 up to and including 11 January 2009.

Each 'Top 25' system has reported 100 per cent. availability each reporting period in 2008 except where detailed as follows.

Jobcentre Plus: Closures

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will place in the Library a list of each Jobcentre Plus office that has closed in each year since 2002, including (a) the full address, (b) the date on which the office closed, (c) a description of the services the office offered and (d) details of the number of staff employed in the office prior to closure, broken down by type of staff; and if he will make a statement. [246625]

Mr. McNulty: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the acting chief executive of Jobcentre Plus, Mel Groves. I have asked him to provide the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Mel Groves:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your question asking if he will place in the Library a list of each Jobcentre Plus office that has closed in each year since 2002, including (a) the full address, (b) the date on which the office closed, (c) a description of the services the office offered and (d) details of the number of staff employed in the office prior to closure, broken down by type of staff. This is something that falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Acting Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

Information is centrally available for the year that each office closed but not the actual date. The date provided is when the building is disposed of and ceases to be a financial liability to Jobcentre Plus. This can be up to 12 months following closure to the public.

The final date of closure of an office to the public is managed locally and will be adjusted to support a managed and gradual migration of the services delivered by that office to alternative locations. As a result of this gradual migration, there is no information available that details the services being delivered by an office immediately prior to closure, as well as the number of staff employed in each office prior to closure.

I have placed the available information in the Library.

Pension Credit: Nottinghamshire

Paddy Tipping: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many households were in receipt of pension credit in each parliamentary constituency in Nottinghamshire in (a) November 2003 and (b) May 2008. [254883]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The information is in the following table.

Households in receipt of pension credit in each parliamentary constituency in Nottinghamshire

	November 2003	May 2008
Ashfield	3,550	5,180
Bassetlaw	3,190	4,400
Broxtowe	2,540	3,630
Gedling	2,690	3,700
Mansfield	3,040	4,300
Newark	3,250	4,260
Rushcliffe	2,330	3,200
Sherwood	2,530	3,800

Notes:

1. The number of households in receipt is rounded to the nearest 10.
2. Household recipients are those people who claim pension credit either for themselves only or on behalf of a household.

Pension Protection Fund

Mr. Waterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how long the average assessment period for defined benefit schemes was for those who applied to the Pension Protection Fund in the 2007-08 levy year; and how many assessments exceeded the average period. [248834]

Ms Rosie Winterton: In the 2007-08 levy year 114 schemes cases entered the PPF assessment period. Of those schemes, 15 have exited the process due to the scheme being rescued or, following further investigation, being deemed ineligible and subsequently withdrawn. No schemes that entered assessment in the 2007-08 levy year have yet transferred into the PPF.

Historically it has taken an average of seven years to wind up pension schemes in the UK. Against this background the PPF has set a challenging target of 75 per cent. of schemes, and schemes covering 75 per cent. of members, completing the assessment period within two years. By law, the Pension Protection Fund assessment period must last a minimum of one year before a scheme can transfer to the PPF, and could be longer, depending on the complexity of the financial situation of both the employer and the scheme.

Pensioners: Winter Fuel Payments

Chris Ruane: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much the Government has spent on help for pensioners with fuel bills in each year since 1991. [250734]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Government have implemented a number of measures to assist older people with their fuel bills, including winter fuel payments and cold weather payments.

Information relating to the expenditure on winter fuel payments and cold weather payments is provided in the following tables.

£ million

	Expenditure on winter fuel payments (GB)	Expenditure on cold weather payments (GB)[1]

2007-08	2,071	4

[1] Figures for winter fuel payments are for people aged 60 and over. Figures for cold weather payments are the total expenditure paid to all client groups. It is not possible to split cold weather payment expenditure between pensioners and others. For 2008-09, the proportion of benefit units eligible for cold weather payments which included a pensioner is 63 per cent. (Source: based on analysis of Quarterly Statistical Enquiries and Tax Credit data.)

[2] Amount below £0.5 million.

DWP Accounting Data

This year the winter fuel payment has increased from £200 to £250 for households with someone aged 60-79 and from £300 to £400 for households with some aged 80 or over.

This year there is also a temporary increase in cold weather payments from £8.50 to £25.

Since 1997, VAT on fuel and power dropped from 8 per cent. to 5 per cent. This reduced a typical customer's bill by around £16 per year at a cost to the Government of £450 million per year.

Since 2000 the Government have spent £1.85 billion on the warm front scheme which provides grants to help people on low incomes, including pensioners, with energy efficiency measures.

Post Office Card Account

Mr. Djanogly: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will estimate the cost to his Department, excluding claims for compensation, of the tendering and bidding process for the Post Office card account. [241202]

Ms Rosie Winterton: It is not possible to give the full costs incurred by DWP on the procurement exercise. The direct salary costs (including on-costs) of the staff who worked full-time on this exercise, which extended over a 22 month period, were some £700,000. Some of these costs would have been incurred in any event to put in place a new contract with the Post Office had it been decided originally that it should be renewed. In addition, a number of other staff contributed to the procurement process alongside their other duties.

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions with reference to the answer of 19 November 2008, Official Report, columns 561-62W, on the Post Office card account, if he will take steps to make the best possible estimate of the cost to his Department of the tendering and bidding process for the Post Office card account; and what information his Department holds on the costs of the processes. [241316]

Ms Rosie Winterton: I wrote to the hon. Member on 9 December 2008. As I said in my letter, it is not possible to give the full costs incurred by DWP on the procurement exercise. The direct salary costs (including on-costs) of the staff who worked full-time on this exercise, which extended over a 22-month period, were some £700,000. Some of these costs would have been incurred in any event to put in place a new contract with the Post Office had it been decided originally that it should be renewed. In addition, a number of other staff contributed to the procurement process alongside their other duties.

State Retirement Pensions

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the value of the additional pension paid at the age of 80 would be if it had been indexed to (a) earnings and (b) prices since 1997. [253565]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The value of the age addition, paid at age 80, if indexed to (a) earnings and (b) prices since 1997, is shown in the following table.

Pence

	Indexed to earnings	Indexed to prices
1998	26	26

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Agriculture: Subsidies

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent discussions his Department has had with commoners' associations on permitting them to act as the vehicle for the allocation of single farm payments on common land. [249573]

Jane Kennedy: As a result of recent discussions with commoners' associations further consideration is being given to this issue.

Birds: Nature Conservation

Mrs. Moon: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 29 January 2009, Official Report, column 707W, on birds: nature conservation, if he will take steps to monitor the effectiveness of sales controls provided for in the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981 as measures to protect species removed from Schedule 4. [255705]

Huw Irranca-Davies [holding answer 9 February 2009]: My Department considers it would be disproportionate to monitor sales of non-CITES species sold under a general licence, especially when the numbers of birds in captivity and demand by aviculturalists is relatively low, and evidence of illegal taking is negligible for the species.

Should any evidence come to light to the contrary, we would consider what steps to take in conjunction with advice from Natural England.

Carbon Emissions

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs with reference to the answer of 28 October 2008, Official Report, column 846W, on carbon emissions, what the timetable is for the completion of the navigator waste infrastructure research study. [252719]

Jane Kennedy: It is anticipated that the executive summary of the Navigator study will be completed by spring 2009.

Departmental Advertising

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much his Department spent on advertising in (a) the last 12 months and (b) 1997. [247995]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The figures as follows shows how much DEFRA has spent through COI on campaign advertising in the last 12 months.

ACT ON CO_2 advertising

From January 2008—March 2008 the ACT ON CO_2 spend was approximately £685,000 (press and online advertising).

From April 2008 to December 2008 the ACT ON CO_2 spend was approximately £6,700,000 (TV, press, radio and digital advertising).

Other DEFRA advertising

Spend on non-ACT ON CO_2 advertising over the last 12 months comes to £137,100:

Cattle disposal	9,000
Ecolabelling	8,100
Reach	120,000

Advertisements placed via the DEFRA recruitment and statutory advertising contract for the period January 2008 to December 2009:

Recruitment advertising—£381,019.29

Statutory advertising—£70,851.76

All figures include fees and are exclusive of VAT.

As a number of DEFRA's recruitment adverts are placed through the Cabinet Office framework as part of a whole advertising campaign (campaigns can include the preparation of application packs, advertisements, sifting and assessments) it is not possible to split out the advertising element at a proportionate cost.

DEFRA was formed in June 2001. Information on the advertising spend of legacy departments is not held centrally and could only be collated at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Air Travel

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Rochford and Southend East of 21 October 2008, Official Report, column 162W, on departmental air travel, if he will place in the Library figures for 2007-08. [241670]

Huw Irranca-Davies: From information held centrally, 2007-2008 air travel mileage figures available currently for all Government Carbon Offsetting Fund (GCOF) participants are as follows:

Departmental Lobbying

Mr. Holmes: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether Ministers in his Department received representations from (a) Lord Moonie, (b) Lord Taylor of Blackburn, (c) Lord Snape and (d) Lord Truscott in the last seven months. [255228]

Huw Irranca-Davies: No Ministers in DEFRA have received representations from any of these peers over the past seven months.

Departmental Working Hours

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the policy of his Department and its agencies is on granting staff time off in lieu for working (a) in lunch breaks, (b) in evenings and (c) at other times outside contracted working hours; and if he will make a statement. [252031]

Huw Irranca-Davies: DEFRA and its agencies operate 'flexi time' arrangements that allow staff to take time off in lieu for working above their contracted hours. This would include time off for working during lunch breaks and in the evenings.

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many days off in lieu were granted to staff in (a) his Department, (b) its agencies and (c) its non-departmental public bodies for working (i) in lunch breaks and (ii) at other times outside contracted working hours, in the last year for which figures are available. [252032]

Huw Irranca-Davies: DEFRA and its agencies operate 'flexi time' arrangements. With the exception of CEFAS and CSL this policy allows staff to take up to three days time off in lieu per four week period for hours worked above their contractual hours. CEFAS and CSL currently allow their staff to take up to two days time off in lieu per four week period.

The working hours of employees is not recorded centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Information on the working arrangements of DEFRA's NDPB's is not available centrally.

Domestic Waste: Waste Disposal

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what estimate his Department has made of the number of household waste bins fitted with radio frequency identification chips; [252412]

(2) what (a) advice and (b) guidance (i) his Department and (ii) the Waste and Resources Action Programme has given on the use of radio frequency identification devices attached to household waste containers. [252480]

Jane Kennedy: No such estimate has been made by DEFRA and neither DEFRA nor WRAP have issued any advice or guidance on the use of radio frequency identification devices.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will place in the Library a copy of the final report of the research project (a) WR0103—Household Waste Prevention Policy Side Research Programme, (b) WR0104—Lifestyle Scenarios: Futures for Waste Composition, (c) WR0106—Achieving Household Waste Prevention and Promoting Sustainable Resource Use Through Product Service Systems and (d) WR0506—Benefits of Third Sector Involvement in Waste Management. [252720]

Jane Kennedy: The projects (WR0103) 'Household Waste Prevention Policy Side Research Programme' and (WR0104) 'Lifestyle Scenarios: Futures for Waste Composition' referred to in the reply to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar (Mr. Pickles) on 18 November 2008, Official Report, column 303W, on Domestic Waste: Waste Disposal, are publicly available on DEFRA's website.

The draft final report for project (WR0506) 'Benefits of third sector involvement in waste management' was received by DEFRA at the beginning of December. Comments and feedback on the draft are being collated prior to the project team completing a finalised version ready for publication before the end of March. The published report will be made publicly available on DEFRA's website.

Project report (WR0106) 'Achieving Household Waste Prevention and Promoting Sustainable Resource Use Through Product Service Systems' is proceeding through publication clearance procedures and will be made publicly available on DEFRA's website as soon as this is completed.

Economic Situation

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent discussions his Department has had with outside organisations to discuss policy on reducing the effect of the recession on matters within his Department's responsibility. [254054]

Huw Irranca-Davies: As one would expect, the Secretary of State, Ministers and officials have regular engagements with outside organisations and other Government Departments on a broad range of issues, many of which naturally incorporate discussion relating to the economy.

A list of the individual discussions could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Eco-Towns

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions (a) he and (b) his officials have had with (i) Ministerial colleagues and (ii) officials in the Department of Communities and Local Government on the siting of proposed eco-towns on land with environmental stewardship status. [251279]

Huw Irranca-Davies: 33 eco-town proposals have been subjected to a cross-Government review process in which DEFRA, the Environment Agency and Natural England played a full role alongside Communities and Local Government. This review considered the potential environmental impacts of each proposal in terms of water supply, wastewater treatment, water quality, flood risk management, waste management, biodiversity and landscape. A number of the eco-town proposals reviewed included land under Environmental Stewardship.

Environment Protection: Landfill

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which body is responsible for monitoring the (a) environmental impact of (b) adherence to gate-keeping procedures at landfill sites. [252610]

Jane Kennedy: The Environment Agency is the relevant regulator for England and Wales in respect of landfill sites, including monitoring of the environmental impact and adherence to gate-keeping procedures.

Farms: Income

Mr. Gray: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the average farm income was in (a) England, (b) Scotland, (c) Wales and (d) Northern Ireland for each of the last 10 years. [254013]

Jane Kennedy: Information on the average Farm Business Income and Net Farm Income in England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, for each of the last 10 years, is shown in the following table.

Farm Business Survey[1]

[1] The FBS sample covers businesses with a Standard Labour Requirement (SLR) of at least 0.5, i.e. a size considered sufficient to occupy a farmer for at least half their time.

Farm Business Income is the headline measure of the profitability of farm businesses. It represents the financial return to all unpaid labour (farmers and spouses, non-principal partners and directors and their spouses and family workers) and on all their capital invested in the farm business, including land and buildings. It is not available for years before 2003-04 given the way that data were recorded in earlier years. Scotland are in the process of adapting their Farm Business Survey to derive equivalent data.

Net farm income is defined as the return to the principal farmer and spouse for their manual and managerial labour and on the tenant type capital of the business. It is net of an imputed rental charge on owned land and an imputed charge for unpaid labour.

Fines

Mr. Grieve: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what administrative financial penalties may be levied by his Department and its agencies. [253390]

Huw Irranca-Davies: DEFRA (the core Department) does not have authority to levy financial penalties without the need to resort to court proceedings.

The Environment Agency, a non-departmental public body, can levy fixed penalty notices under the following legislation:

Clean Neighbourhoods and Environment Act 2005

The Hazardous Waste (England and Wales) Regulations 2005

The Transfrontier Shipment of Waste Regulations 2007

The Site Waste Management Plans Regulations 2008

The Environment Agency is also responsible for imposing civil penalties under the Greenhouse Gas Emissions Trading Scheme Regulations 2005 in England and Wales.

The Marine and Fisheries Agency has authority to impose administrative financial penalties for fisheries offences under the Sea Fishing(Enforcement of Community Measures)(Penalty Notices) Order 2008, SI 2008 No 984.

Due to the large number and the complexity of schemes administered by the Rural Payments Agency, I have instructed the Chief Executive to reply to you by letter.

Fisheries: Licensing

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will change the Single Area Licence requirement on Brixham fishermen to enable Brixham boats to be inspected at sea or at their nearest port of call before moving from one fishing area to another. [254977]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The Single Area Licence condition was introduced to the South West beam trawl fleet in November 2008 and was considered necessary in order to safeguard the stocks of sole in the West Channel. This is of particular concern in International Council for the Exploration of the Sea (ICES) division VIIe* where there is clear evidence of misrecording of area of capture, which has been admitted by industry representatives. The amount of quota available for fishing for sole in VIIe* is quite limited compared to other areas and was cut by a further 15 per cent. this year on scientific advice. Catching sole in VIIe*, and declaring that it is caught in another sector, will further deplete precious stocks and give false data to the scientists.

The new condition was discussed with fishing industry representatives prior to its introduction, and care was taken to try to ensure that it was workable and would have the desired effect. The condition sets out that beam trawler operators are prohibited from fishing in VIIe* and any other ICES division in the same trip. They are also obliged to inform the call centre in advance of leaving port whether they intend to fish in VIIe* or in any other ICES division. The scheme has worked well and the industry are complying with the condition. It has been agreed that a formal review will take place after six months of running, and the Marine and Fisheries Agency (MFA) are maintaining close liaison with industry representatives on this measure.

The MFA have limited resources to inspect at sea across the whole of English and Welsh waters using the Royal Navy Fishing Protection Squadron. This resource is used to target vessels which pose the highest risk of non compliance, including visiting community vessels as well as UK vessels. It would be a poor use of resource to task the Navy to inspect very limited areas of operations in order to concentrate on checking vessels at boundaries between fishing areas for compliance with this particular licence condition.

There is nothing in the licence condition that requires Brixham boats to return to Brixham to land their catch prior to setting out to fish in another area. If the master or owner of a vessel wishes to amend the area of fishing, there is a requirement to come into a fishing port before any notification for a change of area can be made, but this does not need to be the home fishing port. If fishing has taken place however, any fish retained onboard must be landed before this notification is made. This element of the measure was introduced so that we can be sure that the fish retained onboard can only be from one ICES area, and hence, the risk of the ability to misreport the area of capture is reduced.

VIIe*—the exact area where the restriction applies called 'relevant area' is clearly mapped out in the licence condition.

Fisheries: Quotas

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will carry out a mid-year review of the reduction in quota levels for 7e sole in the light of new scientific advice; and what recent assessment he has made of the effect of quota levels on the livelihoods of fishermen in the south-west. [254978]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The International Council for the Exploration for the Sea (ICES) provides scientific advice to the European Commission and member states for the management of EU fish stocks. Since agreement was reached on total allowable catches and quotas for 2009 there has been no new advice concerning 7e sole. Once new information becomes available I will give it my full consideration.

I fully recognise that the loss of sole quota impacts on fishers' in the south-west. Based on average 2008 prices, this year's cut in the UK quota of 68t, is valued at approximately £500,000. However, this does not take account of fluctuations in price and catches of other species.

I am keen for my officials to continue to work with representatives of the south-west fishing industry. They have, therefore, agreed to meet throughout the year to explore the scope for developing a strategy for 7e sole based on the latest evidence.

Floods: EU Law

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what progress he has made on implementation of the EU Floods Directive; and if he will make a statement. [253203]

Huw Irranca-Davies: We intend to consult on arrangements for implementing the directive in England this spring, as part of the draft Floods and Water Bill.

Fresh Fruit and Vegetables Aid Scheme

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many applications for recognition under the Fresh Fruit and Vegetables Aid Scheme since 2004 were received from producer organisations; and how many of these were (a) approved, (b) rejected and (c) withdrawn. [252583]

Jane Kennedy: 34 applications for recognition under the Fresh Fruit and Vegetables Aid scheme were received from producer organisations since 2004.

Of these, 24 were approved, nine were rejected and one was withdrawn.

Housing: Carbon Emissions

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much money has been allocated from the Environmental Action Fund for the construction of zero-carbon housing. [249738]

Jane Kennedy: The conditions of the Environmental Action Fund did not allow grant funding for construction work. It did support several projects by voluntary and community sector organisations which encouraged sustainable consumption in the construction industry, among building professionals, communities or householders/buyers.

Examples of Government support to the house-building sector for the construction of zero carbon housing are: the Zero Carbon Hub, the Carbon Challenge Programme and the Low Impact Building Innovation Platform.

Incinerators: EC Law

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of levels of compliance of emissions from energy from waste plants with the EU Waste Incineration Directive; and if he will make a statement. [254411]

Jane Kennedy: Operators of waste incineration plants are required to comply with permits under the terms of the Environmental Permitting (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 which implement the Waste Incineration Directive (2000/76/EC). Assessment of compliance, and consideration of enforcement action in the event of non-compliance, are matters for the relevant environmental regulator.

Landfill: EC Law

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of (a) the financial and economic impact of the EU Landfill Directive, (b) the costs of meeting the targets contained in the Directive by 2010 and (c) the likely cost to the public purse should the UK fail to meet the requirements of the Directive. [254403]

Jane Kennedy: The information is as follows:

(a) The financial and economic impact of the EU Landfill Directive in England and Wales was considered in a regulatory impact assessment (RIA) included in the consultation on the implementation of the Landfill Directive in 2001.

(b) The costs of meeting the 2010 landfill diversion targets were estimated in the RIA on the implementation of the landfill provisions of the Waste and Emissions Trading Act 2003. The RIA identified three options that would meet the requirements as well as a business as usual base position.

(c) Failure to meet the requirements of the Landfill Directive would leave the UK open to infraction proceedings under EC law.

Mass Media

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the cost of his Department's contracts with press monitoring services was in each of the last five years. [251156]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The Media Monitoring Unit (MMU) has provided media monitoring services as follows to DEFRA:

2005-06	53,000
2006-07	54,150
2007-08	62,700
2008-09	70,000

We do not hold records for MMU costs in 2004-05.

Durrants provides DEFRA with a daily cuttings service at the following cost per calendar year:

2005	66,843
2006	137,911
2007	152,397
2008 to date	136,777

We do not hold records for Durrants costs in 2004-05.

DEFRA also subscribes to the Press Association newswire monitoring service at the following cost:

2004-05	4,000
2005-06	4,136
2006-07	4,237
2007-08	4,402
2008-09	4,391

In addition since May 2008 DEFRA has used the transcript service of Wordsworth at a cost to date of £8,705.

All figures quoted exclude VAT.

Nature Conservation

Mrs. Moon: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what plans his Department has to strengthen the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species licensing system following the recent changes to Schedule 4 of the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981. [253749]

Huw Irranca-Davies: I do not propose to make any specific changes to the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species (CITES) licensing system. However my officials have recently strengthened our compliance team with the secondment of a serving police officer.

This has enabled CITES licensing to improve the service they offer to law enforcement agencies and to integrate the procedures fully into those of the police national intelligence model and the overall UK strategic assessment of wildlife crime.

Nitrate Vulnerable Zones

Andrew Stunell: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the effects of simultaneous discharges of slurry in nitrate vulnerable zones at the end of the closed season; and if he will make a statement. [254070]

Huw Irranca-Davies: Stakeholders raised concerns in response to a consultation about the potential for a "national muck spreading day" either just before or just after the closed season. To address their concerns and to manage the risk of less attention being paid to ground conditions at a time when there is a higher risk of soil damage or run-off, a provision was included in the Nitrate Pollution Prevention Regulations 2008 which set a maximum application rate and minimum return period between the end of the closed season and the end of February. This is in addition to a number of other measures in the regulations which are aimed at reducing the risk of a national muck-spreading day occurring.

Oils: Waste Disposal

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate he has made of the volume of used cooking oil that has been disposed of in landfill sites in each year since 1997. [253282]

Jane Kennedy: No such estimate has been made by DEFRA.

Packaging

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions his Department has held with retailers and manufacturers in the last 12 months on reducing excess packaging. [252923]

Jane Kennedy: DEFRA is in discussion with retailers and manufacturers through a voluntary agreement between industry and Government called the Courtauld Commitment. There have been a number of meetings over the past 12 months to discuss the issue of excess packaging. In 2008 the Courtauld Commitment successfully achieved its objective of stopping growth in grocery retail packaging, and signatories are now working towards their second aim of reducing the amount of packaging used by 2010. Discussions are under way to agree further reduction targets for the post-2010 commitment.

Packaging: EC Law

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what progress has been made in implementing the EU Packaging Directive; and if he will make a statement. [254408]

Jane Kennedy: The UK has fully implemented the requirements of the EU Packaging Directive via the Producer Responsibility Obligations (Packaging Waste) Regulations and the Essential Requirements Regulations.

Pollution Prevention Control Regulations 2000

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps he is taking to implement (a) the Pollution Prevention Control Regulations 2000 and (b) the pollution control regime set up under Part 1 of the Environmental Protection Act 1990. [254409]

Jane Kennedy: The Pollution Prevention Control Regulations 2000 and the pollution control regime set up under part 1 of the Environment Act 1990 have been replaced by the Environment Permitting (England and Wales) Regulations 2007. These came into force on 6 April 2008 and are fully implemented.

Poverty: Rural Areas

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps the Government have taken to address rural poverty. [253825]

Huw Irranca-Davies [holding answer 3 February 2009]: National cross-cutting policies to address poverty apply to both urban and rural areas and are the responsibility of a number of Government Departments such as the Department for Work and Pensions, Department for Communities and Local Government and Customs and Revenue.

DEFRA's role is to encourage other departments and agencies to understand the rural dimension to their policies and programmes. DEFRA also funds the Commission for Rural Communities to advise all Government Departments on the needs of people living and working in rural England, with a particular focus on tackling disadvantage.

Public Footpaths

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what consultations (a) he and (b) Natural England have had with Visit Britain on Natural England's review of national trails and routes. [255777]

Huw Irranca-Davies: My officials are aware of Natural England's review of national trails and routes.

Natural England has consulted VisitEngland (formerly VisitBritain) about its review and it has been actively involved throughout all stages of the review. It is represented on a small steering group of major stakeholders which has advised and contributed to every aspect of the review from agreeing the scope, gathering, analysing and challenging the evidence, refining recommendations and consulting with tourism, user group, landowner and local authority interests. VisitEngland also attended a national consultation event.

Recycling

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what changes the Environment Agency has made to rules on the storage of recyclable wastes as a consequence of the reduction in market demand for recycled products. [252722]

Jane Kennedy: An Environment Agency position statement regarding the storage of recyclables was issued on 11 November 2008 and is available on their website.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will make it his policy to set targets for local authorities on the recycling of trade waste; and if he will make a statement. [254064]

Jane Kennedy: No specific targets have been set for the recycling of trade waste.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many councils he expects to meet their targets for recycling of household waste by 2020; and what assistance is available to local authorities to meet such targets. [254085]

Jane Kennedy: Individual local authorities do not have targets set in 2020 for recycling household waste.

Waste Disposal

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate he has made of the amount of trade waste collected by (a) local authorities and (b) private waste contractors under licence in each of the last 12 months; and if he will make a statement. [254089]

Jane Kennedy: No such estimate has been made by DEFRA.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate he has made of the average cost to local authorities in (a) rural and (b) urban areas of separating household and trade waste by weight in the last year for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [255019]

Jane Kennedy: No such estimate has been made by DEFRA.

Waste Disposal: Climate Change

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he expects the waste provisions of the Climate Change Act 2008 to be implemented; and what assessment he has made of the financial and economic effects of those provisions on (a) households and (b) businesses. [254412]

Jane Kennedy: Powers in the Climate Change Act allow up to five local authorities in England to pilot household waste incentives schemes. No local authorities have so far expressed an interest in taking up these powers. The powers are of course voluntary and were introduced in response to requests from local government.

Waste Disposal: Fees and Charges

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs with reference to the answer of 14 January 2008, Official Report, column 870W, on waste disposal: domestic waste, whether a decision has been made on which body will evaluate pilot schemes for household waste incentive schemes. [252197]

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether an organisation has been appointed to carry out the evaluation of pilot schemes for charges for collection of household waste. [252713]

Jane Kennedy: No organisation has been appointed. I refer the hon. Members to the written statement I made on household waste incentives on 22 January 2009, Official Report, column 40WS.

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many fixed penalty notices for waste receptacle offences were issued in 2007-08; and how much was collected as a result. [252421]

Jane Kennedy: Figures for fixed penalty notices for waste receptacle offences issued in 2007-08 are not yet available.

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what records are required to be kept on the issue of fixed penalty notices to juveniles for waste receptacle offences. [252438]

Jane Kennedy: Figures collected from local authorities on fixed penalty notices (FPNs) issued for waste receptacle offences are not broken down by the age of the offender.

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what date his Department has set for local authorities to submit bids to pilot charges for the collection of household waste; and how many bids his Department has received. [252479]

Jane Kennedy: I refer the hon. Member to the written statement I made on household waste incentives, 22 January 2009, Official Report, column 40WS.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will place in the Library a copy of the presentation on waste incentive pilot schemes given by Ms Sarah Fisher from his Department's waste strategy division to the Thames Valley Waste Forum on 4 April 2008. [252622]

Jane Kennedy: The presentation is available on the Thames Valley Waste Forum website.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent discussions he has had with local authorities on charges for the collection of household waste. [255782]

Jane Kennedy: No such discussions have taken place.

Waste Disposal: Private Finance Initiative

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) how many local authorities have met the criteria for the Government's private finance initiative programme to establish waste disposal projects; [254401]

(2) how much private finance initiative funding is available for energy from waste projects in England in (a) 2008-09 and (b) 2009-10. [254402]

Jane Kennedy: To date, £2.02 billion private finance initiative (PFI) credits have been committed to 33 local authority projects, all of which have met the required criteria.

There are an additional 11 projects in the application process, for which it is expected a further £1.18 billion PFI credits could be awarded.

The comprehensive spending review 2007 provided DEFRA with additional funding (totalling £2 billion) through PFI to provide further investment in waste infrastructure, of which £600 million is for 2008-09 and £700 million for the years 2009-10 and 2010-11.

Water Charges

Charlotte Atkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what representations he has received from churches on new charging systems for surface water drainage; and what his response to those representations has been. [255245]

Huw Irranca-Davies: I refer my hon. Friend to the reply I gave to my hon. Friend the Member for South Ribble (Mr. Borrow) on 15 January 2009, Official Report, column 887W.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Anti-terrorism Control Orders

Patrick Mercer: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many of the seven individuals who have absconded from control orders have been arrested or otherwise located and returned to control. [255380]

Mr. Coaker: In relation to the locations and status of the seven individuals who have absconded from control orders, I would refer the hon. Member to written ministerial statements in relation to control orders published on 11 December 2006, 16 January 2007, 22 March 2007, 24 May 2007, 21 June 2007 (two statements), 17 September 2007 and 13 March 2008. These statements give as much information as we can provide about the individuals concerned given the national security sensitivities of these cases and the need to avoid publishing any information that could lead to the identification of an individual who is subject to an anonymity order.

Apprentices

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department with reference to the answer of 11 June 2008, Official Report, column 332W, on apprentices, how many apprentices her Department employs. [251905]

Mr. Woolas: The Home Office HQ, United Kingdom Border Agency (UKBA), Identity and Passport Service (IPS), and the Criminal Records Bureau (CRB) are participating in the Government Skills Apprenticeships Pathfinder Programme and data on the overall take up is collated centrally. There are currently 260 members of staff registered with an apprentice provider under this programme, and a further 76 applications are being processed.

Data about other staff taking apprenticeships outside of this programme are not collected centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Asylum

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what proportion of applications for asylum in 2007-08 was made by people entering the UK from (a) another EU member state and (b) a country outside the EU. [254692]

Mr. Woolas: The requested information, which may not be available in all cases, could be obtained only at disproportionate cost by examination of individual case records.

Information on asylum is published annually and quarterly. Q4 2008 statistics will be available on 24 February 2009 from the Library of the House and from the Home Office Research, Development and Statistics Directorate website at:

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/immigration-asylum-stats.html

Asylum: Finance

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people have qualified for an integration loan from the UK Border Agency under (a) refugee status and (b) humanitarian protection criteria in (i) 2007 and (ii) 2008. [254444]

Mr. Woolas: Between 11 June 2007 (when the integration loan scheme started) and the end of December 2008 a total of 1,137 loan applicants have been awarded a loan. 383 loans were awarded in 2007 and 754 in 2008.

The integration loan is available to those granted refugee status, humanitarian protection or those granted leave as a dependant of such individuals. Consideration of eligibility takes into account these factors and does not differentiate between whether an applicant has been granted refugee status or humanitarian protection. We therefore do not collect statistics on the immigration status of successful loan applicants.

Asylum: Homosexuality

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people who claimed to be gay or lesbian have been returned from the UK to (a) Iran, (b) Iraq, (c) Mauritania, (d) Nigeria, (e) Pakistan, (f) Saudi Arabia, (g) the United Arab Emirates, (h) Sudan and (i) Yemen since 1997. [255872]

Mr. Woolas: The information requested is not available and could be obtained only through the examination of individual cases files at disproportionate cost. Even then, this information may not be available in all cases.

The Home Office publishes statistics on the number of persons removed, including voluntary departures, from the UK on a quarterly and annual basis. National Statistics on immigration and asylum are placed in the Library of the House and are available from the Home Office's Research, Development and Statistics website at:

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/immigration-asylum-stats.html

Figures for the fourth quarter of 2008 will be published on 24 February 2009.

Borders: Personal Records

Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department in how many and what proportion of UK air passenger movements (a) other passenger information and (b) passenger name record data are gathered. [253335]

Mr. Woolas: Other Passenger Information (OPI) is known in the aviation industry as Passenger Name Record (PNR) data. Carriers will only be required to provide OPI to e-Borders to the extent that it is known to the carrier i.e. held within the reservation system. OPI is currently only collected on a limited number of routes.

It is UKBA policy not to provide details of the routes for security and commercial reasons.

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many staff in her Department were disciplined for (a) bullying and (b) harassment of colleagues in each of the last three years. [254085]

Mr. Woolas: This response covers staff within Home Office headquarters, the UK Border Agency, the Identity and Passport Service and the Criminal Records Bureau.

Information on the number of staff disciplined (including any dismissed) under the Department's Bullying, Harassment and Discrimination Policy during the last three financial years is shown in the following table:

Table 1: Staff disciplined or dismissed under Bullying, Harassment and Discrimination Policy

	Staff disciplined (including any dismissed)
2005-06	17
2006-07	9

Departmental Ministerial Policy Advisers

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what expert advisers have been commissioned by her Department and its agencies since 1997; on what topic each was commissioned; and whether the advisers so appointed made a declaration of political activity in each case. [246659]

Mr. Woolas: Comprehensive information on this is not held centrally and to obtain it would incur disproportionate costs.

Departmental Pensions

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps her Department is taking to advise staff of pension options available to them in relation to added years or additional voluntary contributions. [253271]

Mr. Woolas: Information on how to purchase added pension and additional voluntary contributions is provided to all members of staff on joining the Principal Civil Service Pension Scheme (PCSPS). This is contained in the relevant scheme booklet sent to all those joining the Department.

This information is also made available to members of staff on the Cabinet Office website (a link to this is on the Home Office HR intranet site) and the annual benefit statements sent to all staff who are members of the PCSPS contain details on where to find further information for those interested in boosting their pension provision.

Departmental Recruitment

Justine Greening: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many new recruits her Department took on in (a) 2005-06, (b) 2006-07, (c) 2007-08 and (d) 2008-09, how many of these were taken on as (i) permanent, (ii) temporary and (iii) agency staff; and what estimate she has made of the equivalent figures for (A) 2009-10 and (B) 2010-11. [254464]

Mr. Woolas: The number of new recruits in Home Office HQ is in the following table:

[1] 2009-10 and 2010-11 forecasts figures are not available as business planning has not been finalised in detail.

Departmental Redundancy

Justine Greening: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department with reference to the answer of 26 November 2008, Official Report, columns 2292-3W, on redundancy, what estimate has she made of the annual payroll savings resulting from staff exit schemes in (a) 2005-06, (b) 2006-07, (c) 2007-08 and (d) 2008-09 excluding the cost of severance packages; and what estimate she has made of the equivalent figures for 2009-10. [254459]

Mr. Woolas: The savings resulting from staff exit schemes could only be calculated following examination of individual records and this would incur disproportionate cost.

Departmental Temporary Employment

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much was spent by her Department on (a) agency and (b) temporary staff in each financial year since 2005-06. [251358]

Mr. Woolas: The following table details total annual salary costs to the Department for casual and fee paid employees who are paid on the Department's payroll system. The data cover Home Office headquarters, UK Border Agency (UKBA), Identity and Passport Service (IPS) and Criminal Records Bureau (CRB).

The Department employs agency staff and consultants who are paid from individual business unit budgets. Salary costs are not held centrally for these employees and to obtain the information would incur disproportionate cost.

	Total annual salary costs of casual and fee paid staff in HQ, UKBA, IPS and CRB
2005-06	1,469,927.07
2006-07	503,593.29
2007-08	420,924.08
2008-09 (to end of January 2009)	372,012.41

Departmental Travel

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what expenditure her Department has incurred in providing transport for Ministers between Parliament and departmental premises in each of the last five years. [251875]

Mr. Woolas: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Transport (Mr. Hoon) on 26 January 2009, Official Report, column 5W. All ministerial travel is undertaken in accordance with the Ministerial Code.

Departmental Written Questions

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department on how many occasions in the last 12 months Ministers in her Department have used their discretion to rule that a parliamentary question for written answer should be answered because it would be in the public interest to do so, even though to do so would exceed the disproportionate cost threshold of £700. [249142]

Mr. Woolas: This information is not held centrally.

Deportation: Offenders

Mr. Grieve: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many foreign national prisoners are subject to deportation notices. [252821]

Mr. Woolas: The chief executive of the UK Border Agency has regularly written to the Home Affairs Committee in order to provide all of the most robust and accurate information on the deportation of foreign national prisoners. Copies of these letters are available in the Library of the House.

Those who meet the published criteria for deportation will be considered for deportation action. Additionally any non-EEA foreign national prisoners who receive a custodial sentence of 12 months or more, as well as any non-EEA national convicted of a drug or gun offence irrespective of the length of their sentence, will face automatic deportation and, in many cases, will not receive a right of appeal within the United Kingdom. According to the Agency's own provisional internal management information, which is subject to change, over 5,000 foreign national prisoners were deported in 2008. This means that the UK Border Agency yet again exceeded its target for the year as well as exceeding the previous year's record number of removals and deportations of foreign national prisoners.

Domestic Violence: Refuges

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many refuges for victims of domestic violence there were in each year since 1997. [254907]

Mr. Iain Wright: I have been asked to reply.

The Department does not record these figures.

There is a range of support for victims of domestic violence. Some victims will be accommodated in refuges, but sanctuary schemes and mainstream local authority accommodation may be an option for others, while some victims will pursue independent solutions with help and advice from support schemes as necessary.

A national survey of refuge places in 1998 showed that there were 409 domestic violence refuge properties in England with approximately 7,269 bed-spaces.

The Department have recently commissioned new research that will identify the current housing options available to households at risk of domestic violence, and to assess whether this provision meets current need. It will involve establishing the extent and type of temporary and settled accommodation available for households at risk of domestic violence in England, including the provision of housing related support services delivered to both temporary and settled accommodation, and to households' own homes.

In 2003 the Government announced major investment in refuge provision in England in 2003 to 2006. A total of £34 million capital was allocated and 511 units of accommodation were refurbished or newly built. More recently the Hostels Capital Improvement programme (2005 to 2007) funded six new and refurbished refuges at a cost of £4 million.

The Department for Communities and Local Government provides essential revenue support for victims of domestic violence through the Supporting People Programme—£64.5 million in 2007-08 up from £61.6 million in 2006-07.

Entry Clearances

Rosie Cooper: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she expects a decision to be made on the application for a family reunion visa in Pretoria, South Africa by the relatives of the hon. Member for West Lancashire's constituent Mr. Katona: Loyce Gaka, visa reference number VFS-ZA-01-011915-X and Amanda Katona, visa reference number VFS-ZA-01-011916-X. [254577]

Mr. Woolas: These applications were resolved on 26 January 2009.

Foreign Workers

Mr. Soames: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the definition is of a temporary worker under Mode 4 of the General Agreement on Trade in Services; how such workers will be identified; and how their departure from the UK at the end of their contract will be enforced. [253507]

Mr. Woolas [holding answer 2 February 2009]: The definition of a temporary worker under Mode 4 of the General Agreement on Trade in Services can be found in the current European Union services offer in the Doha Development Agenda (DDA) negotiations on the World Trade Organisation website:

Mr. Woolas: The information requested can be provided only at disproportionate cost.

An assessment of the cost of freedom of information within Government can be found in Frontier Economics 2006 report "Independent Review of the Freedom of Information Act". A copy of this report is available in the House of Commons Library.

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many staff of her Department are specifically employed to manage freedom of information requests. [251761]

Mr. Woolas: Across the Home Office and its agencies, 10 staff deal exclusively with freedom of information requests, four of whom are employed on a part-time basis. A further 17 staff have managed freedom of information requests as a substantial part of their role. Overall, the equivalent of 19.6 full-time posts manage freedom of information requests.

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many requests under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 her Department (a) fulfilled and (b) refused in (i) 2006, (ii) 2007 and (iii) up to July 2008. [251762]

Mr. Woolas: The information requested has been published in the Ministry of Justice's annual reports on the operation of the FOI Act in central Government. These can be found at:

http://www.justice.gov.uk/docs/foi-annual-report-central-gov-2006.pdf

these are also available in the Library.

House of Commons: Right of Search

Mr. Jenkin: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) whether (a) her Department and (b) Metropolitan police have received a request under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 for the release of the report of the review conducted by Chief Constable Ian Johnston of the arrest and investigation of the hon. Member for Ashford; [254562]

(2) if she will obtain a copy of the final report of the review conducted by Chief Constable Ian Johnston of the British Transport Police of the arrest and investigation of the hon. Member for Ashford; and if she will place a copy of the report in the Library. [254734]

Mr. Coaker [holding answers 5 and 9 February 2009]: No request has been made to my Department. The review of the handling of the investigation by the Metropolitan police was made at the request of the then Acting Commissioner. The report of the review is a matter for the Commissioner of the Metropolitan police and I have no plans to call for a copy of the report.

Immigration: Marriage

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will review the application of the two-year rule to the right of a spouse to apply to remain in the UK. [253495]

Mr. Woolas: In April 2003 the probationary period for those seeking settlement on the basis of marriage was increased from one to two years. The two year probationary period is intended to protect the system against abuse. This probationary period allows the UK Border Agency to assess that the relationship is subsisting and acts as a safeguard against those who might enter into a sham marriage solely for immigration purposes.

The UK Border Agency keeps its policies under continuous review to ensure that they operate effectively and meet the Government's wider immigration objectives.

Luton Borough Council

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what grants her Department has made in respect of the Luton borough council area in each year since 1997. [252647]

The information for 2003-04 is no longer readily available and could not be provided without incurring disproportionate cost.

2005-06	164,457
2006-07	276,747

Mr. Woolas [holding answer 4 February 2009]: The chief executive of the UK Border Agency wrote to the hon. Member on 6 February 2009.

Offenders: Deportation

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent assessment she has made of procedures for the deportation of illegal immigrants who are convicted of a criminal offence. [253530]

Mr. Woolas [holding answer 3 February 2009]: The chief executive of the UK Border Agency has regularly written to the Home Affairs Select Committee advising of progress that the Agency has made in deporting such individuals and improvements to the system. Copies of these letters are available in the Library of the House. According to provisional internal management information, which is subject to change, the UK Border Agency deported or removed over 5,000 foreign national prisoners in 2008 meaning that it has again exceeded its Government set target and deported or removed record numbers of foreign criminals.

Offenders: Foreigners

Mr. Grieve: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many foreign national prisoners have been given leave to remain in the UK in the last 12 months. [254025]

Mr. Woolas: The Home Secretary has made it clear that those foreign national prisoners who commit crimes within the United Kingdom and meet the relevant criteria will face deportation action. Where an individual who does not meet this criteria but has no lawful basis upon which to remain in the United Kingdom, the UK Border Agency will pursue removal action against them.

The chief executive of the UK Border Agency has regularly written to the Home Affairs Select Committee in order to provide them with all of the most robust and accurate information available on the deportation of foreign national prisoners. Copies of her letters are available in the Library of the House.

Passports

Mike Gapes: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether her Department classifies Sri Lanka as a safe country. [254578]

Mr. Woolas: Sri Lanka is not one of the 24 countries currently designated under Section 94 (4) of the Nationality, Immigration and Asylum Act 2002 as a country from which asylum or human rights claims are to be certified as clearly unfounded unless the applicant is able to satisfy the Secretary of State that their asylum claim is not clearly unfounded.

Terrorism Act 2006: Prosecutions

Patrick Mercer: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) prosecutions and (b) convictions there have been for the offence of encouragement of terrorism contained in the Terrorism Act 2006; and how many in each case involved glorification of terrorism as defined in section 1(3) of that Act. [254861]

Mr. Coaker: The information requested is not currently held.

The Home Office, Ministry of Justice and Attorney-General's Office are currently working with the National Coordinator for Terrorist Investigations to improve the quality of data on arrests and convictions under terrorist legislation and other related legislation. As soon as this is complete a statistical bulletin to cover information on arrests and convictions will be published, but as yet we do not have a confirmed date.

The bulletin will say how many individuals have been charged and convicted for encouragement of terrorism; however it will not break it down any further.

UK Border Agency: Correspondence

Mr. Winnick: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how long on average it took the UK Border Agency to reply to letters from hon. Members in 2008. [249404]

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department with reference to the answer of 8 January 2008, Official Report, columns 453-4W, on entry clearances: employment, how many work permit applications by non-EU workers were approved in each of the last three years for which figures are available, broken down by the 20 most frequent occupations. [253987]

Mr. Woolas [holding answer 3 February 2009]: The table shows the number of work permit applications for non-EU workers approved in each of the last three years broken down by the 20 most frequent occupations.

Figures are rounded to nearest five.

Because of rounding, figures may not add up to totals shown.

The figures quoted are not provided under National Statistics protocols and have been derived from local management information and are therefore provisional and subject to change. The occupational categories used are not compatible with those in the Standard Occupational Classification.

Caveats:

The figures do not equate to the number of individual nationals who were granted permits because they include those applications approved to extend or amend an existing permit or where the individual has moved to another job with a different employer. Not all those who were granted a permit took up the job and some may have been refused entry clearance or further leave to remain.

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what criteria are applied in determining applications to work in the UK from (a) non-EU nationals resident in the UK, (b) EU nationals resident in the UK and (c) nationals of Commonwealth countries resident in the UK. [254439]

Mr. Woolas: Full details of the criteria applied to these categories for assessing applications for work can be found on the UK Border Agency website at:

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many work permits were issued for (a) doctors and (b) nurses and auxiliary nurses from each African country in the last two years for which figures are available. [254881]

Mr. Woolas [holding answer 2009]: The following table provides numbers of work permits issued to nationals from each African country for occupations containing the word 'nurse' or 'doctor' for the period 1 January 2007 to 31 December 2008.

Notes:

1. The figures do not equate to the number of individual nationals who were granted permits because they include those applications approved to extend or amend an existing permit or where the individual has moved to another job with a different employer. Not all those who were granted a permit took up the job and some may have been refused entry clearance or further leave to remain.
2. The term doctors/nurses refers to the occupation description containing the word 'nurse' or 'doctor'.
3. Numbers exclude persons admitted under the highly skilled migrant programme or the points-based system.
4. Figures are rounded to nearest five
5. Because of rounding figures may not add up to totals shown.

The figures quoted are not provided under National Statistics protocols and have been derived from local management information and are therefore provisional and subject to change. Industry sectors used are not consistent with the Standard Industrial Classification.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Council Housing: Lambeth

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of the extent to which Lambeth council's proposed rental charges from 1 April 2009 comply with her Department's guidance to local authorities on social rents. [255823]

Mr. Iain Wright: Local authority social housing rents are set by the individual authority, not by central Government.

The Government want the rents charged by social landlords to be fair and affordable. But, ultimately authorities are free to make their own decisions about the actual levels of their rents, in consultation with their tenants, and may decide not to follow the Government's advice.

Council Housing: Rents

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what average percentage change in the level of council housing rents her Department is (a) expecting and (b) recommending for 2009-10 over the previous year. [252549]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Department expects local authorities to follow its policy for social rents, but does not recommend specific rent increases to landlords. Guideline rents for each local authority form part of each year's Housing Revenue Account Subsidy determination for the purposes of making assumptions about a local authority's income, and its entitlement to subsidy.

The Department does not expect any particular average actual rent increases for 2009-10. Rent setting is a matter for each local authority landlord.

Council Housing: South Yorkshire

Jeff Ennis: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many people are on the council house waiting list in (a) Barnsley and (b) Doncaster; and what the equivalent figures were (i) five and (ii) 10 years ago. [255828]

Mr. Iain Wright: Information is available on numbers of households rather than people. The number of households registered on council housing waiting lists in each local authority, as at 1 April each year, is published on the Communities and Local Government website in Table 600. The latest available data is at April 2008 and can be found on our website at:

http://www.communities.gov.uk/documents/housing/xls/table600.xls

Local authorities in England report the numbers of households on their housing waiting list as at 1 April in their annual Housing Strategy Statistical Appendix returns. The number of households on local authorities' waiting lists in Barnsley and Doncaster are given in the following table.

Number of households on the council house waiting list (excludes households looking for transfers)

	April 1998	April 2003	April 2008
Barnsley	4,448	6,131	6,097
Doncaster	14,413	10,763	13,973

Source:
Housing Strategy Statistical Appendix (HSSA)

Not everyone on the waiting list is necessarily in urgent housing need. The waiting list includes those who consider social housing as their preferred or one of a number of housing options, and those who decide to get on to the waiting list ladder before they need or want to move house—particularly where the priority system is heavily based on waiting time. The size of the waiting list is not an indicator of absolute need, it is only useful as a broad indicator of housing demand in an area.

Council Tax: Students

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the High Court ruling in the case of Merseyside Valuation Tribunal and Wirral borough council v. Farthing, whether she plans to amend council tax regulations to allow full-time students on a condensed course of study to be eligible for a student council tax discount for the duration of their study. [254253]

John Healey: There are no plans to amend council tax regulations in this way.

Empty Property: East of England

Nadine Dorries: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) how many empty dwellings there were in the eastern region in each year since 1997; and if she will make a statement; [254845]

(2) how many empty dwellings there were in Mid-Bedfordshire constituency in each year since 1997; and if she will make a statement. [254846]

Mr. Iain Wright: The number of empty dwellings in local authority areas covering the Mid-Bedfordshire constituency, and in the eastern region, in each year since 2004 are shown in the following table. Information for years prior to 2004 is not available.

	Bedford B.C.	Mid Bedfordshire D.C.	Eastern region
1 November 2004	2,361	1,465	65,665
10 October 2005	2,270	1,375	66,783
9 October 2006	1,935	1,398	68,483
8 October 2007	2,024	1,469	69,107
6 October 2008	2,040	1,703	75,190

The data are as reported annually to Communities and Local Government on the CTB and CTB (supplementary) forms that are completed by all billing authorities in England. The data relate to particular dates in the autumn of each year.

Housing Revenue Accounts: City of Westminster

Ms Buck: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what Westminster city council's housing revenue account subsidy position (a) was in each of the last 10 years and (b) is expected to be in 2009-10. [255875]

Mr. Iain Wright: Westminster city council's housing revenue account subsidy annual entitlement for the period 1999-2000 to 2008-09 is shown in the following table:

1999-2000	3,441,142
2000-01	2,925,014
2001-02	15,679,461
2002-03	15,626,573
2003-04	17,449,143
2004-05	16,167,991
2005-06	13,430,874
2006-07	12,648,424
2007-08	10,274,925
2008-09	[1]6,896,466

[1] Provisional

Data for 2009-10 are not available. The authority's subsidy entitlement is dependent upon housing stock levels, which are not due to be made available until the end of March. We anticipate that the authority will continue to receive subsidy.

Ms Buck: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much (a) Westminster city council and (b) CityWest Homes contributed to the housing revenue account in each of the last 10 years; and how much they are expected to contribute to it in (a) 2008-09 and (b) 2009-10. [255870]

Mr. Iain Wright: Westminster city council has been a net recipient of housing revenue account subsidy in each of the last 10 years. The authority does not contribute surpluses for redistribution elsewhere and we expect this to continue to be the case in 2009-10.

Housing: Carbon Emissions

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what financial incentives are available to improve the efficiency of low carbon building projects in (a) England and (b) Buckinghamshire. [255383]

Mr. Iain Wright: There are several financial incentive schemes at national and local levels which support energy efficiency and low carbon building projects. These are summarised as follows:

England

Landlords Energy Saving Allowance—A financial incentive introduced in 2004 to encourage landlords to invest in the energy efficiency of their properties. It offers a deduction against taxable profits for private landlords' expenditure on cavity wall, loft, solid wall and hot water system insulation as well as draught-proofing.

Low Carbon Buildings programme—The Low Carbon Buildings programme was launched in 2006. It is the Government's £86 million capital grant programme funding the installation of on-site technologies for householders, communities, public sector and businesses. Over £42 million has been committed to 9,305 projects in England so far.

Stamp Duty Land Tax Exemption—Stamp Duty relief for zero carbon homes was announced in Budget 2007 to act as an incentive to developers of new zero carbon homes. The exemption covers the first acquisition of a zero carbon home costing up to £500,000. For homes costing in excess of £500,000 there will be a reduction of £15,000. The exemption is in place for all new homes for a period of five years ending on 30 September 2012.

Other programmes which can provide financial support include:

Act on CO2/Energy Saving Trust—In April 2008, the Government launched an advice line which offers a "one-stop-shop" for advice and tips on reducing carbon emissions and saving energy in the home with £26 million of support.

Decent Homes programme—The Decent Homes Standard includes a thermal comfort element that requires efficient heating and effective insulation in homes. From 2001-2007 the Government have spent £4 billion on heating and insulation as part of the wider Decent Homes programme.

Buckinghamshire

The Low Carbon Buildings programme (see above) has committed over £500,000 to 140 projects in Buckinghamshire so far.

All Buckinghamshire local authorities, and Milton Keynes, are participating in a region-wide programme designed to retrofit energy efficiency measures to existing private housing. Alongside funding made available for authorities to make their council housing decent my Department's "Private Sector Renewal" initiative provides funding through the Regional Housing Pot for authorities to cut household CO2 emissions by providing a range of services such as loft and cavity wall insulation, energy efficient boilers and renewable energy technology. The Thames Valley partnership is focusing its resources on an innovative loan facility, "the Flexible Home Improvement Loan". The Thames Valley-wide consortium has £7 million to spend over two years.

Milton Keynes Offsetting scheme—this is a local authority scheme whereby new housing that does not meet a stipulated level of the Code for Sustainable Homes is charged a levy that goes into a local retrofitting fund. Local sources suggest that this will create a funding pot of around £2 million for the improvement of the borough's housing stock.

Housing: Chorley

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government on what date the moratorium on house building was lifted in the Chorley borough council area. [256026]

Mr. Iain Wright: No moratorium on housing was imposed on any local authority in the north-west.

Regional planning guidance published in 2003 set targets for overall house-building in each upper tier local authority area in the north-west. It was for local authorities to decide how to manage housing supply within that context taking into consideration any under or over supply and the impact on neighbouring housing markets.

A new regional spatial strategy was published in September 2008 establishing new annual average figures for housing provision. These are not absolute targets and may be exceeded, where justified.

Housing: Greater London

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what recent estimate she has made of the average cost of constructing affordable housing units in London; and what the projected average cost is of constructing such units in 2010. [256121]

Mr. Iain Wright: Affordable housing is constructed in the same way as all other domestic housing, and similarly costs vary according to size and specification. Communities and Local Government has not carried out any recent work on the average cost of constructing an affordable housing unit in London. The Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform publishes data on construction costs, in the form of the Construction Cost and Price Indices which are available on a quarterly basis either in hard copy or online via the Building Cost Information Service website at:

http://www.bcis.co.uk/BCISWEB/ProductSearch/ProductSearch.aspx?sect=product&productid=136

Housing: Leeds

John Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many housing association properties there were in each of the wards of Leeds West constituency in each year since 2005; and what percentage of all dwellings in each ward they represented. [illegible]

Mr. Iain Wright: The information requested is not available centrally. It is being collected through the National Register of Social Housing but this is not yet complete.

Housing: Low Incomes

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) what the average cost has been of the homes brought into use as affordable housing through the Clearing House Programme; [254827]

(2) what proportion of the 4,800 homes brought into use as affordable housing through the Clearing House Programme are flats. [254828]

Mr. Iain Wright: The average grant per unit of all developer stock that has been purchased with funding through the Homes and Communities Agency's Affordable Housing programme (AHP) since May is set out in the following table. This includes both those schemes that were assessed through the National Clearing House and the smaller schemes that were assessed through the HCA.

Product	Average grant per unit (£)
Low cost home ownership	12,223
Social rent	61,115
Grand total	33,102

Source:
Homes and Communities Agency

Over 2,700 flats out of the total of over 4,800 affordable homes are being provided through the £160 million allocated from the initial £200 million earmarked from within the Affordable Housing programme.

Local Government: Planning Permission

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what procedures apply to planning applications made to themselves by local planning authorities. [illegible]

Mr. Iain Wright: The procedures dealing with development by local authorities are contained in the Town and Country Planning General Regulations 1992. The general principle underlying these regulations is that local authorities must make planning applications in the same way as any other person and must follow the same procedures as would apply to applications by others. In particular, the application must be advertised in the same way as any similar application from any other applicant. Such applications cannot be decided by a committee or officer responsible for the management of any land or buildings to which they relate.

Local authority development proposals, like those of other persons applying for planning permission, must be decided in accordance with the development plan unless material considerations indicate otherwise. They must be notified to the Secretary of State if they are not in accordance with the provisions of the development plan in force in the area, so that she can consider whether to 'call in' the application for her own determination.

Mobile Homes

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she plans to publish the Green Paper on park home owners. [illegible]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Department intends to publish two consultation papers this year on park homes. In April we propose to publish a paper on reforms to site licensing of park home sites. During the summer we hope to publish a paper on options for reform to certain provisions in the Mobile Homes Act 1983 (as amended) to improve the transparency of dealings between site owners and residents.

Multiple Occupation

Chris Ruane: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what progress has been made towards gathering information on homes in multiple occupation and the employment status of people who live in such accommodation in order to address the gap in evidence identified in her Department's second response to the Communities and Local Government Committee's Report on coastal towns. [illegible]

Mr. Iain Wright: We have improved the evidence base by publishing Houses in Multiple Occupation (HMO) data at local authority level. For statistics on applications received for licenses issued by the local authorities that relate to the English seaside towns I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave him on 15 December 2008, Official Report, column 372W.

National Clearing House Scheme

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) how much and what proportion of expenditure on the National Clearing House scheme will come from the Homes and Communities Agency's; [251793]

(2) how many unsold domestic dwellings in each local authority area have been bought under the National Clearing House scheme; and what the (a) timetable and (b) target for the total number of dwellings to be purchased under the scheme is. [251794]

Mr. Iain Wright: In May, the Government announced a plan to take advantage of market opportunities to bring private sector developer stock into the affordable housing sector by providing £200 million of funding in 2008-09 from the overall budget of the Homes and Communities Agency's Affordable Housing Programme (AHP) for the purchase of homes from house builders. This represents around 8 per cent. of the overall Affordable Housing Programme for 2008-09. We have not set a specific target for the number of properties to be purchased as we want to ensure that they are appropriate and of the right quality.

To help facilitate this, the Housing Corporation set up the National Clearing House to streamline initial assessment of national packages of at least 250 units from private sector house builders. Housing Corporation Investment partners, mainly registered social landlords, wishing to buy smaller numbers of units from developers could bid for funding directly to the Corporation in the normal way.

To the end of December over £160 million had been allocated from the initial £200 million. A table has been deposited in the Library showing the distribution of these allocations by local authority and social rent and low cost home ownership.

Non-Domestic Rates: Ports

Mrs. Ellman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will make it her policy to withdraw the requirement on businesses in statutory ports in England and Wales to pay backdated business rates bills. [255846]

John Healey: The Secretary of State has no discretion to waive a liability for taxation.

Queen Elizabeth II Conference Centre

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she expects the Shareholder Executive to report on its examination of the operation of the Queen Elizabeth II Conference Centre. [254763]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Government are planning an update on their consideration of the options for the Queen Elizabeth II Conference Centre by Budget 2009.

Regional Planning and Development: South-East

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) what the timetable is for the analysis of responses to the south-east plan consultation submitted to the Government office for the south-east; [255844]

(2) when she expects analysis of responses to the south-east plan consultation to be available; and whether she has any plans for its publication. [255845]

Mr. Khan: The analysis of the responses to the consultation is currently being undertaken by the Government office for the south-east.

We are expecting to publish the regional spatial strategy for the south east in the spring together with an analysis of responses received during the consultation.

Regional Spatial Strategies

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what role regional Ministers are playing in the development of regional spatial strategies. [253886]

Mr. Iain Wright: Regional Ministers represent regional interests in the formulation of government policy; facilitate a joined up approach across Government Departments and agencies to enable effective delivery; champion the region at high level events and with regard to high profile projects. They also represent the Government with regard to central Government policy at regional select committee hearings and at parliamentary debates focussed specifically on the region.

Regional Ministers also promote the importance of regional planning and encourage regional stakeholders to engage positively in the regional planning process and in their implementation. However, Regional Ministers are not part of the decision making process in relation to the review and issuing of RSSs. The Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government is responsible for issuing RSSs.

Social Rented Housing

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the guideline social housing rent increase for (a) 2009-10 and (b) 2010-11 is for each local authority in England. [253238]

Mr. Iain Wright: Local authority social housing rents are set by the individual authority, not by central Government.

I have placed a table setting out guideline rent changes for 2009-10 by authority in the Library of the House. Changes for 2010-11 between individual local authorities have not been set.

To protect tenants from large annual rent rises, we have put in place arrangements so that no authority need raise its actual rent per property above RPI+½+£2 in any one year.

Travelling People: Caravan Sites

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what targets for new traveller sites have been included in each draft regional spatial strategy. [255187]

Mr. Iain Wright: Local planning authorities are required to assess the accommodation needs of gypsies and travellers in the same way that they assess the housing needs of other members of their local communities.

Local planning authorities do this through Gypsy and Travellers Accommodation Assessments (GTAAs). The GTAAs inform the preparation of policies in the draft regional spatial strategy (RSS).

The RSS identifies the number of pitches required (but not the location or sites); it is for local planning authorities to consider the location or sites where pitches required for their area, possibly in conjunction with neighbouring local planning authorities.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

Departmental Surveys

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what areas were identified by his Department's June 2008 stakeholder survey as needing improvement, as referred to in his Department's autumn 2008 performance report; and if he will place a copy of the survey in the Library. [246258]

David Miliband: Areas identified as needing improvement are outlined in the Department's June 2008 stakeholder survey, a copy of which I will place into the Library of the House.

Departmental Training

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs with reference to the Answer of 3 November 2008, Official Report, column 162W, on departmental training, if he will place in the Library a copy of the audit of skills in his Department conducted in 2008. [240673]

David Miliband: A copy will be placed in the Library, once work on the audit of skills has been completed.

Developing Countries: Trade

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when he expects the next proposed World Trade Organisation Ministerial meeting on the Doha Development Agenda to take place; and if he will make a statement. [244134]

Gillian Merron [holding answer 16 December 2008]: No timing has been set for a ministerial meeting in the Doha Development Agenda (DDA). The possibility of such a meeting in December 2008 did not materialise and now further consultations will be needed, including with the new US Administration, before the World Trade Organisation (WTO) Director-General is likely to be able to propose a new timetable for negotiations.

My right hon. Friend the Prime Minister and other Ministers have worked tirelessly in support of a DDA deal and the Government's determination to work for fairer trade rules remains undimmed. Early conclusion of the DDA remains a top priority and we will continue to work closely with the WTO Director-General Pascal Lamy, the European Commission and EU partners to secure a deal. The revised negotiating texts on agriculture and industrial goods issued in December captured the key aspects of the progress made at the July WTO ministerial. We must now build on this, bridging the few remaining gaps to reach agreement. In the meantime, we urge WTO members to resist resorting to protectionism.

International Relations

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what information his Department holds on the countries which have been recognised by (a) the UK, (b) the US, (c) Russia, (d) France, (e) Germany, (f) China and (g) Israel since 1998 without the approval or with only partial approval of the countries in question. [246320]

Gillian Merron: Since 1998, the UK has recognised the following states: East Timor (20 May 2002), Montenegro (13 June 2006) and Kosovo (18 February 2008). In each case, the Government of the state in question has welcomed its recognition by the UK.

The Foreign and Commonwealth Office does not systematically hold information on which countries have been recognised by the US, Russia, France, Germany, China or Israel.

Mujaheddin-e Khalq

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the Government's policy towards the People's Mujahedeen Organisation of Iran is in the light of the recent judgment by the European Court of First Instance. [245442]

Bill Rammell: On 26 January 2009, taking account of the judgment by the Court of First Instance on 4 December 2008, the General Affairs and External Relations Council adopted a list which did not include the MeK (Mujaheddin-e-Khalq, also known as the People's Mojaheddin of Iran).

However, we remain mindful of the MeK's history as an organisation responsible for a number of serious terrorist attacks—it claimed responsibility for large numbers of violent attacks inside Iran for a number of years, including 96 in a three-month period in early 2001. We do not agree with its claim that it represents a credible democratic opposition in exile.

Zimbabwe: Overseas Visitors

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what advice his Department provides to UK citizens on travel to Zimbabwe. [246332]

Gillian Merron [holding answer 12 January 2009]: The latest travel advice for Zimbabwe and elsewhere can be found on the Foreign and Commonwealth Office website at www.fco.gov.uk/travel.

TREASURY

Carbon Emissions

Gregory Barker: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his definition of the low-carbon sector is as referred to in the pre-Budget report 2008. [255081]

Angela Eagle: We have used the definition from the forthcoming independent study by Innovas, commissioned by BERR, which includes:

Renewable energy, such as:

Hydro;
Wave and Tidal;
Biomass;
Wind;
Geothermal;
Renewable Consulting;
Photovoltaic.

And emerging low carbon technologies and activities, such as:

Alternative Fuel Vehicles;
Alternative Fuels;
Additional Energy sources;
Carbon Capture and Storage;
Carbon Finance;
Energy Management;
Building Technologies.

Gregory Barker: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what fiscal incentives are available for the research and development of low-carbon technologies. [255082]

Angela Eagle: The Government provide a range of tax incentives to encourage the adoption of new energy technologies:

Exemption from the climate change levy for supplies of electricity generated from certain renewable sources;

Enhanced capital allowances (ECAs) for energy-efficient equipment provide 100 per cent. first year allowances for spending on designated energy-saving technologies and products;

Stamp duty exemption for new zero-carbon homes;

Reduced rate of VAT (5 per cent.) for the professional installation of microgeneration equipment in residential and charitable properties.

And further tax incentives to support investment in innovative new technologies and higher risk ventures:

R and D tax credits provide enhanced tax relief for companies investing in scientific and technological R and D.

Gregory Barker: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much pooled funding is available to support cross-departmental co-operation on building a low-carbon economy. [255084]

Angela Eagle: Funding is allocated to individual Departments. Cross-departmental co-operation is supported through the Cabinet Office.

Coastal Areas

Andrew George: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer who owns the foreshore in (a) England, (b) Scotland, (c) Northern Ireland, (d) Wales, (e) Cornwall and (f) the Isles of Scilly. [254698]

Angela Eagle: The Crown Estate owns around 55 per cent. of the foreshore around the UK. The rest of the foreshore is owned by various bodies, including the Crown and the Duchies of Lancaster and Cornwall, such as port authorities, local authorities, the National Trust and private individuals.

The Duchy of Cornwall owns all of the Isles of Scilly foreshore, and the majority of the foreshore in Cornwall.

Departmental Assets

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what departmental assets are planned to be sold in each financial year from 2007-08 to 2010-11; what the (a) description and (b) book value of each such asset is; what the expected revenue from each such sale is; and if he will make a statement. [251662]

Yvette Cooper: The Treasury does not publish asset sales by Department. Figures for aggregate central Government asset sales in 2007-08 to 2010-11 can be found in the 2008 pre-Budget report: the economy and public finances—supplementary material, table 2.3

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/d/pbr08_chartstables_501.pdf

The actual assets disposed of will depend on the decisions made by specific Departments.

Departmental Impact Assessments

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many equalities impact assessments his Department has undertaken in the last 12-month period for which figures are available; and what estimate he has made of the cost to the public purse of such assessments. [255064]

Angela Eagle: The Treasury has not led on or undertaken any formal equalities impact assessments in the last 12 months. The Treasury works with other Government Departments on a wide range of policies and the Departments implementing the policies and services are responsible for producing equalities impact assessments.

The Treasury's equality schemes (race, disability and gender) are available on the Treasury's public website and give examples of how the Treasury has promoted best practice and worked with other Departments to assess equalities impacts.

Departmental Lobbying

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether Ministers in his Department received representations from (a) Lord Moonie, (b) Lord Taylor of Blackburn, (c) Lord Snape and (d) Lord Truscott in the last seven months. [255221]

Angela Eagle: Treasury Ministers and officials receive representations from a wide variety of organisations in the public and private sectors as part of the process of policy development and delivery. As was the case with previous Administrations, it is not the Government's practice to provide details of all such representations.

Environment

Gregory Barker: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his definition is of the UK's environmental industries as referred to in the pre-Budget report 2008. [255085]

Angela Eagle: We have used the definition from the forthcoming independent study by Innovas, commissioned by BERR. The UK's environmental industries are broadly defined by three categories:

'Traditional' Environmental Goods and Services: i.e. those related to solutions for problems such as air/noise/marine pollution and land/water contamination, environmental analysis and consultancy, and waste management and recycling;

a wider range of rapidly growing renewable energy technologies, such as hydro, wave and tidal power, geothermal, wind and biomass; and a number of other emerging low carbon activities such as reduced emissions from within the transport and construction sectors, nuclear energy, energy management, carbon capture and storage and carbon finance.

Gregory Barker: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the evidential basis is of the estimate in the pre-Budget report 2008 that over the next 20 years more than one million people could be employed in the UK's environmental industries. [255087]

Angela Eagle: The UK CEED (Centre for Economic and Environmental Development) report on 'Emerging Markets in the Environmental Sector' (November 2006) estimated that the UK environmental sector employed around 400,000 with an annual turnover of £25 billion. This report predicted that the market would grow to £46 billion by 2015.

Other studies, such as that undertaken by Roland Berger, suggest that the global market could double by 2020. It is therefore reasonable to assume that if the UK maintains its share of the growth, more than one million could be employed in this sector over the next 20 years.

A more recent study (the forthcoming independent study by Innovas, commissioned by BERR) estimates that the UK already employs 880,000 in this sector if the wider supply chain is included.

Government Departments: Consultants

Mr. Letwin: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much each central Government Department spent on the purchase of consultancy services, standard chart of account code 51401400, in 2007-08. [247568]

Yvette Cooper: The information requested is not held centrally.

Government Departments: Temporary Employment

Mr. Letwin: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much each central Government Department spent on contract and agency staff, standard chart of account code 51404000 in 2007-08. [247567]

Yvette Cooper: The spending recorded against account 'Contract and Agency Staff (excluding Consultants)' is combined with other accounts in all published outputs. It is only at this aggregated level that accurate information is available centrally.

Housing Market

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent steps the Government has taken to stimulate the housing market. [255839]

Angela Eagle: On 2 September 2008 the Government announced a £1 billion package of measures to help and support home owners in financial difficulty, first-time buyers, and the house building industry. This included the announcement of the launch of HomeBuy Direct, a new shared equity scheme which offers first-time buyers the opportunity to buy their own homes. In addition, the Government announced that Stamp Duty Land Tax would not apply to purchases of residential property of £175,000 or less for the next 12 months from 3 September 2008.

Furthermore, the Government announced at the pre-Budget report on 24 November 2008 that it would bring forward up to £775 million on investment in housing and regeneration to help offset the impact of economic shocks to priority programmes, and provide support to the construction sector.

Income Tax

Dr. Cable: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) if he will estimate the cost to the Exchequer of raising the income tax personal allowance to £11,000 and raising the higher rate of income tax by (a) 1 per cent., (b) 2 per cent., (c) 3 per cent., (d) 4 per cent. and (e) 5 per cent. in 2009-10; [255673]

(2) if he will estimate the cost to the Exchequer of raising the income tax personal allowance to £11,000 and lowering the higher rate of income tax by (a) 1 per cent., (b) 2 per cent., (c) 3 per cent., (d) 4 per cent. and (e) 5 per cent. in 2009-10; [255674]

(3) what estimate he has made of the cost to the Exchequer of raising the income tax personal allowance to £12,000 and lowering the higher rate of income tax by (a) 1 per cent., (b) 2 per cent., (c) 3 per cent., (d) 4 per cent. and (e) 5 per cent. in 2009-10; [255698]

(4) what estimate he has made of the cost to the Exchequer of raising the income tax personal allowance to £8,000 and lowering the higher rate of income tax by (a) 1 per cent., (b) 2 per cent., (c) 3 per cent., (d) 4 per cent. and (e) 5 per cent. in 2009-10; [255699]

(5) what estimate he has made of the cost to the Exchequer of raising the income tax personal allowance to (a) £8,000, (b) £9,000, (c) £10,000, (d) £11,000 and (e) £12,000 in 2009-10; [255714]

(6) what estimate he has made of the cost to the Exchequer of raising the income tax personal allowance to (a) £8,000, (b) £9,000 and (c) £10,000 and raising the higher rate of income tax by (i) 1 per cent., (ii) 2 per cent., (iii) 3 per cent., (iv) 4 per cent. and (v) 5 per cent. in 2009-10. [255715]

Mr. Timms: The estimates of increasing the personal allowance alone or increasing the personal allowance and raising or lowering the higher rate of income tax can be approximated from table 1.6 'Direct effects of illustrative tax changes' on the HM Revenue and Customs website at:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/tax_expenditures/table1-6.pdf

The figures exclude any estimate of behavioural response.

Dr. Cable: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what estimate he has made of the cost to the Exchequer of raising the income tax personal allowance to (a) £8,000, (b) £9,000, (c) £10,000, (d) £11,000 and (e) £12,000 and raising the basic rate of income tax by (i) one per cent., (ii) two per cent., (iii) three per cent., (iv) four per cent. and (v) five per cent. in 2009-10; [255687]

(2) if he will estimate the cost to the Exchequer of raising the income tax personal allowance to (a) £8,000, (b) £9,000, (c) £10,000, (d) £11,000 and (e) £12,000 and lowering the basic rate of income tax by (i) one per cent., (ii) two per cent., (iii) three per cent., (iv) four per cent. and (v) five per cent. in 2009-10. [255688]

Mr. Timms: The information requested is not available. The information available on the Exchequer effect of changes to personal allowances and income tax rates provides for costs estimates to be made where one variable, either personal allowances or income tax rates, is altered. In scenarios involving the changing of both variables cost estimates cannot be derived as in these cases the margin of error would be excessive.

Legal Opinion

Grant Shapps: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the cost to his Department was of external legal services in (a) 2006-07 and (b) 2007-08. [251365]

Angela Eagle: The Treasury's net spending on legal advice in 2007-08 was £1,331,000. For the earlier year, I refer to the answer given to the hon. Member by the former Financial Secretary (John Healey) on 18 June 2007, Official Report, column 1494W.

Listed Places of Worship Grant Scheme

Mr. Swire: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether he plans to extend the Listed Places of Worship Grant Scheme beyond the end of March 2011. [255766]

Mr. Timms: The Government's long-term objective is to secure the necessary agreement at European level to allow the introduction of a reduced rate of VAT for church repairs, which is not currently permitted by EU VAT agreements. The European Commission has proposed changes to Directive 2006/112/EC to allow a reduced VAT rate to be applied to church repairs, as part of a broader proposal on reduced VAT rates, but member states' discussions of the proposal are ongoing. The Government will take into account any changes to EU VAT agreements when reviewing whether the current arrangements should be extended beyond 2011.

National Insurance Contributions

Dr. Cable: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what estimate he has made of the cost to the Exchequer of raising the earnings threshold on national insurance contributions to (a) £5,000, (b) £6,000 and (c) £7,000 and lowering the class one employee main rate of national insurance contributions to (i) five per cent., (ii) six per cent., (iii) seven per cent., (iv) eight per cent., (v) nine per cent. and (vi) 10 per cent. in 2009-10; [255689]

(2) what estimate he has made of the cost to the Exchequer of raising the upper earnings level on national insurance contributions to £45,000 and raising the class one employee additional rate to (a) two per cent., (b) three per cent., (c) four per cent., (d) five per cent. (e) six per cent., (f) seven per cent., (g) eight per cent. and (h) nine per cent. in 2009-10; [255691]

(3) what estimate he has made of the cost to the Exchequer of raising the upper earnings level on national insurance contributions to (a) £45,000, (b) £46,000, (c) £47,000, (d) £48,000, (e) £49,000, (f) £50,000, (g) £51,000, (h) £52,000, (i) £53,000, (j) £54,000 and (k) £55,000 and lowering the Class 1 employee main rate to (i) two per cent., (ii) three per cent., (iii) four per cent., (iv) five per cent., (v) six per cent., (vi) seven per cent., (vii) eight per cent., (viii) nine per cent and (ix) 10 per cent. in 2009-10; [255694]

(4) if he will estimate the cost to the Exchequer of raising the upper earnings level on national insurance contributions to (a) £45,000, (b) £46,000, (c) £47,000, (d) £48,000, (e) £49,000, (f) £50,000, (g) £51,000, (h) £52,000, (i) £53,000, (j) £54,000, and (k) £55,000 and raising the Class 1 employee main rate to (i) 12 per cent., (ii) 13 per cent., (iii) 14 per cent. and (iv) 15 per cent. in 2009-10. [255697]

Mr. Timms: The information requested is not available. The information available on the Exchequer effect of changes to national insurance contributions (NICs) rates and limits provides for costs estimates to be made where one variable, either NICs rates or limits, is altered. In scenarios involving the changing of both variables cost estimates cannot be derived as in these cases the margin of error would be excessive.

Dr. Cable: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what estimate he has made of the cost to the Exchequer of raising the Class 1 employee additional rate on national insurance contributions by (a) one percentage point, (b) two percentage points, (c) three percentage points, (d) four percentage points, (e) five percentage points, (f) six percentage points, (g) seven percentage points, (h) eight percentage points, (i) nine percentage points and (j) 10 percentage points in 2009-10; [255692]

(2) what estimate he has made of the cost to the Exchequer of raising the upper earnings level on national insurance contributions to (a) £45,000, (b) £46,000, (c) £47,000, (d) £48,000, (e) £49,000, (f) £50,000, (g) £51,000, (h) £52,000, (i) £53,000, (j) £54,000 and (k) £55,000 in 2009-10; and what estimate he has made of the cost of lowering the level to (i) £40,000, (ii) £41,000, (iii) £42,000 and (iv) £43,000 in 2009-10. [255696]

Mr. Timms: The Exchequer effect of changes in the Class 1 employee additional rate and to the upper earnings limit on national insurance contributions can be derived from table 1.6 'Direct effects of illustrative tax changes' on the HM Revenue and Customs website at

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/tax_expenditures/table1-6.pdf

The figures exclude any estimate of behavioural response.

National Insurance Fund

Mr. Swire: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the merits of using future national insurance fund surpluses to fund an increase in the state pension. [255767]

Mr. Timms: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my right hon. Friend (Mr. O'Brien) the Minister for Pension Reform on 5 March 2008, Official Report, column 2605W.

Any increase in the basic state pension has a cumulative impact on Government spending going forward. The Government consider the short-term use of the surplus on the national insurance fund in this way to be unsustainable in the long term.

Non-Domestic Rates: Empty Property

Mr. Crausby: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will reduce the level of liability for national non-domestic rates of empty business properties; and if he will make a statement. [255675]

Angela Eagle: In the pre-Budget report, the Government temporarily raised the threshold for exemption from national non-domestic rates on empty properties from £2,200 to £15,000 to take affect from 1 April 2009. As a result, an estimated 70 per cent. of empty properties will be exempt from business rates in the 2009-10 tax year.

Any further decisions on taxation are matters for the Budget and pre-Budget report.

Non-Domestic Rates: Ports

Mrs. Ellman: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent assessment he has made of the performance of the Valuation Office Agency in relation to the issuing of backdated business tax bills for businesses in statutory ports in England and Wales; and if he will make a statement. [255841]

Mr. Timms: The Valuation Office Agency (VOA) is responsible solely for the assessment of business properties for rating, not for billing and collection matters and the date from which changes to rating lists take effect is prescribed by regulation.

The VOA has recognised that, in the exercise of re-assessing rateable values within ports, it should have done more to inform businesses of developments. In common with other executive agencies, the performance of the agency is reviewed on a regular basis. A planned three-yearly review of the framework within which it operates is currently under way and will report by 31 May 2009. Full details can be found at www.hmrc.gov.uk.

Public Sector: Investment

Mr. Laws: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his estimate is of the level of public sector net investment in real terms, using 2006-07 prices, for each year from 2005-06 to 2014-15; and if he will make a statement. [255289]

Yvette Cooper: Figures for public sector net investment (PSNI) in nominal terms from 2005-06 to 2007-08 can be found on the Office of National Statistics (ONS) first release for the public sector finances (Table PSF1). The December 2008 release is available on:

http://www.statistics.gov.uk/pdfdir/psf0109.pdf

Projections for PSNI in nominal terms (£ billion) and as a percentage of GDP up to 2013-14 can be found in Table B10 and Table B11 respectively of the 2008 pre-Budget report (p198).

Historical figures for PSNI in real terms using 2007-08 prices and GDP deflator values are available on Table B5 of the Public Finances Databank, which is available on:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/psf_statistics.htm

GDP deflator values and projections can also be found on Table B1 of the 2008 pre-Budget report (p186) and are available on:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/data_gdp_fig.htm

Public Sector: Pensions

Mr. Heald: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 13 January 2009, Official Report, columns 569-70W, on public sector: pensions, whether he has received representations on the affordability of public sector pensions since the publication of the report in March 2008; and if he will make a statement. [250358]

Yvette Cooper: Treasury Ministers and officials receive representations from a wide variety of organisations in the public and private sectors as part of the process of policy development and delivery. As was the case with previous Administrations, it is not the Government's practice to provide details of all such representations.

Revenue and Customs: Brecon

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent estimate he has made of the effect on HM Revenue and Customs expenditure of the closure of its office in Brecon, identifying (a) costs and (b) savings separately; and if he will make a statement. [255829]

Mr. Timms: The HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) office in Brecon is held under the terms of a PFI contract. Its closure will contribute to estimated annual estate savings of £4 million in Wales. These savings are only part of the overall savings HMRC expects to achieve as a result of business efficiencies arising from restructuring.

While HMRC recognises that there will be short-term costs associated with the closure of its office in Brecon, reliable figures will only be established once solutions have been found for all staff and the building has been vacated.

Revenue and Customs: Consultants

Mark Williams: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much HM Revenue and Customs spent on consultants in (a) total, (b) England, (c) Wales, (d) Scotland and (e) Northern Ireland in each of the last three years. [255606]

Mr. Timms: During the years 2005-06, 2006-07 and 2007-08, HMRC spent a total of £254,470,000 on consultancy services, the split for each of the last three years is as follows:

2005-06	106,020,000
2006-07	88,906,000
2007-08	59,544,000

The HMRC accounting codes do not enable identification of the geographical area of this spend.

State Retirement Pensions

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent estimate he has made of the cost to the public purse if the pension addition at age 80 were increased to (a) £2.50 and (b) £5.00 in each of the next five years. [252780]

Ms Rosie Winterton: I have been asked to reply.

The estimated cost of increasing the age addition, at age 80, to (a) £2.50 and (b) £5.00, in each of the next five years is shown in the following table, as well as additional expenditure relative to that of the current level.

Estimated cost of increasing the value of the age addition:

	(a) Cost of age addition at £2.50	Additional expenditure	(b) Cost of age addition at £5.00	Additional expenditure
2008-09	345	310	685	650
2009-10	340	305	685	650
2010-11	340	305	680	645
2011-12	340	310	685	650
2012-13	350	315	700	665

Notes:

1. Costs are presented in £ million, for Great Britain, in 2008-09 terms, rounded to the nearest £5 million.

2. Additional expenditure is relative to the cost of the current level of age addition—£0.25.

Tax Avoidance

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many accountancy firms have been investigated for selling tax avoidance schemes in the last 12 months. [255257]

Mr. Timms: Selling a tax avoidance scheme is not in itself an offence or a breach of statutory obligations that might trigger an HMRC investigation. However, scheme promoters are required to disclose information to HMRC about schemes falling within certain statutory descriptions. HMRC has investigated or is currently investigating more than 90 promoters suspected of failing to comply with a disclosure obligation.

Tax Credit: Databases

Mrs. Laing: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his most recent estimate is of the number of inaccurate records held on HM Revenue and Customs tax credit database. [256071]

Mr. Timms: The information is not available. HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) will put right inaccuracies as they are identified. Information on the level of accuracy of processing tax credits awards can be found in HMRC's Departmental Reports available on its website at www.hmrc.gov.uk/about/reports.htm

VAT: Construction

Mr. Swire: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the effect of a single 5 per cent. value added tax rate for all types of construction work on the construction industry. [255327]

Mr. Timms: No estimate of the effects of applying the reduced rate of VAT to all types of construction work has been made.

VAT: Cumbria

Mr. Jamie Reed: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment his Department has made of the effect on consumer spending in (a) Cumbria and (b) Copeland constituencies of the reduction in the rate of value added tax to 15 per cent. [255037]

Mr. Timms: The economic forecast made in the pre-Budget report, based on realistic assumptions, assumed that, over time, the majority of the reduction in VAT will be passed on to consumers through lower prices, and that households will spend around half of the increase in real disposable income that results. Overall, GDP growth in 2009 is forecast to be around half a percentage point higher than it would be in the absence of the discretionary action that the Government have taken. A regional breakdown has not been made.

Mr. Jamie Reed: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment his Department has made of the effect on the Cumbrian economy of the reduction in the rate of value added tax to 15 per cent. [255038]

Mr. Timms: The economic forecast made in the pre-Budget report, based on realistic assumptions, assumed that, over time, the majority of the reduction in VAT will be passed on to consumers through lower prices, and that households will spend around half of the increase in real disposable income that results. Overall, GDP growth in 2009 is forecast to be around half a percentage point higher than it would be in the absence of the discretionary action that the Government have taken. A separate assessment of the effect on the Cumbrian economy has not been made.

VAT: Energy

Gregory Barker: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what progress has been made in discussions at EU level on reducing the rate of value added tax on energy-efficient products and energy-saving materials in the EU. [255086]

Mr. Timms: The European Commission announced in the "European Economic Recovery Plan" (COM (2008) 800) that it plans to bring forward a legislative proposal to allow reduced VAT rates for "green products and services, aimed at improving in particular (the) energy efficiency of buildings". The Commission is expected to adopt this legislative proposal in the coming months, at which point European Council discussions of the proposal will begin.

VAT: Schools

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will make it his policy that the liability for value added tax in respect of construction projects should be the same for (a) maintained schools and (b) further education institutions. [255815]

Mr. Timms: Construction projects undertaken by both maintained schools and further education institutions are liable to VAT at the standard rate.

The only exceptions are those projects which involve the construction of buildings intended for use by a charity solely for a non-business purpose. In such circumstances, the projects are liable to VAT at the zero rate.

However, local authorities can usually reclaim from HMRC all VAT costs relating to the educational institutions that they maintain. These refund arrangements for local authorities reflect a commitment made when VAT was first introduced that VAT would not fall as a burden on local taxation. Since 1997, bodies other than local authorities have been admitted to these refund arrangements where they undertake a function ordinarily carried on by local government and have the power to draw their funding directly from local taxation. Unlike local authority maintained institutions, further education institutions do not meet the second of these conditions.

Bids for public funding by further education institutions are therefore expected to take into account that they are not eligible for the VAT refund arrangements that apply for local authority maintained institutions.

VAT: Tax Rates and Bands

Mr. Amess: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the number of companies which have not passed on the recent reduction in value added tax to 15 per cent. to customers; and if he will make a statement. [255098]

Mr. Timms: The Office for National Statistics published statistics on UK inflation in December on 20 January 2009 including detail on the pass-on rate of the temporary VAT reduction, and found that most businesses had passed on the reduction. The ONS report can be found at:

http://www.statistics.gov.uk/pdfdir/cpi0109.pdf.

Welfare Tax Credits: Wimbledon

Stephen Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many tax credit claimants in Wimbledon constituency were overpaid tax credits in each of the last five years. [255953]

Mr. Timms: Estimates of the number of families with tax credit awards, including information on overpayments by local authority, based on final family circumstances and incomes, for the years 2003-04, 2004-05, 2005-06 and 2006-07 are available in the HMRC publications "Child and Working Tax Credits Statistics. Finalised Annual Awards. Supplement on Payments. Geographical Analyses", for each relevant year. These publications are available on the HMRC website at:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/personal-tax-credits/cwtc-geog-stats.htm

Estimates for 2007-08 are not yet available.

SOLICITOR-GENERAL

Crown Prosecution Service: Witnesses

Simon Hughes: To ask the Solicitor-General how many Crown Prosecution Service prosecutions have been discontinued as a result of prosecution witnesses being unwilling to give evidence in each of the last three years; and if she will make a statement. [255563]

The Solicitor-General: The following table shows the number of defendants whose case was dropped by the Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) before evidence was heard in magistrates and Crown courts in each of the last three years. The reasons for these decisions are divided into evidential reasons, public interest reasons, cases that were unable to proceed, and other reasons. Further explanation of each division is illustrated, including cases that were dropped because a victim or witness refused to give evidence.

The table also shows the number and proportion of defendants whose case resulted in a conviction.

The number of cases that were dropped because a victim refused to give evidence fell from a total of 8,785 in 2006 to 5,991 in 2008 or, in proportional terms, from 0.8 per cent. of completed cases to 0.6 per cent. The number of cases dropped because other witnesses refused to give evidence fell over the same period from 1,097 (0.1 per cent. of completed cases) to 725 (0.1 per cent.). These improvements illustrate the growing success of a number of initiatives which aim to provide vulnerable and intimidated victims and witnesses with more effective support. These include special measures allowing evidence to be given, for example, from behind screens or via live video links. The Code of Practice for Victims of Crime (the Victims' Code) sets out the standards of service which victims can expect of the Criminal Justice System. These commitments are reinforced by the CPS Public Policy Statement on the Delivery of Services to Victims (the Prosecutors' Pledge), launched by the Attorney-General in October 2005, which sets out the level of service that victims can expect of prosecutors. Police and CPS Witness Care Units (WCU) now provide an enhanced level of service to victims and witnesses in cases where charges have been brought, and procedures have been put in place to measure and respond to witness satisfaction through the Witness and Victim Experience Survey.

Victims and witnesses remain a core priority for the CPS for the years ahead.

Homicide

John McDonnell: To ask the Solicitor-General how many successful prosecutions the Crown Prosecution Service has brought for offences related to corporate manslaughter under the Corporate Manslaughter and Corporate Homicide Act 2008. [254211]

The Solicitor-General: The Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) data collection system records the number of offences under each Act and section, which have been referred to the CPS for prosecution. CPS records show that, up to 30 January 2009, no offences under the Corporate Manslaughter and Corporate Homicide Act 2007 (no similarly named statute was enacted in 2008) have been referred to the CPS for prosecution. However, the outcomes of any cases prosecuted under this statute will be subsumed into data held on various categories of homicide cases, as the CPS electronic data system currently cannot hold information on the outcome of proceedings at the level of detail requested by the hon. Member.

Proceeds of Crime

Mr. Paterson: To ask the Solicitor-General how many civil recovery actions in respect of criminal assets the Crown Prosecution Service has initiated in the first nine months of 2008-09. [254982]

The Solicitor-General: The Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) has initiated no civil recovery actions in respect of criminal assets in the first nine months of 2008-09.

Mr. Paterson: To ask the Solicitor-General when she expects the (a) Revenue and Customs Prosecution Office and (b) Serious Fraud Office to begin to undertake civil recovery actions in respect of criminal assets; and if she will make a statement. [254983]

The Solicitor-General: The RCPO considers whether, on the facts of the cases it has before it, civil recovery proceedings are appropriate and it will continue to do so. In so doing, it bears in mind the Guidance by the Secretary of State to the Director of the Assets Recovery Agency dated 7 February 2005.

The Serious Fraud Office (SFO) recently completed an in-depth review of its approach to all aspects of proceeds of crime activity. This review resulted in a number of recommendations to the director, who has since formed a dedicated proceeds of crime team. The structure of this team is being finalised, with resources being drawn from across the organisation. The team will be fully operational by April 2009.

In order to undertake a civil recovery investigation, staff are required to obtain accreditation for Part 5 powers under the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002 (POCA) from the National Policing Improvements Agency. The SFO is assisting in the development of the training that leads to accreditation in order to accelerate this process. To date no officers within the SFO hold accreditation under part 5 of POCA.

The organisation is expecting civil recovery action to commence once the new team is in place. The SFO does not have any assets under restraint in relation to civil recovery cases.

In October last year the SFO successfully obtained its first civil recovery settlement for £2.5 million with Balfour Beatty plc. Approximately £1 million of this settlement will be used by the SFO to invest in its asset recovery work, further strengthening its capability to conduct civil recovery investigations.

Proceeds of Crime: Northern Ireland

Mr. Paterson: To ask the Solicitor-General how many civil recovery actions against criminal assets have been initiated by the Public Prosecutions Service in Northern Ireland in the first nine months of the 2008-09 financial year. [255661]

The Solicitor-General: The PPS has not, to date, initiated any civil recovery actions against criminal assets. Such actions are currently initiated by the Serious Organised Crime Agency (SOCA). The PPS is in discussion with SOCA to develop a memorandum of understanding to provide advice and assistance between the PPS and SOCA, including arrangements to deal with civil recovery cases. The PPS remains responsible for criminal confiscation following conviction.

ENERGY AND CLIMATE CHANGE

Carbon Emissions: Energy

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change how much energy suppliers have spent on their carbon emissions reduction target obligations to date; and how the level of such spending is monitored by the Government. [246285]

Joan Ruddock: Energy suppliers' targets under the carbon emissions reduction target are set in terms of household carbon savings rather than spending. Ofgem, the scheme administrator, does not collect data on energy supplier spend. Based on the costs of the measures promoted by suppliers we estimate that the overall costs to suppliers of delivering their obligations will exceed £3 billion over the period 2008-2011.

Supplier spend under the energy efficiency commitment over the period 2002-2008 has been independently estimated at £1325 million.

Departmental Temporary Employment

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change how much has been spent by his Department on (a) agency and (b) temporary staff since it was established. [251234]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Department has spent (a) £186,000 on agency staff and (b) £172,000 on temporary staff since it was established.

Departmental Working Hours

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change how many days off in lieu were granted to staff in his Department for working (a) in lunch breaks and (b) at other times outside contracted working hours, in the last year for which figures are available. [252034]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Department of Energy and Climate Change has been formed by bringing together work previously covered by the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform and the Department for the Environment, Food and Rural Affairs. The final details of staff transferring from these Departments are yet to be confirmed.

However, it has not been the policy of these Departments to manage and monitor time off in lieu centrally. Authority is delegated to local line managers. The Department would incur a disproportionate cost if it were to manage this process centrally.

Members: Correspondence

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change when the Minister for Housing will reply to the letters of 13 October 2008 and 9 December 2008 from the hon. Member for the Forest of Dean, reference FD 7358, on free loft cavity insulation for those aged over 70 years. [250409]

Joan Ruddock [holding answer 22 January 2009]: I replied to the hon. Member on 22 January and apologise for the delay in responding, which was due to departmental reorganisation.

Oil: Balance of Payments

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what estimate he has made of the contribution to the UK balance of payments of the UK oil and gas sector. [255150]

Kevin Brennan: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated February 2009:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question asking what assessment has been made of the contribution to the UK balance of payments of the UK oil and gas sector. (255150).

Exports of energy products (including oil, gas, electricity and coal) were £24.7 billion in 2007 compared with total exports of goods of £220.7 billion. In the first 11 months of 2008, exports of energy products were £32.8 billion compared with total exports of goods of £230.8 billion. Imports of energy products were £31.9 billion in 2007 compared with total imports of £310.0 billion. In the first 11 months of 2008, imports of energy products were £44.8 billion compared with total imports of goods of £317.0 billion.

Earnings on direct investment abroad (credits) by oil and gas (extraction and production) companies were £14.9 billion in 2007 out of a total for all industries of £89.9 billion. Earnings on direct investment in oil and gas (extraction and production) companies in the UK (debits) were £10.0 billion in 2007 out of a total for all industries of £44.8 billion.

Warm Front Scheme

Mr. Flello: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what grant provision is available from the Warm Zone scheme to otherwise eligible citizens for materials for insulation work carried out by themselves rather than through a contractor. [251199]

Joan Ruddock: Warm Zones Ltd., operated by National Energy Action, brings together, using an area-based approach, all of the assistance available to households through the Government-funded Warm Front scheme and energy supplier activity under the Carbon Emissions Reduction Target (CERT). Whilst these schemes do not provide direct grant to—individuals who choose to carry out insulation work themselves, energy suppliers do work with major retailers to provide subsidies for DIY loft insulation materials. Additionally, tailored, free and impartial advice is available through the government-funded Act on CO_2 advice line run by the Energy Saving Trust.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Departmental Public Appointments

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland which of the public appointments for which his Department is responsible are due to be (a) renewed and (b) filled in the next 24 months; what the (i) remit, (ii) salary, (iii) political restriction, (iv) eligibility requirement and (v) timetable for each appointment is; and what records his Department keeps in respect of such appointments. [254245]

Paul Goggins: Information on appointments made by the Department is published in the Northern Ireland Office's Annual Report on the Department's website:

http://www.nio.gov.uk/.

More detailed information about individual appointments is set out in the relevant body's Annual Report. Vacancies may be advertised on the Cabinet Office Public Appointments website at www.publicappointments.gov.uk. The process for making a public appointment, including guidance on political activity and eligibility criteria, complies with the Cabinet Office publication "Making and Managing Public Appointments". For appointments regulated by the Commissioner for Public Appointments, the appointments process also complies with the "Code of Practice for Ministerial Appointments to Public Bodies". Copies are available in the Libraries of the House.

Road Traffic Offences

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many vehicles have been seized from (a) disqualified and (b) uninsured drivers in Northern Ireland in each of the last two years. [254266]

Paul Goggins: Vehicles can be seized if they are unlicensed, being driven while uninsured, or in a manner causing alarm, distress or annoyance. Driving while disqualified does not in itself permit the seizure of a vehicle.

Unlicensed vehicle seizure is a matter for the Driver and Vehicle Agency, and the Department of Environment for Northern Ireland can supply the relevant information.

New regulations permitting the seizure of vehicles being driven while uninsured came into effect on 6 January 2009. Similar regulations came into effect on the same date permitting the seizure of vehicles causing alarm, distress or annoyance (such as quad bikes, go-peds, or scramblers). Figures are not yet available for the numbers seized to date.

In terms of convictions for the substantive offences, in 2005 and 2006 (the latest years for which data are available) there were 1,314 and 1,104 convictions respectively for driving while disqualified. For the same years, 3,884 and 3,868 convictions were secured for driving without insurance.

Data are collated on the principal offence rule; so only the most serious offence with which an offender is charged is included.

DEFENCE

Absent Without Leave

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many armed forces personnel went absent without leave in each month of 2008. [253715]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Records held centrally on service personnel who have gone absent without leave (AWOL) relate to the number of incidents reported, not to the number of personnel. Information about the number of incidents of AWOL reported monthly in the Army is not held centrally.

The following table shows AWOL statistics for the Royal Navy and Royal Air Force for each month of 2008, and the total number of AWOL incidents reported in the Army for 2008.

	Incidents of reported AWOL
	Royal Navy	Army	Royal Air Force
January	10	—	1
February	10	—	0
March	5	—	0
April	5	—	1
May	10	—	1
July	15	—	1
August	10	—	0
September	15	—	0
October	10	—	0
November	5	—	1
December	10	—	0
Total	125	2,100	5

Notes:
1. All figures are rounded to the nearest five.
2. All three services record AWOL statistics by the number of incidences of AWOL rather than the number of people who have gone AWOL, so there may be a number of people who are represented more than once in these figures. While the figures reflect the number of reports of AWOL, it may come to light later that there are extenuating circumstances and therefore does not reflect the number of personnel who went on to be formally charged with AWOL.

Armed Forces: Qualifications

Ms Keeble: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what levels of academic qualification were reached by recruits to the (a) Army, (b) Navy and (c) Air Force in 2008; and how many recruits at each level there were. [249573]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The information on academic qualifications of recruits is not held in the format requested and differs between the three services. However, the available data for the Navy and Army are provided: the Navy section providing a breakdown of the academic qualifications overall, while the Army section offers a summary split by officer and other ranks. Unfortunately, due to IT problems within the RAF it is not currently possible to extract the necessary data. I will write to the hon. Member with information for the RAF when this is available and place a copy of my letter in the Library of the House.

ARMY

Basic Skills Levels—The Army reflects the national basic skills picture (within 1 per cent.). Roughly 45 per cent. of all soldiers joining the Army are below Level 1 (GCSE D-G) but since August 2003 80 per cent. of soldiers achieve L1 literacy and numeracy within three years. Since 2002, 21,874 national literacy and numeracy qualifications have been awarded to soldiers.

Apprenticeships—65 per cent. of soldiers (4,800) embark on an apprenticeship at either Level 2 (GCSE A*-C) or 3 (A Level) either within Phase 2 training or the Field Army. The Army's achievement rate of apprenticeships is 75 per cent. compared to the national average of 60 per cent. Apprenticeships also include support for literacy and numeracy and as part of the apprenticeship soldiers gain Level 1 literacy and numeracy qualifications.

Accreditation—The majority of training within the Army is accredited to nationally recognised qualifications (March 2007 to April 2008 there were 15,451 Awards). These awards range from Level 1 qualifications through to masters degrees.

Learning credits—All soldiers are entitled to claim learning credits to support their elective educational courses which include academic and vocational qualifications.

Officers

In 2007-08, 585 cadets who commenced training at the Royal Military academy Sandhurst (RMAS) were graduate entrants this represents 82 per cent. of a total of 715 who began the standard career courses.

Armed Forces: Recruitment

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many recruitment advertisements have been commissioned by his Department for each service in each month since 1998. [248609]

Mr. Kevan Jones: The number of individual advertisements produced will depend on the messages to be communicated and the weight of planned exposure which varies from campaign to campaign. It is not, therefore, possible to calculate how many individual advertisements were commissioned in the last 10 years without incurring disproportionate cost. The information for each of the services that is available is given in the following tables:

RAF

The RAF run one major recruitment campaign each year using a variety of media outlets. It is not possible to identify how many separate advertisements are run within this campaign without disproportionate cost.

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what recent steps he has taken to increase recruitment from ethnic minority groups into the armed forces. [250034]

Mr. Kevan Jones: The armed forces have established ethnic minority recruiting teams in areas with large ethnic minority populations aimed at promoting service careers.

They are engaged in numerous and varied initiatives to encourage more young people from ethnic minority backgrounds to join the armed forces. These include forming new community partnerships, holding personal development courses for schools and community groups, and holding open days and visits to service establishments. The Royal Navy's diversity action team gives presentations in schools, colleges and to community groups, organises five-day personal development courses, attends careers, and cultural and religious festivals and events and engages potential recruits and their gatekeepers. The Army's diversity action recruiting team (DART) provides role models to young people from ethnic minority backgrounds at recruiting events throughout the country. The RAF's motivational outreach team participates in schools' careers conventions, festivals and sporting events, and visits to youth organisations and ATC/CCF squadrons. They also arrange visits for young people from ethnic minorities to RAF stations.

Armoured Fighting Vehicles

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether he has any plans to order battlefield evacuation vehicles in the next 12 months; and if he will make a statement. [254996]

Mr. Quentin Davies: A number of battlefield evacuation vehicles (ambulances) are in service. These include variants of Mastiff, Vector, Viking, Bulldog, CVR(T), Land Rover and Saxon. In addition to these, there are ambulance variants in the current orders for Ridgeback, Warthog and tranche 2 of Mastiff. Plans for the next 12 months include the ordering of an ambulance variant in the procurement of the Husky Medium Tactical Support Vehicle.

Departmental Pensions

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what steps his Department is taking to advise staff of pension options available to them in relation to added years or additional voluntary contributions. [253360]

Mr. Kevan Jones: Members of the Principal Civil Service Pension Scheme receive an annual benefit statement showing the pension built up to date, and also a projection of their pension on retirement if they continue in service to scheme pension age. The benefit statement prompts the member to consider boosting their pension and provides details of the civil service pensions website where staff can obtain further information, including options for making additional voluntary contributions and a calculator to work out costs for added pension (previously added years).

New entrants are informed of pension options in the employment offer and are provided with a pension information pack.

The Defence intranet provides comprehensive coverage of the terms and conditions of employment of the Department's civil servants. This includes information on pension schemes and the ways in which staff can increase their pension benefits. The intranet gives links to the civil service pensions website that explains added pension and additional voluntary contributions for members. The information is also available in scheme booklets which can be accessed via the civil service pensions website or on request from the member's pensions administrator.

Departmental Temporary Employment

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much was spent by his Department on (a) agency and (b) temporary staff in each financial year since 2005-06. [251280]

Mr. Kevan Jones: Until November 2006, MOD business units were individually responsible for engaging their own temporary staff. Since November 2006, a limited service to engage temporary staff has been provided through the People Pay and Pensions Agency (PPPA). This does not yet cover all the grades employed by the MOD, or all MOD locations and therefore individual business units are still making their own arrangements to engage temporary staff in some circumstances. This means that information on how much was spent on agency and temporary staff in each financial year since 2005-06 is not held centrally and could only be provided at disproportionate cost. Since November 2006, the Department has spent £12.3 million on temporary staff engaged through the PPPA.

EU Rapid Reaction Force

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many and which (a) troops and (b) military assets the United Kingdom has contributed to each EU Force Catalogue in each year since 2000. [255628]

Mr. Kevan Jones: The UK has contributed to two EU Force Catalogues, one for the Helsinki Headline Goal in 2004 and the other for the Headline Goal 2010 which superseded the Helsinki Headline Goal in 2006.

For details on our Headline Goal 2010 return, I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 4 March 2008, Official Report, column 2348W.

Navy: Deployment

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what naval resources he (a) has deployed and (b) plans to deploy to (i) the Indian Ocean off the coast of Somalia and (ii) the Mediterranean Sea off the coast of Gaza. [illegible]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Royal Navy is providing the following assets in the Indian ocean off the coast of Somalia.

> An enduring commitment of a frigate to the Combined Maritime Forces: currently HMS Portland operating in the Gulf of Aden;
> An enduring commitment of an Arabian Gulf Ready Tanker, supporting coalition operations in the Middle East region, including the Indian ocean: currently RFA Wave Knight;
> HMS Northumberland for the first period of the EU counter-piracy mission, Operation Atalanta.

In the Mediterranean sea, we have an enduring commitment of a frigate to Standing NATO Maritime Group 2 (SNMG2): currently HMS St. Albans.

We are also considering the provision of naval resources to counter the smuggling of weapons into Gaza in co-operation with international efforts.

RAF Menwith Hill: Security

Colin Challen: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence who meets the costs of policing outside the perimeter of RAF Menwith Hill. [255672]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Ministry of Defence and North Yorkshire Police share the costs of policing outside the perimeter of RAF Menwith Hill.

RAF St. Athan: Welsh Language

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what estimate his Department has made of the costs for contractors working on the defence training establishment proposed for St. Athan of providing all their services bilingually under the terms of the Welsh Language Legislative Competence Order. [254702]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: No estimate has been made by the MOD of potential bilingual costs. The costs for contractors are a responsibility of the Metrix Consortium as developer of the Defence Technical Academy on the St. Athan site.

The Department has a Welsh language scheme and in the conduct of its business with the public in Wales treats the English and Welsh languages on a basis of equality.

SERCO

Mr. Flello: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the value was of his Department's contracts held with SERCO in each of the last five financial years. [253255]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The value of contracts with SERCO Group PLC, in terms of spend, in each of the last five financial years was as follows:

	£ million
2003-04	244
2004-05	361
2005-06	431
2006-07	433
2007-08	763

The figures are shown exclusive of VAT rounded to the nearest million. They exclude any contracts placed by MOD Trading Funds or by British Defence staff (Washington) and low-value purchase transactions, for which records are not held centrally.

Warships

Mr. Streeter: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he expects to be able to announce the decision on where to base port the Royal Navy's frigates. [254864]

Mr. Quentin Davies: I refer the hon. Member to my answer on 12 January 2009, Official Report, column 113W.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Departmental Internet

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development which websites are operated by his Department in addition to its main website; and what the operating budget for those websites is. [251421]

Mr. Michael Foster: The information is as follows:

Website operated by DFID		Operating budget (£)
Research for Development (R4D) (www.research4development.info)	2007-08	20,850
	2008-09	34,625

Departmental Recruitment

Justine Greening: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many new recruits his Department employed in (a) 2005-06, (b) 2006-07, (c) 2007-08 and (d) 2008-09; how many of these were (i) permanent, (ii) temporary and (iii) agency staff; and what estimate he has made of equivalent recruitment numbers in (A) 2009-10 and (B) 2010-11. [254426]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The following table shows the number of new recruits into DFID between 1 April 2005 and 31 January 2009 broken down into (i) permanent and (ii) temporary staff.

Central records of agency staff employed during this period are not held.

Date	Permanent	Temporary (fixed term contract)
1 April 2005 to 31 March 2006	60	16
1 April 2006 to 31 March 2007	51	26
1 April 2007 to 31 March 2008	47	11
1 April 2008 to 31 January 2009	68	27

DFID has not made a detailed estimate of recruitment numbers for future years, but does not anticipate any significant increases from recent years.

Members: Correspondence

Clare Short: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development when he plans to reply to the letter from the right hon. Member for Birmingham, Ladywood, dated 9 October 2008, on the engagement of his Department's offices in Uganda with the Kingdom of Bunyoro Kitara. [254205]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: A reply to the right hon. Member for Birmingham, Ladywood has been issued.

Palestinians: Health Services

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what recent assessment has been made of the availability of medicines and medical supplies in Gaza; and if he will make a statement. [253962]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: The United Nations reports that many medicines and medical supplies are generally available. However there are critical shortages of, for example, certain anaesthetics and essential medical equipment such as defibrillators and syringe pumps.

Gaza's health infrastructure has long been under severe strain due to the restrictions on access for people, commercial goods and humanitarian supplies. Going forward repairing and maintaining health facilities will be a priority. Frequent power cuts and subsequent reliance on generators increases the risk of damaging medicines that need consistent temperature regulation, as well as of harming patients dependent on medical equipment in intensive care. The conflict has exacerbated all these problems as restrictions on Gaza's borders have been further tightened.

The UK Government have repeatedly raised the issue of allowing enough humanitarian supplies and fuel into Gaza with the Israeli Government. We are also supporting organisations that provide direct medical treatment to the sick and injured such as the United Nations Relief and Works Agency (UNRWA) and International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC). UNRWA has 18 health centres in Gaza and ICRC's medical teams were among the first to be allowed in during the conflict.

Palestinians: International Assistance

Mr. Sarwar: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development when he took the decision to write to the Director General of the BBC requesting that the BBC broadcast an advertisement for the Disasters Emergency Committee's Gaza Crisis appeal; and if he will make a statement. [254212]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: I took the decision to write to heads of the BBC, Sky and ITV on 23 January 2009. I refer my hon. Friend to my statement to the House of 19 January 2009, Official Report, column 20WS.

Palestinians: Overseas Aid

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what discussions he has had with the Israeli authorities to ensure continuous access for humanitarian relief into Gaza; and if he will make a statement. [253961]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: As a priority, the UK Government continue to press the Israeli Government to allow full, unhindered and consistent access for humanitarian supplies into Gaza. The Under-Secretary of State for International Development, my hon. Friend the Member for Worcester (Mr. Foster) discussed this issue with Israeli Minister of Welfare and Social Services Isaac Herzog during his visit to the region on 19 January 2009. The Prime Minister and Foreign Secretary have also consistently pressed UK concerns with Prime Minister Olmert and the Israeli Foreign Minister Tzipi Livni respectively.

The UK welcomes the recent letter from the European Union to the Israeli Government expressing these concerns and calling for > "all humanitarian items to be allowed automatic entry to the Gaza strip".

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

Afghanistan

Mr. Holloway: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster which organisation has managed each project funded by his Department in Helmand province since 2005; what the budget of each was; how much has been spent in each case; what monitoring, impact assessments and evaluations have been undertaken; and if he will make a statement. [245778]

Kevin Brennan: The Cabinet Office has not funded any projects in Helmand. I refer the hon. Member to the answers given to him by my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for International Development on 19 January 2009, Official Report, columns 1097-98W and by my hon. Friend the Minister of State, Foreign and Commonwealth Office on 4 February 2009, Official Report, column 1202W.

Death: Asthma

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Guildford (Anne Milton) of 3 February 2009, Official Report, column 1180W, on deaths: asthma; if he will set out the figures by (a) age and (b) sex; and if he will make a statement. [255827]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the Authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated February 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking pursuant to the Answer of 3 February 2009, Official Report, column 1180W, on asthma-related deaths; to set out the figures broken down by (a) age and (b) sex. (255827)

The attached table provides the number of deaths where asthma was mentioned on the death certificate, either as the underlying cause (table 1) or as a contributing factor (table 2), broken down by (a) age group and (b) sex from 2003 to 2007 (the latest year available).

Departmental Consultants

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many expert advisers, excluding special advisers, have been commissioned by his Department since June 2007; and on which topics they have advised. [254745]

Kevin Brennan: I refer the hon. Member to my reply of 13 January 2009, Official Report, column 582W.

Employment

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many people and what proportion of the workforce in employment in (a) the UK and (b) each Government Office region (i) aged 16 and over and (ii) of working age are (A) UK-born, (B) non-UK born, (C) EU-born, (D) non-EU born and (E) EU A8-born. [256024]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the Authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 10th February 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking how many people and what proportion of the workforce in employment in (a) the UK and (b) each Government Office Region (i) aged 16 and over and (ii) of working age, who are (A) UK-born (B) non-UK born, (C) EU-born, (D) non-EU born and (E) EU A8 born. (256024)

The requested information is shown in the attached tables. Table 1 attached provides employment levels and rates of people aged 16 and over, for the UK and each Government Office Region by country of birth. Table 2 attached provides employment levels and rates by working age for the UK and Government Office Region by country of birth. The estimates are derived from the Labour Force Survey. As with any sample survey, estimates from the LFS are subject to a margin of uncertainty.

The figures in the table are derived from the LFS microdata which are weighted using the official population estimates published in autumn 2007. Consequently the estimates are not entirely consistent with the figures published in the monthly Labour Market Statistics First Release, which are weighted using more up-to-date population estimates.

[3] The estimates have been suppressed as they are deemed unreliable for practical purposes.

Coefficients of Variation have been calculated as an indication of the quality of the estimates, as described below:

Guide to Quality:

The Coefficient of Variation (CV) indicates the quality of an estimate, the smaller the CV value the higher the quality. The true value is likely to lie within +/- twice the CV - for example, for an estimate of 200 with a CV of 5 per cent. we would expect the population total to be within the range 180-220.

Key Coefficient of Variation (CV) (%) Statistical robustness

* 0 = CV <5 Estimates are considered precise.

 5 = CV <10 Estimates are considered reasonably precise.

 10 = CV < 20 Estimates are considered acceptable.

* CV = 20 Estimates are considered too unreliable for practical purposes.

Note:

It should be noted that the above estimates exclude people in most types of communal establishment (e.g. hotels, boarding houses, hostels, mobile home sites etc).

Coefficients of Variation have been calculated as an indication of the quality of the estimates, as described below:

Guide to Quality:

The Coefficient of Variation (CV) indicates the quality of an estimate, the smaller the CV value the higher the quality. The true value is likely to lie within +/- twice the CV - for example, for an estimate of 200 with a CV of 5 per cent. we would expect the population total to be within the range 180-220.

Key Coefficient of Variation (CV) (%) Statistical robustness

* 0 = CV <5 Estimates are considered precise.

 5 = CV <10 Estimates are considered reasonably precise.

 10 = CV < 20 Estimates are considered acceptable.

* CV = 20 Estimates are considered too unreliable for practical purposes.

Note:

It should be noted that the above estimates exclude people in most types of communal establishment (e.g. hotels, boarding houses, hostels, mobile home sites etc).

Flood Control

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what steps his Department has taken to determine which agency takes the lead role in responding to national flood emergencies since the publication of the Pitt Report on flooding. [253761]

Huw Irranca-Davies: I have been asked to reply.

Planning for, and responding to, the challenges of a predicted or actual flooding event requires the combined and co-ordinated effort, experience and expertise of all levels of government, public authorities or agencies and a wide range of private and voluntary organisations. During a national flood emergency, DEFRA will be the lead Government Department in England. The Welsh Assembly Government, the Scottish Executive and the Northern Ireland Executive will take the lead role in their respective devolved Administrations. The National Flood Emergency Framework, currently out for consultation, will look at whether there is a need to further clarify roles and responsibilities.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Bingo: Government Assistance

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will introduce measures to assist the bingo industry through regulation; and if he will make a statement. [253926]

Mr. Sutcliffe: I signed The Gambling Act 2005 (Gaming Machines in Bingo Premises) Order 2009 on 3 February 2009 and this came into force on 4 February 2009. The Order increases the number of category B3 gaming machines that a bingo hall can offer from four to eight.

Departmental Official Hospitality

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much his Department spent on official entertainment in each year since 1997-98. [241209]

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport (1) what expenditure his Department has incurred on hospitality in each year since 1997; [248897]

(2) how much his Department has spent on entertainment for its staff in each of the last five years. [250492]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The information requested by the hon. Members is not readily available from the Department's accounting system. To provide the information would incur disproportionate cost.

Departmental Pay

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many bonuses were awarded to senior civil servants working at his Department and its agencies in (a) 2007 and (b) 2008; and how much was spent on such bonuses in each of those years. [249858]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Non-consolidated performance payments to the SCS are based on the recommendations of the independent Senior Salaries Review Board. The total SCS pay bill for 2008 was £2,416,714 of which 8.6 per cent. was used for non-consolidated performance payments. The SCS pay bill for 2007 was £2,659,835 of which 7.6 per cent. was used for non-consolidated performance payments.

The figures in the following table are the performance bonuses awarded to senior civil servants in each of the years requested. Figures include bonuses made by our agency, the Royal Parks.

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport pursuant to the answer of 19 January 2009, Official Report, column 1090W, on departmental plants, which organisations provided services to his Department related to the provision of (a) plants and (b) flowers. [254801]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The following organisations provided services to the Department via its facilities management contractor MITIE Managed Services.

Departmental Training

Mr. Hands: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport with reference to the answer of 10 November 2008, Official Report, column 815W, on departmental training, what personal training courses at public expense other Ministers in his Department have undertaken since 1 January 2008. [251327]

Mr. Sutcliffe: I refer the hon. Member to the answer of 10 November 2008, Official Report, column 815W.

Other Ministers have taken the following courses at public expense since 1 January 2008: Action Learning Set.

Football Association

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport on how many occasions in the last five years he and his predecessors have met the Football Association to discuss (a) alleged irregularities in and (b) unusual betting activity on football matches; and if he will make a statement. [254701]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Ministers at the Department meet with the Football Association, as well as a wide variety of other sports bodies, on a regular basis to discuss a number of issues. In the last five years the general subject of integrity in sports betting has been discussed during those meetings, but the Secretary of State has not met the Football Association to specifically discuss irregularities in, or unusual betting activity on, football matches.

The Government take any allegations relating to the integrity of sport seriously. The Gambling Act 2005 (the Act) introduced tough new penalties to ensure gambling is free from crime and corruption. In particular the Act established the offence of cheating at gambling where any person found guilty faces a maximum prison sentence of two years.

Legacy Trust UK

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much Legacy Trust UK has awarded in grants since its establishment. [254433]

Andy Burnham: The Legacy Trust UK was established with a £40 million endowment from the Big Lottery Fund, the Arts Council England and the Department for Culture, Media and Sport to support a wide range of innovative cultural and sporting activities for all, which celebrate the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic games and leave a lasting legacy in communities throughout the United Kingdom.

Since LTUK was established, a total of £22,433,000 has been awarded in grants. This is split between UK school games, an annual sporting competition based on an Olympic games model with multiple sports events held across an intensive four-day period for elite school age athletes, and the UK regions and nations.

Licensed Premises

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many premises authorising the sale or supply of alcohol by means of a premises licence or a club premises certificate closed during each of the last five years. [255048]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department does not hold the information in the format requested, but can provide information on the number of premises licences which were surrendered, lapsed or suspended since April 2006. Some of these may relate to premises which are not authorised to sell or supply alcohol, because under the Licensing Act 2003, premises licences and club premises certificates are not confined to authorising the sale or supply of alcohol; they can also provide regulated entertainment and/or late night refreshment.

Since the implementation of the Act, DCMS has been collecting alcohol, entertainment and late night refreshment statistics on an annual basis by financial year from licensing authorities. During the period April 2006 to March 2007, 2,630 premises licences were surrendered, 232 lapsed, and 70 were suspended, based on returns from around 76 per cent. of licensing authorities. For the same period, 210 club premises certificates were surrendered, two lapsed and 13 were withdrawn.

The April 2007 to March 2008 bulletin reported 3,786 premises licences were surrendered, 423 lapsed, 18 were suspended by a court, and 44 were subject to a closure notice (based on returns from around 93 per cent. of licensing authorities). For the same period, 255 club premises licences were surrendered, seven lapsed and 13 were withdrawn.

Prior to the implementation of the Licensing Act 2003, data on the number of alcohol licences revoked in England and Wales were collected by petty sessional division (magistrates court areas), on a triennial basis. Between July 2003 and June 2004, there was a total of 354 revocations of on and off-licences, 11 of which related to licensed clubs.

Olympic Games 2012: Transport

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what steps he has taken or will be taking to ensure that hon. and right hon. Members will not be delayed in travelling to the House during the period of the London 2012 Olympic Games; and if he will make a statement. [255394]

Tessa Jowell: I have been asked to reply as Minister for the Olympic Games and Paralympic Games.

The Olympic Delivery Authority's transport planning is well under way and aims to minimise disruption immediately before and during the Games for all of London's visitors, residents and commuters, including Members of Parliament.

The detailed planning now commencing will take this principle into account and will include detailed consideration of the central London area of Westminster and its environs.

Serco

Mr. Flello: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what the value was of his Department's contracts held with Serco in each of the last five financial years. [253254]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department has held no contracts with Serco in the last five years.

Sports Council Trust

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what percentage of the Sports Council Trust Company is owned by Sport England; and which other organisations have a share in the company. [254381]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Sport England has advised that the Sports Council Trust Company is a company limited by guarantee and is a registered charity. As such it is not 'owned' and does not have any share capital. It has two members which are the English Sports Council (trading as Sport England) and Tim Marshall, whose membership is held in trust on behalf of the English Sports Council. Further information is available from Companies House. No other organisations are members or have shares in the company.

Sports: Schools

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport (1) how many competition managers were in post in each of the last five years; [254355]

(2) what the average salary of a competition manager was in each of the last three years; [254356]

(3) how much has been spent on employing competition managers in each of the last five years; [254431]

(4) how many competition managers (a) were appointed and (b) left their posts in each of the last five years; and how many competition managers were employed in each region on the latest date for which figures are available. [254432]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Competition Manager programme was piloted in 2005, with 20 Competition Managers deployed in five county areas and working on a one to one ratio with 20 targeted school sport partnerships. There were no formal Competition Manager posts prior to 2005. The programme has expanded over the last four years and there are now 226 Competition Managers in post.

Table 1 contains a breakdown of the number of Competition Managers who were funded by awards made by the Department of Children, Schools and Families for Competition Manager posts during the last four years as part of the National School Sport strategy. We do not have data available on Competition Managers who have left their posts.

We have been advised that it is not possible to provide the average salary of a competition manager as a number of these posts receive funding from other sources.

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much funding has been provided to UK School Games from (a) the public purse and (b) the National Lottery in each of the last three years; and what [illegible]imate he has made of the amounts to be so provid[illegible] of the next three years. [254357]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Youth Sports Trust has advised that the following funding has been provided to the UK School Games:

(a) No funding was provided in 2006 or 2007 from the public purse. In 2008 a total of £2.8 million was provided from the public purse: £2.3 million came from the Legacy Trust and £500,000 from the Department for Children, Schools and Families.

(b) In 2006 the National Lottery provided £1.486 million in funding via the Millennium Commission and in 2007, £2.3 million through the Big Lottery. There was no funding given in 2008.

For the next three years from 2009, funding will be provided as follows:

(a) The public purse will provide a total of £3.7 million from the Legacy Trust. There will be no further National Lottery funding during this period.

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what the cost of staging each UK School Games has been since it was established. [254358]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Youth Sports Trust has advised that the cost of staging the UK school games since it was established has been £8,886,000 in total.

For 2006 the cost was £2,036,000; for 2007, £3,150,000; and for 2008, £3,700,000. This includes the legacy support provided by non governmental bodies.

Music: Teachers

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many applications to the fund established to support the professional development of music teachers were received in each of the last three years; how many applicants were granted funding; and how many have subsequently completed programmes so funded. [254393]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: I have been asked to reply.

In the pilot programme from 2007 to 2008, 733 teachers had completed some modules and 304 of these had completed portfolios by the end of 2008. Under the programme from September 2008, 930 teachers have begun work.

The aim of the Key Stage 2 Music continuing professional development programme is to establish a growing body of music practitioners who have considered at a deep level the issues surrounding teaching and learning in the context of whole class instrumental and vocal activity. Participants complete up to 14 modules through workshops and online learning, as well as benefiting from one-to-one mentoring. As with all professional development this is an ongoing process. The completion of a portfolio indicates a key milestone but does not indicate that a teacher's professional development is complete, or necessarily that the professional development of other teachers is somehow deficient. Teachers who have engaged with the programme have expressed high levels of satisfaction and even at this early stage we have every reason to believe that children's experience of music making is benefiting as a result. The first report on the effectiveness of the programme will be published in March.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Apprentices

Phil Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what his most recent estimate of the number of apprenticeship places in each local authority area is. [253481]

Mr. Simon: Since 1997 we have witnessed a renaissance in apprenticeships from a low point of 64,000 with only 27 per cent. completions to last year's record high of 225,000 with 64 per cent. completions, a remarkable achievement.

Table 1 shows the number of apprenticeship starts by age in 2007/08, broken down by local authority. A copy of this table has been provided and the relevant data will be placed in the Library.

This information is also available on the Data Service website, and was released alongside the post-16 education statistical first release, which was published on 18 December 2008:

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what plans he has to ensure that apprentices who become unemployed are able to complete their apprenticeships in alternative employment. [253080]

Mr. Simon: We have established a matching service to help those apprentices in the construction sector at risk of redundancy to find alternative employment and to complete their apprenticeship. We are currently working with the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) to explore how this approach might be extended to other sectors. More generally, providers and the LSC have procedures to advise and relocate apprentices in cases where providers or employers fail, to help ensure that they are able to continue in work and complete their apprenticeship. Such arrangements are being used to help former Woolworth apprentices complete their apprenticeship framework and find alternative employment or training.

The £140 million package announced by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister last month for an additional 35,000 apprenticeship places will help fund new provision in both the public sector and private sector, and will extend the opportunities available to people facing redundancy. This package will further boost the number of people starting an apprenticeship which has increased from 65,000 in 1996-97 to 225,000 last year.

On 12 January 2009 the new online National Apprenticeship Vacancy Matching Service went live. The first chief executive of the new National Apprenticeship Service took up post this week and our National Apprenticeship Service will be fully functional from 1 April 2009 with a remit to expand apprenticeships and provide a single point of contact for employers and apprentices. To raise awareness and encourage more employers to take on or offer more apprenticeships a new national advertising campaign started on 2 February, fronted by Sir Alan Sugar.

Our New Opportunities White Paper published 13 January 2009 announced the Government's commitment to extending group training associations, ensuring all apprentices have clear progression routes, and commitment to work towards an entitlement to an apprenticeship for all young people leaving care. Looking to the future, we have set ambitious targets for the growth of the apprenticeships programme. Apprenticeships provisions will be taken forward as part of forthcoming legislation, including provisions to ensure that an apprenticeship place is available for all suitably qualified young people by 2013.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many people began an adult apprenticeship in the last academic year; and how many such people were in employment when their apprenticeships began. [254167]

Mr. Simon [holding answer 3 February 2009]: Table 1 shows the number of adult apprenticeship starts in 2007-08, by age.

Information about apprentices' employment status at the start of their apprenticeship is not available. Total starts figures are provided. Framework completions (all ages) have increased from 39,000 in 2001-02 to 111,800 in 2006-07 and 112,600 in 2007-08.

Apprentices: Chelmsford

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps his Department is taking in West Chelmsford constituency to increase the number of apprenticeships. [254771]

Mr. Simon: I refer the hon. Member to my reply to the hon. Member for Ribble Valley (Mr. Evans) on 27 January 2009, Official Report, column 443W. We are taking a wide range of steps to encourage more people to take up apprenticeships and to encourage more employers to offer high quality places both in West Chelmsford and across the rest of England. On the 4 February we introduced our Apprenticeships, Skills, Children and Learning Bill, including provisions to an entitlement to an apprenticeship place for all suitably qualified young people from 2013.

The Government are committed to apprenticeships and since 1997 we have witnessed a renaissance in apprenticeships from a low point of 64,000 with only 27 per cent. completions to last year's record high of 225,000 with 64 per cent. completions, a remarkable achievement.

Apprentices: Cumbria

Mr. Jamie Reed: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many new apprenticeships have been created in (a) Cumbria and (b) Copeland constituency in each of the last five years. [255028]

Mr. Simon: This Government are committed to apprenticeships. Since 1997 we have witnessed a renaissance in apprenticeships from a low point of 64,000 with only 27 per cent completions to last year's record high of 225,000 with 64 per cent. completions, a remarkable achievement.

Tables 1 shows the number of apprenticeship starts in Cumbria local authority, Copeland constituency and the total for England. Figures are presented from 2003-04 to 2007-08, the latest year for which fully audited data is available.

Mr. Jamie Reed: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much funding has been provided by his Department to support apprenticeship schemes in (a) Cumbria and (b) Copeland constituency in each of the last five years. [255030]

Mr. Simon: Information on apprenticeships funding in Cumbria is provided in the following table. This funding relates to providers contracted in the LSC Cumbria area and is not available at constituency level.

Since 1997 we have witnessed a renaissance in apprenticeships from a low point of 64,000 with only 27 per cent. completions to last year's record high of 225,000 with 64 per cent. completions, a remarkable achievement. We will build on this with funding for apprenticeships in England planning to be increased to over £1 billion in 2009-10. Last month my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister announced a £140 million package to provide 35,000 extra apprenticeship places in the coming year.

Apprentices: Leeds

John Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many people were undertaking apprenticeships in Leeds West constituency in each year since 2005. [255473]

Mr. Simon: Since 1997 we have witnessed a renaissance in apprenticeships from a low point of 64,000 with only 27 per cent. completions to last year's record high of 225,000 with 64 per cent. completions, a remarkable achievement.

Table 1 shows the number of apprenticeship starts in the parliamentary constituency of Leeds West, in each academic year from 2005-06 to 2007-08.

Chelmsford Prison: Education

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what percentage of (a) prisoners and (b) young offenders in HM Prison Chelmsford he estimates have literacy problems. [254752]

Mr. Simon: The Department does not routinely make estimates of the percentage of offenders, by establishment, with literacy problems. The first report from the Ministry of Justice's Surveying Prisoner Crime Reduction study ("The problems and needs of newly sentenced prisoners: results from a national survey", October 2008) showed that 48 per cent. of young offenders starting a new prison sentence and 46 per cent. of adult offenders starting a new prison sentence had no academic or vocational qualifications.

The principle of screening all offenders, with a full assessment of those who take up learning, lies at the heart of offender learning and skills delivery. Following the October 2008 Public Accounts Committee report, we are working closely with the Ministry of Justice to strengthen the screening and assessment process. Later this year, the Learning and Skills Council will introduce a new screening tool, developed in consultation with Dyslexia Action, to screen for a range of learning difficulties.

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many staff in his Department have been disciplined for (a) bullying and (b) harassment of colleagues since its inception. [254084]

Mr. Simon: There have been no recorded cases of bullying or harassment of employees in the Department or the former Department for Education and Skills which resulted in staff being disciplined.

Departmental Foreign Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many (a) EU foreign nationals and (b) non-EU foreign nationals are employed by his Department. [256222]

Mr. Simon: The information could be obtained only in the form requested at disproportionate cost as once individuals are appointed to the Department, having cleared nationality, passport, proof of identity, reference and criminal records bureau checks, our human resource information systems do not distinguish between EU or non-EU nationality.

Departmental Pensions

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps his Department is taking to advise staff of pension options available to them in relation to added years or additional voluntary contributions. [253299]

Mr. Simon: Members of the Principal Civil Service Pension Scheme receive an annual benefit statement showing the pension built up to date, and also a projection of their pension on retirement if they continue in service to scheme pension age. The benefit statement prompts the member to consider boosting their pension and provides details of the civil service pensions website (www.civilservice-pensions.gov.uk) where staff can obtain further information, including options for making additional voluntary contributions and a calculator to work out costs for added pension (previously added years).

New entrants are informed of pension options in the employment offer and are provided with a pension information pack.

The Cabinet Office provides leaflets that explain added pension and additional voluntary contributions for members. The information is also available in scheme booklets. These are available on the civil service pensions website or on request from the member's pensions administrator.

In the Department, the human resources intranet site which is being developed will include detailed information on the pension options available to staff. The new site is due to be launched in April. In the interim, staff are signposted to DIUS's pension administrator and the civil service pensions website for information.

Departmental Public Appointments

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills which of the public appointments for which his Department is responsible are due to be (a) renewed and (b) filled in the next 24 months; what the (i) remit, (ii) salary, (iii) political restriction, (iv) eligibility requirement and (v) timetable for each appointment is; and what records his Department keeps in respect of such appointments. [254241]

Mr. Simon: Information on appointments made by my Department is published on the Department's website. More detailed information about individual appointments is set out in the relevant body's Annual Report. Vacancies may be advertised on the Cabinet Office Public Appointments website at:

www.publicappointments.gov.uk

The process for making a public appointment, including guidance on political activity and eligibility criteria, follows the Cabinet Office publication "Making and Managing Public Appointments". For appointments regulated by the Commissioner for Public Appointments, the appointments process also complies with the "Code of Practice for Ministerial Appointments to Public Bodies". Copies are in both Libraries.

Departmental Redundancy

Justine Greening: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills pursuant to the answer of 15 January 2009, Official Report, column 952W, on redundancy, what estimate has he made of the annual payroll savings resulting from staff exit schemes in (a) 2005-06, (b) 2006-07, (c) 2007-08 and (d) 2008-09 excluding the cost of severance packages; and what estimate he has made of the equivalent figures for 2009-10. [254458]

Mr. Simon: The information is not available in the form requested and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Educational Institutions: Construction

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills which colleges submitted applications in respect of the Building Colleges for the Future programme for approval in (a) principle and (b) detail at the December meeting of the Learning and Skills Council; and if he will make a statement. [253278]

Mr. Simon: The total capital expenditure in further education colleges in England in the financial year 1997-98 was nil.

In total since that time, this Government have invested £2.4 billion and will be investing a record further £2.3 billion across the next three years.

Capital funding for further education colleges is administered by the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) and I have asked Mark Haysom, the LSC chief executive, to write to the hon. Gentleman with the further information requested. A copy of his letter will be placed in the House Library.

Education Maintenance Allowance

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many staff at the Learning and Skills Council are employed in administering education maintenance allowance payments. [254272]

Jim Knight: I have been asked to reply.

This is a matter for the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) who operate the Education Maintenance Allowance (EMA) for the Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF). Mark Haysom the LSC's chief executive, will write to the hon. Member for Cotswold with the information requested and a copy of his reply will be placed in both Libraries.

Engineering: Higher Education

Greg Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what his policy is on funding for postgraduate courses in nuclear engineering. [253942]

Mr. Lammy: It is the role of the Research Councils to make decisions on the funding of postgraduate courses. The Engineering and Physical Science Research Council (EPSRC) is the main UK Government Agency for funding research and training in nuclear engineering. The EPSRC has invested £1 million and industry partners £1.6 million to the Nuclear Technology Education Consortium, involving 11 institutions, to provide masters level training for the nuclear industries. The EPSRC also funds the £7.1 million Postgraduate Nuclear Research/Nuclear Engineering Doctorate programme in Nuclear Engineering, based at the university of Manchester. Successful candidates receive a standard EPSRC doctoral stipend enhanced by a contribution from a sponsoring company. We are currently looking at the supply and demand for postgraduate courses in nuclear engineering in the years to come.

Higher Education: Admissions

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many (a) applicants and (b) successful applicants of each sex and socio-economic group there were to study (i) medicine, (ii) engineering, (iii) physics, (iv) chemistry, (v) veterinary medicine, (vi) accountancy, (vii) dentistry and (viii) economics at university in each year since 2002. [254370]

Mr. Lammy: The information has been placed in both Libraries.

For the academic years recorded in the tables, for those aged up to 20, UCAS recorded socio-economic class based on the applicant's parent's occupation; for those aged 21 and over, the applicant's socio-economic class was based on their own occupation. UCAS has released figures for 2008/09, but because of changes it has made to their application form, it is only possible to compare the social backgrounds of 18-year-olds and under. This is why socio-economic class data for 2008-09 are listed in a separate table.

The 2008-09 data are also not directly comparable with previous years due to the fact that they also contain applicants and accepted applications to nursing and midwifery (NMas) courses.

Some time series data may also be affected by changes in the maximum number of courses which could be applied for. In 2008/09 a maximum of five applications could be made per applicant, whereas in the years prior to this up to six applications could be made by each applicant.

Higher Education: Nuclear Physics

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps he is taking to increase the number of nuclear engineering graduates. [255176]

Mr. Lammy: The Government have designated all engineering degrees as strategically important and vulnerable subjects. These subjects benefit from a £350 million programme of support administered by the Higher Education Funding Council for England to stimulate demand and secure supply. Additionally, there is a £140 million strategy over 2008 to 2011 to support the Science, Technology, Engineering and Maths (STEM) agenda. We are currently keeping the supply and demand for undergraduate nuclear engineering courses under review.

Perfect Gift Scheme

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what evaluation has been made of the Perfect Gift scheme; and if he will place a copy of the evaluation report in the Library. [251280]

Mr. Simon: The Perfect Gift scheme was launched as a pilot project in October 2007 in nine further education colleges across England (one college per Learning and Skills Council region). Following the launch, individual colleges were responsible for ongoing promotion and communication. Initial evaluation with participating colleges showed that despite encouraging media coverage at launch, the take-up of vouchers during the pilot was lower than anticipated. The low take-up determined that the pilot would not be developed further. As a result, the production of a formal evaluation document was not deemed necessary.

Research and Science

Dr. Francis: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (1) what discussions he has had with (a) the Secretary of State for Wales and (b) the Welsh Assembly Government Minister for Education on the results of the recent Universities Research Assessment Exercise; and if he will make a statement; [255338]

(2) what recent discussions he has had on UK science policy with (a) Scottish Executive Ministers, (b) Welsh Assembly Government Ministers and (c) Northern Ireland Executive Ministers; and if he will make a statement; [255340]

(3) what recent discussions he has had on UK science policy with the Secretary of State for (a) Northern Ireland, (b) Scotland and (c) Wales; and if he will make a statement. [255341]

Mr. Lammy: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills has regular meetings with his counterparts in the devolved administrations and relevant Cabinet colleagues on a range of issues including research and science policy, as do his ministerial team and senior officials. Last week the Secretary of State met Jane Hutt the Welsh Assembly Government Minister for Children, Education, Lifelong Learning and Skills on a visit to the university of Cardiff.

Students: Debts

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what the average amount of debt of (a) full-time undergraduate, (b) part-time undergraduate and (c) postgraduate students was on leaving university in each year since 1997. [255386]

Mr. Lammy: The personal debt of students is a reflection of their overall financial position when they leave university. It takes into account student loan and commercial borrowing less their savings.

The most recent assessment made of the personal debt of students on graduation for English domiciled full-time and part-time undergraduate students was the 2004/05 Student Income and Expenditure Survey (SIES). The survey found that full-time undergraduates left university with average personal debt of £7,918, and part-time students graduated in credit by £347 on average.

A consistent time series for these estimates is not available because earlier surveys were based on samples with differing characteristics. For example, in 1998/99, average personal debt on graduation was estimated to be £3,462 for UK full-time undergraduates, and in 2002/03, £8,666 for English and Welsh full-time undergraduates under 25 years old.

The 2007/08 SIES is expected in the spring, and this will provide an assessment of the financial position of students who left university in 2008.

Students: Loans

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many student loans have been made by the Student Loans Company in each of the last five years. [255026]

Mr. Lammy: The information requested is as follows.

Train to Gain Programme

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much was spent on Train to Gain brokers in 2007-08; and what percentage of Train to Gain expenditure in that year this figure represents. [254456]

Mr. Simon [holding answer 5 February 2009]: Train to Gain total spend for 2007-08 financial year was £312,959,000 of which £38,630,000 was spent on brokerage. This represents 12.3 per cent. of the overall spend.

Train to Gain is the key service for supporting employers to invest in the future productivity and profitability of their businesses by investing in the skills of their employees. Train to Gain offers quality-assured, impartial advice from skills brokers, to help business, identify the skills needs at all levels and make the right, informed choices.

Since Train to Gain was rolled out nationally in August 2006, it has engaged over 101,000 employers and supported over 570,000 learners to begin learning, of whom over 290,000 have achieved a qualification.

Train to Gain total spend for 2007-08 financial year was £312,959,000 of which £38,630,000 was spent on brokerage. This represents 12.3 per cent. of the overall spend.

Vocational Guidance

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much has been spent on the provision of careers advice to (a) young people and (b) adults by agencies for which his Department is responsible in each year since 1997. [254376]

Mr. Simon: Information on the total amount spent on careers advice is not collected. Young people and adults receive careers advice from a range of sources including from learning providers, Connexions services, nextstep and the Careers Advice Service. Funding for learning providers does not include a sum ring-fenced for careers advice.

(a) Connexions services advise young people on a range of issues including careers. Prior to 2001, careers services provided advice and guidance on careers and related issues. Funding has been provided to Connexions/careers services as set out in the following table.

	Funding
1997-98	£192 million to careers services
1998-99	£210 million to careers services
1999-2000	£223 million to careers services
2000-01	£233 million to careers services
2001-02	£110 million to Connexions £173 million to careers services
2002-03	£337 million to Connexions £52 million to careers services
2003-04	£439 million to Connexions
2004-05	£458 million to Connexions
2005-06	£464 million to Connexions
2006-07	£466 million to Connexions
2007-08	£467 million to Connexions
2008-09	£469 million to Connexions

(b) Prior to 1999, the delivery of careers advice to adults was largely delivered by local initiatives and no information was collected on funding for careers advice within these. The information and advice for adults programme began in April 1999. Responsibility for planning and funding the adult information and advice service transferred to the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) in April 2001. Funding allocated for the adult information and advice service includes delivery of the local face to face service through nextstep, Careers Advice Service (formally learndirect careers advice), development projects and quality assurance arrangements.

2002-03	£54 million
2003-04	£58 million
2004-05	£58 million
2005-06	£63 million

Vocational Training

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what percentage of Learning and Skills Council-funded work-based learning provision has been allocated to non-UK nationals in the academic years (a) 2007-08 and (b) 2008-09. [254186]

Mr. Simon: The following table shows the number of Learning and Skills Council (LSC) funded work-based learners in 2007/08, split by whether the learner is UK or non-UK domiciled. 2007/08 is the latest year for which we have fully-audited information.

To be eligible for LSC funding an individual needs to satisfy the residency criteria set out in LSC Learner Eligibility Guidance. In general, this means that they need to have been lawfully living in the UK, European Union (EU) or European Economic Area (EEA) for the three years prior to the start of their course. There may also be additional criteria directly linked to the type of work based programme they are undertaking such as the need to be in employment.

Less than 1 per cent. of LSC-funded learners studying work-based learning were non-UK domiciled in 2007/08. Non-UK domiciled learners will include those from both the EU and EEA.

LSC-funded work-based learning in 2007/08, by whether the learner is UK or non-UK domiciled

	Number
UK domiciled learners	495,000

Notes:
1. Volumes are rounded to the nearest hundred.
2. This information is based on country of domicile—institutions are advised that the country of domicile field should be treated as a self-assessment field and reflect the country where the learner was ordinarily resident for the three years preceding the start of their programme.
3. These figures include apprenticeships and entry to employment.
4. This table uses learner volumes as a measure for comparative purposes. Full-year numbers are a count of the number of learners that participated at any point during the year.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Mr. Fiello: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the value was of his Department's contracts held with SERCO in each year since his Department was established. [253252]

Mr. McFadden: Central records indicate that the value of contracts held with SERCO in each year since the Department was established is as follows:

JUSTICE

Approved Premises: Merton

Stephen Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what plans his Department has to establish bail hostels in (a) Wimbledon constituency and (b) the London Borough of Merton. [255951]

Mr. Hanson: I refer the hon. Member to my answer to him of 6 October 2008, Official Report, columns 151-152W.

No bail hostels are being established in the constituency of Wimbledon. The Bail Accommodation and Support Service provides private, rented accommodation in small houses and flats with up to five people sharing, not hostels. The Director of Offender Management for London has identified a need for one three-bedroom property in Merton and ClearSprings are seeking an appropriate property. When properties are identified ClearSprings consult the police, probation and local authority before proceeding. In Merton they have consulted in relation to a property that was considered but not proceeded with and have held meetings with council officials and councillors. It is my practice to write to the relevant Member of Parliament when first a property is being readied for use in his/her constituency. At 26 January 2009 ClearSprings were providing 176 properties in England and Wales.

Cannabis: Penalty Notices

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice when he plans to issue guidance to police forces under section 6 of the Criminal Justice and Police Act 2001 on issuing penalty notices for disorder for cannabis possession. [254365]

Maria Eagle: Secretary of State guidance to forces on the issue of penalty notices for disorder for cannabis possession will be issued shortly. Additionally, the Association of Chief Police Officers has issued guidance on the escalation process of enforcement under which a penalty notice for disorder may be issued for a second possession offence.

Compensation

Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many claims for compensation under the Human Rights Act 1998 have been brought against his Department (a) in total and (b) by prisoners since 2000. [255247]

Mr. Hanson: The information requested is not held centrally, and could be provided only at significant disproportionate cost requiring individual examination of thousands of files.

Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much his Department has paid out in compensation in respect of claims made under the Human Rights Act 1998 since 2000. [255393]

Mr. Wills: The information requested is not held centrally. Given that issues relating to the Human Rights Act may be raised in any proceedings in any court or tribunal, the information could be obtained only by a member of staff manually sifting through all files held in respect of proceedings brought against the Department (or its predecessors) during the last nine years, to identify whether any compensation paid was in respect of a claim involving the Human Rights Act. The cost of doing so would be disproportionate.

Coroners

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) how many and what proportion of inquests held into potential finds of treasure have been held within three months of the case being referred to the coroner in each year since the Treasure Act 1996 came into force; and if he will make a statement; [254535]

(2) what the average length of time was between (a) the referral of a case regarding potential treasure finds to a coroner and the commencement of the inquest, (b) the referral of a case regarding potential treasure finds to a coroner and the completion of the inquest and (c) the commencement of an inquest regarding potential treasure and the completion of the inquest was in each year since the Treasure Act 1996 came into force; and if he will make a statement. [254549]

Bridget Prentice: The Ministry of Justice collects statistics on the number of finds under the Treasure Act 1996 reported to coroners in England and Wales during each calendar year, the number of treasure inquests concluded during the year and, of these, the number of verdicts of treasure returned. Information is not collected on the time taken to conduct treasure inquests.

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what estimate his Department has made of the annual running cost of an office of a Coroner for Treasure; what proportion of such costs he expects to be incurred in relation to main funds; and if he will make a statement. [254548]

Bridget Prentice: We estimate that the total annual running cost of implementing an office of a coroner for treasure would be £324,000.

There is no provision in the Coroners and Justice Bill for a Coroner for Treasure.

Courts: Welsh Language

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much courts in Wales spent on (a) translation and (b) interpretation between English and Welsh in each year since 2000. [254196]

Bridget Prentice: The information requested for translation costs is contained in the following table.

Translation between English and Welsh

These costs relate to the translation of the written word and include the cost of an internal translator's post.

English/Welsh translation costs incurred in courts in Wales

	Translation cost	Salary of Translator
2002-03	37,051	24,000
2003-04	32,125	24,000
2004-05	46,002	25,000
2005-06	89,000	23,000
2006-07	87,051	11,000
2007-08	112,000	26,360

Records do not go back further than 2002. Her Majesty's Courts Service (HMCS) came into existence in April 2005. The costs for the years preceding this date have been collated from pre-HMCS records and therefore exclude the translation cost incurred in Welsh magistrates courts committees.

Interpretation between English and Welsh

HMCS would only be able to identify spend on interpreters at a disproportionate cost as expenditure records are not kept at this level of detail.

Departmental Lobbying

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice whether Ministers in his Department received representations from (a) Lord Moonie, (b) Lord Taylor of Blackburn, (c) Lord Snape and (d) Lord Truscott in the last seven months. [255224]

Bridget Prentice: Ministers in the Ministry of Justice have not received any representations from these four peers in the last seven months.

Departmental Manpower

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice with reference to his Department's procurement success review (1) how many roles within his Department will not be available via the redeployment pool; [254343]

(2) how long employees of his Department will have in which to make decisions on their re-employment under the procurement success review proposals; [254344]

(3) whether the new Director's post will be advertised under the job matching process; [254345]

(4) who the members of the job matching panel will be; and what powers the panel will have; [254347]

(5) whether senior managers who are required to take jobs at a lower grade level as a result of reclassification will be entitled to maintain their current level of pay; and what information has been supplied to such managers on the matter; [254352]

(6) what information has been given to employees on the appeals procedure relating to the reclassification of grades; [254353]

(7) whether public interest transfer terms will apply in circumstances where a post is relocated as part of the review. [254354]

Mr. Malik: The availability of roles through the redeployment pool will not be known until the job matching process is complete. Posts not filled via job matching will be available to surplus procurement staff first.

Job descriptions for the new organisation were issued on 13 January 2009. Organisation charts and information about the matching process had previously been issued (on 9 January). Staff have until 4 February to submit their job matching forms.

The Director of Procurement post will be subject to the normal selection process for senior civil service posts.

The job matching panel will consist of two senior managers within procurement and a representative from human resources from within the National Offender Management Service or central Ministry of Justice Human Resources. There will also be a member of staff from the Ministry of Justice part of procurement who will work with the panel members to verify the process. Senior managers will be called on as appropriate where additional information is required for specialist roles. The panel will identify staff who match roles in the new organisation.

Should senior managers be required to fill posts at a lower level, they will have protection, in line with current policies, in respect of their pay at the higher level. Staff have been advised of this both in writing and verbally.

Where this has been asked staff have been advised that this should be raised through line management. It will then be handled in line with departmental human resources policy.

Public interest transfer terms will apply where jobs are relocated and staff need to move. Affordability will also be taken into account in making decisions about relocating staff. This has been advised to staff.

Economic Situation

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what recent discussions his Department has had with outside organisations to discuss policy on reducing the effect of the recession on matters within his Department's responsibility. [254060]

Maria Eagle: Ministers and officials within the Ministry of Justice have regular engagements with a range of organisations, including relevant Government Departments, on a number of issues relating to the economy.

Magistrates Courts: Powers

Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will publish the redacted paragraphs of the Magistrates' Court Guidance - Search and Entry Powers (Domestic Violence, Crime and Victims Act 2004). [255246]

Bridget Prentice: I refer the hon. Member to my reply of 27 January 2009, Official Report, column 372W.

The Information Commissioner agreed with the proposed redactions when the guidance was first released under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 on 9 December 2008 and the Government have no plans to release the redacted parts.

Offences against Children

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many convictions in cases of sexual offences against children under the age of 18 there were in each of the last three years. [253853]

Maria Eagle: The number of defendants found guilty at all courts in England and Wales of sexual offences against children under the age of 18 in England and Wales for the years 2005 to 2007 (latest available) is shown in the following table.

Data provided are for those statutes where the age of the victim is specified.

These data are on the principal offence basis. The figures given in the table on court proceedings relate to persons for whom these offences were the principal offence for which they were dealt with. When a defendant has been found guilty of two or more offences, the offence selected is the one for which the heaviest penalty is imposed. Where the same disposal is imposed for two or more offences, the offence selected is the offence for which the statutory maximum penalty is the most severe.

Court proceedings data for 2008 will be available in the autumn of 2009.

The number of persons found guilty of sexual offences against children under the age of 18 years in England and Wales, 2005 to 2007[1, 2, 3]

Where the same disposal is imposed for two or more offences, the offence selected is the offence for which the statutory maximum penalty is the most severe.

[2] Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the courts and police forces. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.

[3] The following sections of the Sexual Offences Act 2003 have been used for this table:

Offenders: Drugs

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many (a) males and (b) females aged (i) under 17, (ii) between 17 and 21, (iii) between 21 and 25, (iv) between 25 and 29 years of age and (v) over 30 years of age and older were convicted of drug offences in England and Wales in each of the last 10 years. Prison Accommodation

Mr. Grieve: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisons were exceeding their (a) certified normal accommodation and (b) operational capacity at the latest date for which information is available. [252827]

Mr. Straw: As at 19 December 2008, there were 85 prisons exceeding their certified normal accommodation. The in-use certified normal accommodation (CNA) level is the uncrowded capacity of an establishment, taking into account those places not available for immediate use (i.e. damaged cells or cells affected by building work)

There are no prisons exceeding their operational capacity. The operational capacity of a prison is the total number of prisoners that an establishment can hold, taking into account control, security and the proper operation of the planned regime. It is determined by area managers on the basis of operational judgement and experience.

Prison Sentences

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what assessment he has made of the effects of sentences of imprisonment for public protection on (a) levels of discipline among and (b) the size of the prison population. [255447]

Mr. Hanson: Statistics on prison discipline are published annually by the Ministry of Justice in chapter 8 of the Offender Management Caseload Statistics, available publicly at:

http://www.justice.gov.uk/docs/omcs2007.pdf

It is not possible to provide figures on discipline hearings for prisoners subject to indeterminate sentences for public protection because the National Offender Management Service does not collect centrally information on adjudications by sentence type.

The Ministry of Justice produces annual projections of the prison population, most recently in September 2008.

Indeterminate sentences for public protection (IPP) are included in the modelling of the prison population. At the time the projections were made, the rate at which IPP were being issued was around 140[1] per month. However, changes made in the Criminal Justice and Immigration Act 2008 are expected to reduce that to around 45 per month. On 15 December 2008, there were 4,960[1] IPPs in the prison population. The impact of IPP as a sentence on the population will take some time to work through as most, if not all, offenders sentenced to IPP would have in any event received a prison sentence. Any change to the population will therefore be as a result of length of time served.

More details on the projections may be found in the latest published bulletin, "Prison Population Projections 2008-2015" Ministry of Justice Statistics Bulletin, 18 September 2008. This is available at the following webpage:

http://www.justice.gov.uk/publications/prisonpopulation.htm

Prison Service: Surveys

Mr. David Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will instruct the management of the Prison Service to allow the Prison Officers' Association to conduct a ballot of its members in relation to the workforce management proposals. [255010]

Mr. Hanson: At their Special Delegates' Conference, the Prisoner Officers' Association called for a workplace ballot on the work force modernisation proposals. A timetable for this to take place has now been set and the ballot is due to take place between 8 and 18 February. It is anticipated that results will be known by 20 February.

Prisons: Education

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what companies have been contracted to provide education services to each prison in Wales in each of the last five years; what the value of each contract was; and what courses were provided under each contract. [256023]

Mr. Hanson: From 1998 until end of August 2005 the provision of education services for all public prisons in Wales was contracted to Coleg Gwent. Since then the Prison Service has directly employed teaching staff to deliver education services in Wales and to arrange specific specialist courses to be provided.

The following table shows the total funding for education services, including library provision, in each of the last five years in public prisons in Wales, which are Cardiff, Usk and Prescoed and Swansea.

	£ million
2004-05	1.6
2005-06	1.8
2006-07	2.1
2007-08	2.2
2008-09	2.3

In general the courses delivered in each year during the five year period across the prison estate included the following:

Basic literacy and numeracy skills.

Key communication skills.

Generic courses such as the Arts, English, Maths, Creative Writing, Welsh.

Vocational courses such as Food Safety and Hygiene, painting and decorating.

Personal and Social skills.

Employability skills such as First Aid and Health and Safety.

Further Education and Open University courses.

HMP/YOI Parc is a contracted prison and provides education services as part of the overall contract delivery. In addition to the core services which are equivalent to those delivered in HMPS establishments, a supplementary allocation is provided to support the education provision at the prison as follows:

2004-05	195,000
2005-06	195,000
2006-07	195,000
2007-08	195,000
2008-09	195,000

Road Traffic Offences: East of England

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many people were (a) cautioned and (b) fined for speeding offences in (i) St Albans constituency, (ii) Hertfordshire and (iii) the East of England in each of the last five years. [254224]

Maria Eagle: Speeding offences, under the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 and Motor Vehicles (Speed Limit on Motorways) Regulations 1973, can be dealt with by way of written warnings, court proceedings or the issuing of a fixed penalty notice.

Available information collected centrally on the Court Proceedings Database, held by the Ministry of Justice, on the number of persons given a court fine for speed limit offences within the Hertfordshire police force area and the east of England Government office region from 2003 to 2007 (latest available) is provided in table 1 as follows.

Information collected centrally by the Home Office on the number of fixed penalty notices issued for speeding offences, by area, for the period 2002 to 2006 (latest available) is given in table 2 as follows. Data for 2007 are due to be published in the spring of 2009.

Formal cautions are not given for motoring offences.

Data collected centrally are available at police force area level only and therefore information for St. Albans constituency is not available.

Theft: Drugs

Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what estimate he has made of the proportion of people convicted of theft who have a drug addiction in the last 12 months. [254336]

Maria Eagle: From information held by the Ministry of Justice it is not possible to separately identify those persons convicted of theft who have a drug addiction.

War Crimes: Prosecutions

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what consents are required for the prosecution of an alleged offence relating to war crimes committed overseas following a citizen's arrest in the UK. [254550]

Maria Eagle: The Attorney-General's consent is required for the prosecution of war crimes under the War Crimes Act 1991 or the International Criminal Court Act 2001. The Attorney-General's consent is also required for the prosecution of offences under the Geneva Conventions Act 1957.

HEALTH

Tuberculosis/HIV

10. Julie Morgan: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what proportion of tuberculosis (TB) patients in England are co-infected with HIV; and what plans there are to reduce HIV-TB co-infection rates. [255404]

Dawn Primarolo: The most recent data from the Health Protection Agency indicate that approximately 8 per cent. of tuberculosis (TB) cases in England are co-infected with HIV.

Guidelines for the management of patients with co-infection are available from the British HIV Association, and in the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence guidelines for TB.

Safe Drinking

11. Phil Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent steps his Department has taken to increase public awareness of safe drinking levels. [255405]

Dawn Primarolo: In May 2008, we launched a national campaign to increase awareness of alcohol units, lower-risk levels for regular consumption and the health risks of exceeding these levels.

Early analysis shows promising results, with campaign recall running at 73 per cent. We intend that this campaign should be sustained over a number of years.

Mixed-sex Wards

12. Mr. Crausby: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he plans to take to minimise the number of mixed sex wards in NHS hospitals. [255406]

Alan Johnson: The national health service has already made significant progress in reducing mixed sex accommodation and two weeks ago, I set out measures for the next six months to eliminate mixed sex accommodation altogether except where clinically justified.

This will provide practical assistance where problems remain and ensure that, once eradicated, mixed sex accommodation does not re-emerge in the future.

BASICs Doctors

13. Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent representations he has received on the role of British Association for Immediate Care doctors in emergency response; and if he will make a statement. [255407]

Mr. Bradshaw: In the last 12 months, we have received a small number of letters on the role of BASICs in emergency response. There was an adjournment debate in June 2008 and an Early Day Motion tabled by the hon. Member for Winchester (Mr. Oaten).

We think BASICs doctors provide an excellent service and regional strategic health authorities, who are responsible for trauma care in their areas are examining how pre-hospital care can be improved including the sort of services provided by BASICs doctors.

Alternative and Complementary Medicine: Regulation

14. David Tredinnick: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether the Government plans to provide for the statutory regulation of the professions of acupuncture, herbal medicine and traditional Chinese medicine before the EU Directive on Traditional Herbal Medicinal Products comes into force in 2011. [255408]

Mr. Bradshaw: We plan to consult shortly on how best to regulate the activities of these practitioners.

National Dementia Strategy

16. David Lepper: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidance his Department is planning to issue to NHS organisations and local authorities on the implementation of the National Dementia Strategy for England. [255410]

Phil Hope: My hon. Friend the Secretary of State announced publication of the first ever National Dementia Strategy on 3 February this year. Alongside the strategy, the Department also published an implementation plan, which is available on the Department's dementia website. We will also be providing a nationwide regional support programme.

NHS Constitution

17. Andrew Gwynne: To ask the Secretary of State for Health in what ways the NHS Constitution will provide rapid access to high-quality healthcare services. [255411]

Ann Keen: The NHS Constitution reaffirms people's rights to be treated with a professional standard of care, by appropriately qualified and experienced staff, and to expect NHS organisations to make efforts to improve the quality of health care they provide. It also contains a pledge to provide access to services within published waiting times.

NHS Dentistry

18. Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent assessment he has made of levels of access to NHS dentistry. [255412]

Ann Keen: 26.9 million people saw an national health service dentist in the 24 months ending June 2008.

We have increased dental funding to over £2 billion and made providing access to anyone who seeks help in finding services a national priority. The NHS is planning that all areas will deliver this by March 2011.

Financial Incentives: Secondary Care Referrals

19. Dr. Evan Harris: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidance he provides to primary care trusts and GPs on the use of financial incentives to reduce numbers of referrals to secondary care. [255413]

Mr. Bradshaw: General Practitioners have a duty to provide the best care for each patient. Where primary care trusts (PCTs) agree local incentive schemes these should not cut across this duty or restrict patient care. Any incentive scheme must help patients get the right treatment in the most appropriate setting.

The Department's "Care and Resource Utilisation" guidance (published in December 2006) set out how PCTs and clinicians can work together to improve the appropriateness of care that patients receive.

Epilepsy Care

20. Chris McCafferty: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of levels of adherence by primary care trusts and acute trusts to guidance on epilepsy care issued by the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence. [255414]

Ann Keen: We have made no assessment. The Healthcare Commission investigates whether national health service organisations have systems in place for the implementation and monitoring of the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence's guidance, including clinical guidelines, and will assess each organisation's performance against core standards.

Funding Formula: North Yorkshire/York

21. Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what effect the new NHS funding formula has had on North Yorkshire and York primary care trusts' cash allocation for 2009-10. [255415]

Mr. Bradshaw: The new formula recognises that the needs of the primary care trust (PCT) population have increased due to the combined effects of age, health status and deprivation. This is reflected in the additional funding the PCT will receive, which places North Yorkshire and York PCT in the top 30 per cent. in terms of increased funding. The PCT will receive an increase of £118.6 million or 11.6 per cent. over the next two years.

Drug and Alcohol Treatment Services

22. Joan Walley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent assessment he has made of the adequacy of the arrangements for commissioning drug and alcohol treatment services. [255416]

Dawn Primarolo: The recent National Audit Office report on alcohol services and the joint Healthcare Commission/National Treatment Agency annual reviews of drug services, show that there is room for improvement in the commissioning of these services. We have introduced the World Class Commissioning programme to improve commissioning of all services by the national health service.

Stroke Awareness

23. Judy Mallaber: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps are being taken to raise public awareness of stroke and stroke symptoms. [255417]

Ann Keen: On 9 February we launched a national stroke awareness campaign. Through television advertisements, radio and press we are raising awareness of stroke symptoms and educating people to become stroke savers—to be able to spot the signs of stroke and know when to call 999 for an ambulance.

This will contribute to significantly reducing the number of deaths and the disability caused by stroke as part of the implementation of the Stroke Strategy as well as reducing long-term disability for stroke survivors.

Asthma: Hospital Admissions

24. Mr. Burrowes: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what progress has been made in reducing the number of hospital admissions for patients with asthma. [255418]

Ann Keen: From 2004-05 to 2006-07 asthma hospital admissions ranged between 66,055 and 70,907, with 70,136 in 2006-07. We have made significant progress in reducing bed days by more than 27,000 over the same period. We support and encourage the national health service to improve the care offered to people with asthma.

Acute Sector Staff: Assaults

25. Angela Watkinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent progress has been made in reducing the number of assaults on NHS staff in the acute sector. [255419]

Ann Keen: The national health service security management service (SMS) was created in 2003, with responsibility for leading on security management work within the NHS. A network of local security management specialists, supported nationally by the SMS, addresses proactive and reactive security needs.

In April 2004, conflict resolution training was introduced for frontline NHS staff. This enables staff to recognise and defuse potential violence. By 31 March 2008 428,000 frontline staff had received this training.

In 2007-08, 10,983 physical assaults against NHS staff and 472 criminal sanctions following assaults were reported in the acute sector.

The Criminal Justice and Immigration Act 2008 creates an offence of causing nuisance or disturbance in NHS hospitals and gives trusts the power to remove people suspected of committing the offence from the premises, preventing incidents from escalating into violence. Those convicted of the new offence could face prosecution and a fine of up to £1,000. Guidance on the use of these powers is being prepared and, following a public consultation, the legislation will be commenced and trusts will be able to use these powers.

Venous Thromboembolism

John Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to include risk assessment for venous thromboembolism in hospitalised patients as an indicator in the NHS Operating Framework. [255409]

Ann Keen: The national priorities for the national health service are set out in the Operating Framework which reflects the three-year settlement determined by the Comprehensive Spending Review 2007. The Operating Framework includes the need to reduce mortality rates; and it is for primary care trusts to determine how to do so locally.

We expect thromboembolism (VTE) risk assessment policy to be adopted throughout the NHS. Currently, at the request of the Chief Medical Officer, the chair of the national implementation group is visiting throughout the NHS to discuss with senior managers and doctors their strategies for implementing VTE risk assessment in their hospitals. We will be monitoring the position closely and formally reviewing the policy before the end of this year.

If there is inconsistency in or lack of commitment to implementation, we will consider making it mandatory to perform risk assessment.

Accident and Emergency Departments

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many attendances there were at (a) major accident and emergency departments, (b) single speciality accident and emergency departments, (c) other types of accident and emergency departments, including minor injury units and (d) walk-in centres in each year since 2002. [255605]

Mr. Bradshaw: The following table shows the number of attendances at major accident and emergency departments, single speciality accident and emergency (A and E) departments, other types of accident and emergency departments including minor injury and walk-in centres in each year since 2002.

Attendances at accident and emergency departments, minor injury units and walk-in centres, England, 2002-03 to 2007-08

Accident and Emergency Departments: Standards

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will place in the Library a copy of the table showing the number of accident and emergency departments by type from his Department's Quarterly Monitoring of Accident and Emergency for (a) 1997, (b) 2002, (c) 2008 and (d) in the earliest year for which his Department holds records. [254022]

Mr. Bradshaw: A table showing the number of accident and emergency (A and E) departments by type from the Quarterly Monitoring of Accident and Emergency for (a) 1997, (b) 2002, (c) 2008 and (d) in the earliest year for which data are held is set out as follows:

A and E departments, 1996-97 to Q2 2008-09

Year	Type 1 (Major)	Type 2 (Single specialty)	Type 3 (Other type of A and E minor injury unit)
Number of trusts reporting A and E services
(d) 1996-97	205	33	84
(a) 1997-98	202	33	92
Number of A and E services
(b) Q3 2002-03	207	47	214
(c) Q2 2008-09	203	75	289

Notes:
1. Prior to 2002-03, Trusts submitted information on whether or not they provided A and E services by type. They did not submit a count of the number of services provided. The guidance also stated: "Where there is more than one A and E Department, indicate the A and E Department type that provides the most comprehensive service."
2. From Q1 2003-04, Walk in Centres are included as a Type 3 department.

Alcoholic Drinks: Misuse

Mr. Crausby: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people have been admitted to hospital with an alcohol-related disease in each of the last 10 years. [254611]

Dawn Primarolo: The number of alcohol-related finished hospital admissions in England is only available from 2002-03 to 2006-07 and is presented in the following table.

	Number of alcohol-related finished hospital admissions in England
2002-03	510,173
2003-04	569,417
2004-05	644,185
2005-06	735,512
2006-07	799,120

Notes:
The number of alcohol-related admissions is based on the methodology developed by the North West Public Health Observatory (NWPHO). Following international best practice, the NWPHO methodology includes a wide range of diseases and injuries in which alcohol plays a part and estimates the proportion of cases that are attributable to the consumption of alcohol. Details of the conditions and associated proportions can be found in the report Jones et al. (2008) "Alcohol-attributable fractions for England: Alcohol-attributable mortality and hospital admissions".
Includes activity in English NHS Hospitals and English NHS commissioned activity in the independent sector.
Finished admission episodes:
A finished admission episode is the first period of inpatient care under one consultant within one healthcare provider. Finished admission episodes are counted against the year in which the admission episode finishes. Admissions do not represent the number of inpatients, as a person may have more than one admission within the year.
Primary diagnosis:
The primary diagnosis is the first of up to 14 (seven prior to 2002-03) diagnosis fields in the Hospital Episode Statistics (HES) data set and provides the main reason why the patient was in hospital.
Secondary diagnoses:
As well as the primary diagnosis, there are up to 13 (six prior to 2002-03) secondary diagnosis fields in HES that show other diagnoses relevant to the episode of care.
Number of episodes in which the patient had an alcohol-related primary or secondary diagnosis:
These figures represent the number of episodes where an alcohol-related diagnosis was recorded in any of the 14 (seven prior to 2002-03) primary and secondary diagnosis fields in a HES record. Each episode is only counted once in each count, even if an alcohol-related diagnosis is recorded in more than one diagnosis field of the record.

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people received liver transplants for alcohol-related conditions in each year since 1997. [255203]

Ann Keen: The following table shows the number of people who received liver transplants in the United Kingdom in each financial year since 1 April 1997, where the patient's primary, secondary, or tertiary liver disease was recorded as alcoholic liver disease (ALD):

Number of liver transplants for alcoholic liver disease in the UK, between 1 April 1997 and 31 March 2008

Financial year of transplant	Number of liver transplants for ALD	Percentage of all UK liver transplants

Animal Experiments

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many animals have been used in medical scientific experiments funded by the NHS in the last five years. [254895]

Dawn Primarolo: The information requested is not held centrally.

Over the last 10 years, the main part of the Department's total expenditure on health research has been devolved to and managed by national health service organisations. Details of individual NHS supported research projects undertaken during that time are available on the archived national research register at:

https://portal.nihr.ac.uk/Pages/NRRArchive.aspx

The implementation of the Government's health research strategy that began in 2006 means that the Department now funds NHS research and development through the National Institute for Health Research (NIHR). The NIHR's role is to support research involving patients, samples or data taken from patients, people who are not patients, populations, health technology assessment, and health services research.

Care Homes: Fees and Charges

Mr. Meacher: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average cost per week was of (a) private nursing home care, (b) private residential care and (c) domiciliary social care for those needing care for at least 20 hours per week in the last 12 months. [253236]

Phil Hope [holding answer 2 February 2009]: Provisional data on local authority expenditure on state funded social care for 2007-08 were collected and published by the NHS Information Centre for health and social care.

The Information Centre expects to publish final data at the end of February 2009. Data on the costs of care to service users who fund in full their own care are not collected by the Information Centre or the Department.

Data collected by the Information Centre do not distinguish between care provided by the private and voluntary sectors. The figures show the cost to local authorities of care purchased from independent—that is, private and voluntary together—providers for people receiving care aged 18 and over.

We are informed by the Information Centre that, in 2007-08, data provided by local authorities show that in England the average cost of nursing home care provided by the independent sector was £499 per person per week, exclusive of the nursing care element paid for by the national health service. The average cost of residential care provided by the independent sector was £564 per person per week.

Although fees for nursing home care are generally higher than those for residential care, the nursing element of residents' care is funded by the NHS, through NHS-funded nursing care, which reduces the net cost to local authorities. NHS-funded nursing care is paid for by primary care trusts. The standard rate is £103.80 per week and the higher rate is £142.80 per week.

Data are not available on the costs of providing at least 20 hours per week of domiciliary care. The average cost to local authorities for a person aged 18 and over receiving domiciliary social care in 2007-08 was £152 per person per week.

Contaminated Blood and Blood Products Inquiry

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Health with reference to the answer of 15 October 1990, Official Report, column 662W, on haemophiliacs (Aids), (1) how many of the documents that were withheld from the courts by the Department were among those that were not released to the independent inquiry into contaminated blood and blood products chaired by Lord Archer QC of Sandwell; and if he will make a statement; [253285]

(2) how many documents were withheld from the courts by the Department; and if he will make a statement; [253286]

(3) which documents that were withheld from the courts by the Department have been subsequently released to the independent inquiry into contaminated blood and blood products chaired by Lord Archer QC of Sandwell; and if he will make a statement. [253287]

Dawn Primarolo: In July 1990, the then Permanent Under-Secretary of State certified to the High Court that approximately 600 documents enjoyed immunity from disclosure in civil litigation with regard to haemophiliacs who had contracted the AIDS virus in the course of national health service treatment. A definitive list of the documents is no longer available in the Department's files, and it is not therefore possible to state with confidence how many may also have been withheld in line with the Freedom of Information Act from the approximately 4,500 documents released to Lord Archer in 2007.

The documents issued to Lord Archer had been rediscovered in the Department stored in unregistered files, and 26 of these unregistered files were marked as undisclosed in litigation. It is therefore believed that these files contain the documents referred to in the 1990 certificate. From those 26 files, 12 documents were withheld in whole and nine in part from those released in 2007. These were withheld in line with exemptions in the Freedom of Information Act 2000, and not in relation to different decisions made in 1990 when different rules applied.

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether his Department has received (a) a draft copy and (b) an advance copy of the report of the Independent Public Inquiry into Contaminated Blood Products; and if he will make a statement. [255217]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department has not received a draft copy or an advance copy of the report of the Independent Public Inquiry into Contaminated Blood Products.

Drugs: Rehabilitation

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent estimate his Department has made of the number and proportion of people in each region who are not accessing the drug and alcohol treatment they require; and if he will make a statement. [251177]

Dawn Primarolo: It is the responsibility of primary care trusts (PCTs) and their partner agencies to estimate the level of need for drug and alcohol treatment services for their local population as part of the commissioning process. Data on those not accessing drug and/or alcohol treatment are not collected centrally.

In 2004 the Department commissioned the Alcohol Needs Assessment Research Project's (ANARP) to measure the gap between the demand for and provision of specialist alcohol treatment services in England at a national and regional level.

ANARP research was conducted over a period of six months between September 2004 and February 2005, and as part of this work, ANARP estimated that around 5.6 per cent. (approximately 63,000) of the in-need alcohol dependent population were accessing alcohol treatment per year, although the new National Alcohol Treatment Monitoring System suggests that actual numbers may be higher than this. Since the Department published ANARP, in November 2005, action has been taken to improve access to treatment for those dependent on alcohol.

From April 2008, a new indicator became part of both National Health Service Vital Signs and the National Indicator Set for Local Area Agreements. This measures change in the rate of alcohol-related hospital admissions and is expected to encourage PCTs to invest in earlier identification of people who drink too much, leading to brief advice by general practitioners or other health care staff and, if necessary, referral to treatment. 99 PCTs and 76 local authorities have included this indicator as one of their local priorities, setting out local targets and plans for reducing alcohol related hospital admissions.

From November 2008, a new Alcohol Improvement Programme is providing practical support and guidance to the NHS including:

Regional Alcohol Managers to galvanise and support local action;

a new National Support Team for Alcohol, to provide strategic advice to areas that experience the highest rates of alcohol-related hospital admissions;

an on-line Alcohol Learning Centre with training resources for practitioners and tools and guidance for planners and commissioners; and 20 early implementer PCTs in areas of high health inequalities are receiving funding and support to go further faster to reduce alcohol-related harms.

Eating Disorders: Children

Mark Hunter: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many children between the age of 10 and 18 years were treated for (a) bulimia and (b) anorexia in each year since 1997; [255779]

(2) how many (a) boys and (b) girls aged (i) under 10, (ii) 10, (iii) 11, (iv) 12, (v) 13, (vi) 14, (vii) 15, (viii) 16, (ix) 17 and (x) 18 years old were admitted to hospital for illnesses or conditions relating to eating disorders in each year since 1997. [255780]

Phil Hope: Data on first admission episodes for children and young people admitted to hospital for treatment for bulimia, anorexia and other eating disorders are in the following tables.

Notes:

1. Finished admission episodes: A finished admission episode is the first period of inpatient care under one consultant within one healthcare provider. Finished admission episodes are counted against the year in which the admission episode finishes. Admissions do not represent the number of inpatients, as a person may have more than one admission within the year.

2. Diagnosis (Primary Diagnosis): The primary diagnosis is the first of up to 14 (seven prior to 2002-03) diagnosis fields in the Hospital Episode Statistics (HES) dataset and provides the main reason why the patient was in hospital.

3. Ungrossed data: Figures have not been adjusted for shortfalls in the data, i.e. the data are ungrossed.

4. Data Quality: HES are compiled from data sent by over 300 NHS trusts and primary care trusts (PCTs) in England. The Information Centre for health and social care liaises closely with these organisations to encourage submission of complete and valid data and seeks to minimise inaccuracies and the effect of missing and invalid data via HES processes. While this brings about improvement over time, some shortcomings remain.

5. Assessing growth through time: HES figures are available from 1989-90 onwards. During the years that these records have been collected the national health service there have been ongoing improvements in quality and coverage. These improvements in information submitted by the NHS have been particularly marked in the earlier years and need to be borne in mind when analysing time series.

Health Authorities

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will place in the Library a copy of the (a) agenda and (b) minutes of the meeting he held with the chairs of strategic health authorities on 13 January 2009; and whether he holds meetings with this group on a regular basis. [255598]

Mr. Bradshaw: The meeting on 13 January 2009 was [illegible] private, informal dinner between my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State and the chairs of the strategic health authorities (SHAs). There was no formal agenda or minutes taken. Issues discussed at the dinner included: the future of the medical work force, professional revalidation, mixed sex accommodation, NHS productivity, capital investment, regulation and diversity and equality.

My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State normally meets with the SHA chairs on a quarterly basis.

Heart Diseases: Medical Treatments

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will amend the quality and outcomes framework to calibrate rewards to GPs reflecting preventative treatment given to patient groups at high risk of coronary heart disease as well as groups of patients with coronary heart disease. [254351]

Mr. Bradshaw: The agreement between NHS Employers and the British Medical Association on the GP contract for 2009-10 included new Quality and Outcomes Framework (QOF) indicators addressing seven clinical priorities, including two new indicators for cardiovascular disease primary prevention. These new indicators will reward practices for carrying out a cardiovascular risk assessment and providing lifestyle advice for patients with a new diagnosis of hypertension.

The Department has asked the National Institute of Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) to oversee a new independent and transparent process for developing and reviewing QOF clinical and health improvement indicators for England from 1 April 2009 as part of their role in providing guidance for the national health service based on evidence of clinical effectiveness and cost effectiveness. We launched a public consultation on the proposed new process on 30 October 2008. The consultation ended on 2 February. Subject to the outcome of that consultation, any proposal for further changes to QOF indicators would need to be considered under that new process.

Hepatitis

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Health in what proportion of patients with (a) chronic hepatitis, (b) cirrhosis and (c) hepatocellular carcinoma their condition is due to chronic infection with hepatitis B virus; and if he will make a statement. [254998]

Dawn Primarolo: It is not possible to use Hospital Episode Statistics to provide data on chronic hepatitis, cirrhosis or hepatocellular carcinoma due to hepatitis B virus. Although there are disease codes to describe these conditions individually, it is not possible to show that one condition has been caused by the other.

However, it is generally accepted that hepatitis B is a significant cause of chronic hepatitis, and that about 20 to 25 per cent. of individuals with chronic hepatitis B infection world-wide are at increased risk of developing cirrhosis and hepatocellular cancer.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) if he will make additional funding available to primary care trusts for the use of pegylated interferon for the anti-viral treatment of chronic hepatitis B; and if he will make a statement; [254999]

(2) how much and what percentage of the 2008-09 budget of each (a) health authority and (b) primary care trust is allocated for the treatment of hepatitis B; and if he will make a statement. [255112]

Dawn Primarolo: Funding for hepatitis B treatment is included within the revenue allocations for primary care trusts (PCTs). The allocations also fund the costs of meeting recommendations from the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence. The 2008-09 PCT allocations represent £74.2 billion investment in the national health service, a total increase in funding of £3.8 billion. PCTs have also been informed of their 2009-10 and 2010-11 allocations, a total of £164 billion investment over the two years, a cash increase of £8.6 billion.

The Department does not break down PCT allocations by policies, at either a national or local level. It is for PCTs to decide their priorities for investment locally, taking into account both local priorities and the NHS Operating Framework.

Responsibility for providing services for the treatment of chronic hepatitis B lies with PCTs and their local partners, as they are best placed to assess what is needed in their areas. Information about local expenditure on hepatitis B services is not available centrally.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what studies have been (a) commissioned and (b) evaluated by his Department into the likely incidence of chronic hepatitis B over the next (i) five and (ii) 10 years; and if he will make a statement; [255002]

(2) what studies have been (a) commissioned and (b) evaluated by his Department on monitoring the changes in the epidemiology of hepatitis B infection following the introduction of an anti-viral treatment with interferon and ribvarin since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [255113]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department has not commissioned or evaluated any studies into the incidence of chronic hepatitis B over the next five or 10 years in England or into the effect of antiviral therapy on the epidemiology of chronic hepatitis B since 1997.

Surveillance of hepatitis B suggests that the incidence of both chronic and acute hepatitis B in this country remains low. The Health Protection Agency monitors epidemiological trends in hepatitis B infection and published in 2004 a review of the incidence of hepatitis B in England and Wales from 1995-2000[1].

Ribavirin is used (in combination with pegylated interferon) for the treatment of chronic hepatitis C, not chronic hepatitis B, as recommended by the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence.

Maternity Services

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what estimate he has made of the number of maternity ward places needed in England in (a) 2010, (b) 2015 and (c) 2025; and what estimate he has made of the cost of any increase; [255724]

(2) what assessment he has made of the effect of the projected rise in population on the (a) number of and (b) cost of provision of maternity ward places in England in (i) 2010, (ii) 2015 and (iii) 2025; and if he will make a statement. [255890]

Ann Keen: The Department made an overall assessment of the pressures on the national health service for the period 2008-09 to 2010-11 as part of the 2007 comprehensive spending review. This was not at the level of individual services such as maternity wards. Funding for maternity services is included within overall primary care trust (PCT) revenue allocations.

Local NHS organisations are responsible for developing maternity services in response to the needs of their local population, and for ensuring that they have sufficient wards, and sufficient staff, with the right skills, to offer appropriate choices.

We have provided an extra £330 million over three years in PCT baseline allocations for 2008-09 to 2010-11, to support maternity services. Strategic health authorities are planning to recruit an additional 1,000 midwives by September 2009 and altogether 4,000 more by 2012, contingent on the rising birth rate, to meet the demands of rising births and the aspirations of "Maternity Matters". A copy of "Maternity Matters" has already been placed in the Library.

Mid Yorkshire Hospitals NHS Trust

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will place in the Library a copy of the report to his Department from PricewaterhouseCoopers on the Mid Yorkshire Hospitals NHS Trust. [254152]

Mr. Bradshaw: A copy of the report has been placed in the Library, Some details in the report have been redacted where the following conditions of the Freedom of Information Act apply;

(1) Section 36(2)(b) and (c)—where disclosure of the information would inhibit the free and frank provision of advice, or the free and frank exchange of views, for the purposes of deliberation, or would otherwise prejudice the effective conduct of public affairs. Section 36 is statutory recognition of the public interest in allowing government to have a clear space, immune from exposure to public view, in which it can debate matters internally with candour and free from the pressures of public political debate. Ministers and Government officials need to be able to engage in free and frank discussion of policy options to expose their merits and demerits, and their possible implications. Their candour in doing so will be affected by their assessment of whether the content of such discussion will be disclosed in the future.

(2) Section 41(1)—where the information in the report was received by PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) in confidence. Disclosure of this information would make it less likely that this type of information is provided freely to the Department in the future, and consequently undermine the ability of the Department to fulfil its role. The provider(s) of that information are content that some of this information can be disclosed. The limited amount to which this does not apply has been redacted.

(3) Section 43(2)—where the information in the report is commercially sensitive, and its disclosure has the potential to damage the trust's commercial interests. The report includes information from the trust's long term financial model (LTFM) that includes detailed information about future income and expenditure. Release of this information is likely to prejudice the trust's commercial interests by adversely affecting its position in contractual negotiations and commercial transactions.

NHS: Accountancy

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the likely effects of the adoption of International Financial Reporting Standards from April 2009 on the revenue of NHS organisations; and if he will make a statement. [255575]

Mr. Bradshaw: National health service organisations are currently completing their 2009-10 plans and will be assessing the revenue impact of introducing international financial reporting standards (IFRS) as part of this planning process.

The 2009-10 operating framework requires NHS organisations to submit their final IFRS compliant financial plans for 2009-10 by the end of March 2009 and as such, the detailed financial impact of moving to IFRS is not currently available.

NHS: Drugs

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whose responsibility it is to inform a patient in cases where a primary care trust Exceptional Circumstances Panel refuses an application for funding for a procedure. [256027]

Dawn Primarolo: It is for primary care trusts to ensure that arrangements are in place to communicate such decisions to patients.

NHS: Energy

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much the NHS has spent on energy efficiency and energy conservation measures in each of the last five years; and how much it is spending on such measures in 2008-09. [256022]

Phil Hope: The information is not collected centrally for the time scales requested.

The Department's energy and sustainability fund has been allocated to national health service trusts. From this fund, there has been £18.9 million provided to schemes in 2007-08 and £76.3 million has been provided for 2008-09. These figures do not include similar schemes that trusts have funded from their own resources.

NHS: Equality

Dr. Stoate: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he plans to take to facilitate the NHS's compliance with its gender equality duty under the Equality Act 2006 with respect to service design and delivery. [254484]

Phil Hope: The NHS Constitution for England, published in January 2009 states that the national health service should provide a comprehensive service, available to all irrespective of gender, race, disability, age, sexual orientation, religion or belief. At the same time, the NHS is reminded that it has a wider social duty to promote equality through the services it provides and to pay particular attention to groups or sections of society where improvements in health and life expectancy are not keeping pace with the rest of the population.

In conjunction with a range of stakeholders, the Department supports the NHS to mainstream gender equality in a variety of ways. In 2007 we published practical guidance on how NHS organisations should develop and use gender equality schemes, and integrate gender equality into mainstream business. In the same year, we co-published an equality guide to enhance NHS board members' understanding of their legal duties under gender and other equality legislation. A copy of both publications has been placed in the Library. In March 2008, the chief executive of the NHS wrote to all strategic health authority chief executives, reminding them of their duties in relation to gender equality and other equality and human rights legislation, and encouraging them to be legally compliant and to support trusts in their areas to be compliant as well. We are currently running a 'Learning Sites' programme to support the development of single equality schemes, with a clear focus on gender and other specific equality issues. The Department's Pacesetters programme is trialling a number of innovative approaches to improving the NHS's equality performance. A number focus on gender equality.

NHS: Private Sector

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will take steps to ensure that the arrangements for patients to pay privately for treatments that the NHS will not pay for do not act as a disincentive for pharmaceutical companies to develop cheaper treatments. [256025]

Dawn Primarolo: The 2009 Pharmaceutical Price Regulation Scheme (PPRS) recognised that it is in all of our interests to encourage research and reward innovation, which is why, for the first time, it promotes the uptake of cost-effective innovative treatments. At the same time, the PPRS will ensure that the national health service gets better value for money. The PPRS will deliver efficiency savings and includes new arrangements on flexible pricing and patient access schemes to ensure that value is better reflected in pricing.

Obesity: North East

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps are being taken by his Department to combat obesity amongst young people in the North East. [254891]

Dawn Primarolo: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by the Under-Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families on 28 January 2009, Official Report, column 650W.

At a local level, it is the responsibility of primary care trusts (PCTs) working with local authorities to co-ordinate work to tackle childhood obesity. PCT plans, developed alongside local authority Children and Young People's Plans, will feed into local area agreements agreed with the Government offices. Local areas will develop and implement their own initiatives based on local needs and circumstances.

Obesity: Surgery

Siobhain McDonagh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidance his Department and its agencies have issued to healthcare professionals on assessing patients for (a) the fitting of gastric bands and (b) other bariatric surgery. [254840]

Dawn Primarolo: The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) has set 'Guidance on the prevention, identification, assessment and management of overweight and obesity in adults and children', available at www.nice.org.uk/CG43.

This guidance is for both health and non-health professionals, and contains guidance on when bariatric surgery may be considered as an option.

It is up to primary care trusts as local commissioners and providers of services to determine the most appropriate methods to deliver health care to their populations, based on clinical need and effectiveness, and following medical advice.

Siobhain McDonagh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many NHS patients have had a gastric band fitted in 2007-08; and how many of them were readmitted to hospital as an emergency within three months of surgery as a result of complications. [254841]

Dawn Primarolo: The information is not available in the form requested.

Data are not yet available for 2007-08. Data are provided for 2006-07 which show that there were 706 finished consultant episodes where there was a primary diagnosis of obesity and an insertion of a gastric band as a main operation carried out in England. Gastric bands are only one type of procedure recommended for the treatment of obesity by the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence.

Data on emergency readmissions rates are collected by the National Centre for Health Outcomes Development and published at www.nchod.nhs.uk. Analysis from this source for gastric band surgery can be produced only at disproportionate cost.

Notes:

Finished Consultant Episode (FCE)

A finished consultant episode (FCE) is defined as a continuous period of admitted patient care under one consultant within one health care provider. FCEs are counted against the year in which they end. The figures do not represent the number of different patients, as a person may have more than one episode of care within the same stay in hospital or in different stays in the same year.

Number of episodes in which the patient had a (named) primary diagnosis

These figures represent the number of episodes where the diagnosis was recorded in the primary diagnosis field in a Hospital Episode Statistics (HES) record.

The ICD-10 code used to identify obesity is as follows:

E66—Obesity

Main procedure

The main procedure is the first recorded procedure or intervention in the Hospital HES data set and is usually the most resource intensive procedure or intervention performed during the episode. It is appropriate to use main procedure when looking at admission details, (e.g. time waited), but a more complete count of episodes with a particular procedure is obtained by looking at the main and the secondary procedure.

The OPCS code used to identify a gastric band insertion is as follows:

G30.3—Partitioning of stomach using band

Data Quality

HES are compiled from data sent by more than 300 NHS trusts and primary care trusts (PCTs) in England. Data are also received from a number of independent sector organisations for activity commissioned by the English NHS. The NHS Information Centre for health and social care liaises closely with these organisations to encourage submission of complete and valid data and seeks to minimise inaccuracies and the effect of missing and invalid data via HES processes. While this brings about improvement over time, some shortcomings remain.

Organs

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many organs donated by British people have been sold to non-UK citizens in each of the last 10 years. [254899]

Ann Keen: None. Section 32 of the Human Tissue Act 2004 makes it illegal to deal commercially in human material for transplantation.

Osteoporosis

Charlotte Atkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what estimate he has made of the level of compliance among NHS trusts with the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence's Technology Appraisal 87; [254775]

(2) what percentage of women with a fragility fracture did not receive care and treatment in accordance with the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence's Technology Appraisal 87 in the last 12 months; [254776]

(3) which NHS trusts (a) complied and (b) did not comply with the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence's Technology Appraisal 87 in 2007-08. [254777]

Dawn Primarolo: We have no data on, nor made an estimate of, the level of compliance among trusts with the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence's (NICE's) technology appraisal number 87.

Information on the number of women not treated in accordance with technology appraisal 87 is not collected.

Primary care trusts have a legal obligation to provide funding for treatments recommended by NICE within three months of the guidance being issued. NICE guidance is also included in 'Standards for Better Health' (a copy has already been placed in the Library), which sets out the Government's high-level expectations for the health service. Adherence to NICE technology appraisals is one of the core standards against which NHS organisations are assessed in the Healthcare Commission's annual health check.

Patient Choice Schemes

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people used Choose and Book in each (a) primary care trust and (b) strategic health authority in the latest period for which figures are available. [254156]

Mr. Bradshaw: The number of people who used choose and book (CAB) in each primary care trust (PCT) and each strategic health authority (SHA) in the latest period data are available for (January 2009) are shown in the document general practitioner referrals to first out-patient appointments made using CAB by PCT and SHA—January 2009, a copy of which has been placed in the Library.

Sativex

Simon Hughes: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the number of patients prescribed Sativex since it became available on a named patient basis, broken down by the type of illness for which it was prescribed. [253095]

Phil Hope: Information on the number of patients prescribed a medicine and the condition for which that medicine is prescribed is not collected centrally. The number of Sativex prescription items dispensed in the community in England, is in the following table.

	Prescription items (Thousand)
2004	[1]—
2005	0.3
2006	1.5
2007	1.9

Teenage Pregnancy

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what projections he has made of future trends in unintended pregnancies amongst teenagers. [251785]

Beverley Hughes: I have been asked to reply.

Government have set an ambitious target of halving the under-18 conception rate by 2010 (compared to the 1998 baseline rate). On average, the under-18 conception rate fell 1.6 per cent. each year between 1998 and 2006 (the latest year for which annual data are available), reversing the previous upward trend. This steady decline means that in 2006, the teenage pregnancy rate was at its lowest level since the mid 1980s.

However, this rate of progress needs to be accelerated in order to achieve the 2010 target. A number of local areas are showing that rapid progress is possible, with local reductions of over 30 per cent. since 1998. However, in other areas rates have remained static and in a minority of areas rates have increased. We have issued guidance to local authorities and PCTs based on the lessons learned from the best performing areas and will be challenging those areas where progress has been slow to demonstrate how they have used this guidance to accelerate progress.

In addition, we have provided PCTs with extra funding (£26.8 million in this and the next two financial years) to improve young people's access to effective contraception and have set out our intention to make Personal, Social and Health Education (PSHE) statutory, to drive up the quality of sex and relationships education. We will also be strengthening our communications to both young people and parents.

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Sutton and Cheam (Mr. Burstow) of 27 October 2008, Official Report, columns 665-66W, on teenage pregnancy, if he will place in the Library a copy of the memorandum of understanding between his Department and strategic health authorities. [254346]

Dawn Primarolo: A copy of the draft memorandum of understanding has been placed in the Library.

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment his Department has made of (a) the effectiveness of programmes intended to reduce the number of teenage pregnancies and (b) the adequacy of the budget allocated to primary care trusts for such purposes. [254515]

Dawn Primarolo: A total of £26.8 million has been allocated this year to strategic health authorities (SHAs) and primary care trusts (PCTs) to improve women's knowledge of, and access to the full range of contraception, to help reduce the number of teenage pregnancies and abortions.

It is for SHAs and PCTs to determine how to use this funding most effectively to meet the needs of their local populations. However, departmental officials are working with SHAs to provide advice and spread good practice. Priority areas include encouraging innovation and ensuring equitable access to all methods of contraception including long acting reversible methods.

The South West Public Health Observatory are developing a balanced score card for sexual health which will monitor a range of indicators at PCT, SHA and national level. This will be available during 2009 and the first phase will focus on outcomes for young people.

Teenage Pregnancy: Nottingham

Mr. Allen: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much his Department spent on initiatives to reduce teenage pregnancy levels in Nottingham in the last 12 months. [255582]

Dawn Primarolo: This information is not held centrally. However, a total of £26.8 million additional funding has been allocated this year to strategic health authorities (SHAs) and primary care trusts (PCTs) to improve women's knowledge of, and access to the full range of contraception, and to help reduce the number of teenage pregnancies and abortions. It is for SHAs and PCTs to determine how to use this funding most effectively to meet the needs of their local populations.

Thalidomide

Mr. Breed: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his latest projection is of the age-specific mortality rates of thalidomiders. [255889]

Dawn Primarolo: We have made no projection of the age-specific mortality rates for those living with the effects of thalidomide.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Building Schools for the Future Programme

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the (a) original expected completion date and (b) current expected completion date is of each unfinished Building Schools for the Future project; and what the reasons are for delay in completion of each delayed project. [253948]

Jim Knight: I refer the hon. Member to my answer of 6 October 2008, Official Report, column 468W. There has been no change in current expected completion dates.

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many schools are planned to be re-built under the Building Schools for the Future programme in each year from 2009 to 15; and if he will make a statement. [255004]

Jim Knight: The following table shows the projected trajectory for schools which will be transformed through the Building Schools for the Future programme, including new build, remodelled, refurbished and ICT-only schools:

Financial year	Number of schools expected to open
2009-10	115
2010-11	165
2011-12 onwards	200+

These are the current plans, which may change as projects develop. Plans for schools in later waves of the programme have not yet been finalised.

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families which Building Schools for the Future school designs have been assessed as (a) excellent, (b) good, (c) not yet good enough and (d) mediocre by the Commission for Architecture and the Built Environment; and if he will make a statement. [255005]

Jim Knight: The Schools Design Panel of the Commission for Architecture and the Built Environment (CABE) assesses proposals for schools against 10 key design criteria, using the ratings 'excellent', 'good', 'mediocre' and 'poor'. For a scheme to achieve an overall design quality rating of 'good', it must achieve at least 10 'good's. If the majority scores are 'good', but one or more key criteria are rated 'mediocre', the overall design quality rating will be set as 'not yet good enough'. In other cases the balance of scores between 'excellent' and 'good', and between 'mediocre' and 'poor' will determine which category the overall assessment falls in.

By 4 February 2009, the Panel had assessed 163 design proposals for 47 schools within 18 local authorities in the Building Schools for the Future (BSF) programme. Many of these reviews take place when two or more bidders are developing proposals for a BSF project and so the Panel will see different proposals for the same schools. Brief reports of these assessments are given to the local authority's BSF project team which, in turn, will share individual reports with the appropriate bidders. Bidding teams therefore receive a steer on how to improve their designs when necessary. Because these reviews take place while bidders are still in competition with each other the reports, and the design quality ratings they contain, are confidential.

The Panel also reviews design proposals for schools when planning applications are referred to it. These applications are in the public domain and CABE publishes the results of its reviews on its website. The assessments of BSF schools are set out in the table.

We do not, and will not, tolerate poorly designed schools. Design quality has improved in 74 per cent. of the 66 schemes in BSF that the Panel has seen on more than one occasion. Bidders are clearly listening and benefiting from the advice they receive. However, there is always room for improvement. This summer we will introduce a Minimum Standard of Design for schools in BSF to further safeguard our investments in schools. This will mean that proposals for a school will have to achieve a minimum standard of design quality before a BSF deal can be completed.

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families which schools constructed under the Building Schools for the Future programme were planned to open between December 2008 and December 2010; when he expects each such school to open; and if he will make a statement. [255284]

Catz Club

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether (a) his Department, (b) its predecessor and (c) its agencies have provided funding to the charity (i) Catz Club and (ii) Schoolfriend in the last five years. [250348]

Beverley Hughes: I am informed that the Department for Children, Schools and Families and its predecessor the Department for Education and Skills have no record of any direct payments to either "Catz Club" or "Schoolfriend" during the last five years.

The Department does not have any Executive Agencies.

Children: Care Homes

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what percentage of children's homes did not meet the national standards for care homes on the latest date for which figures are available. [247857]

Beverley Hughes: This is a matter for Ofsted. HM Chief Inspector, Christine Gilbert, has written to the hon. Member and a copy of her reply has been placed in the Library.

Letter from Christine Gilbert, dated 27 January 2009:

PARLIAMENTARY QUESTION NUMBER 247857: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families, how many and what percentage of children's homes did not meet the national standards for care homes on the latest date for which figures are available.

Your recent parliamentary question has been passed to me, as Her Majesty's Chief Inspector, for a response.

There are 36 national minimum standards for children's homes, each with a number of underpinning criteria. Most, but not all, of these standards are legal requirements set in regulations. A detailed list of the standards, detailing those which are legal requirements, can be found in the Department of Health's 2002 document Children's Homes: National Minimum Standards, available at http://www.dh.gov.uk/en/Publicationsandstatistics/Publications/PublicationsPolicyAndGuidance/DH4010076.

Where providers do not meet the national minimum standards that are legal requirements, we set 'actions', to which providers must respond. Ofsted uses its enforcement powers to bring about compliance in these cases.

Table A shows the number of children's homes that failed to meet at least one of the national minimum standards linked to a legal requirement set in regulations during the inspection year 2007-08 (the last full year for which we have data). Inspectors judged that the majority of the failures to meet the standards did not have a significant impact on outcomes for children. As a result, overall we judged only 8% of children's homes as inadequate during that same period.

Table A: Actions set against national minimum standards (NMS) from 1 April 2007 to 31 March 2008

	Number	Percentage
Total active children's homes with an action/s against one or more NMS from their most recent full inspection in the 2007-08 cycle.	1239	70
Total active children's homes without an action against any NMS from their most recent full inspection in the 2007-08 cycle.	531	30
Total active children's homes with a completed full inspection in 07-08 cycle.	1770	100

Where providers do not meet national minimum standards that are not legal requirements, Ofsted makes 'recommendations'. We can also set recommendations to bring about improvement over and above the national minimum standards. We do not distinguish in our records between those recommendations we set in relation to improvement and those we set for failing to meet an aspect of the national minimum standards. We can not, therefore, supply data about children's homes which did not meet those national minimum standards that are not linked to legal requirements.

A copy of this reply has been sent to Rt Hon Beverley Hughes MP, Minister of State for Children, Young People and Families, and will be placed in the library of both Houses.

Children: Databases

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families with reference to the Answer of 8 October 2008, Official Report, column 474W, on children: databases, which usability issues his Department is resolving before the ContactPoint system is user tested. [252077]

Beverley Hughes: ContactPoint is designed to save time for professionals working with children, therefore ensuring smooth working for users is very important.

The purpose of testing is to uncover issues and deal with them before deployment. We discovered a number of issues that we wanted to rectify before commencing the final stages of testing with users. They were typical for this stage of project delivery and included minor functional changes and enhancements to screens. If not rectified, these issues can cause frustration to those involved in testing activity and can restrict the benefit that the activity can provide.

We have always said that we will take the time to get ContactPoint right. We wanted to ensure that testing provided the maximum benefit possible and therefore took the decision to fix these issues before commencing testing with users on 13 October 2008. The user testing phase completed successfully on 28 November 2008.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the answer of 28 January, Official Report, columns 648-9W, on children: databases, if he plans to make the monthly assessments of early adopter local authorities public. [255624]

Beverley Hughes [holding answer 9 February 2009]: The monthly assessments are undertaken by local authorities and are project documents internal to the local authorities themselves. Local authorities provide the information to the Department on the basis that it will be used to enable the Department to assess progress, provide targeted support where necessary and to share good practice. It is not collected for the purpose of publication. The assessments are not intended or designed for publication.

Children: Protection

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much (a) central government and (b) each local authority has spent on child protection in each of the last five years. [250183]

Beverley Hughes: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Many local Children's Trust partners commit expenditure to child protection including the police, health services, and local authority children's social services departments. Net expenditure by local authorities in England on children's social care, which includes expenditure on child protection, in each of the last five years is as follows:

	£ million
Outturn
2004-05	4394
2005-06	4689
2006-07	4999
Budget
2007-08	5105
2008-09	5684

Source:
Budgets Annual RA return Outturn PSS EXP1

Expenditure in other areas of local authority activity, for example on early years services and school transport, also contribute to the safeguarding and protection of children and young people.

Estimated programme expenditure by DCSF on safeguarding in 2008-09 will be £47.3 million, and expenditure was £32.5 million in 2007-08. These totals include revenue and capital expenditure on the introduction of the Vetting and Barring Scheme, the Making Safeguarding Everyone's Responsibility programme and the beginning of a grant arrangement with NSPCC. It is not possible to identify the amounts specifically allocated to child protection.

Children's Services: Doncaster

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families who preceded Paul Gray as Director of Children's Services in Doncaster. [253476]

Beverley Hughes: Paul Gray was preceded as Director of Children's Services for Doncaster Metropolitan borough council by Jim Crook.

Education Maintenance Allowance

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many staff Capita plans to employ to administer the education maintenance allowance; [254206]

(2) whether all applicants for education maintenance allowance in the present academic year have been awarded grants backdated to the start of that year; [254207]

(3) how many education maintenance allowance payments have not been made. [254208]

Jim Knight: This is a matter for the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) who operate the Education Maintenance Allowance (EMA) for the Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF). Mark Haysom the LSC's chief executive, will write to the hon. Member for Cotswold with the information requested and a copy of his reply will be placed in both Libraries.

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families with reference to the answer of 26 November 2008, Official Report, column 1846W, on education maintenance allowance, how many students have (a) received a notice of entitlement for the education maintenance allowance, (b) successfully enrolled and (c) received at least one payment since September 2008. [254483]

Jim Knight: This is a matter for the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) who operate the education maintenance allowance (EMA) for the Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF). Mark Haysom the LSC's chief executive, will write to the hon. Member for Bognor Regis and Littlehampton with the information requested and a copy of his reply will be placed in both Libraries.

Education Maintenance Allowance: Blackpool

Mr. Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many young people in Blackpool South constituency received education maintenance allowance in each year since the scheme was established. [253969]

Jim Knight: This is a matter for the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) who operate the education maintenance allowance (EMA) for the Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF). Mark Haysom the LSC's chief executive, will write to my hon. Friend the Member for Blackpool, South with the information requested and a copy of his reply will be placed in both Libraries.

Education Maintenance Allowance: Leeds

John Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many students in Leeds West constituency received education maintenance allowance in each year since 2005. [255474]

Jim Knight: This is a matter for the Learning and Skills Council, who has operational responsibility for the Education Maintenance Allowance (EMA) and holds the information about take-up and payments made under the scheme. Mark Haysom, the Council's Chief Executive, will write to my hon. Friend with the information requested and a copy of his reply will be placed in both Libraries.

General Certificate of Secondary Education

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the answer of 14 January 2009, Official Report, column 845W, on general certificate of secondary education, how many and what percentage of pupils in the maintained mainstream sector achieved five GCSEs including a modern language at grades A* to C in 1997, broken down by index of multiple deprivation decile. [254485]

Jim Knight: The information requested is not available.

Head Teachers: Recruitment

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps his Department takes to ensure that the functioning of schools is not affected by the process of recruiting new headteachers. [254889]

Jim Knight: The head teacher vacancy rate remains low and stable, and no school is without a head, as there will always be an acting head in place. However, we do know that some schools in some areas find it more difficult than others to recruit heads. We have invested £30 million in the National College for School Leadership's (NCSL) succession planning work, which is helping local authorities and schools to develop local solutions to find, develop and retain great school leaders. The NCSL is also developing new accelerated leadership provision, designed to allow those with the necessary skills to move rapidly to headship.

Health Education: Drugs

Mr. Gray: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what type of training teachers providing drugs education in secondary schools are required to undertake; and what the duration of such training is. [254036]

Jim Knight: There is no requirement for teachers to undertake particular training on drug education. Drug education is delivered through personal, social, health and economic education (PSHE). The Department provides £2 million funding each year to train teachers and professionals who deliver PSHE. Over 8,000 practitioners (primarily teachers) have completed the national PSHE continuing professional development (CPD) programme since it began in 2003, and there are a further 1,600 practitioners undertaking the programme this year. Schools also have access to a variety of CPD provision through their local authorities and commercial provision.

The Department is exploring with the Training and Development Agency for Schools how a route through initial teacher training can be created to become a specialist PSHE teacher.

Literacy and Numeracy: North East

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what measures his Department has introduced to improve levels of (a) literacy and (b) numeracy in the north-east since 1997. [254910]

Jim Knight: There have been significant improvements in standards of literacy and numeracy in the north-east region since 1997 due to a range of policies including increased investment; new primary and secondary teaching frameworks; better use of pupil data; the targets schools and local authorities have set for their pupils; challenge and support to local authorities through the national strategies; and targeted intervention to tackle school failure.

Our Children's Plan goal is for 90 per cent. of 11-year-olds to achieve level 4+ in both English and mathematics by 2020. Extra one to one and small group tuition is being rolled out and by 2010 this will have helped 300,000 children nationally in English and in mathematics. Every Child a Reader, Every Child a Writer and Every Child Counts programmes are being introduced and a new primary school improvement strategy will be published later this year.

At secondary level the National Challenge and 'Gaining Ground: Improving progress in coasting secondary schools' are now in place and a number of schools in the north-east will benefit from the additional funding provided to help them improve outcomes for pupils.

The following table shows results for the north-east for pupils at the end of primary and secondary school:

Further statistical information on educational performance in the north-east region, parliamentary constituencies and at district and ward level are available on the In Your Area website at

Music Standards Fund

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many local authorities supplemented their Music Standards Fund income with additional spending on music tuition in each of the last three years; and how many he expects will do so in 2009-10; [254435]

(2) how many local education authorities supplemented their music standards fund grants with additional spending in the last 12 months; and what the total monetary value of such supplements was. [256109]

Jim Knight: Planned net expenditure on music services (not standards fund supported) by local authorities in England from 2006-07 to 2008-09 is contained within the following table. The information for 2009-10 is due to be submitted to the Department by 31 March 2009.

Music: General Certificate of Secondary Education

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what percentage of pupils sat GCSE examinations in music in each year since 1997; and what proportion received A* to C grades. [256017]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The available information relates to those 15-year-old pupils who attempted GCSE examinations in Music and is shown in the following table.

Percentage of 15-year-old pupils who attempted GCSE examinations in Music and the percentage of these pupils who received A to C grades, England—1997 to 2008*

Music: Teachers

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many applications for funding were received from the fund established for the professional development of music teachers in each year since 2006; how many have completed programmes funded as a result of such applications; and how many participants completed their portfolios in each year. [256016]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: In the pilot programme from 2007 to 2008, 733 teachers had completed some modules and 304 of these had completed portfolios by the end of 2008. Under the programme from September 2008, 930 teachers have begun work.

The aim of the Key Stage 2 Music CPD programme is to establish a growing body of music practitioners who have considered at a deep level the issues surrounding teaching and learning in the context of whole class instrumental and vocal activity. Participants complete up to 14 modules through workshops and online learning, as well as benefiting from one-to-one mentoring. As with all professional development this is an ongoing process. The completion of a portfolio indicates a key milestone but does not indicate that a teacher's professional development is complete, or necessarily that the professional development of other teachers is somehow deficient. Teachers who have engaged with the programme have expressed high levels of satisfaction and even at this early stage we have every reason to believe that children's experience of music making is benefiting as a result. The first report on the effectiveness of the programme will be published in March.

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what percentage of primary schools have a teacher with a formal music qualification. [256018]

Jim Knight: The information is not collected centrally.

National Curriculum Tests

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families on which occasions in (a) 2007 and (b) 2008 officials in his Department reported to Ministers on the administration of the key stage tests by the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority; what steps Ministers took in response to each report; and if he will make a statement. [253418]

Jim Knight: Officials provide Ministers with briefing and regular updates on progress during test cycles, as appropriate, covering current issues, risks and remedial action taken. In 2008 officials reported their assessment of key risks to National Curriculum test delivery to Ministers in submissions on 7 February 2008, 2 April 2008 and 10 June 2008, as well as providing frequent updates on progress and issues throughout May and June 2008. As set out in Lord Sutherland's report (The Sutherland Inquiry: an independent inquiry into the delivery of National Curriculum tests in 2008), Ministers responded to these assessments by seeking reassurance from QCA and NAA that they had suitable action in hand to secure delivery of their contractors' obligations.

Pre-School Education

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many and what proportion of (a) children's centres nurseries, (b) maintained nurseries and (c) private, voluntary and independent nurseries reported vacant places in (i) England, (ii) each region, (iii) the 10 per cent. most deprived areas and (iv) the 10 per cent. least deprived areas in each year since 1997; [252064]

(2) how many and what proportion of childminders reported vacant places in (a) England, (b) each region, (c) the 10 per cent. most deprived local authority areas and (d) the 10 per cent. least deprived local authority areas in each year since 1997. [252066]

Pre-School Education: Manpower

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what proportion of staff in the childcare sector in (a) the 10 per cent. most deprived areas, (b) 10 per cent. least deprived areas, (c) five per cent. most deprived areas and (d) five per cent. least deprived areas were qualified to at least level three in each of the last 30 years. [252069]

Beverley Hughes: The Childcare and Early Years Providers Survey collects information on the level of qualification held by all paid staff by type of child care provider. Table 1 following shows the number and proportion of staff in England with at least a level three qualification in 2006 and 2007, by type of provision and by level of area deprivation. Data for previous years and data for (a) the 10 per cent. most deprived areas, (b) 10 per cent. least deprived areas, (c) 5 per cent. most deprived areas and (d) 5 per cent, least deprived areas are not available.

Pre-school Education: Standards

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families with reference to the answer of 18 November 2008, Official Report, columns 274-5W, on pre-school education: standards, how many and what proportion of early years settings deemed inadequate by Ofsted since 1 September 2008 were (a) in the 10 per cent. of most deprived areas, (b) childminders, (c) private, voluntary and independent settings, (d) Montessori nurseries and (e) Steiner nurseries. [249525]

Beverley Hughes [holding answer 20 January 2009]: These are matters for Ofsted. The Chief Inspector, Christine Gilbert, has written to the hon. Member and copies of her replies have been placed in the Library.

Letter from Christine Gilbert, dated 30 January 2009:

Your recent parliamentary question has been passed to me, as Her Majesty's Chief Inspector, for a response.

The numbers and proportions of early years settings deemed inadequate by Ofsted since 1 September 2008 are shown in the tables below. The figures in Table A are taken from provision inspected between 1 September 2008 and 31 October 2008, in line with the figures supplied for Parliamentary Question 233559. The figures are supplied in Table B cover provision inspected between 1 September 2008 and 31 December 2008.

The 10% most deprived areas in England were identified using the Government's 'Indices of Deprivation 2007' (an index published once every three years), available at http://www.communities.gov.uk/communities/neighbourhoodrenewal/deprivation/deprivationQ7/.

Ofsted does not, as a matter of course, collect our data in line with the sector types specified in the question (private, voluntary and independent early years settings), as it has no mandatory requirement to do so. The figures given in response to part (c) of your question represent settings that we are able to identify as private or voluntary, within our categories of 'childcare on domestic premises' and 'childcare on non-domestic premises'. Please note, however, that these do not represent the full picture, as data are not held for all providers and should, therefore, be treated with caution.

Similarly, Ofsted does not, as a matter of course, collect data on whether provision is Montessori or Steiner. The figures provided in response to parts (d) and (e) of your question represent settings where 'Montessori' or 'Steiner' appears in a free text field on setting details. This may not represent all settings of these types and so this data must be treated with caution.

Please note that that the selection of provision for inspection each year is not random. We select providers for inspection each year based on a number of factors, including the period since their last inspection and the grade awarded them at that inspection. Therefore, these figures should not be used to make judgements about the standards of national provision.

A copy of this reply has been sent to Rt Hon Beverley Hughes MP, Minister of State for Children, Young People and Families, and will be placed in the library of both Houses.

Primary Education: Mathematics

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many mathematics specialists have been officially appointed in primary schools since 1 June 2008. [253394]

Jim Knight: The information requested is not collected centrally at present. The primary mathematics specialist is a new role recommended by Sir Peter Williams in his 2008 "Independent Review of Mathematics Teaching in Early Years Settings and Primary Schools". We aim to train 13,000 teachers to become maths specialists by 2019 in line with Sir Peter's recommendation. A small pathfinder project is currently running to test issues relating to the training for maths specialists.

Pupils: Leisure

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment his Department has made of the effect of time spent by school children playing computer games and watching television on their school performance. [254893]

Jim Knight: The Department has made no such assessment in relation to watching television and school performance by school pupils.

In 2005 the University of Sheffield conducted a study on behalf of DFES of the educational impact of children's use of computers at home (Valentine et al, 2005). It found that, overall, the use of computers at home was linked to higher levels of educational performance than expected given prior attainment and other factors.

However, where children used computers extensively for leisure purposes, focused predominantly on computer games, there was a small but significant negative impact. The researchers concluded that the negative impact was not a direct result of game playing, but of impact on time spent on school work.

In 2006 the Department commissioned the Entertainment and Leisure Software Publishers Association (ELSPA) to produce a publication that gave an overview of the current use of games in learning, the impact of such approaches on learning and importantly the needs of the teacher in this context. The publication released by ELSPA on 4 October 2006, "Unlimited Learning: Computer and video games in the learning landscape" offers a snapshot of what is happening across education and, importantly, offers an evidence base from which informed decisions can be taken by industry and education alike.

There is a growing body of evidence that some characteristics of games have a role in supporting learning, but the relationship between learning of this sort and performance requires further research. Becta is working closely with Futurelab to build the evidence base. Games vary considerably in nature. Some games are more appropriately designed for supporting academic performance than others. These others may support other skills such as problem-solving, providing authentic or 'real life' learning experiences, making decisions, or communicating with others.

A recent survey by Becta found that 11 to 14-year-olds spend an average of four hours per week playing games, and boys spend twice as much time as girls (Luckin et al, 2008). 80 per cent. of seven to 11-year-olds reported playing games at home (Cranmer et al, 2008).

School Libraries

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what proportion of (a) primary schools, (b) secondary schools and (c) independent sixth form colleges do not have a permanent library. [254608]

Jim Knight: The Department does not hold up-to-date information on the numbers and proportions of schools and colleges with libraries. It is thought that most, if not all, schools and colleges have library facilities. Schools sometimes opt to have distributed facilities, rather than centralised libraries.

Central Government capital support for investment in schools has increased from under £700 million in 1996-97 to £6.7 billion in 2008-9 and will rise further to £8.0 billion by 2010-11. Progress is being made year-by-year in improving the quality of the school building stock. The bulk of schools capital is now allocated by formula to authorities and schools so that they can address their local priorities, including the upgrading of library facilities.

Schools: Chelmsford

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much his Department has spent on (a) primary and (b) secondary school buildings in West Chelmsford constituency in each of the last five years. [254674]

Jim Knight: The Department allocates capital funding on a local authority basis, and then relies on the authority to prioritise spending within its area and between schools.

Accordingly, no records are held centrally on spending in West Chelmsford, or between primary and secondary schools.

Capital allocations by the Department to Essex county council in each of the last five years are set out in the following table:

	£ million
2003-04	62.6
2004-05	63.2
2005-06	55.6
2006-07	51.2
2007-08	52.6

In the current period 2008-09 to 2010-11, allocations made so far amount to £244.2 million, i.e. £81.4 million per annum. The corresponding allocation in 1996-97 was £12.2 million.

Schools: Standards

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many schools in the National Challenge funding programme have yet to receive any of the additional funding allocated via the programme; and if he will make a statement; [253178]

(2) which national challenge schools have received no national challenge funding since June 2008; and if he will make a statement. [254867]

Jim Knight: We have worked with local authorities to agree a package of support for each school supported through the National Challenge. We have made payments to local authorities, rather than schools, through the Standards Fund.

We have not yet signed off plans for four local authorities, although all schools in those local authorities are being supported by a National Challenge Adviser.

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the Answer of 27 January 2009, Official Report, column 497W, on schools: standards, what methodology is used in calculating the level of financial support provided for each national challenge school. [254865]

Jim Knight: Funding for schools supported through National Challenge has been tailored according to the needs of individual schools, and has not been calculated through a formula. My officials met representatives of local authorities in the autumn to develop bespoke funding plans, which were moderated to ensure consistency and value for money at a national level.

Schools: Weather

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many local education authorities' schools were closed (a) on each day of the week and (b) in total during the week beginning 2 February 2009. [255027]

Jim Knight: There is no duty upon schools or local authorities to report school closures to the Department, so we do not routinely collect this information. Because of the number of schools closed in the week in question, we are collecting this information on a one-off basis. I will write to the hon. Member shortly when the information has been collected, and a copy of my letter will be placed in the Libraries.

Serco

Mr. Flello: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the value was of his Department's contracts held with Serco in each year since his Department was established. [253253]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: To gather the information required to estimate the total value for each Serco contract held each year since DCSF was established would exceed the disproportionate cost threshold. However, our financial records show that the following payments were made to Serco in each of the years since the Department was established:

April 2007 to March 2008: £7,538,442;

April 2008 to January 2009: £6,722,922.

Total payments made to Serco during the period was £14,261,364.

Specialist Schools: Music

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many colleges were established with music as a (a) first, (b) second and (c) combined specialism in each of the last three years; [254788]

(2) how many colleges listed music as a (a) first, (b) second and (c) combined specialism in each of the last three years. [254790]

Jim Knight: There have been 32 schools that have taken music as either their initial specialism, as an additional specialism or as part of a combined specialism, over the last three years. The following table shows the breakdown of those figures.

	2006	2007	2008	Total
Music as an initial specialism	5	4	6	15
Music as an additional specialism	5	5	1	11
Music as a combined specialism	3	2	1	6
Total	13	11	8	32

Sure Start Programme: Blackpool

Mr. Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many people used Sure Start centres in Blackpool in the last year for which figures are available. [253967]

Beverley Hughes: The Department does not collect information centrally about the numbers of people accessing individual Sure Start Children's Centres. We expect local authorities and children's centres to collect data on the take up of services as part of their local performance management arrangements. Sure Start Children's Centres provide universal services for families with children under the age of five years. There are currently 12 Sure Start Children's Centres in Blackpool and over 2,900 Centres nationwide, providing access to early childhood services for almost 2.3 million children. By 2010 there will be at least 3,500 Sure Start Children's Centres—one for every community.

Sure Start Programme: Sheffield

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what discussions he has had with Sheffield Council on its decision to reduce the funding to eight Sure Start children's centres and community nurseries; and if he will make a statement. [253103]

Beverley Hughes: Sheffield's allocation for the periods 2008-11 for Sure Start children's centres and Sure Start local programmes is £35,384,827.

Sheffield City council, like all local authorities, is responsible for allocating the Sure Start children's centres revenue funding it receives from my Department, and for ensuring there is sufficient childcare for working parents in its area. It has flexibility to determine levels of resource for the children's centres within its area in order to meet identified needs.

We have made enquiries via the Government Office Yorkshire and Humberside and Sheffield City council have informed us that it is not withdrawing funding from its children's centres or community nurseries.

Teachers: Males

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families with reference to his letter of correction, Deposited Paper 2008-2997, to the answer of 28 October 2008, Official Report, column 596W, on teachers: males, how many maintained (a) primary and (b) secondary schools had fewer than (i) 10 per cent. (ii) 20 per cent. and (iii) 30 per cent. qualified male teachers in 2008. [253227]

Jim Knight: The following table shows the number of local authority maintained primary and secondary schools in England that employed fewer than 10 per cent, 20 per cent. and 30 per cent. qualified full-time equivalent male teachers.

Number of maintained nursery/primary and secondary schools with fewer than 10 per cent, 20 per cent., and 30 per cent. full-time equivalent qualified male teachers: Year January 2008 Coverage: England

(2) how many graduates who began secondary school teaching careers had degrees from Russell Group universities in each of the last 15 years; and if he will make a statement. [254509]

[254510]

Culture: Young People

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what estimate he has made of the number of people under the age of 16 who have (a) performed music live to an audience, (b) taken part in a theatre production, (c) visited an art gallery, (d) visited a library and (e) visited an historic building in each of the last three years. [255897]

Barbara Follett: The Taking Part survey provides data on engagement with a range of cultural activities by children aged 11 to 15. The child element of the survey began in January 2006 and data are therefore available for 2006 and 2007 only.

The following table shows the percentage of children aged 11 to 15 who had participated in the listed activities in the 12 months prior to interview:

Engagement in a selection of cultural activities during the past 12 months, by children aged 11 to 15

		Percentage
	2006	2007
Played a musical instrument to an audience or rehearsed	21.3	22.2

http://www.culture.gov.uk/reference_library/publications/5481.aspx

Departmental Consultants

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many expert advisers, excluding special advisers, have been commissioned by his Department since June 2007; and on which topics they have advised. [254746]

Andy Burnham: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 15 January 2009, Official Report, column 899W.

Departmental Databases

Mrs. Laing: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what the cost of maintaining the databases owned and managed by (a) his Department and (b) its agencies was in (i) 2006, (ii) 2007 and (iii) 2008. [256142]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Database maintenance costs in my Department are made up of the cost of the software maintenance from the supplier and the day to day maintenance carried out by our outsourced IT service provider, Atos Origin. The latter is included in the outsourced ICT contract service charges with Atos Origin and it is not possible to disaggregate the cost from the service charges. My Department does not separately identify database management expenditure and aggregate information is not available before 2007-08.

Database maintenance charges paid to software providers by my Department and its agency was £217,448 in 2007/8 and £168,394 so far this financial year.

Departmental Foreign Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many (a) EU foreign nationals and (b) non-EU foreign nationals are employed by his Department. [256213]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department for Culture, Media and Sport does not currently employ any EU or non-EU foreign nationals.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport whether Ministers in his Department received representations from (a) Lord Moonie, (b) Lord Taylor of Blackburn, (c) Lord Snape and (d) Lord Truscott in the last seven months. [255223]

Andy Burnham: Ministers in this Department have received no such representations.

Departmental Official Hospitality

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much his Department paid to the designated moderator at the event which it hosted at the Walker Art Gallery on 20 November 2008. [255966]

Andy Burnham: No payment was made to the moderator at the event hosted by DCMS at the Walker Art Gallery on 20 November 2008.

Departmental Pensions

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what steps his Department is taking to advise staff of pension options available to them in relation to added years or additional voluntary contributions. [253260]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Members of the Principal Civil Service Pension Scheme receive an annual benefit statement showing the pension built up to date, and also a projection of their pension on retirement if they continue in service to scheme pension age. The benefit statement prompts the member to consider boosting their pension and provides details of the civil service pensions website where staff can obtain further information, including options for making additional voluntary contributions and a calculator to work out costs for added pension (previously added years).

New entrants are informed of pension options in the employment offer and are provided with a pension information pack.

Cabinet Office provides leaflets that explain added pension and additional voluntary contributions for members. The information is also available in scheme booklets. These are available on the civil service pensions website or on request from the member's pensions administrator.

Digital Britain Review

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport (1) what estimate he has made of the cost to his Department of the Digital Britain Summit in April 2009; and where he expects the event to take place; [254778]

(2) what Digital Britain events are planned to take place in (a) Wales, (b) Scotland, (c) Northern Ireland and (d) England in the next 12 months; and how much is planned to be spent on staging each such event. [254809]

Andy Burnham: As set out in the Government's Digital Britain interim report, focused events will take place in the UK nations ahead of publication of the Government's final report as well as a summit due to take place in April. These events will provide an opportunity to explain thinking on the key issues as far as possible and allow interested stakeholders to make representations. The details of these events have not been fully developed and the costs are not yet available.

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what original research has been commissioned by the Digital Britain Review; which organisations and individuals have been commissioned to conduct such research; what the estimated cost of each project is; and what plans he has to publish the outcomes of such research. [254779]

Andy Burnham: To date the following original research has been commissioned in relation to the Digital Britain Review:

An analysis of the key trends and issues in the UK media and telecoms sector, provided by Enders Analysis;

An audit, commissioned from Ofcom, of their existing research; and

A very small space on an omnibus survey looking at the importance of digital media now and in the future.

The research produced by Enders Analysis and Ofcom was published as Annexes to the Interim Report on 29 January and is available at:

http://www.culture.gov.uk/what_we_do/broadcasting/5631.aspx

The responses provided for the omnibus survey will be incorporated into the final report due in the summer.

It would not be appropriate to provide the costs of each individual piece of research for reasons of commercially confidentiality. However, the total cost is estimated at around £21,350.

Economic Situation

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what recent discussions his Department has had with outside organisations to discuss policy on reducing the effect of the recession on matters within his Department's responsibility. [254052]

Andy Burnham: I have regular engagements—on a range of issues relating to the economy—with many organisations connected to the sectors for which I have ministerial responsibility. This includes other Government Departments.

Music: Young People

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many young people were mentored as part of the Music Mentoring initiative in each of the last three years. [255907]

Barbara Follett: Youth Music is unable to provide the information in the form requested. However, Youth Music has advised that, in the period 2006-08, a total of 1,627 young people received one-to-one, small group, and large group mentoring; and 166 young people were engaged as peer mentors and were also mentored. In the period 2008-09, a total of 764 young people have so far received one-to-one and small group mentoring, with 81 young people working as peer mentors.

Portable Antiquities Scheme

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what his policy is on the future of the Portable Antiquities Scheme; and if he will make a statement. [253447]

Andy Burnham: In recognition of the importance of the portable antiquities scheme, I am pleased to confirm that funding remains committed for 2009 to 2011. In November 2008, the Museums, Libraries and Archives Council (MLA), which provides the largest contribution towards funding the scheme, confirmed allocation of £1.3 million this year (2009-10), which will rise to over £1.4 million in 2010-11. The MLA has also stated that it intends to maintain the scheme at present levels of activity.

Sports: Private Sector

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport (1) how many organisations have subscribed to his Department's Medal Hopes scheme; and how many are in negotiation to subscribe; [254377]

(2) how much funding for elite sport has been raised by the Medal Hopes scheme to date; and how much he expects to be raised in each of the next three years; [254378]

(3) how much funding for elite sport has been raised by the Medal Hopes scheme to date; and how much he expects to be raised by the scheme in each of the next three years. [254780]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Negotiations are ongoing with various potential private sector partners and to release further information regarding these negotiations at this time would prejudice commercial interests. However I will make an announcement in due course.

Swimming Teachers' Association

Mr. Keetch: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what consideration he gave to including the Swimming Teachers Association in the range of stakeholders consulted on the Free Swimming Programme. [256191]

Andy Burnham: The Free Swimming programme was designed in close consultation with Sport England, the Local Government Association, the Chief Cultural and Leisure Officers' Association and the Amateur Swimming Association (as the national governing body for swimming).

My officials recently met the Swimming Teachers' Association to discuss future work and policy initiatives concerning the programme. We will continue to involve them in future discussions as appropriate.

Mr. Rooney: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many staff were employed in (a) the Child Support Agency and (b) the Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission in each quarter since March 2008; and how many are expected to be employed in each quarter to December 2012. [250534]

Kitty Ussher [holding answer 22 January 2009]: The Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission is responsible for the child maintenance system. I have therefore asked the Child Maintenance Commissioner to write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Stephen Geraghty, dated 11 February 2009:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about the Child Support Agency and the Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission, the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Child Maintenance Commissioner. The Child Support Agency is now the responsibility of the Child Maintenance Enforcement Commission.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, how many staff were employed in (a) the Child Support Agency and (b) the Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission in each quarter since March 2008; and how many are expected to be employed in each quarter to December 2012. [250534]

The Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission took responsibility for the Child Support Agency from 1 November 2008, at which point all staff employed by the Agency transferred to the Commission. The table below sets out the number of full-time equivalent employees directly employed by the Agency and the Commission in the last four quarters and the current estimate for the quarter ending March 2009, rounded to the nearest hundred.

	March 2008	June 2008	September 2008	December 2008	March 2009[1]

Commission	—	—	5	9300	8900

The Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission's projected level of staffing for the remaining two years of the current spending review period will continue to be kept under review to ensure that the Commission lives within its allocated funding.

I hope you find this answer helpful.

Ms Keeble: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what the (a) mean amount and (b) range of individual debts for which the Child Support Agency has obtained liability orders in each region of England was in each of the last three years; [250961]

(2) how many liability orders the Child Support Agency has obtained through the courts in each region of England and Wales in each of the last three years; [250964]

(3) how many liability orders were issued by the Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission and the Child Support Agency in each region in each of the last three years. [256241]

Kitty Ussher: The Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission is responsible for the child maintenance system including the Child Support Agency. I have therefore asked the Child Maintenance Commissioner to write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Stephen Geraghty:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Questions about the Child Support Agency and the Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission, the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Child Maintenance Commissioner.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, what the (a) mean amount and (b) range of individual debts for which the Child Support Agency has obtained liability orders in each region of England was in each of the last three years. [250961] and;

How many liability orders the Child Support Agency has obtained through the courts in each region of England and Wales in each of the last three years. [250964] and;

How many liability orders were issued by the Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission in each region in each of the last three years in respect of which its framework document states that he is accountable to Parliament. [256241]

The Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission took responsibility for the child maintenance system including the Child Support Agency from 1 November 2008. Neither the Child Support Agency nor the Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission has the power to issue liability orders in respect of child maintenance debt; rather an application is made to the Court which grants the liability order.

The Commission routinely publishes Information showing the number of liability orders granted on a national level, in Table 21 of the Child Support Agency Quarterly Summary of Statistics (QSS). The latest version is available in the House of Commons Library or online at the following link:

http://www.childmaintenance.org/publications/xls/csa_dec08_tables.xlsinformation

The additional information you requested on the overall number of liability orders granted, the mean amount of the debt secured as well as the range of debts secured, is only available for each region from 2007. Therefore the information set out in the attached table covers the year from November 2007 to October 2008, the latest data available.

[3] Maximum figures are rounded to the nearest £1000

Notes:

1. Liability Orders granted have been allocated to Government Office regions based on the residential postcode of the non-resident parent at the time of the court hearing
2. A small number of cases exist where the postcode is not recorded on the management information. As such, these can not be allocated to a region
3. Liability Orders granted are rounded to the nearest 100

Ms Keeble: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) on how many occasions the Child Support Agency has taken action to enforce a liability order in each region of England in each of the last three years; [250963]

(2) what steps have been taken to enforce liability orders issued by the Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission and the Child Support Agency in each region in each of the last three years. [256240]

Kitty Usher [pursuant to the reply, 5 February 2009, Official Report, c. 1419W]: The reply to PQ 250962 was correct but incomplete. I would like to add that up to 1 November 2008, neither the Department nor its Agencies apart from the Child Support Agency used liability orders to recover debt.

The Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission took responsibility for the Child Support Agency from 1 November 2008. The Commission will therefore continue to apply to the Courts for liability orders in respect of Child Maintenance Debt. I have therefore asked the Child Maintenance Commissioner to write to the hon. Member with the available information on liability orders relating to child maintenance debt as requested.

Letter from Stephen Geraghty:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Questions about the use of liability orders, the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Child Maintenance Commissioner.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what enforcement action his Department and its agencies have taken to recover debts in respect of which they have obtained liability orders in each region of England in each of the last three years. [250962] and:

On how many occasions the Child Support Agency has taken action to enforce a liability order in each region of England in each of the last three years. [250963] and:

What steps have been taken to enforce liability orders issued by the Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission in each region in each of the last three years in respect of which its framework document states that the Secretary of State is accountable to Parliament: [256240]

The Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission took responsibility for the child maintenance system including the Child Support Agency from 1 November 2008. Neither the Child Support Agency nor the Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission has the power to issue liability orders in respect of child maintenance debt; rather an application is made to the Court which grants the liability order.

The actions open to the Commission to enforce a liability order include referral to bailiffs, applying for a County Court Judgement Order, applying for a Third Party Debt Order or Charging Order, applying for an Order for Sale on the debtors property and referral to the Courts for further consideration of available sanctions at the Court's discretion which include committal or disqualification from driving.

Information at a national level on the number of liability orders granted and additional enforcement action taken as a result is routinely published in the Child Support Agency Quarterly Summary of Statistics. The latest copy of which is available in the House of Commons library or on online at the following link:

http://www.childmaintenance.org/publications/statistics.html.

The additional information you have requested on actions taken to enforce liability orders granted by the Courts in each region is only available from 2007. Therefore the information set out in the attached table covers the year from November 2007 to October 2008, the latest data available.

Actions taken to enforce liability orders in England: November 2007 to October 2008

Region	Number of actions to enforce liability orders
North East	1,600

2. A small number of actions exist where the postcode is not recorded on the management information. As such, these cannot be allocated to a region.

Adam Afriyie: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how many representations received by the Child Support Agency were not opened as cases owing to the residence of the non-resident parent being outside the UK in each year since 1999; [254141]

(2) how many cases involving child maintenance payments were not pursued by the Child Support Agency owing to the departure from the UK of the non-resident parent in each year since 1999. [254142]

Kitty Ussher: The Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission is responsible for the child maintenance system. I have therefore asked the Child Maintenance Commissioner to write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Stephen Geraghty, dated 11 February 2009:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about the Child Support Agency, the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Child Maintenance Commissioner as the Child Support Agency is now the responsibility of the Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pension, how many representations received by the Child Support Agency were not opened as cases owing to the residence of the non-resident parent being outside the UK in each year since 1999. [254141] and;

How many cases involving child maintenance payments were not pursued by the Child Support Agency owing to the departure from the UK of the non-resident parent in each year since 1999 [254142]

The Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission's jurisdiction is limited to cases where the parent with care, non-resident parent and qualifying child(ren) are all habitually resident in the UK. However, there are exceptions if the non-resident parent is resident overseas but, for example, employed by the Crown, and therefore classed as habitually resident in the UK for child maintenance purposes.

The Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission holds limited information from 2004, relating to the numbers of cases maintained on the CS2 computer system where the non-resident parent is recorded as not being resident in the UK. The Commission therefore does not hold information on the number of applications that fail to progress as the non-resident parent is not resident in the UK. Neither is it able to identify cases where the non-resident parent is abroad but treated as being habitually resident in the UK for child maintenance purposes.

Such information as is available is set out in the table below, which shows the number of cases with a calculation recorded on the CS2 computer systems where the non resident parent is shown as not resident in the UK and in how many of these cases maintenance has not been received in the previous three months.

As at December each year:	Non-resident parent abroad	No maintenance received
2004	9,800	3,400
2005	7,800	2,500
2006	6,700	2,200
2007	6,200	2,100
2008	6,900	2,300

I hope you find this answer helpful.

Adam Afriyie: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what steps his Department has taken to enforce payments under child maintenance agreements by non-resident parents living outside the United Kingdom. [254143]

Kitty Ussher: The Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission is responsible for the child maintenance system. I have therefore asked the Child Maintenance Commissioner to write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Stephen Geraghty:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about child maintenance, the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Child Maintenance Commissioner.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, what steps his Department has taken to enforce payments under child maintenance agreements by non-resident parents living outside the United Kingdom. (254143)

The Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission's jurisdiction is limited to cases where the parent with care, non-resident parent and qualifying child(ren) are all habitually resident in the UK. Although there are exceptions if the non-resident parent is resident overseas but, for example, employed by the Crown, in most cases where the non-resident parent leaves the UK permanently, the Commission's jurisdiction ceases. This means that the Commission is unable to enforce the payment of child maintenance in these cases, although where the non-resident parent has assets which remain in the United Kingdom, the Commission can take action to enforce any remaining debt in a particular case.

The Official Solicitor and Public Trustee is the authority in England and Wales responsible for the enforcement of maintenance orders overseas. The UK has reciprocal arrangements with more than one hundred countries, which enable maintenance obligations to be established or recognised and enforced if the non-resident parent resides in one of those countries. The parent with care may apply to a magistrate's court for a maintenance order to be enforced overseas and procedures also exist to enable the parent with care to ask the foreign authorities to create an order for maintenance on their behalf. However this route cannot be used to enforce Child Support Agency debt that was incurred prior to the non-resident parent's move abroad.

I hope you find this answer helpful.

Children: Poverty

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many children were living in poverty in (a) the City of Southampton, (b) Test Valley borough, (c) the ceremonial county of Hampshire and (d) the UK in each of the last five years. [254016]

Kitty Ussher: Child poverty statistics, published in the Households Below Average Income series, only allow a breakdown of the overall number of children in relative poverty at Government office region level or for inner or outer London. This means information for city of Southampton, the Test Valley borough and the ceremonial county of Hampshire is not available.

Number of children living in households with incomes below 60 per cent. of median, 2002-03 to 2006-07, Before Housing Costs, United Kingdom

	Number of children (million)
2002-03	2.9
2003-04	2.9
2004-05	2.7
2005-06	2.8
2006-07	2.9

Notes:
1. These statistics are based on Households Below Average Income, sourced from the Family Resources Survey.
2. Small differences should be treated with caution as these will be affected by sampling error and variability in non-response.
3. The reference period for Households Below Average Income figures are single financial years.
4. The income measures used to derive the estimates shown employ the same methodology as the Department for Work and Pensions publication 'Households Below Average Income' series, which uses net disposable household income, adjusted (or "equivalised") for household size and composition, as an income measure as a proxy for standard of living.
5. Incomes have been equivalised using OECD equivalisation factors.
6. Numbers of children have been rounded to the nearest hundred thousand children.

Mr. Sarwar: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what recent assessment he has made of his Department's effectiveness in contributing towards the achievement of the Government's target to abolish child poverty. [252693]

Kitty Ussher: Parental employment is the single biggest determinant of family income and children in out-of-work families are at a high risk of poverty. Work, therefore, continues to be the most sustainable route out of poverty. Our reforms of the welfare system have focused on helping people move into work, and increased employment has played an important role in reducing the number of children in relative poverty by 600,000 since 1998-99.

In particular, we have reduced the number of children in workless households by around 445,000 since 1997. The proportion of children in workless households currently stands at 15.5 per cent., down by 3.3 percentage points since 1997. We have increased the Great Britain lone parent employment rate which now stands at 56.3 per cent. The lone parent employment rate has increased by 11.6 percentage points since 1997 and this translates into an extra 320,000 lone parents in employment.

In addition to these reforms of the welfare system, the reforms we have already made to the child maintenance system, along with our intention to introduce a full child maintenance disregard, will lift over around 100,000 children out of poverty.

However, we recognise that there is more that we need to do, particularly in these turbulent economic times. This is why we are continuing the process of welfare reform and introducing into legislation our commitment to eradicate child poverty by 2020.

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many children in (a) England, (b) the North East, (c) the Tees Valley and (d) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency were considered to be living in severe poverty in each year since 1997. [254915]

Kitty Ussher: There is no official or agreed definition of severe poverty. The Households Below Average Income series presents a range of low-income thresholds (based on 50, 60 and 70 per cent. of median income).

Child poverty statistics, published in the Households Below Average Income series, only allow a breakdown of the overall number of children in relative poverty at Government office region level or for inner or outer London. This means information for the Tees Valley, and the Middlesbrough, South and East Cleveland constituency is not available.

Data are available for England on a single-year basis. Regional data are presented as three-year averages, due to variability in single-year estimates. Figures for England and the North East region looking at the number of children in households below 60 per cent. of median are shown in the following tables. Statistics based on other thresholds are given in the Households Below Average Income publication, a copy of which is available in the Library.

Cold Weather Payments

Mr. Ingram: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will publish the professional advice received from the Met Office on the basis of which it was decided that Bishopton weather station was the most appropriate station for the determination of cold weather payments for East Kilbride. [254884]

Kitty Ussher: The advice received from the Met Office is as follows:

> "The Cold Weather Payments scheme involves linking groups of postcode areas to weather stations that report to the Met Office on a daily basis. 76 such stations are currently used in the scheme. Each postcode area is linked to a station with the most similar climate in terms of mean winter temperature (mean for 1971-2000). The linkages that have been made also take account of topography, the extent of built-up areas and the distance from available weather stations.
> East Kilbride is linked to Glasgow-Bishopton, approximately 15 miles to the north-west. The winter mean temperature at East Kilbride is 3.3 degrees Celsius and at Bishopton it is 3.7 degrees Celsius. An alternative station used in the Cold Weather Payments scheme is Salsburgh, approximately 12 miles north-east of East Kilbride. There the winter mean temperature is 2.6 degrees Celsius. On that basis, the more suitable linkage is Bishopton, which is used for almost all the Glasgow postcodes."

Community Care Grants

David T.C. Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what the maximum sum payable under the Community Care Grant Scheme for provision of a television set is; [254372]

(2) whether applications may be made under the community care grant for funds to purchase a motor vehicle; and if he will make a statement. [254373]

Kitty Ussher: There is no upper limit to the amount that may be awarded for a Community Care Grant. However, discretionary Community Care Grants are awarded within a budgetary framework, and decision makers use a range of prices that reflect this.

An applicant may apply to the Social Fund Community Care Grant scheme for any type of expense including a motor vehicle or television. However, an award may only be made if it contributes sufficiently to the overall aim of supporting care in the community.

Housing Benefit

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what steps he has taken to reform the housing allowance scheme in the last five years; what discussions he has had with local authorities on this issue in the last two years; and if he will make a statement. [255102]

Kitty Ussher: Local housing allowance was rolled out nationally in April 2008 for customers in the deregulated private rented sector who make a new claim for housing benefit, and for existing customers who move address. It is a new way of calculating the rent element of housing benefit based on the area in which a customer lives and his/her household size. Local housing allowance is paid to the tenant rather than the landlord in most circumstances. Tenants are able to keep any excess benefit up to a maximum of £15 per week that is over and above the cost of their rent.

Local housing allowance was introduced in nine pathfinder authorities in 2003-04 and was subject to extensive and independent evaluation. A further nine authorities implemented the scheme in 2005 to test operational readiness.

We are closely monitoring how the local housing allowance scheme is working in practice and will undertake a review during the first two years of operation following national rollout.

At Budget 2008 the Government announced a review of the working age housing benefit system. This joint DWP/HMT internal review of housing benefit is looking at the effectiveness of the system, particularly in promoting work incentives, efficiency and fairness and to ensure that it represents value for money for the taxpayer.

The December Welfare Reform White Paper, "Raising expectations and increasing support: reforming welfare for the future" provided a formal update on the review outlining our next steps and the key issues we would like to address.

We also announced our intention to launch a public consultation on housing benefit reform this year, a process which will begin with the publication of a housing benefit reform consultation document.

We meet with local authority representatives regularly, both formally, through statutory liaison with the local authority associations, and through regular liaison with individual local authorities. We often discuss the local housing allowance at these meetings.

Housing Benefit: Essex

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people were in receipt of housing benefit in (a) West Chelmsford constituency and (b) Essex in each of the last five years for which figures are available. [254717]

Kitty Ussher [holding answer 9 February 2009]: Housing benefit information is not available at constituency level.

The most recent available information is in the table.

Number of recipients of housing benefit in Essex, 2003-07

	2003	2004	2005	2006	2007
Great Britain	3,813,560	3,943,590	3,981,020	4,024,280	4,040,940
Essex	62,080	65,140	66,780	68,420	69,760

Income Support: Lone Parents

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many lone parents are claiming income support; and how many of those have a youngest child under (a) 12, (b) 10 and (c) seven years of age. [252984]

Kitty Ussher: The information requested is in the table.

Number of lone parents claiming income support

	May 2008
All	738,640
Youngest child aged under 7	459,690
Youngest child aged 7 to less than 10	114,350
Youngest child aged 10 to less than 12	65,260

Income Support: Mortgages

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what assessment he has made of the effects of the ending of emergency payments of income support for mortgage interest on vulnerable mortgage holders; and what steps he plans to take through the benefits system to reduce the risk of repossessions among such mortgage holders. [252694]

Kitty Ussher: Customers in vulnerable groups, and those with existing housing costs as defined under the previous rules that existed before 5 January 2009, will receive help with 100 per cent. of their eligible housing costs after a waiting period of 13 weeks under the new rules.

This compares favourably with the previous position because although such customers received 50 per cent. of eligible housing costs after eight weeks under the old rules, they had to wait 26 weeks before receiving 100 per cent. Such customers will now be better off overall by four weeks of full eligible interest in the first 26 weeks of their claims than they would have been under the rules that existed before 5 January. We believe that this more generous help, taken together with the increased capital limit from £100,000 to £200,000, will reduce the risk of repossessions.

Industrial Health and Safety: Fire Services

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will review the effects of the Working at Height (Amendment) Regulations 2007 on the normal workplace activities of firefighters employed by fire and rescue services; and if he will make a statement. [254730]

Kitty Ussher [holding answer 9 February 2009]: The Work at Height (Amendment) Regulations 2007 changed the detail of the requirements under the Work at Height Regulations 2005 with respect to certain caving and climbing activities. As such, the 2007 regulations have very limited application to the fire and rescue service and no review is considered to be needed. In 2006, the Department for Communities and Local Government published guidance for the fire and rescue service on the practical application of the Work at Height Regulations 2005 to fire and rescue service activities. The Health and Safety Executive expects that the fire and rescue service itself will keep this practical guidance under review to ensure it continues to represent best practice.

Local Employment Partnerships

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what recent assessment has been made of the effectiveness of local employment partnerships in assisting jobseekers into employment; and if he will make a statement. [255322]

Kitty Ussher [holding answer 9 February 2009]: Local employment partnerships (LEPs) aim to help 250,000 people into work between now and the end of 2010. So far, over 100,000 people have found work with over 18,000 employers through LEPs. It is too early to estimate the net effect of the policy on the movement of jobseekers from benefit into employment. A full evaluation of LEP will be carried out over the next two years.

Pensioners: Income Support

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many (a) single pensioners and (b) pensioner couples will become eligible for (i) guarantee credit only, (ii) savings credit only and (iii) guarantee and savings credit as a result of the changes to the minimum income guarantee level announced in the Pre-Budget Report; and if he will make a statement. [246639]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Following the announcement in the pre-Budget report of the proposed basic state pension and pension credit benefit rates for 2009-10, the number of pensioner households eligible to pension credit is forecast to remain broadly constant between 2008-09 and 2009-10.

Pensions: Council Tax Benefit

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what recent steps his Department has taken to (a) increase the take-up of council tax benefit and (b) simplify the procedure for pensioners to claim. [253764]

Kitty Ussher: Council tax benefit makes an important contribution to the financial security of around 2.6 million pensioner households. We therefore want to ensure that, they get the money they are entitled to.

We are making good progress. When pension credit was introduced in October 2003, we invested almost £0.5 billion a year in increasing the amounts on which housing benefit and council tax benefit are based. This meant that around 2 million pensioner households became either entitled to council tax benefit for the first time or qualified for more help.

People on the guarantee credit or guarantee plus savings credit of pension credit (with or without the savings credit) can get maximum council tax benefit. They are treated as having no income or capital. People with savings credit only may still be entitled to some council tax benefit.

All pension credit customers who are identified as having council tax liability are encouraged to claim council tax benefit when they make their initial claim for pension credit.

Since December 2005, people applying for pension credit have been able to access housing benefit and council tax benefit at the same time via one phone call to the Pension, Disability and Carers Service—one phone call, one number, three benefits. Pension, Disability and Carers Service staff completed a short claim form on the customer's behalf, and sent it to them for signing and returning it to the local authority for processing.

From October 2008, we dispensed with the claim form. Pension, Disability and Carers Service now pass the information direct to the local authority. Previously around 40 per cent. of pre-populated council tax benefit claim forms sent to customers for checking and forwarding to the local authority were never sent to the local authority.

Our longer term aim is to make support for council tax liability as accessible as possible and we will continue to examine ways of achieving this.

Social Fund

Andrew Selous: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what percentage of individual applications to the Social Fund for (a) community care grants, (b) budgeting loans and (c) crisis loans were successful in each month from July to December 2008. [253990]

Kitty Ussher [holding answer 3 February 2009]: The available information is given in the table.

Unemployment Benefits

Simon Hughes: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when he last reviewed his Department's procedures for providing assistance to those moving in and out of short-term employment. [255510]

Kitty Ussher [holding answer 9 February 2009]: Jobcentre Plus provides support for all jobseeker's allowance claimants from day one of a claim. This can include advice on effective job-search strategies, matching people to the many thousands of new vacancies that come up every day and, where appropriate, help with writing a CV, filling in job applications, or with accessing opportunities to refresh or develop new skills.

We have introduced key changes to the jobseeker's allowance rapid reclaim process. Jobseekers can now apply for benefit under the rapid reclaim process up to 26 weeks after a previous claim to the same benefit, rather than within 12 weeks as before. As much of the relevant information is already held, rapid reclaim cases can be processed more quickly, though this is dependent on the jobseeker's circumstances remaining the same as when they left benefit.

Temporary jobs can provide valuable work experience and can often be a stepping stone to more permanent employment. Rapid reclaim supports the incentive to take up employment, including short-term periods of full-time work, by easing concerns about reapplying for benefits should the work suddenly come to an end.

Winter Fuel Payments: Expenditure

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will estimate the cost in real terms to the public purse of paying winter fuel allowance in respect of all children under five in receipt of the higher care component of disability living allowance in each of the next five years. [246720]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Winter fuel payments are made to people aged 60 or over. The estimated annual cost of extending winter fuel payments in respect of all children under five in receipt of the highest rate care component of disability living allowance in each of the next five years is in the table.

Estimated annual cost of extending winter fuel payments in respect of all children under five in receipt of the highest rate care component of disability living allowance

	Total cost in each year: 2008-09 prices (£ million)
2008-09	4.7
2009-10	3.7
2010-11	3.8
2011-12	3.8
2012-13	3.9

The estimated annual cost is presented in real terms at 2008/9 prices. The estimate for 2008-09 is based on a £250 payment, which includes a one-off additional payment of £50 for this year. The estimates are based on a £200 payment for subsequent years.

LEADER OF THE HOUSE

Members of Parliament: Duration

Mr. Amess: To ask the Leader of the House what the average length of service in the House is for current hon. Members; and if she will make a statement. [255096]

Chris Bryant: The average length of service for current hon. Members is 13.4 years.

Members of Parliament: Retirement

Mr. Amess: To ask the Leader of the House how many hon. Members who retired at the (a) 1983, (b) 1987, (c) 1992, (d) 1997, (e) 2001 and (f) 2005 general elections were aged 65 and over at the date of retirement; and how long each had served in the House on retirement. [255100]

Chris Bryant: In total 258 members aged 65 and over left the House at general elections from 1983 to 2005. The following table summarises the position.

General election

	Members over 65 retiring			Length of service

WALES

Departmental Impact Assessments

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales how many equalities impact assessments his Department has undertaken in the last 12 month period for which figures are available; and what estimate he has made of the cost to the public purse of such assessments. [255063]

Mr. Paul Murphy: None.

Digital Broadcasting

Dr. Francis: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what recent discussions he has had on digital inclusion in Wales with the First Minister; and if he will make a statement. [255539]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The deputy Minister for digital inclusion, the Under-Secretary of State for Wales, my hon. Friend the Member for Caerphilly (Wayne David) and I have discussed the issue on a number of occasions with the Welsh Assembly Government Minister with responsibility for digital inclusion, to ensure that the actions set out in the UK Government's Digital Inclusion Action Plan are informed by, and reinforce WAG initiatives.

I know that the Welsh Affairs Committee is currently conducting an inquiry into the issue, and I look forward to giving evidence to the Committee.

Olympic Games 2012

Dr. Francis: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what recent discussions he has had with the First Minister on Wales' contribution to the 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games; and if he will make a statement. [255559]

Mr. Paul Murphy: I regularly meet with the First Minister to discuss a range of issues that affect Wales, including the 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games.

Wales has already developed an international reputation as a nation capable of hosting, and winning, successful major sporting events, which has been reflected with the Australian Paralympic Committee's commitment to be one of the first to confirm their intention of coming to Wales. Wales has already secured Olympic Football for the Millennium Stadium.

The Olympic Delivery Authority (ODA) and LOCOG (London Organising Committee of the Olympic Games and Paralympic Games) expect to directly procure £6 billion worth of contracts. The Government and the Welsh Assembly Government have actively encouraged small and medium enterprises to register and compete for these contracts through the CompeteFor programme. So far, 1,000 Welsh businesses have registered on the website. I raised the issue of the business opportunities presented by the Games at the National Economic Summit in North Wales on 6 February.

SOLICITOR-GENERAL

Anglo Leasing

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Solicitor-General how much the Serious Fraud Office has spent to date on its investigation into Anglo Leasing. [256273]

The Solicitor-General: The Anglo Leasing investigation cost £48,975.16 between September 2007, when the investigation began, and January 2009 when the investigation was terminated.

ENERGY AND CLIMATE CHANGE

Carbon Emissions: Agriculture

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what policies his Department has in place to achieve carbon dioxide emissions reductions in the agricultural sector. [255169]

Jane Kennedy: I have been asked to reply.

The Government are currently developing a policy framework to reduce all greenhouse gases (GHG) including carbon dioxide from the agriculture, forestry and land management sectors.

This work will feed into the Government's response to recommendations made in the Committee on Climate Change's inaugural report.

Fuel Poverty

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what estimate he has made of the proportion of (a) rural and (b) urban households which are in fuel poverty. [241472]

Joan Ruddock: A breakdown based on the rurality of the household, as defined by the National Statistics Definition, is available in the "Fuel Poverty Statistics: Detailed Tables 2006" available online at:

http://www.berr.gov.uk/files/file48038.pdf

Table 35 holds the following information for England only:

	Percentage households in group		Number households in group (thousand)
Rurality	Not fuel poor	Fuel poor	Not fuel poor	Fuel poor	Total number of households (thousand)	Percentage total fuel poor in group
Urban	89.6	10.4	15,253	1,768	17,022	72.7
Town and fringe	89.1	10.9	1,857	227	2,084	9.3
Village, hamlet and isolated dwellings	79.4	20.6	1,679	437	2,115	18.0
Total	88.5	11.5	18,789	2,432	21,221	100.0

Fuel Poverty: Peterborough

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what his estimate is of the number of individuals in fuel poverty in Peterborough constituency; and if he will make a statement. [244138]

Joan Ruddock [holding answer 16 December 2008]: Fuel poverty is defined at a household level and as such a figure relating to individuals is not available. The most recently available sub-regional split of fuel poverty relates to 2003, and shows that in Peterborough, there were around 4,100 fuel poor households.

Housing: Insulation

Mr. Touhig: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change (1) what assistance his Department provides to people who are living in hard-to-heat houses to enable them to insulate their homes; [249386]

(2) what steps his Department is taking to encourage people living in hard-to-heat houses to improve their energy efficiency; [249387]

(3) what steps his Department is taking to provide energy efficiency tools suitable for hard-to-heat homes. [249388]

Joan Ruddock: The Carbon Emissions Reduction Target (CERT) is the Government's principal policy on insulating homes in Great Britain. Under CERT the major energy suppliers have an obligation to promote household carbon saving measures such as insulation. The most important measures for hard-to-treat homes are solid wall insulation and central heating. Suppliers installed around 80,000 heating measures and around 40,000 solid wall measures under the previous obligation period to March 2008, mostly in partnership with social landlords. We recognise that the high up-front cost of solid wall insulation makes it difficult for suppliers to justify this investment. Under CERT we have therefore introduced specific incentives to help improve the financial viability of these measures, with a particular focus on solid-walled homes which are not on the gas grid.

We also continue to assess innovative products, including solid wall insulation, for inclusion in the Warm Front scheme—the Government's main fuel poverty programme in England (fuel poverty is a devolved matter). There will be a focus on improving the energy efficiency of hard-to-treat properties in the forthcoming Community Energy Saving Programme, the proposals for which will be consulted on shortly.

In addition to insulation, through CERT we also promote other energy efficiency measures, such as low energy lamps and high efficiency appliances. We also recognise the value of providing information and advice on energy use and the best steps to make a home more energy efficient. We already provide an on-line carbon calculator, and will shortly be consulting on new provisions to encourage the deployment of real-time energy displays and home energy efficiency advice under CERT.

Kingsnorth Climate Camp

David Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change on what dates staff transferred from the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform to his Department have since their transfer communicated with (a) E.ON and (b) Kent Police regarding the Kingsnorth Climate Camp. [240389]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Staff who dealt with the energy sector for the Department for Business Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (BERR) transferred to the Department of Energy and Climate Change (DECC) following its creation in October 2008. Since their transfer, there has been no communication between DECC staff and E.ON UK or the Kent police regarding the Kingsnorth Climate Camp.

Natural Gas: Falkland Islands

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what assistance his Department plans to provide to the Falkland Islands government to extract oil and gas. [247428]

Mr. Thomas: I have been asked to reply.

I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my hon. Friend the Member for Lincoln, the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (Gillian Merron), on 21 January 2009, Official Report, column 1526W.

DEFENCE

Afghanistan: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what estimate he has made of the number of shots fired by the armed forces in Helmand province in (a) 2006 and (b) 2007; and how many shots were fired in the latest period for which figures are available. [249208]

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many rounds of ammunition have been discharged by British forces in Afghanistan in each rotation since 2006. [251707]

Mr. Hutton: Officials are collating and validating the data needed and this is taking longer than anticipated. I will write to the hon. Members when this work is complete and place a copy of my letter in the Library of the House.

Apprentices

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence with reference to the answer of 21 May 2008, Official Report, column 308W, on apprentices, how many apprentices his Department employs. [252085]

Mr. Kevan Jones: For the last 2007-08 reporting period, the Department delivered 8,758 apprentice completions.

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence with reference to the answer of 21 May 2008, Official Report, column 308W, on apprentices, what progress his Department has made towards the Government's commitment to employ over 1,000 apprentices in central Government Departments and agencies in 2008-09. [256254]

Mr. Kevan Jones: Government Skills is planning to prepare a central response based on the numbers participating in the National Apprenticeship Pathfinder in 2008-09. This will be in the form of a table showing participating Departments and numbers of apprentices on the programme.

Departmental Foreign Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many (a) EU foreign nationals and (b) non-EU foreign nationals are employed by his Department. [256212]

Mr. Kevan Jones: Data on the number of EU foreign nationals employed in the Department are not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost. There are 46 non-EU foreign nationals currently employed under an alien's certificate in compliance with the provision of the Aliens Employment Act 1955.

Departmental Redundancy

Justine Greening: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence with reference to the answer of 26 November 2008, Official Report, columns 1557-8W, on redundancy, what estimate he has made of the annual payroll savings resulting from his Department's staff exit schemes in (a) 2005-06, (b) 2006-07, (c) 2007-08 and (d) 2008-09 excluding the cost of severance packages; and what estimate he has made of the equivalent figures for 2009-10. [254475]

Mr. Kevan Jones: To provide this information in respect of all exit schemes run across the Department and its agencies would require a Department-wide trawl as information is not held centrally. This could be done only at disproportionate cost. Information on releases made through centrally-funded exit schemes is held centrally, however, and is shown in the following table. Information is shown at individuals' basic rate of pay at the time of departure.

£ million

	Early release cost per annum	Estimated salary cost avoided[1]
2005-06	9.1	10.81
2006-07	16.9	33.14
2007-08	29.5	56.91
2008-09	[2]38.6	75.5
2009-10	[3]49.0	90.42

Departmental Training

Mr. Hands: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence with reference to the answer of 5 November 2008, Official Report, column 483W, on departmental training, what personal training courses at public expense other Ministers in his Department have undertaken since 1 January 2008. [251323]

Mr. Hutton: Since 1 January 2008 a number of Ministers within the Department have undertaken pre-deployment training in preparation for visits to Iraq and Afghanistan.

Harmony Guidelines

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many and what percentage of personnel in each pinch point trade are exceeding the harmony guidelines for (a) tour intervals and (b) individual separated service in each service and trade type. [253717]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: As I stated in my answer on 26 November 2008, Official Report, column 1521W, information on tour intervals for pinch point trades is not routinely recorded. Data on separated service can not yet be provided for Army personnel until such time as a complete cycle has been recorded and subsequently validated (January 2010).

I am, however, able to provide information on the degree to which Royal Navy and Royal Air Force personnel, who are in pinch point trades, breach the Single Service Harmony Guidelines and this is shown in the following table. Current individual harmony guidelines are:

The Royal Navy guidelines determine that personnel spend, on average, 60 per cent. of their time deployed and 40 per cent. alongside in their home port during a three-year period. The maximum individual threshold (separated service) is 660 days away from their normal place of work in the same three year period.

The Army guidelines determine that soldiers can be deployed for one six-month tour in every 30 months (six on, 24 off) and during that 30 month period a soldier should not expect to be away from his or her normal place of work for more than a total of 415 days.

The Royal Air Force guidelines determine that personnel should not spend more than 280 days in every 24 months away from their normal place of duty.

Iraq: Peacekeeping Operations

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he expects the briefing maps for Iraq on his Department's website to be next updated. [251984]

Mr. Hutton: Of the two Iraq briefing maps on the Department's website, that showing Iraq's provinces and the last available population data remains current. The second map, showing Coalition forces' areas of responsibility has now been updated and placed on the website:

Merlin Helicopters

Willie Rennie: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what percentage of Merlin helicopters have been fit for service in each year since 2003. [253219]

Mr. Quentin Davies [holding answer 2 February 2009]: I will write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Substantive answer from Quentin Davies to Willie Rennie:

I undertook to write to you in answer to your Parliamentary Question on 3 February (Official Report, column 1116W), about percentages of Merlin helicopters 'Fit for Service'.

The term 'Fit for Service' has been taken to mean the Effective Fleet, which covers all aircraft barring those which are redundant, declared as surplus or awaiting disposal. The information requested is set out in the table below:

	Merlin Mk1	Merlin Mk3
	Departmental fleet number	Percentage of Departmental fleet 'fit for service"	Departmental fleet number	Percentage of Departmental fleet 'fit for service'
2003-04	42	100	21	100
2004-05	41	100	21	100
2005-06	41	100	21	100
2006-07	41	100	21	100
2007-08	41	100	21	100

These figures do not include the six Merlin helicopters acquired from the Danish government as these aircraft were not introduced into service until financial year 2008-09, having been converted to UK standard as Mk3a.

Warships: Wrecks

Mr. Andrew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) what discussions his Department has had with (a) Odyssey Marine Exploration, (b) English Heritage and (c) Ministerial colleagues on the discovery of the wreck suspected to be that of HMS Victory; and if he will make a statement; [255703]

(2) what steps his Department is taking to establish the identity of the wreck reported by Odyssey Marine Exploration suspected to be that of HMS Victory. [255704]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Following the notification by Odyssey Marine Exploration of the possible discovery of the wreck of HMS Victory, exploratory discussions have been held by MOD officials with the company. Discussions have also been held at official level with a number of other Government Departments with a potential interest.

The wreck is potentially of significant historic interest and it is important to ensure that we are absolutely confident of the claims being made. English Heritage, who are the Government's advisers on heritage issues for England, have been invited to provide advice on the historical significance of the wreck and its likely identity, together with an assessment of the risks to its in situ preservation which would be the Government's preferred approach in such cases.

These considerations are likely to take some time.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

British Nationality: Torture

Sir Malcolm Rifkind: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs with reference to the answer of 17 July 2008, Official Report, columns 680-81W, on British nationality: torture, what estimate he has made of the costs involved in the central collation of statistics relating to the allegations of ill treatment or torture made by British nationals. [253909]

Gillian Merron: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) has only collected statistics, relating to the allegations of ill treatment or torture made by British nationals, since 1 April 2005.

The FCO has no estimate of the costs involved in collating this information pre-April 2005, as it would require searching through thousands of files on individual cases. To provide this would incur a disproportionate cost.

Cuba

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he has met his Cuban counterpart; and whether he plans to visit Cuba to discuss UK-Cuban relations. [254696]

Gillian Merron: The Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs has not met the current Cuban Foreign Minister. There are no current plans for him to visit Cuba.

Cyprus: Community Relations

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the Answer of 12 January 2009, Official Report, column 365W, on Cyprus: community relations, when he last made representations to Turkey over meeting the award of the European Court of Human Rights in the Arestes case; and if he will make a statement. [252877]

Caroline Flint: The issue was last discussed at senior official level at the start of January 2009 and at ministerial level during my visit to Turkey in December 2008.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the Answer of 12 January 2009, Official Report, columns 378-80W, on UN Cyprus Committee on Missing Persons, when he expects to make a final decision as to whether to make further donations to the UN Cyprus Committee on Missing Persons; and if he will make a statement. [252878]

Caroline Flint: The UK has donated £109,000 to the Committee of Missing Persons (CMP) over the past four years. In addition the UK leases the land on which the CMP laboratory is situated for a nominal £1 rent per year. The Government have no plans for further donations at present.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the Answer of 12 January 2009, Official Report, column 363W, on Cyprus: community relations; if he will make an estimate of the number of (a) Turkish nationals (excluding the armed forces) and (b) Turkish militia living in northern Cyprus; and if he will make a statement. [252879]

Caroline Flint: We have no means of independently estimating the number in either case.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the Answer of 12 January 2009, Official Report, column 362W, on Cyprus: community relations, if he will make an estimate of the (a) number and (b) ages of the enclaved Greek Cypriots living in Karpai; and if he will make a statement. [252880]

Caroline Flint: There are no Government estimates of the number and average age of anyone living in the Karpas peninsula. We have no means of independently estimating the number in either case.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the Answer of 12 January 2009, Official Report, column 361-2W, on Cyprus: community relations, if he will make representations to the Turkish Army in North Cyprus to permit Maronites to visit Agia Marina; and if he will make a statement. [252881]

Caroline Flint: The Government are aware of the difficulties faced by the Maronite community in Cyprus in accessing their villages of origin, including the villages of Agia Marina. Ultimately, these issues occur as a result of the political situation on the island, and will only be fully resolved by a comprehensive settlement to reunite the island. We will continue to engage with the leaders of the Greek Cypriot and Turkish Cypriot communities and all other parties as necessary, including Turkey, to support progress towards a settlement.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the Answer of 12 January 2009, Official Report, column 362W, on Cyprus: community relations, when he last discussed the issue of the enclaved Greek Cypriots in the Karpas in the Committee of Ministers in the Council of Europe; what representations he made; and if he will make a statement. [252884]

Caroline Flint: My right hon. Friend has not discussed the problems faced by Greek Cypriots living in the Karpas in the Committee of Ministers. However Ministers' deputies regularly discuss issues arising out of the 2001 Cyprus v. Turkey judgment of the European Court of Human Rights (ECHR), in their quarterly meetings supervising execution of ECHR judgments. These include property rights of the enclaved. The last such discussion was 2-4 December 2008.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the Answer of 12 January 2009, Official Report, column 369W, on Cyprus: press, how much the High Commission has spent on advertising in newspapers owned by Asil Nadir in northern Cyprus in each of the last three years. [252915]

Caroline Flint: For the period April 2007 to March 2008 the high commission spent GBP £1,315 advertising in Kibris and Cyprus Today which are both owned by Asil Nadir. The sum spent since April 2008 is GBP £1,075.20. The high commission advertises in these newspapers as they are the biggest selling papers in their market. A recent estimate showed Kibris accounting for 49 per cent. of newspaper sales in the north.

Democratic Republic of Congo: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what progress has been made in securing additional (a) personnel, (b) resources and (c) airlift capability for the UN mission in the Democratic Republic of Congo since the adoption of UN Security Council Resolution 1843 on 20 November 2008; and if he will make a statement. [253952]

David Miliband: The UN has accepted an official proposal from Bangladesh to provide one infantry battalion, one engineer company and one formed police unit, as well as a proposal from Belgium to provide a C-130 aircraft to the UN mission in the Democratic Republic of Congo (MONUC). In addition, five UN member states have agreed to send the required intelligence experts to MONUC.

Further to this, a number of states have expressed interest in providing the second authorised infantry battalion, two special forces companies, and a second formed police unit. The UN is assessing these expressions of interest.

We will continue to lobby current and potential troop contributing countries until additional personnel are found.

Departmental Correspondence

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his Department's average response time to a letter received from (a) an hon. Member and (b) a member of the public was in each of the last three years. [251439]

Gillian Merron: Guidance for Government Departments handling correspondence from hon. Members is laid down by the Cabinet Office, which has set a target of 20 working days to reply to routine correspondence.

Records do not indicate the average time taken to answer hon. Members' letters. I can confirm that of the 11,970 letters received from hon. Members in 2006, records indicate that 89 per cent. were answered within the 20 working days target; of the 9,790 letters received from hon. Members in 2007, records indicate that 92 per cent. were answered within the 20 working days target; and of the 10,334 letters received from hon. Members in 2008, records indicate that 87 per cent. were answered within the 20 working days target.

Cabinet Office does not issue guidance for Government Departments answering letters from members of the public. Records of letters received from members of the public until late 2007 are not available and we are therefore unable to provide figures for either 2006 or 2007. However, of the 73,048 letters received from members of the public (including e-mails and campaign postcards), our records indicate that 62,671 were answered within 20 working days.

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many staff in his Department were disciplined for (a) bullying and (b) harassment of colleagues in each of the last three years. [254087]

Gillian Merron: The information is as follows:

In 2006, one member of staff was disciplined for bullying. None were disciplined for harassment.

In 2007, one member of staff was disciplined for bullying, one was disciplined for harassment.

In 2008, three members of staff were disciplined for combined bullying and harassment.

These records cover reported disciplinaries of UK-based staff. There are no central records held for locally-engaged staff. This information would be held locally at post and could only be retrieved with disproportionate cost.

Departmental Freedom of Information

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) how many requests under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 his Department (a) agreed to and (b) refused (i) in 2006, (ii) in 2007 and (iii) between January and July 2008; [255499]

(2) what the average time was for his Department to respond to requests made under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 in the last 12 months. [255500]

Gillian Merron: The available statistical information regarding FOI requests received by Departments can be found on the Ministry of Justice website at http://www.justice.gov.uk/publications/freedomofinformationquarterly.htm

Departmental Impact Assessments

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many equalities impact assessments his Department has undertaken in the last 12 month period for which figures are available; and what estimate he has made of the cost to the public purse of such assessments. [255073]

Gillian Merron: During 2008 the Foreign and Commonwealth Office undertook nine main equality impact assessments. An estimate of the cost of undertaking these assessments could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Manpower

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs with reference to the answer of 9 July 2008, Official Report, column 1656W, on departmental personnel, how many staff in (a) his Department and (b) its agencies are (i) without posts and (ii) within the corporate pool; how many staff without posts were classified as such upon returning from maternity leave; and how many of the staff without posts were classified as such for at least (A) six and (B) 12 months. [250044]

Gillian Merron: On 22 December 2008 there were 226 members of staff in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office's (FCO) corporate pool. Of these, 166 were deployed in temporary jobs and 60 were either on training courses or were shortly to go on maternity leave, retire or take up a job. Four members of staff who had recently returned from maternity leave were either deployed in temporary jobs or on training courses. There were no members of staff able to work who were not deployed.

There were 53 members of staff who had been in the corporate pool for more than six months and 25 who had been in the pool for twelve months.

Departmental Ministerial Policy Advisors

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what expert advisers have been commissioned by his Department and its agencies since 1997; on what topic each was commissioned; and whether the adviser so appointed made a declaration of political activity in each case. [246956]

Gillian Merron: The detailed information requested is not held centrally and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) sponsors a number of advisory non-departmental public bodies (NDPBs) which provide independent expert advice on a number of issues. Statistics concerning NDPBs that are sponsored by the FCO are on the FCO website:

http://www.fco.gov.uk/en/about-the-fco/what-we-do/building-strong-relationships-ol/stakeholder-groups/non-dept-public-bodies

Appointments to NDPBs are governed by the principles set out in the Commissioner for Public Appointments' Code of Practice. Summary information is published in 'Public Bodies' which can be accessed online at:

www.civilservice.gov.uk/about/public/bodies or copies are available in the Libraries of the House.

In addition, the Government publish on an annual basis the names and numbers of special advisers in each pay band.

Detainees: Guantanamo Bay

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether one of the detainees rendered through Diego Garcia is still being held in the Guantanamo Bay detention centre. [253243]

Bill Rammell: Both of the individuals rendered through Diego Garcia in 2002 have been returned to their countries of nationality.

Diplomatic Service

Chris Ruane: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many serving Ambassadors and High Commissioners were born in (a) Northern Ireland, (b) Scotland, (c) Wales and (d) England. [253616]

Gillian Merron: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office does not collect or hold in its central records details of the place of birth or region of origin of its staff. Their details would be available only at disproportionate cost.

Ethiopia: Eritrea

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs with reference to the Answer of 20 October 2008, Official Report, columns 96-7W, on Ethiopia: Eritrea, on how many occasions in the last 12 months (a) Ministers and (b) officials in his Department have raised the issue of the binding verdict of the International Ethiopian Eritrean Boundary Commission with the Ethiopian authorities. [253333]

Gillian Merron: UK Ministers have consistently said to the Ethiopian authorities that both parties should: avoid any return to war; demarcate the border; and normalise their relations. Ethiopia and Eritrea should agree a way forward to allow demarcation to proceed and for a normalisation process to begin, as set out in the Algiers Agreements of June and December 2000, to which both Ethiopia and Eritrea are signatories.

In the last 12 months, we have raised this issue on four occasions at ministerial level.

Foreign and Commonwealth Office officials also continually reiterate these messages with their Ethiopian counterparts in Addis Ababa, London and New York.

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when he expects Ethiopia to dismantle its settlements in Dembe Menga, western Eritrea in accordance with UN Security Council Resolution 1430 of August 2002. [253334]

Gillian Merron: We would expect representations regarding settlements believed to be on land awarded to the other party under the Ethiopia-Eritrea Border Commission decision to form part of any demarcation process and normalisation of relations.

We will continue to communicate the UK's policy to both parties including through the United Nations.

Iraq: Elections

Andrew Stunell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the adequacy of the electoral process for the forthcoming provincial elections in Iraq; and if he will make a statement. [253197]

Bill Rammell: The provincial elections on 31 January 2009 mark another milestone in Iraq's development as a democracy. Groups who boycotted the last provincial elections and who have turned against violence will participate this time around, and for the first time the Iraqi authorities have been completely responsible for planning and running a democratic election.

The electorate are able to vote for individual candidates, rather than just political groupings, and as an acknowledgment of the important role both minorities and women play in Iraq, the election law provides quotas for both.

The Independent High Electoral Commission, with the assistance of the UN, has been putting in place since the beginning of 2008 the mechanisms to ensure the elections are free and fair. These include voter information and education campaigns, the training of over 49,000 polling station staff, the accreditation of nearly 260,000 election observers and a robust complaints procedure which will allow the investigation of complaints before the final results are certified. In addition, through local non-governmental organisations and civil society, more than 2,000 electoral education activities each month have taken place in recent months.

Further information on the electoral process can be found at:

www.uniraq.org

Mass Media

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the cost of his Department's contracts with press monitoring services was in each of the last five years. [251157]

Gillian Merron: The monies spent by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office on press monitoring services in each of the last five years are as follows:

Financial year	£
2004-05	337,943.88
2005-06	323,011.34
2006-07	380,198.72

2008-09	[1]362,042.00

[1] Estimate

Middle East: Armed Conflict

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions (a) he, (b) Ministers in his Department, (c) officials in his Department, (d) the British Ambassador to Egypt and (e) officials in the British Embassy in Egypt have had with the government of Egypt since December 2008 on the smuggling of (i) weapons and (ii) people into Gaza from Egypt via under-border tunnels; what reports he has received on the number of tunnels between Gaza and Egypt that have been (A) discovered and (B) closed; and if he will make a statement. [252969]

Bill Rammell: We are extremely concerned with the smuggling of arms and people into Gaza. With the number of tunnels discovered changing on a regular basis we are unable to provide a definitive figure.

We have been in close touch with the Egyptian authorities including my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister meeting President Mubarak at the Sharm summit and my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary speaking to his Egyptian counterpart. We will continue to work with the government of Egypt and our international partners on ways to help prevent smuggling.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received on the use of tunnels under the border of Egypt and Gaza by Bedouin smugglers to transfer arms to Hamas; what recent representations he has made to the government of Egypt about this issue; and if he will make a statement. [252970]

Bill Rammell: We are extremely concerned with the smuggling of arms and people into Gaza including through tunnels under the border. We are currently working with the Government of Egypt and our international partners on ways to help prevent smuggling.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether the Government has evidence that the government of Israel has used white phosphorus weapons in a way inconsistent with international law; and if he will make a statement. [253010]

Bill Rammell: We are gravely concerned at the allegations into the misuse of white phosphorous. We expect, and urge, Israel, to investigate allegations of abuses by their forces. As my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary said in his statement to Parliament on 19 January 2009, Official Report, column 501,

"allegations must be closely and speedily investigated".

Occupied Territories

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received of the alleged suspicious deaths of four Palestinian journalists in Gaza. [249868]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 21 January 2009]: We have not received any reports specifically relating to the suspicious deaths of Palestinian journalists.

Official Cars

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what cars are (a) owned, (b) leased, (c) hired and (d) otherwise regularly used by his Department, broken down by cubic capacity of engine. [250146]

Gillian Merron: Information about the Foreign and Commonwealth Offices (FCO) overseas fleet of vehicles is not held centrally. To provide it would incur disproportionate cost.

Details of FCO Services owned vehicles are set out in the table below. FCO Services does not lease or hire vehicles for the fleet, all vehicles detailed are 'owned'.

I also refer the hon. Member to the answer given by the Secretary of State for Transport (Mr. Hoon) on 26 January 2009, Official Report, column 10W, about cars provided by the Government Car and Despatch Agency.

Palestinians: Human Rights

Derek Wyatt: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the Government's responsibilities under United Nations Security Council Resolution 1674 regarding the protection of the Palestinian people in the Occupied Territories from war crimes. [250659]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 26 January 2009]: We are gravely concerned at the allegations made, during the Gaza conflict, by such credible organisations as the International Committee of the Red Cross and the UN. We have been clear that such allegations must be investigated. We expect, and urge, Israel, to investigate allegations of abuses by their forces.

Somalia: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what funding his Department is providing to the AU missions in Somalia; and what assessment he has made of the likelihood of peace in that country. [249348]

Gillian Merron: Since the African Union Mission in Somalia (AMISOM) was mandated in February 2007, we have committed around £17.3 million in support of the mission. This has included support for Ugandan and Burundian troop sustainment (fuel, food, rotation costs, airlift), assistance with Burundian troop allowances and supplies to the Ugandan battalions (trucks, vehicle spares etc).

The UK also contributes to the EU's African Peace Facility, which has provided funds of €19.7 million to AMISOM between March 2007 and December 2008. A further €20 million will be provided in 2009.

The security situation in Somalia will only improve if there is a political resolution to the conflict there. We continue to work with Somali and international partners to build political stability, including working closely with the United Nations Special Representative to the Secretary General for Somalia, Ahmedou Ould-Abdallah, and the UN Political Office for Somalia. We welcome the decision of the Transitional Federal Government and the opposition Alliance for the Re-liberation of Somalia in November 2008 to form a unity government and to continue work on justice and reconciliation issues. We fully support the Djibouti peace process and hope it will deliver a long-term solution for peace and stability in Somalia.

Somalia: Piracy

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps the Government has taken to prevent piracy (a) in Somalian territorial waters and (b) on the high seas off Somalia; and what assessment he has made of levels of piracy activity in those areas in each of the last three years. [254250]

Caroline Flint: The UK has taken a comprehensive approach to the problem of piracy off the coast of Somalia.

The Royal Navy is combating acts of piracy on the high seas off Somalia, and acts of armed robbery in Somali Territorial Waters. We are providing the Operation Headquarters and Operation Commander for the EU's operation (Atalanta) to protect World Food programme shipping and to deter piracy. We are providing a frigate for the first phase of the operation and we contributed to a North Atlantic Treaty Organisation counter piracy mission in 2008. We have a leading role in the planning and execution of military counter-piracy operations through the Combined Maritime Forces in the region. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary negotiated a new UN Security Council Resolution (1851) further consolidating the international commitment to deal effectively with piracy. The UK is a member of the Contact Group on Piracy off the Coast of Somalia which met for the first time in New York on 14 January 2009, and we will host the Working Group tasked to encourage greater international co-ordination and co-operation. In addition we continue to work closely with the shipping industry, advising on best practice for counter piracy self defence.

Ultimately piracy is a symptom of wider issues. We continue our efforts to address these, and are encouraging the European Commission and other partners to increase targeted support for governance/economic development in Somalia, in particular in coastal areas. In 2007-08, the UK provided over £25 million of humanitarian and development assistance to Somalia. For 2008-09, this was increased to £30 million.

Although there has been a significant increase in the number of successful pirate attacks in the last three years (10 in 2006, 35 in 2007, 43 in 2008 and three so far in 2009), piracy off the Somali coast continues to affect a very small proportion of the shipping that transits the area. Since Operation Atalanta established the Maritime Security Centre for the Horn of Africa in December 2008 no vessel registered with it has been successfully pirated.

Sudan: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he has received reports on the progress made by the Southern Sudan Peace and Reconciliation Commission on implementing its mandate to (a) oversee the Comprehensive Peace Agreement implementation, (b) facilitate South-to-South dialogue and (c) facilitate people-to-people contact. [254556]

Gillian Merron: The Southern Sudan Peace Commission (SSPC) has not yet made significant progress in implementing its mandate. It lacks the capacity to execute its recently completed strategic plan and requires assistance in building the analytical, influencing and coordinating skills required to deliver against its mandate.

We are seeking ways to engage with and support the SSPC, as this will be essential to ensure the legitimacy and sustainability of peace-building efforts in the south. The UK is engaged with other partners, both Sudanese and international, in a range of peace building initiatives in Southern Sudan.

Turkey

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he has had discussions with his Turkish counterpart on recent events in Gaza. [254693]

Caroline Flint: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has had regular discussions with Turkish Foreign Minister Babacan on a range of global issues including Gaza.

Since Turkey became a non permanent member of the United Nations Security Council in January 2009, we expect to work even more closely together this year on issues of regional stability, given their important regional role.

UN World Conference against Racism

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what policy his Department has adopted on the latest draft resolution for the UN Durban 2 anti-racism conference; if he will withdraw the UK from the conference; and if he will make a statement. [254672]

Gillian Merron: The Government remain deeply concerned about the draft outcome document. We have made this clear in our statements at various meetings in the Durban review process.

The United Kingdom delegation was active in the recent negotiations on the draft outcome document for the Durban Review Conference. The negotiations were not concluded at the recent inter-sessional working group, held in Geneva from 19-23 January 2009.

We are assessing progress, taking into account the recently issued draft document issued on 28 January 2009, and will continue to review it against the objectives we have set for the Conference.

Western Sahara: Politics and Government

Mark Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the Answer of 12 January 2009, Official Report, column 381W, on western Sahara, if he will make representations to the new Moroccan ambassador to the UK urging an end to Morocco's continued occupation of western Sahara. [252860]

Bill Rammell: The new Moroccan ambassador to the UK has not yet arrived in London. Nevertheless the Government continue to encourage all parties to the ongoing dispute to enter into the UN-led negotiation process in a spirit of realism and compromise and work towards a mutually acceptable political solution that will provide for the self-determination of the people of western Sahara, as called for by the UN Security Council.

Written Questions: Government Responses

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when he expects to answer Question 247757 about the seminar on stem cell research, tabled on 12 January 2009; what the reason is for the time taken to reply; and if he will make a statement. [254971]

Gillian Merron [holding answer 9 February 2009]: The question was answered on 4 February 2009, Official Report, column 1205W. The delay in answering was due to administrative error.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when he expects to answer Question 242696 about terrorism in Israel, tabled on 8 December 2008; what the reason is for the time taken to reply; and if he will make a statement. [254972]

Gillian Merron [holding answer 9 February 2009]: This question will be answered shortly. The delay has been caused by an administrative error.

Zimbabwe: Politics and Government

Mr. Sarwar: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the likely effects of the most recent power-sharing agreement between Zanu-PF and the Movement for Democratic Change on the political situation in Zimbabwe. [254516]

Gillian Merron: On 30 January, the Movement for Democratic Change announced the acceptance of the power sharing accord brokered at the Southern African Development Community summit on 26 January. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary issued a statement in response on 30 January, which can be viewed at:

http://www.fco.gov.uk/en/newsroom/latest-news/?view=News&id=13022532

We are cautious about the workability of the agreement. But we have also been clear that it is up to Zimbabweans to decide their own future. Our hope is that the parties can make it work and we will judge the new government on its actions. In common with other members of the international community, we will be looking for the government to demonstrate, through its actions, a commitment to reform. We would expect in the coming weeks to see the release of political prisoners, an immediate end to political violence and intimidation, the repeal of repressive legislation, the appointment of a credible finance team and a clear roadmap to the next national elections. Our formal engagement, including the provision of donor support, will depend on how the new government meets these expectations.

Zimbabwe: Sanctions

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether the Government have imposed sanctions against (a) companies and (b) individuals in Zimbabwe for breaching their international responsibilities. [255739]

Gillian Merron: We (and all EU member states) are signed up to a set of targeted measures against members of Robert Mugabe's regime—asset freezes, travel bans and an arms embargo. The measures are carefully targeted against individuals involved in violence and human rights abuses, and state-owned and other companies that are associated with the regime. EU Foreign Ministers last met on 26 January 2009 and agreed to a rollover of existing targeted measures and added a further 65 names and entities to the list. The current range of EU targeted measures now comprises 203 individuals and 40 entities.

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) how many road fatalities there have been on the A1 in (a) Tyne and Wear and (b) Northumberland in each of the last 10 years; [255754]

(2) how many road accidents there have been on the A1 in (a) Tyne and Wear and (b) Northumberland in each of the last 10 years. [255755]

Paul Clark: The following table contains details of the number of road accidents and fatalities on the A1 in Tyne and Wear and Northumberland for each of the last 10 years.

Accident figures are from Department for Transport Stats 19 data, which records accidents resulting in personal injury that become known to the police within 30 days.

A419

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment he has made of the merits of including funding for the resurfacing of the A419 between Cirencester and Swindon in the funding programme to succeed the Ten Year Plan for Transport. [254700]

Paul Clark: The A419 is managed on behalf of the Highways Agency by Road Management Services (Gloucester) Limited under a private finance concession. Resurfacing is carried out where there is a maintenance or safety need according to agency standards. Currently, the surface of this section of the A419 is in good condition and is not likely to require resurfacing for the foreseeable future.

Departmental Buildings

Greg Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will place in the Library a copy of the (a) display energy certificates and (b) advisory reports for public buildings issued in respect of each property occupied by (i) his Department and (ii) its agencies. [256052]

Mr. Hoon: The Department for Transport will place in the Library a copy of the display energy certificates and their associated advisory reports in respect of each qualifying property occupied by the Department and its agencies.

Departmental Consultants

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many expert advisers, excluding special advisers, have been commissioned by his Department since June 2007; and on which topics they have advised. [254743]

Mr. Hoon: The information requested can be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

[251142]

Mr. Hoon: The number of staff the Department for Transport and its agencies who earned more than (i) £65,000, (ii) £120,000 and (iii) £190,000 in the last 12 months is set out in the following table:

	Number of staff
Earning more than £65,000	315
Earning more than £120,000	23
Earning more than £190,000	0

The number of staff in each category is based on annual salary as at the 2008 pay award. Earnings data in the last 12 months can be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

The number of staff who received a bonus payment in each of the last five years is set out in the following table.

	Number of staff

Departmental Public Appointments

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport which of the public appointments for which his Department is responsible are due to be (a) renewed and (b) filled in the next 24 months; what the (i) remit, (ii) salary, (iii) political restriction, (iv) eligibility requirement and (v) timetable for each appointment is; and what records his Department keeps in respect of such appointments. [254243]

Mr. Hoon: Information on appointments made by the Department for Transport is published in the Department's annual report. More detailed information about individual appointments is set out in the relevant body's annual report. Vacancies may be advertised on the Cabinet Office Public Appointments website at:

The process for making a public appointment, including guidance on political activity and eligibility criteria, follows the Cabinet Office publication "Making and Managing Public Appointments". For appointments regulated by the Commissioner for Public Appointments, the appointments process also complies with the "Code of Practice for Ministerial Appointments to Public Bodies". Copies are in the Libraries of the House.

Departmental Redundancy

Justine Greening: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport with reference to the answer of 26 November 2008, Official Report, column 1571W, on redundancy, what estimate has he made of the annual payroll savings resulting from staff exit schemes in (a) 2005-06, (b) 2006-07, (c) 2007-08 and (d) 2008-09 excluding the cost of severance packages; and what estimate he has made of the equivalent figures for 2009-10. [254473]

Mr. Hoon: The information requested for (a) 2005-06, (b) 2006-07, (c) 2007-08 and (d) 2008-09 can be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

No staff exit schemes are currently planned for 2009-10.

Departmental Standards

Kelvin Hopkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will take steps to standardise annual performance appraisals in his Department and its agencies. [251104]

Mr. Hoon: It is important that the central Department for Transport and its agencies continue to have flexibility to develop and implement performance management arrangements that meet their particular business needs.

Dredging: Thames Estuary

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment he has made of the likely effect of dredging proposals in the Thames Estuary by Peel Ports Medway (Port of Sheerness Ltd) on commercial fishing operations. [255781]

Jim Fitzpatrick [holding answer 10 February 2009]: An assessment will be undertaken if and when the Port submit an application for approval by way of a harbour revision order.

Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency: Personal Records

Mr. Llwyd: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what data are (a) transferred to ANPR International and (b) sold by the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency; and whether individuals may prevent the (i) transfer and (ii) sale of data relating to them. [255648]

Jim Fitzpatrick: ANPR International is part of the Excel Group. The following data are transferred to Excel Parking Services via an electronic link in response to individual inquiries for individual records where the criteria for disclosure is met.

Name and address of vehicle keeper
Make Model Colour
Engine capacity
Taxable weight
Seating capacity
Tax class
Date of expiry of last licence issued.

It should be noted that an electronic link is a means of requesting and receiving information: it is not direct access into the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency's (DVLA) vehicle register. Contracts with private companies set out the exact conditions under which a company may apply for vehicle keeper data.

DVLA does not 'sell' personal information. Regulations allow DVLA to charge a fee for information released under 'reasonable cause' provisions, but do not allow a profit to be made. The fee, currently £2.50, is levied to cover the cost of dealing with requests. This means the applicant and not the taxpayer covers the associated administrative costs.

The law does allow DVLA to sell vehicle data that do not include any information that can identify a specific individual. The following non-personal information is sold to commercial companies under contract:

Anonymised data: These consist of vehicle identifying information e.g. make, mode, colour: They do not however contain the vehicle registration mark or the name and address of the vehicle keeper. These data are used for marketing and statistical purposes.

Bulk data: These are supplied to companies who provide a service to the public and dealerships when the purchase of a vehicle is being considered. Information contains the vehicle registration number and other specifics of the vehicle, but no personal details that would reveal the identity of the vehicle keeper. These data are used to provide vehicle checking services to members of the public/dealers looking to confirm the identity of a vehicle offered for sale.

Information is disclosed where the recipient has demonstrated reasonable cause for receiving those data, and where DVLA considers it both fair and reasonable to make that disclosure.

Individuals have a responsibility to follow road traffic and other rules or regulations when using their vehicle. If individuals were able to opt out of having their data disclosed, they would be able to avoid any sanction or responsibility for any damage or loss caused as a result of that use.

First Capital Connect: Standards

Nadine Dorries: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many peak-time First Capital Connect train services ran to timetable on the Brighton to Bedford line in each year since 2005; and if he will make a statement. [255700]

Paul Clark: The following number of peak-time First Capital Connect services on the Bedford to Brighton route which arrived on time at their destination in each year between 2005 and 2008 is as follows:

	Number
2005	17,895
2006	17,758
2007	17,931
2008	18,998

Nadine Dorries: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many peak-time First Capital Connect train services on the Brighton to Bedford line were cancelled in each year since 2005; and if he will make a statement. [255701]

Paul Clark: The following number of peak-time First Capital Connect services on the Bedford to Brighton route which were cancelled in each year between 2005 and 2008 is as follows:

	Number
2005	544
2006	457
2007	412
2008	344

Nadine Dorries: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many peak-time First Capital Connect train services on the Bedford to Brighton line ran more than three minutes behind timetable in each year since 2005; and if he will make a statement. [255702]

Paul Clark: First Capital Connect services are not measured within three minutes of their timetable arrival time for Public Performance Measure (PPM) purposes. For a First Capital Connect service to meet the Public Performance Measure, it must either arrive at its destination early, right time or within four minutes 59 seconds of its timetabled arrival time.

First Capital Connect peak-time services on the Bedford-Brighton line that arrived more than four minutes 59 seconds behind timetable were:

	Number
2005	4,166
2006	4,072
2007	3,908
2008	2,731

Highways Agency: Pay

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether (a) he, (b) Ministers in his Department and (c) senior managers in his Department (i) gave permission to the Highways Agency to offer and (ii) were informed by the Highways Agency of its intention to offer more favourable terms to its staff at grades 6 and 7 if they opted out of collective bargaining arrangements. [256232]

Mr. Hoon: The Department for Transport was aware that the Highways Agency reward strategy involved changes for Grades 6 and 7. I understand the option for individuals to sign up to new contractual terms was fully discussed with the trade unions. This does not preclude future collective bargaining. It is important that the Highways Agency continues to have flexibility to develop its rewards strategy to meet its particular business needs.

Maritime and Coastguard Agency: South West

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport with reference to the letter of 30 January 2009 from the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State to the hon. Member for Totnes, when he plans to complete his evaluation of the Maritime and Coastguard Agency's review in relation to the southern part of the south west peninsula. [254981]

Jim Fitzpatrick: As I said in my letter of 30 January, the Maritime and Coastguard Agency hope to conclude their discussions with the UK SAR Strategic Committee and its Operators Group by the end of February and will then report back to me. The consultation exercise will commence soon after that.

Motorways: North Yorkshire

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether he plans to undertake motorway widening in Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency. [255013]

Paul Clark: There are no motorways in the Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency, and there are no plans for them in this area.

In the Tees Valley area, there have been three major new local authority roads built or under construction in the last four years:

South Stockton Link (completed 2005);

Darlington Eastern Transport Corridor (completed 2008);

North Middlesbrough Accessibility Improvements (under construction).

In addition we are currently considering a major scheme business case for a series of bus corridor improvements throughout the Tees Valley to improve reliability and journey times on public transport.

Access to the wider region has been improved following the completion of dual carriageways improvements to the A66 west of Scotch Corner, and will be improved further, upon completion of the upgrade to motorway standard, of the A1 between Dishforth and Leeming, which has just begun.

Railways: Electrification

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent discussions he has had with Network Rail on electrifying the main line between Paddington and Plymouth. [254679]

Paul Clark: A cross-industry working group led by Network Rail, and in which the Department for Transport participates, is assessing the case for electrifying a wide range of lines. The group is expected to publish its conclusions at the end of March.

Railways: Franchises

Stephen Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether any rail franchises have been (a) red lighted and (b) put on a watch list by his Department; and what criteria his Department applies in deciding whether to red light a franchise. [256107]

Paul Clark [holding answer 10 February 2009]: The Department for Transport reviews and analyses the operational and financial performance of train operating companies on a regular basis. This is part of its routine monitoring of the contractual arrangements between the Department and its franchise holders. That internal analysis is commercially sensitive and cannot be released.

Railways: South Wales and Cornwall

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will make commission an assessment of the potential for high-speed rail links between (a) London and South Wales and (b) London and Cornwall. [253692]

Paul Clark: The 2007 Rail White Paper noted that a long-term strategy for the railway should look at the options for further increases in capacity where necessary.

There are a limited number of future capacity interventions that will accommodate predicted growth. The new company, "High Speed Two (HS2) Ltd.", will, as a first stage, bring forward proposals for Britain's second new high speed line, between London and the West Midlands, and consider the potential for new lines to serve the North of England and Scotland.

Rescue Services

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what forms the Maritime and Coastguard Agency require to be completed by lifeboat rescue teams before lifeboats can be launched; and if he will make a statement. [254979]

Jim Fitzpatrick: None. The Maritime and Coastguard Agency (MCA) does not operate lifeboats or require the completion of forms by those organisations that do.

Rescue Services: Hope Cove

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the cost to the Maritime and Coastguard Agency of operating the Hope Cove lifeboat service was in the latest year for which figures are available. [254980]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The cost to the Maritime and Coastguard Agency of operating the general purpose boat at Hope Cove was £648 in 2007 and £1390 in 2008.

Roads: Snow and Ice

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent estimate he has made of the adequacy of supplies of salt and grit for use on the non-trunk road network; and what steps he plans to take to ensure that supplies are adequate. [255554]

Paul Clark [holding answer 9 February 2009]: The Government are working with local authorities and the Highways Agency to minimise the risk to public safety during this period of exceptional weather. We are collating information on current stocks in order to ensure effective distribution of available salt supplies and prioritise deliveries to those authorities most in need.

Transport: Snow and Ice

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what (a) studies and (b) modelling his Department has undertaken into the impact of extreme weather on the transport infrastructure. [255903]

Mr. Hoon: Specific modelling of the impacts of extreme weather scenarios across the transport network is carried out by the transport owners and operators such as Network Rail and Local Highways Authorities. DfT contributes guidance and support wherever possible through, for example, publications such as 'Maintaining Pavements: A Changing Climate' and 'Sustainable Roads' and the Highways Agency's strategy for the strategic road network.

The Highway's Agency has devised a strategy for adapting the strategic road network to a changing climate. The Highways Agency also has a 'severe weather group' which delivers an annual programme of areas for improvement and research including the implementation of the National Severe Weather Warning System

A DfT study on 'the changing climate: its impact on the Department for Transport' identified potential impacts on the transport system from extreme weather events. Further details are available from the Department's website at:

www.dft.gov.uk/pgr/scienceresearch/key/thechangingclimateitsimpacto1909

Wrexham-Bidston Railway Line

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether Network Rail has submitted to his Department an estimate for the (a) electrification and (b) upgrade of the Bidston to Wrexham line. [256270]

Paul Clark: The Department for Transport is aware of the two independent cost estimates to electrify the Bidston to Wrexham line undertaken for Merseytravel and other stakeholders in 2005, and the more detailed estimate including provision of three new stations produced by Network Rail in 2008. However, this is primarily a matter for Merseytravel and the Welsh Assembly Government as co-funders of the recent Network Rail investigation.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Bloody Sunday Tribunal of Inquiry

Mr. Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what his most recent estimate is of the final cost of the Saville Inquiry. [248841]

Mr. Woodward: The inquiry's most recent estimate of the final cost is £190 million. This incorporates a reduction of approximately 20 per cent. of the inquiry's remaining budget, due to a number of additional measures which have been agreed with the inquiry to minimise the remaining costs.

Consultative Group on the Past

Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the cost to his Department was of the Report of the Consultative Group on the Past. [255285]

Mr. Woodward: The total cost of the work of the Consultative Group on the Past is expected to be £1,251,055.

The group was established on 22 June 2007 and the group's report was launched on 28 January 2009. The total costs of the group's work can be broken down as follows:

Cost type	Amount (£)
Remuneration (on a per diem basis) for the eight Group Members	548,440
Remuneration (on a per diem basis) for the two International Advisers and one Legal Adviser	60,157
Salary costs of the Secretariat—five members of staff	256,882
All other non-staff costs including—office facilities, equipment, printing and launch of the report, cost of public meetings	385,576

Departmental Pensions

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what steps his Department is taking to advise staff of pension options available to them in relation to added years or additional voluntary contributions. [253261]

Paul Goggins: New entrants to the Civil Service are provided with a new entrant pension starter pack; this explains that new entrants have the option of requesting information on increasing their pension benefits.

The pensions websites provides both new and current members with specific downloadable leaflets on added pension (added pension replaced added years provisions on 1 March 2008) and the Civil Service additional voluntary contributions scheme.

In the event of changes to, or the introduction of new provisions to increase pension benefits, notification is issued via office notices which are provided to Personnel Departments to distribute to all staff.

Economic Situation

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what recent discussions his Department has had with outside organisations to discuss policy on reducing the effect of the recession on matters within his Department's responsibility. [254061]

Mr. Woodward: The Northern Ireland Office regularly engages with outside organisations, including relevant Departments in Whitehall and Northern Ireland, on a range of issues relating to the economy.

Explosives

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many people were convicted of explosive-related crimes in Northern Ireland in the last 12 months. [254937]

Paul Goggins: In 2006 (the latest year for which data are available), six persons were convicted of explosive-related crimes in Northern Ireland.

Data are collated on the principal offence rule; so only the most serious offence with which an offender is charged is included.

Firearms: Crime

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many people were convicted of gun-related crimes in Northern Ireland in the last 12 months. [254940]

Paul Goggins: The information is not available in the format requested. Court conviction data do not contain background information in relation to offences committed so it is not possible to separately identify the number of convictions for offences such as murder in which a gun was involved. It is only possible to provide conviction statistics for those offences which, in their definition, refer to gun-related offences as specified by firearms legislation.

In 2006 (the latest year for which data are available), there were 56 such convictions.

Data are collated on the principal offence rule; so only the most serious offence with which an offender is charged is included.

Graffiti

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many people were convicted of crimes relating to graffiti in Northern Ireland in the last 12 months. [254936]

Paul Goggins: At present, there are no crimes that relate specifically to graffiti in Northern Ireland. Offences involving graffiti are normally charged under criminal damage, but court databases do not allow us to disaggregate the number of criminal damage offences that involved graffiti.

Theft

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many incidents of burglary from (a) domestic and (b) commercial premises were recorded in each district command unit area in Northern Ireland in each of the last 12 months. [255448]

Paul Goggins: That is an operational matter for the Chief Constable. I have asked him to reply directly to the hon. member, and a copy of his letter will be placed in the Library of the House.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Agriculture: Carbon Emissions

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what policies his Department has to achieve carbon dioxide emissions reductions in the agricultural sector. [255168]

Jane Kennedy: The Government are currently developing a policy framework to reduce all greenhouse gases (GHG) including carbon dioxide from the agriculture, forestry and land management sectors.

This work will feed into the Government's response to recommendations made in the Committee on Climate Change's inaugural report.

Agriculture: EU Law

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will hold discussions with his EU counterparts on the consistent application of EU legislation on agriculture across all member states. [254677]

Jane Kennedy: The Secretary of State and other DEFRA Ministers hold regular discussions with our EU counterparts and the Commission on a wide range of subjects, including the application of agricultural legislation across the Community.

Agriculture: Subsidies

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent steps the Government has taken to ensure that producers of agricultural goods receive a fair price for their goods. [253824]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 3 February 2009]: Government believe that the setting of the price of agricultural goods is a commercial matter to be resolved by private negotiation, which should take place within the parameters set by competition law. The market must determine prices.

The Government are monitoring the effects of the current economic climate on food supply chain businesses in the UK to assess whether price reductions are passed down to consumers, with farmers also receiving fair prices, and will continue to bring public pressure to bear where appropriate. The Government have also urged large companies in the food supply chain to pay their suppliers promptly.

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 27 January 2009, Official Report, column 316W, on agriculture: subsidies, how much was given to each of the 10 claimants. [254570]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 5 February 2009]: The following table lists the 10 individuals and/or organisations that received the highest subsidies available under all schemes under the common agricultural policy for the European financial year 2008, which runs from 16 October 2007 to 15 October 2008.

Willie Rennie: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) how many claims were made for investment aid for young farmers under the Rural Development Fund in each of the last three years; [254827]

(2) what funding was allocated for young farmers under the Rural Development Fund in each of the last three years. [254828]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The measure which provides for support for setting up of young farmers is not being implemented in the Rural Development Programme for England.

Rural development funding is a devolved issue. Questions about the Scotland Rural Development Programme should be directed to the Scottish Government.

Willie Rennie: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 27 January 2009, Official Report, column 316W, on agriculture: subsidies, under which common agricultural policy schemes payments were made to each listed recipient. [254829]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 9 February 2009]: The information requested is shown in the following table:

Claimant	Scheme
KG Growers Ltd.	Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Aid Scheme
G's Growers Ltd.	Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Aid Scheme
Farmcare Ltd.	Single Payment Scheme, Countryside Stewardship Scheme, Environmental Stewardship Scheme
The Berryworld Producer Organisation	Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Aid Scheme

Blankney Estates Ltd	Single Payment Scheme, Environmental Stewardship Scheme, Countryside Stewardship Scheme
Fruition Producer Organisation Ltd.	Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Aid Scheme

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what expenditure is funded under EU budget line 05 02 08 11, Aid to Producer Groups for Preliminary Recognition; and which UK bodies have been granted an award under this budget line from the 2008 budget. [256101]

Jane Kennedy: Funding, which is co-financed by the member state, is available to Producer Groups in order to encourage greater co-operation in the fresh fruit and vegetables sector and to help such groups to attain, during a transitional period, the full recognition criteria for the Producer Organisation scheme which attracts a higher level of funding. Aid is given to Producer Groups to help facilitate their administrative operations and for capital investments such as shared harvesting equipment or storage/packing facilities.

No UK bodies have been granted aid under this budget line in 2008 as the scheme is only applicable to Producer Groups in the member states which acceded the European Union on or after 1 May 2004.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which UK (a) projects and (b) programmes have been funded under EU budget line 05 02 04 01, Programmes for Deprived Persons in 2008; what percentage of each programme's funding was funded from the EU budget; and if he will make a statement. [256102]

Jane Kennedy: The UK has not participated in the EU Programme for Deprived Persons (Food for the Needy Scheme) since 1998. The UK Government decided collectively to cease their participation in the scheme because of the generally low levels of intervention stocks and because there was a lack of interest in the scheme, primarily due to the bureaucratic procedures that apply in order to reduce the risk of fraud. In short, the Government concluded that the Scheme did not represent good value for money.

Bovine Tuberculosis

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate he has made of the effects of bovine tuberculosis on (a) income and (b) employment in the farming sector; and if he will make a statement. [251236]

Jane Kennedy: No specific estimates of the effects of bovine Tuberculosis (bTB) on income and employment in the farming sector have been made. However, the impact of bTB on the farming sector is of concern to the Government and DEFRA has funded a project to investigate the longer-term effects of a bTB breakdown on farm businesses. This work includes looking at income and employment. The final report will be published on the DEFRA website once peer review is complete.

Bovine Tuberculosis: Disease Control

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps his Department is taking to reduce the number of cases of bovine tuberculosis in the South West. [253930]

Jane Kennedy: We have in place a range of cattle measures to reduce the spread and incidence of disease, not just in the south-west but across the whole country.

DEFRA's testing and slaughter policy has been in place for a number of years and significant steps have been taken to supplement this including: introduction of a zero tolerance regime for overdue tests; changes to the compensation system; pre-movement tests for cattle moving from high risk herds; and the extension of the use of the gamma interferon test; as well as encouraging good husbandry practice.

We are also actively pursuing the future use of vaccination of cattle and wildlife as a means of tackling bovine TB, alongside our current control measures.

We recognise that bovine tuberculosis is a serious disease and we are committed to tackling this.

Departmental Foreign Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many (a) EU foreign nationals and (b) non-EU foreign nationals are employed by his Department. [256210]

Huw Irranca-Davies: Although information on the nationality of candidates is collected as part of the recruitment process, the nationality of members of staff is not held electronically and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Manpower

Linda Gilroy: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many people his Department employs. [255685]

Huw Irranca-Davies: Each quarter the Office for National Statistics provides information on the number of people employed by Government Departments. The latest published Quarterly Public Sector Employment Survey statistics are for 30 September 2008, and are available at:

http://www.statistics.gov.uk/downloads/theme_labour/Table6AllDepts.xls

The statistics for DEFRA predate the creation of DECC on 3 October 2008, when approximately 340 people transferred out of the Department.

Departmental Public Appointments

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which of the public appointments for which his Department is responsible are due to be (a) renewed and (b) filled in the next 24 months; what the (i) remit, (ii) salary, (iii) political restriction, (iv) eligibility requirement and (v) timetable for each appointment is; and what records his Department keeps in respect of such appointments. [254237]

Huw Irranca-Davies: At this point my officials have been advised that the following DEFRA delivery network bodies will require new appointments to be made in the coming year:

The Advisory Committee on Releases to the Environment will be seeking to recruit four new members

Inland Waterways will be seeking to appoint three to four new members

The Royal Botanical Gardens Kew will be seeking to appoint a new chair and two new members

The Royal Commission on Environmental Pollution will be seeking to appoint two new members

The Veterinary Products Committee (VPC) will also be seeking a new chair and five new members. Recruitment for 19 VPC members is currently under way. The details of this campaign and four others which are also in train are available on DEFRA's website at:

http://defra/corporate/appointments/index.htm

The remit, salary, political restrictions, eligibility requirements and timetable for these posts will be agreed prior to recruitment campaigns starting. These posts will be subject to the requirements of the OCPA regulatory regime.

In addition Natural England, the Joint Nature Conservancy Council and the Sustainable Development Commission will all be seeking to recruit new members in the forthcoming year but numbers and roles have not yet been confirmed.

Further information on appointments made by DEFRA is published in the Department's annual report:

http://www.defra.gov.uk/corporate/deprep/2008/index.htm

More detailed information about individual appointments is set out in the relevant body's annual report. Vacancies may be advertised on the Cabinet Office Public Appointments website at:

www.publicappointments.gov.uk

The process for making a public appointment, including guidance on political activity and eligibility criteria, follows the Cabinet Office publication "Making and Managing Public Appointments". For appointments regulated by the Commissioner for Public Appointments, the appointments process also complies with the "Code of Practice for Ministerial Appointments to Public Bodies". Copies are in the Libraries of the House.

Domestic Waste

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether he has set targets for the reduction of household waste through home composting. [252327]

Jane Kennedy: Local authorities in England no longer have centrally imposed statutory targets on recycling and composting. This is consistent with Government policy to give local areas more freedom and flexibility on how they deliver national objectives.

However 85 per cent. of local authorities have chosen at least one of the three waste reduction indicators as a local priority for the new local government performance framework.

Domestic Waste: Waste Disposal

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether waste collection authorities are indemnified for making household waste collections on private roads. [252325]

Jane Kennedy: Section 46(5)(b) of the Environmental Protection Act 1990 (EPA) requires waste collection authorities to ensure that arrangements have been made as to liability for any damage arising out of receptacles being placed on a highway.

It is for the local authority concerned to ensure it is properly covered in all circumstances.

Fisheries: Western Sahara

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 13 January 2009, Official Report, column 5[illegible]8W, on Western Sahara: fisheries, what plans there are for UK-registered fishing vessels to fish in waters of the Western Sahara in the next 12 months. [255452]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The UK has two vessels operating in Moroccan waters under the EU/Morocco Fisheries Agreement. They have fished in the waters of Western Sahara in previous years and it is likely that they will do so again during the course of 2009.

Food

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what proportion of the food consumed in the UK in each of the last three years was (a) produced domestically and (b) imported; [254074]

(2) what proportion of the (a) fruit and (b) vegetables sold by domestic retailers was produced in the UK in each of the last three years. [254075]

Jane Kennedy: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given to the hon. Member for Westmorland and Lonsdale (Tim Farron) on 26 January 2009, Official Report, column 47W.

Food: Waste Disposal

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what national targets his Department has for the reduction of levels of food waste; and if he will make a statement. [253621]

Jane Kennedy: The Waste and Resources Action Programme (WRAP) have not only achieved their aim to reduce household food waste by 100,000 tonnes by March 2008, but exceeded it by 10,000 tonnes. Since then the campaign 'Love Food Hate Waste' has helped consumers save a further 27,000 tonnes. WRAP, and their partners across the entire grocery sector, have also recently agreed to a new target to reduce UK household food waste by a further 155,000 tonnes by 2010.

DEFRA is also working closely with the food industry to improve its environmental impact through the Food Industry Sustainability Strategy (FISS). The FISS targets a reduction in the food industry's own waste of 15-20 per cent. by 2010.

Incinerators: EC Law

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he expects the EU Waste Incineration Directive to be fully implemented in the UK. [254410]

Jane Kennedy: The Waste Incineration Directive (2000/76/EC) was implemented through regulations and directions made in 2002.

Joint Waste Authorities

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether joint waste authorities will be limited companies in their own right. [252385]

Jane Kennedy: Joint waste authorities will be statutory bodies, established by Order of the Secretary of State.

Land Use

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what his policy is on (a) proposals to increase the amount of land currently farmed for crops being set aside and (b) proposals for the location of such land within (i) farm holdings and (ii) individual fields. [253808]

Jane Kennedy: Our policy is to encourage farmers to produce for the market whilst at the same time reducing negative impact on the environment.

We expect to be in a position to consult on possible measures mitigating against the impact of the loss of set-aside, including options for farmers, later in the year.

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent assessment he has made of the effect of the set-aside mitigation measures in cross-compliance on the farming industry. [253945]

Jane Kennedy: The Secretary of State asked Sir Don Curry to bring together stakeholders to consider the impact of the loss of set-aside including investigating mitigation. Sir Don reported in July and subsequently we have been considering the details of how mitigation might be put into practice. We expect to be in a position to consult on possible mitigation measures later in the year along with a consultation stage impact assessment which I will arrange to be laid in the Library of the House.

Landfill Allowance Trading Scheme

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment has been made of the effect of the Landfill Allowance Trading Scheme on local authority provision of trade waste collections. [252620]

Jane Kennedy: No formal assessment has been made of the effect of LATS on local authorities' provision of trade waste collections.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent assessment he has made of the effect of the Landfill Allowance Trading Scheme on levels of (a) collection and (b) disposal of trade waste; for what reasons the scheme does not apply to private contractors operating on landfill sites; and if he will make a statement. [254987]

Jane Kennedy: No formal assessment has been made of the effect of LATS on local authorities' provision of trade waste collection and disposal.

The Landfill Directive sets targets for the diversion from landfill of biodegradable municipal waste. The main purpose of the LATS is to fulfil these requirements. The focus of the scheme is on local authorities rather then private contractors, primarily waste disposal authorities, as they are responsible for the disposal of municipal waste.

Litter

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs with reference to the answer of 24 November 2008, Official Report, columns 848W, on littering: young offenders, if he will place in the Library a copy of the Environment Agency's enforcement and prosecution policy and functional guidance. [252204]

Jane Kennedy: A copy of the Environment Agency's enforcement and prosecution policy and functional guidance will be placed in the Library of the House.

Pigmeat

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent discussions he has had with food retailers on the labelling of pork products with information on the countries of origin and rearing of the pigs concerned. [255360]

Jane Kennedy: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State and I met with representatives of supermarkets and the British Retail Consortium last month to discuss how origin labelling for meat and meat products could be improved so that consumers could make an informed choice when buying these products.

Pollution: Greater London

Mr. Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he or Ministers from his Department last met the Mayor of London to discuss air quality and the western extension of the congestion charging zone. [255491]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The Minister for Sustainable Development and Energy Innovation, Lord Hunt, met the Mayor of London on 22 January 2009. At this meeting they discussed air quality in London and arrangements to work together to improve air quality.

Mr. Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which stretches of London's roads are expected to breach EU air quality legislation on particulate matter in 2011; and if he will make a statement. [255492]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The consultation documents published on 29 January on the UK's draft notification to the European Commission on the additional time available to meet the limit value for particulate matter in certain areas, explain that existing measures, and those in development, are expected to ensure compliance with the limit values for particulate matter across all of Greater London by 2011. Copies of the consultation documents can be found on the DEFRA website:

www.defra.gov.uk/corporate/consult/air_quality/index.htm.

The Government and the Mayor of London are committed to working together to ensure the UK will meet the limit values for particulate matter by 2011.

Recycling

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the use of recycling credits as a means of assisting local authorities to reach their targets on recycling; and if he will extend the scheme to include trade and other industrial waste. [254986]

Jane Kennedy: No such assessment has been made. There are no plans to extend the scheme to include trade and other industrial waste.

Renewable Energy: Public Consultation

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what public consultation he has undertaken on energy from waste options. [254404]

Jane Kennedy: The Government undertook a public consultation on the review of England's waste strategy, which examined energy from waste options, on 14 February 2006. The consultation closed on 9 May 2006 and its findings informed the Government's revised waste strategy document, 'Waste Strategy for England 2007'.

Sea Level

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what his most recent estimate is of the rise in sea level around the UK between 2009 and 2020. [256154]

Huw Irranca-Davies [holding answer 10 February 2009]: The most recent projections of sea level rise around the UK for 2020 come from a 2006 update to the UK Climate Impacts Programme UKCIP02 climate change scenarios published in 2002. These figures give sea level rise projections for the 2020s of 0-19 cm (relative to the 1961-90 average) depending on region and emissions scenario. The information can be viewed at:

www.ukcip.org.uk/
index.php?option=com_content&task=view&id=87&Itemid=300.

Updated sea level rise figures will be available from the upcoming UK Climate Projections (UKCP09) due for release in spring 2009.

The Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs' Flood Management Programme has also published guidance (in 2006) on climate change impacts for decision making and adaptation purposes in flood and coastal erosion risk management. This guidance can be accessed at:

www.defra.gov.uk/environ/fcd/pubs/pagn/
climatechangeupdate.pdf.

Sheep: Electronic Tagging

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what recent assessment he has made of the cost to farmers of compliance with the new measures for electronic identification of sheep; [253946]

(2) what assessment he has made of the effect of the new measures for electronic identification of sheep on the sustainability of the farming industry; and if he will make a statement. [253947]

Jane Kennedy: A regulatory impact assessment has been produced for England, a copy of which is available on the DEFRA website. An updated version to take account of changes to Council Regulation 21/2004 that were negotiated over the summer and more detailed implementation options will accompany the consultation that is planned for the spring.

Electronic identification of sheep is an EU requirement, but the administration and implementation of it is an issue for devolved administrations.

Slaughterhouses: Regulation

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what plans he has to discuss the regulation of the slaughter of farm animals with his EU counterparts. [255536]

Jane Kennedy: There are no plans to discuss the proposed regulation on the welfare of animals at the time of killing with EU Ministerial counterparts. Detailed discussions involving the UK and all other member states are currently taking place in a series of Council working group meetings. These provide an opportunity for the UK to comment and to discuss issues with other member states. The proposal will also be discussed at the Council of Ministers once an agreed text has been finalised.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will take steps to ensure that the derogation on the ritual slaughter of farm animals for human consumption will continue in any revision of EU Directive 93/119. [255537]

Jane Kennedy: The Government would prefer to see all animals stunned before they are killed. However we do recognise the rights of religious communities to eat meat killed in accordance with their religious beliefs.

The European Commission has published a proposal for a regulation on the welfare of animals at the time of killing. If agreed, this will be directly applicable in every member state and will replace EU Directive 93/119 and all national legislation implementing it. The current Commission proposal includes a derogation allowing animals to be killed in accordance with religious rites without prior stunning. However the proposal gives individual member states the right to decide not to apply that derogation if they so wish.

We believe it is important to ensure member states retain the ability to determine this issue. We will therefore be seeking to ensure member state discretion on this point is retained in the final regulation. We will pursue this point in ongoing negotiations and when the proposal is discussed in Council.

Supermarkets

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many times officials from his Department have met representatives from (a) Tesco, (b) Sainsbury's, (c) Morrisons and (d) Asda to discuss the introduction of a supermarket Ombudsman in the last 24 months. [254568]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 5 February 2009]: The Competition Commission is seeking undertakings from the grocery retailers covered by the new groceries supply code of practice to establish an ombudsman to monitor and enforce compliance.

The creation of an ombudsman currently remains with the CC. No formal recommendation has been made to the Government.

Until the proposal has been returned to the Government it is not appropriate for officials to comment on it, and accordingly, DEFRA officials have not discussed it.

On the understanding that DEFRA could not comment, a representative of Sainsbury's has given a presentation to DEFRA officials on its view of the proposals. On the same basis other interested parties from outside the four large supermarkets have also provided DEFRA with their views on the proposal.

Waste and Resources Action Programme: Finance

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much funding his Department provided for the Waste and Resources Action Programme in each of the last nine years. [253622]

Jane Kennedy: DEFRA'S funding to WRAP in each of the last nine years was as follows:

	Amount of funding (£ million)
2000-02	[1]6.326
2002-03	10.473
2003-04	24.050
2004-05	45.708
2005-06	68.200
2006-07	57.928
2007-08	58.830
2008-09	[2]43.384
Total funding	314.899

[1] No accounts were drawn up for the year 2000-01. First Accounts were drawn up for the period from WRAP'S incorporation on 1 December 2000 to 31 March 2002.

[2] This is the latest budget for the current financial year.

Waste Disposal

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what responsibilities for (a) street cleaning, (b) abandoned cars, (c) fly-posting removal and enforcement and (d) public conveniences the joint waste authorities will have; and what powers they will have in respect of those responsibilities. [252383]

Jane Kennedy: Section 205(8) of the Local Government and Public Involvement in Health Act 2007 sets out the waste functions which may be transferred from the relevant authorities to a joint waste authority. These are functions conferred on a local authority by or under:

(a) Part 2 of the Environmental Protection Act 1990 (c.43) (waste on land)—includes waste disposal and/or waste collection functions;

(b) Part 4 of the Environmental Protection Act 1990 (c.43) (litter etc)—includes street cleansing;

(c) Section 32 of the Waste and Emissions Trading Act 2003 (c.33) (joint municipal waste management strategies)—duty to produce a joint municipal waste management strategy.

Some or all of these individual waste functions may be transferred to a joint waste authority. However, once determined by the partners involved, the whole of each waste function must be transferred to the joint waste authority, so that the new joint waste authority will be an operational body. The relevant enforcement functions will also transfer.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the (a) effect of producer responsibility packaging regulations on methods of collection of glass from commercial premises and (b) adequacy of the compliance schemes established under the regulations; and how many such schemes (i) are operational and (ii) have been discontinued. [254988]

Jane Kennedy: The information is as follows:

(a) DEFRA has made no assessment of the impact of the packaging regulations on methods of glass collection from commercial premises.

(b) The compliance scheme system established under the packaging regulations has allowed the UK, and UK businesses, to achieve compliance with EU recovery and recycling targets.

(i) There were 36 packaging compliance schemes registered in the UK in 2008.

(ii) Since 1998 the Environment Agencies have de-registered two compliance schemes for non-compliance with the regulations. However non-compliance was the result of administrative failures and not owing to the schemes failing to satisfy their members' legal obligations.

Waste Disposal: Fees and Charges

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment his Department's National Fly-tipping Prevention Group has made of the effects on the incidence of fly-tipping of charges for the collection of household waste. [252321]

Jane Kennedy: Members of the National Fly-tipping Prevention Group attend meetings on a quarterly basis. Issues relating to charging for collection of household waste have not been formally raised as an agenda item and therefore have not been discussed.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which local authorities have expressed an interest in levying charges for the collection of household waste; and how many such expressions were made by (a) elected councillors and (b) council staff. [253641]

Jane Kennedy: I refer the hon. Member to the written statement I made on Household Waste Incentives on 22 January 2009, Official Report, column 40WS.

Property Development: Rural Areas

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent steps the Government has taken to address the over-development of rural communities. [253827]

Mr. Iain Wright: I have been asked to reply.

The Government are committed to addressing the housing, employment and social needs of rural communities in ways that are sustainable and compatible with the protection of the countryside. Our advice to local planning authorities about development in rural areas is set out in Planning Policy Guidance Note 2, "Green Belts" (PPG2), Planning Policy Statement 3, "Housing" (PPS3) and Planning Policy Statement 7, "Sustainable Development in Rural Areas" (PPS7). For example, a key principle of PPS7 is that new building development in the open countryside away from existing settlements, or outside areas allocated for development in the local plan, should be strictly controlled.

We set up the Affordable Rural Housing Commission in summer 2005 to look into the availability of affordable housing in rural areas. Following publication of the Commission's report in May 2006, we have responded positively to the majority of their (over 100) recommendations where they were directed at Communities and Local Government. Many of the recommendations are embodied in Planning Policy Statement 3, "Housing" (PPS3).

Published in November 2006, PPS3 highlights the need to provide market and affordable housing in all areas, including rural areas. The delivery of housing in rural areas should respect the key principles underpinning PPS3 of providing high quality housing that contributes to the creation and maintenance of sustainable rural communities in market towns and villages. New housing, particularly in the examples of very small villages and hamlets, would need to be carefully considered and managed so as not to have adverse impacts on those areas which would actually undermine sustainable development objectives.

We also invited the hon. Member for Truro and St. Austell (Matthew Taylor) to carry out an independent review of economics and affordable housing provision in the countryside. His report, Living Working Countryside, came out in July 2008, and its recommendations are being given thorough consideration; we will publish our response shortly.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Sport England: Sports Council Trust

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what estimate he has made of the monetary value of Sport England's share in the Sports Council Trust Company. [254787]

Mr. Sutcliffe: I have been asked to reply.

The accounts of the Sports Council Trust Company are consolidated within those for Sport England and I am content with the auditor's assessment for 2007-08.

HOUSE OF COMMONS COMMISSION

Disabled Staff

Lembit Öpik: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission how many people the House of Commons employs who are registered disabled; what proportion of all staff in the House of Commons Service they represent; and if he will make a statement. [256230]

Nick Harvey: The introduction of the Disability Discrimination Act in 1995 meant that most organisations ceased to automatically request staff to register any disabilities they might have and the House Service adopted this as best practice.

However, following information-gathering exercises carried out since December 2007, 78 employees have declared that they have a disability. This amounts to 3.9 per cent. of all employees.

The Equality Scheme for the House will be presented to the Commission in March and, if approved, will then be put onto the parliamentary website for public consultation. Specific training on disability awareness and etiquette is now available for all staff and a booklet on managing staff with a disability is being issued to all line managers.

Parking

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission pursuant to the Answer of 21 April 2008, Official Report, columns 1343-4W, on parking, whether the rate of air change in the underground car park was changed to its original level by 21 April 2008; whether the rate of air change is currently at its planned level; and whether a major refurbishment of the ventilation system is planned for 2010-11. [255018]

Nick Harvey: The rate of air change in the underground car park was changed to its original level by 21 April 2008. The rate of air change is currently at its planned level. Major refurbishment of the ventilation system is included in the works programme for 2010-12.

Work Experience

Dr. Kumar: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission what arrangements there are for people to undertake internships in the House service. [254902]

Nick Harvey: The House service currently provides a number of opportunities for people to undertake internships.

The Scrutiny Unit, in the Department of Chamber and Committee Services, has three Economic and Social Research Council (ESRC) interns a year, each spending three months with the unit. It has also for the first time this year taken on two interns from the London School of Economics who will be with the unit for six months. For the last two years the Joint Committee on Human Rights has had a scholar (effectively an intern) who has come on recommendation from the Hansard Society. Each placement lasts approximately three months.

The Parliamentary Office of Science and Technology runs formal fellowship schemes with scientific societies and research councils, whereby students registered for a PhD in UK universities can spend three months working at POST through an extension of their maintenance grants. The number of students taken varies year on year between 12 and 16. POST has started placing some of these students with select committees.

The Department of Information Services takes on PhD students, funded by the ESRC, to work as interns in the International Affairs and Defence Section (IADS) and the Parliament and Constitution Centre. Two students per year have been taken, each for three-month placements.

In addition to internships, the House service also provides opportunities for sandwich students, apprenticeships, work experience placements and placements for people with learning difficulties.

SCOTLAND

Departmental Buildings

Greg Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland if he will place in the Library a copy of the (a) display energy certificates and (b) advisory reports for public buildings issued in respect of each property occupied by his Department. [256055]

Ann McKechin: I have placed in the Library a copy of the display energy certificate and associated advisory report in respect of the only property occupied by my Department in England and Wales.

Departmental Foreign Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how many (a) EU foreign nationals and (b) non-EU foreign nationals are employed by his Department. [256201]

Ann McKechin: All staff in the Scotland Office are on secondment from the Scottish Executive or the Ministry of Justice; who remain their employers. It is the responsibility of these Departments to provide details of EU foreign nationals and non EU foreign nationals employed.

Departmental Impact Assessments

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how many equalities impact assessments his Department has undertaken in the last 12 month period for which figures are available; and what estimate he has made of the cost to the public purse of such assessments. [255066]

Ann McKechin: No equality impact assessments have been undertaken in the last 12 months.

Departmental Lobbying

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland whether Ministers in his Department received representations from (a) Lord Moonie, (b) Lord Taylor of Blackburn, (c) Lord Snape and (d) Lord Truscott in the last seven months. [255239]

Ann McKechin: The Scotland Office has not received any representations as described in the question.

Departmental Pensions

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what steps his Department is taking to advise staff of pension options available to them in relation to added years or additional voluntary contributions. [253257]

Ann McKechin: Members of the Principal Civil Service Pension Scheme receive an annual benefit statement showing the pension built up to date, and also a projection of their pension on retirement if they continue in service to scheme pension age. The benefit statement prompts the member to consider boosting their pension and provides details of the Civil Service pensions website where staff can obtain further information, including options for making additional voluntary contributions and a calculator to work out costs for added pension (previously added years).

New entrants are informed of pension options in the employment offer and are provided with a pension information pack.

Cabinet Office provides leaflets that explain added pension and additional voluntary contributions for members. The information is also available in scheme booklets. These are available on the Civil Service Pensions website or on request from the member's pensions administrator.

All staff in the Scotland Office are on secondment from the Scottish Executive or the Ministry of Justice and remain on the payroll of their parent Department. Information on pension options available to staff, including added pension and additional voluntary contributions, are available on the parent Department's Intranet sites, to which all staff have access.

Iceland

Mr. MacNeil: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what the purpose of his visit to Iceland in November 2008 was; how much the visit cost in each category of expenditure; what meetings he attended; what matters were discussed; and how many officials from (a) the Scotland Office and (b) other Government departments accompanied him. [251291]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The purpose of the visit was to discuss the impact of the failure of Icelandic banks on individuals, local authorities and other bodies in Scotland. The cost of travel and accommodation was £3,997.16. I met with the Prime Minister and with the Deputy Foreign Minister of Iceland, and with the Norwegian Foreign Minister. I also visited a geothermal power station. I was accompanied by three departmental staff. All ministerial travel was undertaken in accordance with the Ministerial Code.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Apprentices

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department with reference to the answer of 11 June 2008, Official Report, column 332W, on apprentices, what progress her Department has made towards meeting its share of the Government's commitment to employ over 1,000 apprentices in central Government Departments and agencies in 2008-09. [256281]

Mr. Woolas: Government Skills are preparing a response which will include data for a number of Departments, including the Home Office.

Asylum

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what progress is being made in clearing the backlog of undetermined immigration legacy cases; by what date she expects all such cases to have been determined; and if she will make a statement. [254676]

Mr. Woolas: As of 9 January the UK Border Agency concluded 155,500 legacy cases. The Agency is aiming to conclude these cases by summer 2011.

Kerry McCarthy: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what guidance the UK Border Agency has issued to the police on reporting requirements for unsuccessful asylum seekers and their dependent children. [255610]

Mr. Woolas: Instructions to the police on reporting requirements for unsuccessful asylum claimants are the same as for asylum seekers whose claims are still being considered and for all of those who are liable to detention and who are subject to temporary admission.

For all individuals who are required to report to police stations, UKBA issues a form instructing the police that the individual will start reporting, and to inform the UKBA office commissioning the reporting events if the individual fails to report. UKBA also prescribes the frequency with which each individual should report.

Children under the age of 17 are not normally required to report on a regular basis, but may be required to attend on some occasions, as part of the strategy for keeping in touch.

Asylum: Zimbabwe

Simon Hughes: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what consideration she has given to changing the criteria applied to Zimbabwean nations seeking asylum in the UK. [255560]

Mr. Woolas [holding answer 10 February 2009]: All asylum and human rights claims are considered on their individual merits in accordance with our obligations under the refugee convention and the European convention on human rights. Decisions take account of the individual facts of the case, up-to-date objective country information and any relevant case law.

The "Operational Guidance Note" providing policy advice for case owners considering asylum claims from Zimbabweans was last updated on 1 December 2008 and is kept under continual review.

British Nationality: Northern Ireland

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many applications for British naturalisation there were from people resident in Northern Ireland in 2007; and how many were successful. [253275]

Mr. Woolas: There were 485 naturalisation applications from people who submitted their applications to the Northern Ireland Local Authority in 2007. Of this number received, 450 have been approved.

The information has been provided from local management information and is not a national statistic. As such, it should be treated as provisional and therefore subject to change.

China

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the cost of the security operation for the visit to the UK of the Chinese Prime Minister was; and if she will make a statement. [254574]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 9 February 2009]: This information is not held centrally. The cost of the security operations for the visit to the UK of the Chinese Premier, Wen Jiabao, is a matter for the Metropolitan Police Commissioner and the Metropolitan Police Authority and for the chief constable and police authority for each of the other forces involved in the visit.

Crime Prevention

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what data her Department hold on the performance of Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnerships. [254480]

Jacqui Smith: We do not have a rolling programme for collecting data on the performance of Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnerships (CDRPs). Following a review of the partnerships provisions of the Crime and Disorder 1998 Act, the duties on CDRPs to produce three yearly audits and to report annually to the Secretary of State on a partnership's work and progress were repealed in 2007. They were replaced by new statutory requirements in 2007 to introduce minimum standards for partnership working based on six Hallmarks of Effective Partnerships. These include a duty on CDRPs to produce a strategic assessment identifying local community safety priorities and a partnership plan which sets out the approach for addressing these priorities.

Crime: Statistics

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the Answer of 21 January 2009, Official Report, columns 1483-86W, on crime: statistics, whether the National Policing Improvement Agency categorises data it collects on incidents of anti-social behaviour by type. [254338]

Jacqui Smith: The National Incident Category List (NICL) sets out an agreed framework for the recording of incidents that do not amount to notifiable crime. NICL sits within the National Standard for Incident Recording. NICL provides national definitions for a range of incident types, including those amounting to antisocial behaviour.

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the Answer of 21 January 2009, Official Report, columns 1483W, on crime: statistics, for what reason the data on anti-social behaviour are only available for 2007-08. [254339]

Jacqui Smith: Returns of antisocial behaviour incident data were first included in the Police Annual Data Requirement with effect from 1 April 2007 which was the date on which the National Standard for Incident Recording (incorporating the National Incident Category List) came into full effect nationally.

Departmental Cost Effectiveness

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what Gershon savings were achieved by her Department in the last three years; and which of those were cash savings. [254866]

Jacqui Smith: My Department reported performance against the 2004 Value for Money Spending Review target in the 2008 Home Office Autumn Performance Report (column 7512). By the end of 2007-08, the Department had achieved gains worth £2,855 million per annum, of which £1,552 million per annum was cashable, compared with its target in the 2004 spending review to achieve improvements worth £1,970 million per annum of which £1,060 million per annum would be cashable.

Departmental Plants

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much her Department has spent on (a) pot plants and (b) flowers in each of the last three years. [254879]

Mr. Woolas: Figures on the cost of pot plants and flowers are not held centrally and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Public Appointments

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which of the public appointments for which her Department is responsible are due to be (a) renewed and (b) filled in the next 24 months; what the (i) remit, (ii) salary, (iii) political restriction, (iv) eligibility requirement and (v) timetable for each appointment is; and what records her Department keeps in respect of such appointments. [254230]

Mr. Woolas: Information on appointments made by the Department is published in the Department's Annual Report and is available on the Department's website:

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/documents/ho-public-appointments-2007.

The process for making a public appointment, including guidance on political activity and eligibility criteria, follows the Cabinet Office publication "Making and Managing Public Appointments".

For appointments regulated by the Commissioner for Public Appointments, the appointments process also complies with the "Code of Practice for Ministerial Appointments to Public Bodies". Copies are in the Libraries of the House.

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate she has made of the running costs of her Department's Senior Appointments Panel. [254824]

Jacqui Smith: The cost of the new Senior Appointments Panel is estimated at £500,000 per annum. This includes the salary costs of four staff, fees and expenses for the independent chair and panel members, and research to support the workings of the panel. The cost of the panel will be absorbed by the Home Office.

Departmental Security

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the Answer of 27 January 2009, Official Report, column 284W, on departmental security, how many lost or stolen security passes have since been recovered. [254553]

Mr. Woolas: The Departmental Security Unit do not keep records of Home Office HQ passes found or recovered as lost or stolen passes are deactivated as soon as they are reported missing/stolen and are deleted from the system, thereby preventing access to Home Office buildings.

In the calendar year 2008, UK Border Agency reported that 26 UKBA passes had been found (warrant cards are included in this figures, as for some business areas they are the same document).

Departmental Translation Services

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much her Department and its agencies have spent on translation services in each of the last 60 months. [254596]

Jacqui Smith: The Department's expenditure on translation and interpretation services is set out in the following table, 2007-08 being the most recent period for which there are audited figures.

	2003-04	2004-05	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08
Home Office, including UKBA	13,499	14,903	10,419	9,683	9,636
Identity and Passport Service	3	3	3	6	260
Criminal Records Bureau	0	0	0	13	0

The figures cannot be analysed by month without incurring disproportionate cost.

The Home Office figures in the table, for the financial years 2004-05 to 2007-08, do not include those for the National Offender Management Service (NOMS) and the Office of Criminal Justice and Reform (OCJR), which transferred to Ministry of Justice on 1 April 2007: figures for NOMS and OCJR for 2003-04 could not be deducted from the Home Office total without incurring disproportionate cost.

For the Identity and Passport Service, the offer of interpreter services was introduced when interviews for first time adults became compulsory in 2007-08. Face-to-face interviews for first time applicants are designed to help tackle fraud and ensure the British passport remains among the most secure in the world. Interviews are tailored to the individual in order to securely establish identity and it is possible that some interviews could require the assistance of an interpreter to help IPS staff satisfy themselves that the person attending is the legitimate passport applicant.

Deportation

Mr. Goodwill: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether bonuses are paid to those employed to supervise the transportation of deportees to airports, on the removal of such deportees. [255637]

Mr. Woolas [holding answer 9 February 2009]: The contract for the escorting of individuals being removed or deported from the UK is operated by Group 4 Securicor (G4S).

The contractors employ detainee custody officers (DCOs) to carry out the duties of escorting those people being removed from the UK.

Under the contract, the UK Border Agency does not make any bonus payment to G4S for effecting removals or deportations. G4S have said that they do not pay bonuses to their staff that carry out these duties.

Deportation: Sri Lanka

Mike Gapes: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent changes have been made to her Department's policy on the removal of Sri Lankan Tamils from the UK; and if she will make a statement. [254536]

Mr. Woolas: It remains our policy that enforced returns to Sri Lanka, or any other country, will only be undertaken where the UK Border Agency is satisfied that to do so is in accordance with our international protection obligations.

The UK Border Agency carefully considers all asylum claims and human rights claims, including those from Tamils, on their individual merits against the background of the latest available country information drawn from a wide range of publicly recognised sources and relevant case law. If their application is refused, they have a right of appeal to the Asylum Immigration Tribunal or an opportunity to seek judicial review through the higher courts. In this way we ensure that we provide protection to those asylum seekers who need it.

The 2008 European Court of Human Rights (ECtHR) case of NA endorsed existing Asylum and Immigration Tribunal country guidance case law on risk to Tamils in Sri Lanka. The ECtHR considered that there was no general risk of mistreatment to Tamils in Sri Lanka.

Detention Centres: Translation Services

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much was spent on interpretation and translation services within the immigration detention estate in 2008; how much was spent at each detention centre; and if she will make a statement. [254447]

Mr. Woolas: In 2008 the UK Border Agency detention service spent £30,590 on interpretation and translation services at the Immigration Removal Centres.

The following table shows the spend for each of the 10 Immigration Removal Centres for 2008.

	Spend
Campsfield House	1,545
Colnbrook	3,645
Dover Removal centre	320
Dungavel	2,349
Harmondsworth	62
Haslar	4,704
Lindholme	831
Oakington	3,955
Tinsley House	7,333
Yarls Wood	5,846

Emergency Calls

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the average length of time from the receipt of a 999 call to a police officer's arrival at an accident or a crime scene was in each police force area are each of the last 10 years. [254594]

Jacqui Smith: This information is not held centrally.

Entry Clearances

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the average waiting time for responses to visa applications has been in each of the last five years. [252320]

Mr. Woolas: Public service agreement (PSA) target times for processing visa applications during FY 2004-05 to FY 2007-08 were as follows:

> PSA 1: 90 per cent. of straightforward non-settlement applications processed in 24 hours;
> PSA 2: 90 per cent. of non-settlement applications requiring further inquires to be processed within 15 working days;
> PSA 3: 90 per cent. of applicants for settlement visas to be assessed or interviewed within in 50 working days.

The UK Border Agency retained the same targets for visa processing from April 2008. Our performance against these targets is shown in the following table.

Data for years prior to FY 2006-07 are not available.

			Percentage
	FY 2008-09(Apr-Dec)	FY 2007-08	FY 2006-07

PSA 2	86	93	94
PSA 3	82	93	91

The data for 2007/08 and 2008/09 are unpublished and should be treated as provisional.

Central Reference System, 29 January 2009

New customer service standards for visa processing times were introduced in January 2009 and are published on the Border Agency's Visa Services website, together with actual monthly processing times for each visa-issuing post.

These are end-to-end processing times which include processing at Visa Application Centres (run by our commercial partners) as well as processing at Visa Sections.

Frontex

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what (a) contracts and (b) other obligations her Department has with Frontex; whether her Department has plans to enter into any further such obligations; and if she will make a statement. [254443]

Mr. Woolas: The Home Office does not have any contract with the European Agency for the Management of Operational Cooperation at the External Borders of the Member States of the European Union (Frontex). The UK is excluded from the Frontex Regulation on Schengen building grounds. Our exclusion means that in practice we do not have the same level of influence as the other member states. We play an active role at the Frontex Management Board but we do not have a vote. Our officers participate in Frontex joint operations and other activities with the agreement of the management board on a case-by-case basis in an observational/advisory role.

We have demonstrated our commitment to Frontex by making an annual financial contribution to Frontex, seconding staff to Frontex's headquarters, participating in a variety of Frontex activities and operations as well as offering Frontex access to a range of technical equipment. We see the improved coordination of border management of Schengen States as having a direct impact to the United Kingdom, and play as full a part as possible in operations, and should commit resources to them for this purpose.

Illegal Immigrants

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many undocumented immigrants have been (a) repatriated, (b) held in detention and (c) released after being arrested in raids by the UK Border Agency and its predecessors in each year since 2001. [246241]

Jacqui Smith: There are no circumstances where an undocumented individual can be removed. Where an individual has no valid travel document, the UK Border Agency will obtain an Emergency Travel Document (ETD) through the relevant embassy, high commission or consulate of the country in question or where possible arrange removal using a European Union Letter (EUL).

Information on how many undocumented migrants have been held in detention and released after being arrested following operational visits by the UK Border Agency could be obtained by the detailed examination of individual case records only at disproportionate cost.

Published statistics on immigration and asylum, including removals, are available from the Library of the House and from the Home Office Research, Development and Statistics Directorate web site at:

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/immigration1.html

Illegal Immigrants: Employment

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what businesses the UK Border Agency and its predecessors has raided on suspicion that they were employing illegal immigrants in each of the last six years; and what businesses (a) were fined and (b) had a civil penalty imposed on them for employing such immigrants in each of those years; [246240]

(2) how many raids upon businesses the UK Border Agency and its predecessors undertook in each year since 2004; and how many undocumented immigrants were arrested in those raids. [246242]

Jacqui Smith: The number of UK Border Agency enforcement visits to UK businesses suspected of employing illegal workers and the numbers arrested during these visits in each year since April 2005 is attached at Annex A. Details prior to 2005 are not available. Information on how many of the individuals arrested were undocumented and could be obtained by the detailed examination of individual case records only at disproportionate cost.

All data are sourced from the National Operations Database (NOD) which was launched in April 2005. NOD is a management information tool and data from it are not quality assured under national statistics protocols. Figures provided from NOD do not constitute part of national statistics and should be treated as provisional.

Details of businesses prosecuted and fined for employing illegal migrant workers under section 8 of the Asylum and Immigration Act 1996 are published in the Control of Immigration Statistics United Kingdom 2007 which is available in the Library of the House and from the Home Office Research, Development and Statistics Directorate web site at:

Immigration

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent steps she has taken to reduce the time taken to determine applications for indefinite leave to remain; and if she will make a statement. [250960]

Mr. Woolas: In order to drive improvements throughout 2009-10 new processes are being introduced with initial focus on clearing older cases and improving overall throughput. A new performance monitoring mechanism to enable the agency to keep a tight grip on performance is due to be introduced in April.

Offenders: Deportation

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many offenders who had previously been deported have been convicted since 2001; and how many were (a) EU citizens and (b) non-EU citizens. [253445]

Jacqui Smith [holding answer 3 February 2009]: The information requested can be obtained only through the detailed examination of individual case files at disproportionate cost. Those who are subject to deportation orders are prevented from re-entering the United Kingdom. Where it is found that an individual has attempted to enter in breach of a deportation order, the UK Border Agency will remove them at the earliest opportunity.

The chief executive of the UK Border Agency has regularly written to the Home Affairs Select Committee and provided all of the most robust and accurate information available on the deportation of foreign national prisoners. Copies of her letters are available in the Library of the House.

Police: Helicopters

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many police helicopters in England were shared with local ambulance services in 2007-08. [254690]

Mr. Coaker: In 2007-08 there were two shared Police/Air Ambulance operations in England, based at Devizes in Wiltshire and at Shoreham in Sussex, operated by Wiltshire Constabulary and Sussex Police respectively.

Police: Licensing Act 2003

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment she has made of the effects of the implementation of the Licensing Act 2003 on the shift patterns of police forces in (a) Lancashire and (b) England and Wales. [253222]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 2 February 2009]: The shift patterns of police officers is an operational matter, and as such is for the chief constable to determine. However, the Government published a review of the Licensing Act 2003 in March 2008 which revealed a mixed picture in terms of its impact. The change in opening hours has not led to the widespread problems some people feared. Overall, crime and alcohol consumption are down, but there has been a small increase in alcohol-related violence in the early hours of the morning and some communities have seen a rise in disorder. Our main conclusion is that people are using the freedoms, but people are not sufficiently using the considerable powers granted by the Act to tackle problems, and that there is a need to rebalance action towards enforcement and crack down on irresponsible behaviour.

Additionally, we have introduced legislation for a new, mandatory code of practice. This will contain some compulsory national conditions, banning the most irresponsible practices and promotions which encourage people to drink excessively, or promote a binge-drinking culture. This will not affect the majority of businesses, small or large, who behave responsibly—but will target those that do not.

Further, the Government are funding a £4.5 million enforcement campaign, in addition to existing resources from the police, local authorities and others, focused on 40-50 priority areas and led by ACPO Commander Simon O'Brien. There is additional funding for the 20 priority PCT areas, and a £10 million investment in national awareness campaigns.

Police: North Yorkshire

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what plans she has for the funding of policing in North Yorkshire; and if she will make a statement. [255831]

Mr. Coaker: The Police Funding Settlement 2009-10 was debated and approved on 4 February and was broadly unchanged from that announced in December 2007.

In 2009-10, North Yorkshire police authority will receive £76.7 million in general grants, an increase of 2.5 per cent. (+£1.9 million) over 2008-09. North Yorkshire benefits from the decision to provide a funding floor of 2.5 per cent.; it would have received £5.8 million less if the funding formula had been strictly applied. In addition to general grant, North Yorkshire will also receive an estimated £11.2 million from a range of other Government funding.

A review of the funding formula for the next CSR period (2011-12 to 2013-14) is currently taking place with the Police Allocation Formula Working Group (PAFWG) continuing to meet throughout 2009 and early 2010. Following consultation, the formula will be revised as appropriate.

Police: Olympic Games 2012

Patrick Mercer: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when police forces will receive notification from the Olympic Delivery Authority of their funding entitlement for policing the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games. [256129]

Mr. Coaker: Work is continuing to finalise the strategy and plans for the security of the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games. The Home Office has provided funding to police forces in 2007-08 and 2008-09 to enable them to plan and prepare for the Games. It will continue to make available funding as necessary. Any decisions will need to take account of the operational needs of the police and other security agencies, affordability within the total funding envelope and the need to secure value for money.

Police: Standards

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 26 January 2009, Official Report, column 98W, on police: standards, what targets have been removed; and on what date each ceased to have effect. [254341]

Jacqui Smith: The Government have been clarifying the performance management framework for the police for some time, to help the police focus more effectively on the issues that concern the public. The top down numerical target which concerned frontline officers the most—to increase the total number of offences brought to justice from the 2004 Public Service Agreements (PSAs)—ceased to have effect at the end of 2007-08. The Policing Green Paper made further significant changes as part of its broader proposals for reforming the relationship between the police service, the public and the Home Office. In particular, the Government committed to a single top down target for police forces—on improving public confidence.

Centrally set efficiency and productivity targets for individual forces and authorities ceased to have effect from the publication of the Policing Green Paper (17 July 2008). Volume and value targets on cash forfeiture orders also ceased to have effect on that date. Centrally set 10-year race employment targets relating to the recruitment, retention and progression of black and minority ethnic police officers and staff come to an end on 31 March 2009, when a final report against a centrally set progression target will also be made.

Centrally set multi-agency targets for local criminal justice boards (LCJBs, on which police forces are members alongside other agencies) on enforcement (including fail to appear (FTA) warrant enforcement, community penalty breach enforcement and licence recall) and asset recovery (specifically on obtaining and enforcing confiscation orders) cease from April 2009. The Persistent Young Offenders (PYO) Pledge ended on 31 December 2008.

All of this demonstrates how we are complying with our commitment in the Green Paper to "neither set nor maintain" top down numerical targets for individual police forces with the exception of one—to raise public confidence that their local crime and antisocial behaviour priorities are being addressed.

Powers of Entry

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what guidance her Department has issued to public authorities with powers of entry on the manner in which those powers should be exercised in respect of forced entry. [256717]

Mr. Coaker: Section 67(9) of the Police and Criminal Evidence Act (PACE) 1984 requires that persons other than police officers charged with the duty of investigating offences or charging offenders shall have regard to the relevant provisions of the PACE code of practice. PACE code B on searching premises and seizing property requires that reasonable and proportionate force may be used if necessary to enter premises if the person in charge of the search is satisfied the premises are those specified in any warrant or in the exercise of statutory powers and if the occupier or any other person entitled to grant access has refused entry; it is impossible to communicate with the occupier or any other person entitled to grant access; the person entitled to grant access is absent; or there are reasonable grounds to believe that alerting the occupier or any other person entitled to grant access would frustrate the object of the search or endanger those exercising the search or others.

Tackling Knives Action Programme

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate she has made of the number of additional (a) prosecutions and (b) convictions which have taken place as a consequence of the Tackling Knives Action Programme (TKAP) in each of the 10 TKAP areas. [252116]

Jacqui Smith: Management information being used to monitor TKAP suggests that in the period June to November 2008 there were 815 more convictions for possession of a knife or offensive weapon in the 10 TKAP areas than in the same period of 2007. This figure is provisional.

Figures for prosecutions are published annually. The latest available figures are for 2007 (prior to the establishment of the Tackling Knives Action Programme). Figures for 2008 will be released in autumn 2009.

Terrorism: Deportation

Mr. Blunt: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what progress has been made by the Government in its policy of seeking to persuade the European Court of Human Rights to reconsider its jurisprudence on the deportation of terrorist suspects in the last 12 months; and if she will make a statement. [255248]

Mr. Woolas [holding answer 9 February 2009]: The Government's submissions on this point were considered by the Grand Chamber of the Court in the context of the case of Saadi v. Italy. In its judgment (given on 28 February 2008), the Court rejected the Government's arguments and reaffirmed the existing article 3 case law as set out in Chahal v. the UK.

UK Border Agency: Correspondence

Clare Short: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when a reply will be sent to the right hon. Member for Birmingham, Ladywood's letter of 16 December 2008 to the UK Border Agency on behalf of Said Bouzinab (Home Office reference B493071, acknowledgement reference B41558/8). [255765]

Mr. Woolas: The regional director for the North West, Gill Mortlock, wrote to my right hon. Friend on 5 February 2009.

Work Permits

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many work permits have been issued to non-EU nationals in each of the last 10 years. [254416]

Jacqui Smith: The following table shows the number of work permit applications for non-EU workers approved in each of the last 10 years.

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many applications for a work permit on the basis of an intra company transfer in respect of non-UK nations were (a) made and (b) granted in each of the last (i) five years and (ii) four quarters. [254490]

Equality: Regional Planning and Development

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality what funding (a) the Government Equalities Office and (b) the Equality and Human Rights Commission has given to regional equality and diversity partnerships to date. [253779]

Maria Eagle: (a) The Government Equalities Office has made no such payments.

(b) The Equality and Human Rights Commission has to date funded the Greater Manchester centre for voluntary organisation (GMCVO) and the Regional Action Involvement South East (RAISE). Both organisations work to develop equality and diversity partnerships at regional level. The GMCVO collaborates with and assists organisations that work across all the mandate areas (sometimes known as equality strands). The RAISE is actively consulting upon the viability of a south-east regional equalities network.

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

Devolution

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster if he will place in the Library a copy of the most recent guidance issued by the Cabinet Secretary on raising awareness of devolution among civil servants. [249936]

Mr. Watson: I have placed in the Library a copy of 'Working with the devolved administrations: Guidance for UK Government Departments', issued to Departments by the Cabinet Secretary last July. The guidance is publicly available on the Cabinet Office devolution website:

www.cabinetoffice.gov.uk/devolution

Unemployment

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how the UK ranks against other EU member states in terms of (a) the change in the rate of unemployment and (b) the change in the rate of unemployment for 16 to 24 year olds in the last year for which figures are available. [254489]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, Dated February 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking how the UK ranks against other EU member states in terms of (a) the change in the rate of unemployment and (b) the change in the rate of unemployment for 16 to 24 year olds in the last year for which figures are available. (254489)

Comparable unemployment rates for EU Member States are estimated and published by Eurostat, the Statistical Office of the European Communities, using data derived from the Labour Force Survey in each country. The latest quarterly estimates and annual changes are provided in the attached two tables. Countries are ranked in order of the size of the annual change in each case.

The Eurostat definition of unemployed persons includes those aged 15. Estimates excluding 15 year olds are not readily available for most countries. Therefore the figures provided include those aged 15 for all countries except the UK and Spain.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Allotments

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what requirements there are upon local authorities to provide allotments for the use of local residents. [252560]

Mr. Iain Wright: Under the Smallholdings and Allotments Act 1908, there is a duty on local authorities (except for inner London boroughs) to provide allotments where there is demand for them in their area. If a local authority is of the opinion that there is such a demand, they are required to provide a sufficient number of allotments for letting to persons residing in the area who want them.

Where representations have been received by any six registered parliamentary electors or persons liable to pay council tax, it is the duty of local authorities to take those representations into consideration when assessing demand.

Apprentices

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the answer of 2 June 2008, Official Report, column 614W, on apprentices, what progress has been made on increasing the number of apprentices in her Department; and how many apprentices her Department employs. [251965]

Mr. Khan: Within CLG, eight members of staff are currently undertaking apprenticeships as part of the Government Skill's Apprenticeship Pathfinder scheme.

Although none of our agencies or Government Offices are currently putting staff forward for apprenticeships, the GOs are developing policy on introducing apprenticeships across the whole GO Network.

Council Housing: Standards

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of the likelihood of all council housing meeting the Decent Homes Standard by 2010. [253410]

Mr. Iain Wright: On 22 January 2008 we published the Local Authority Housing Statistics, England 2007-08. This reported that local authorities reported that 150,000 dwellings will remain non-decent by 1 April 2011.

Council Tax

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar of 2 June 2008, Official Report, column 533W, on council tax, what methodology her Department used to calculate the average parish council tax precept of £45 on Band D, as referred to in the answer of 14 June 2007, Official Report, column 1169W, on council tax; and if she will use the same methodology to calculate a figure for 2008-09. [255009]

John Healey: The methodology used to estimate the average Band D parish council tax precept is based on assumptions set out in local government financial statistics England, as referred to in the answer of 2 June 2008.

I refer the hon. Member to my answer given to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar (Mr. Pickles) of 2 February 2009, Official Report, column 972W, in respect of 2008-09.

Departmental Data Protection

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether any datasets held by her Department and its agencies have been processed by contractors operating outside the European economic area in the last three years. [254859]

Mr. Khan: The Department's agencies (the Queen Elizabeth II Conference Centre, the Fire Service College and the Planning Inspectorate) do not have datasets that have been processed by contractors operating outside the European economic area. The Department does hold information on personal data falling into that category for 2008 and has one dataset backed-up in the USA. Information on non-personal datasets or for the years 2006 and 2007 is not held centrally and cannot be provided without incurring disproportionate costs.

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many staff in her Department were disciplined for (a) bullying and (b) harassment of colleagues in each of the last three years. [254091]

Mr. Khan: The Department for Communities and Local Government have had no staff who have been disciplined for (a) bullying and (b) harassment of colleagues in the last three years.

Departmental Foreign Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many (a) EU foreign nationals and (b) non-EU foreign nationals are employed by her Department. [256214]

Mr. Khan: This information is not retained centrally by Communities and Local Government in a form that can be disaggregated without a disproportionate cost.

Departmental Pensions

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps her Department is taking to advise staff of pension options available to them in relation to added years or additional voluntary contributions. [253265]

Mr. Khan: Members of the principal civil service pension scheme receive an annual benefit statement showing the pension built up to date, and also a projection of their pension on retirement if they continue in service to scheme pension age. The benefit statement prompts the member to consider boosting their pension and provides details of the civil service pensions website where staff can obtain further information; including options for making additional voluntary contributions and a calculator to work out costs for added pension (previously added years).

New entrants are informed of pension options in the employment offer and are provided with a pension information pack.

Cabinet Office provides leaflets that explain added pension and additional voluntary contributions for members. The information is also available in scheme booklets. These are available on the civil service pensions website or on request from the member's pension administrator.

The departmental staff handbook also lists pension publications available on the civil service pensions website and provides contact details for the Department's pension provider where further pension advice can be obtained.

The Department's pension provider has a dedicated helpline option for staff wishing to seek advice on topping up pensions and an additional leaflet they issue on request.

From time to time the Department places news items relating to different aspects of the civil service pension scheme on the intranet. In June 2007 and November 2007 news items were made announcing the launch of the new added pension scheme from 1 March 2008.

Departmental Procurement

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the answer of 6 October 2008, Official Report, column 304W, on departmental procurement, what the purpose of the expenditure on LLM Communications was; and what goods or services were purchased. [251953]

Mr. Khan: LLM Communications were engaged to support regional housing debates.

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Beckenham of 6 October 2008, Official Report, column 303W, on departmental procurement, what the purpose was of the expenditure incurred by the Deputy Prime Minister's Office in respect of (a) Oddbins, (b) BMI Health Screening, (c) RAF Northolt, (d) Ecovert FM Ltd. and (e) Apollo Photographers Ltd. [253938]

Mr. Khan: Oddbins sold beverages, BMI Health Screening arranged vaccinations for officials to travel abroad on business, RAF Northolt is the base of 32 Squadron which recharges for flights used on official travel, Ecovert FM was responsible for building services where DPMO was located, and Apollo were photographers employed to help with the production of DPMO's annual report. All DPMO expenditure was made in accordance with published departmental guidance on financial procedures and propriety, based on principles set out in "Government Accounting" and the Treasury handbook on "Regularity and Propriety".

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar of 23 June 2008, Official Report, column 24W, on departmental procurement, how much expenditure was incurred on each organisation listed in the chart in 2007-08, based on purchase order data held in the departmental financial system. [254011]

Mr. Khan: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Beckenham (Mrs. Lait) on 6 October 2008, Official Report, column 303W.

Departmental Public Appointments

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which of the public appointments for which her Department is responsible are due to be (a) renewed and (b) filled in the next 24 months; what the (i) remit, (ii) salary, (iii) political restriction, (iv) eligibility requirement and (v) timetable for each appointment is; and what records her Department keeps in respect of such appointments. [254233]

Mr. Khan: Information on public appointments made by the Department is published in the Department's Public Bodies Annual Report which is available on the Department's website at:

http://www.communities.gov.uk/publications/corporate/publicbodies2008

More detailed information about individual appointments is set out in the relevant body's annual report. Vacancies may be advertised on the Cabinet Office Public Appointments website at:

www.publicappointments.gov.uk

The process for making a public appointment, including guidance on political activity and eligibility criteria, follows the Cabinet Office publication "Making and Managing Public Appointments'. For appointments regulated by the Commissioner for Public Appointments, the appointments process also complies with the 'Code of Practice for Ministerial Appointments to Public Bodies'. Copies are in the Libraries of the House.

Empty Property: Non-Domestic Rates

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether blank advertising hoardings qualify for the empty property business rate relief for rateable values under £15,000. [254764]

John Healey: Empty property rates apply where a property is unoccupied and those properties that are not liable for empty property rates are set out in section 4 of the Non-Domestic Rating (Unoccupied Property) (England) Regulations 2008.

EU Grants and Loans

Mr. Kilfoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government for what reasons her Department declined to accept an extension on spending deadlines for England for European structural funding in England; what estimate she has made of the amount of money under such structural funding provisions for England unspent as at 31 December 2008; and if she will make a statement. [254952]

John Healey: Government took into account views from the regions, including on the extent to which any additional resources resulting from programme extension could be used given the lack of flexibility in the EC's offer of extension, and decided that there was insufficient benefit to justify changing existing spending plans.

The 2000-06 ERDF programmes have so far recorded spend of over €5 billion. There are over 2,900 ERDF grant claims being processed in our systems and more are expected as projects make their final claims for grant. Until these claims are processed and paid we will not have a final spend position but expect it to show successful take up of the available funds—at least equal to previous rounds of ERDF.

Fire Services: Consultants

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much her Department expects to spend on consultancy services for FireControl in (a) 2009-10, (b) 2010-11 and (c) 2011-12. [256271]

Mr. Khan: National project costs are set out in the 'FireControl Business Case Part 2—The National Case', copies of which are available in the House Library. The Department is expecting to spend the following on consultancy services:

	£ million
2009-10	5.3
2010-11	3.4
2011-12	2.3
Total	11.0

Fire Services: Finance

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what (a) grant allocations and (b) other funding her Department (i) has paid and (ii) plans to pay to each fire authority in each region during each year of the 2007 Comprehensive Spending Review period. [255090]

Mr. Khan: A table giving details of grant allocations for each fire and rescue authority for the period in question, where figures are available has been deposited in the Library.

Housing: Standards

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she expects the outcomes from the next English House Condition Survey to be published. [256661]

Mr. Iain Wright: The 2007 English House Condition Survey Headline Report was published on 29 January 2009. The 2007 annual report is due to be published in summer 2009.

Kent

Dr. Ladyman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much (a) revenue support, (b) capital grant and (c) supported borrowing funding central Government has paid to (i) Kent County Council, (ii) Thanet District Council and (iii) Dover District Council in 2008-09; and how much is planned in each case for 2009-10. [255091]

Mr. Khan: The following tables set out the amounts of (a) revenue payments (b) capital grants which this Department plans to make (i) Kent county council, (ii) Thanet district council and (iii) Dover district council in 2008- 09 and 2009-10.

Financial year 2008-09

£ million

	Kent CC	Thanet DC	Dover DC	Total
Revenue
Formula grants	259.366	13.021	10.113	282.500
Other grants and payments	96.530	4.491	0.550	101.571
Capital	4.793	5.130	0.387	10.310

Financial year 2009-10

£ million

	Kent CC	Thanet DC	Dover DC	Total
Revenue	267.224	13.163	10.164	290.55
Formula grants	91.822	3.688	0.493	96.003
Other grants and payments
Capital	10.274	0.408	1.851	12.533

No supported borrowing would be offered by this Department in 2008-09 and 2009-10.

Local Government

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps the Government have taken to assist local authorities during the economic downturn. [255293]

John Healey: I refer my right hon. Friend to the answer given to the hon. Member for Plymouth, Sutton (Linda Gilroy) on 20 January 2009, Official Report, column 1270W.

Local Government Finance: Energy

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what recent assessment her Department has made of the effects of energy prices on local authority costs. [255220]

John Healey: The Department has not made an assessment of the effects of energy prices on local authority costs. However, a recent report by the Audit Commission "Crunch Time? The Impact of the Economic Downturn on Local Government Finances." identified expenditure on gas, electricity, fuel and food as areas which have seen the highest level of inflation in council expenditure. However, it also found that this made up less than 2 per cent. of total local authority spending and that inflation was now reducing, easing some of the in-year pressures. It reported that fuel prices are now lower than they were in April 2008. The Government expect the significant fall in the price of crude oil to feed into the cost of other goods and to impact on energy bills in due course.

Minister for Yorkshire and the Humber: Lloyds TSB

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of (a) 4 February 2009, Official Report, column 1293W, on Minister for Yorkshire and the Humber: Lloyds TSB and (b) 29 January 2009, Official Report, column 779W, on Lloyds TSB, for what reasons a copy of the minutes of the 14 January meeting was deposited in the Library contrary to normal practice; and if she will make a statement. [256108]

Mr. Khan: Exceptionally, it was thought helpful to deposit a brief summary (but not the minutes as much of the discussion on 14 January was commercially confidential).

Natural Gas: Planning Permission

Greg Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) what proposals for gas storage facilities have (a) been granted planning permission and (b) have had planning permission rejected in each of the last five years; [255985]

(2) what proposals for gas storage facilities have been made in respect of which planning permission is still being considered. [255987]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Department for Communities and Local Government does not hold this information centrally.

Non-Domestic Rates: Ports

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what qualifying conditions apply for ports to be eligible to pay retrospective business rates back over time. [255252]

John Healey: I laid the regulations that set out the qualifying conditions before Parliament on 10 February 2009.

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when the previous rating system for port businesses ended; and how much was paid under this system by Associated British Ports in (a) Hull, (b) Grimsby, (c) Immingham and (d) Goole for (i) 2000 to 2005 and (ii) 2005 to 2008. [256274]

John Healey: Prescription rating in ports ended in March 2005, but prescription applied only to the port operator. Separate properties within ports have always been separately liable for business rates and prior to the ports review around 1,600 were so listed and liable.

We do not hold information for the amount of rates paid by individual businesses, as the calculation of business rates, taking into account any reliefs due, is a matter for the local authority.

However, the 2005 lists rateable values for the named ports are:

Port	2005 Rating list (before review)	2005 Rating list (post review)	Effective date
Hull	9,000,000	3,100,000	1 April 2005
Grimsby	1,350,000	500,000	1 April 2005
Immingham	17,930,000	11,000,000	1 April 2005
Goole	940,000	205,000	1 April 2005

The rateable values under the 2000 rating lists in some cases varied from year to year, details can be found on the Valuation Office website at:

www.voa.gov.uk.

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when the Valuation Office Agency (VOA) (a) assessed port businesses for non-business rates and (b) notified the businesses concerned; and what consultations the VOA had with port businesses in 2005. [256275]

John Healey: The date from which the Valuation Office Agency (VOA) assessed port businesses for non-domestic business rates and the date from which the businesses concerned were notified of their assessments varies according to the facts and circumstances of each property. Such information could be assembled only at disproportionate cost.

Prior to publication of the 2005 lists discussions were held with port operators on assessment levels, on the basis of information supplied to the VOA by them.

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government on what date individual rating valuations of port businesses began to apply. [256276]

John Healey: Separately occupied properties within ports have always been liable to be rated separately in the same way as separately occupied property situated outside a port. The effective date applicable to an individual rating valuation is governed by statutory regulations.

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment was made by her Department and its predecessor of the individual rating valuations of port businesses in 2005; and how these valuations were issued. [256277]

John Healey: Rateable values are assessed independently by the Valuation Office Agency, and this Department is not involved in the process.

Planning Permission: Parking

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what changes have been made to maximum parking standards for (a) residential and (b) non-residential development since 1997. [254860]

Mr. Iain Wright: In exercising their planning functions local planning authorities are required to have regard to the Government's overarching planning policy on parking which is set out in Planning Policy Guidance note 13: 'Transport' (2001), one of the key objectives of which is to reduce the need to travel, especially by car. PPG13 is clear that local authority policies in preparing their development plans should set maximum levels of parking for broad classes of development, including residential and non-residential development, and that there should be no minimum standards for development, other than parking for disabled people.

In relation to residential development, Planning Policy Guidance note 3: 'Housing' (2000) advised that car parking standards that resulted in development with more than 1.5 off-street car parking spaces across a local authority area on average were unlikely to reflect the Government's emphasis on securing sustainable residential environments. This advice has subsequently being replaced by Planning Policy Statement 3: 'Housing' (2006), which gives local planning authorities the flexibility, consistent with the objectives of PPG13, to set their own residential parking policies taking account of the expected levels of car ownership, the importance of promoting good design and the need to use land efficiently.

In terms of non-residential development, PPG13 sets out national maximum car parking standards. Again, within the context of reducing the need to travel by car required by PPG13, draft PPS4: 'Planning for Sustainable Economic Development' (2007) proposes to devolve responsibility for setting non-residential car parking standards to local authorities so that they can reflect local circumstances. We are currently working to finalise the policy.

Pollution

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Welwyn Hatfield of 1 February 2008, Official Report, column 696W, on pollution, whether the costs to local authorities under the landfill tax escalator and Landfill Allowance Trading Scheme are (a) passed on to the polluter and (b) compensated by central government under the new burden principles. [252500]

Jane Kennedy: I have been asked to reply.

I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by the Minister for Local Government, my right hon. Friend the Member for Wentworth (John Healey) on 1 February 2008, Official Report, column 696W.

Public Sector Food Procurement Initiative

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps she has taken to encourage private sector organisations to participate in the Public Sector Food Procurement Initiative. [251758]

Jane Kennedy: I have been asked to reply.

Since its launch in 2003, the Government's Public Sector Food Procurement Initiative (PSFPI) has highlighted practical ways in which private sector organisations can help to deliver its objectives. Among the steps taken are the holding of national and regional conferences for suppliers, publication of guidance, funding of regional projects to develop local supply chains and direct engagement with key stakeholders such as the foodservice companies and the British Hospitality Association. Further information can be found on the PSFPI website at:

www.defra.gov.uk/farm/policy/sustain/procurement/awareness.htm.

Renewable Energy: Planning Permission

Paddy Tipping: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what recent representations she has received on Veolia's planning application for an energy from waste plant at the site of the former Rufford Colliery, Rainworth, Nottinghamshire; and if she will make a statement. [254885]

Mr. Khan: In addition to my hon. Friend, my hon. Friend the Member for Mansfield (Mr. Meale), has requested that the planning application be called in for the Secretary of State's own determination. The Secretary of State has also received representations from three county councillors, one district councillor, Newark and Sherwood district council, a campaign group called PAIN (People Against Incineration) plus 12 members of the public, asking that the application be called in.

The case is currently under consideration by the Secretary of State. Therefore I cannot make any statement on the case. A decision will be issued as soon as possible.

Sir Alan Beith: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government for what reasons she decided to apply the recovery procedure to the three wind farm applications in the borough of Berwick-upon-Tweed on 26 August 2008. [256513]

Mr. Iain Wright: The reason for recovery was due to the proposals being of major significance for the delivery of the Government's climate change programme and energy policies.

Social Rented Housing: Standards

Lorely Burt: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate her Department has made of the number of social rented homes which did not meet the Decent Homes standard at the latest date for which figures are available; and when she expects the remainder of the additional £200 million of funding for the Decent Homes programme to have been spent. [250957]

Mr. Iain Wright: Landlord statistical returns show that at 1 April 2008 there were 714,000 social homes that did not meet the decent homes standard which represents 18 per cent. of the social housing stock, www.communities.gov.uk/documents/housing/xls/table119.xls.

In the pre-Budget report we announced that we would bring forward from 2010-11 £250 million to sustain and accelerate the Decent Homes programme. We expect all this money to have been spent by the end of March 2010.

Waste Disposal: Fees and Charges

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar of 29 October 2008, Official Report, column 1149W, on non-domestic rates, whether the domestic or composite hereditament premises of diplomatic missions will have liability for charges for the collection of household waste under proposed pilot schemes. [252737]

Jane Kennedy: I have been asked to reply.

Participation in a waste incentives scheme by diplomatic and consular agents would be on a voluntary basis.

HEALTH

Alcoholic Drinks: Health Education

Bill Etherington: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps have been taken to increase awareness of safe drinking levels and the health risks associated with alcohol dependency amongst (a) adults aged over 45 years and (b) young people under 18 years living in the North East. [255313]

Dawn Primarolo: It is the responsibility of primary care trusts (PCTs) to take forward initiatives and campaigns to increase awareness of lower risk drinking levels and the health risks associated with alcohol dependency in their areas. Information on action taken in the North East can be obtained from PCTs across the North East directly.

However, in May 2008 the Department launched a national communications campaign to improve the public's understanding of units of alcohol. The campaign messages were delivered across television, newspapers, outdoor, radio and on-line channels. Phase one focused on improving people's knowledge of how many units of alcohol are in the alcoholic drinks they consume, while phase two focused on improving people's understanding of the link between their alcohol consumption and their health.

Initial assessment of the campaign shows that there is an increased agreement, from 77-82 per cent. that we tend to drink more than is good for us. This has clearly been influenced by the campaign as for those aware of the campaign this figure rises to 85 per cent., while for those not aware of the campaign this figure is 72 per cent.

The second wave of campaign tracking will be available shortly and may provide more information on how the campaign has improved the public's understanding of alcohol related health risks.

Alcoholic Drinks: Misuse

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many admissions of (a) males and (b) females in each age group via accident and emergency to NHS hospitals in each region for alcohol-related conditions there were in 2007-08. [255201]

Dawn Primarolo: Data for admitted patients for 2007-08 have not yet been released but should be available next month. The Department will arrange for the information to be made available to the House at that time.

Alcoholism: Health Services

Bill Etherington: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average waiting time was for (a) adults and (b) young people in each strategic health authority area to obtain (i) community-based and (ii) in-patient services to reduce severe alcohol dependency in the latest period for which information is available. [255314]

Dawn Primarolo: Since 1 April 2008 the National Treatment Agency has collected data on individuals who receive specialist alcohol treatment through the National Alcohol Treatment Monitoring System. The first year's data is expected to be reported in October 2009, and will include information on waiting times.

Bill Etherington: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many in-patient beds there are in each strategic health authority area for patients who require medical support and intervention to reduce severe alcohol dependency. [255315]

Dawn Primarolo: This information is not held centrally. It is the responsibility of primary care trusts (PCTs) and their partner agencies to make local commissioning decisions for alcohol treatment programmes based on their assessment of local need.

Ambulance Services: Yorkshire and the Humber

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the additional cost the Yorkshire Ambulance Service of the transfer of acute medical services and the cardiac monitoring unit from Bridlington to Scarborough hospital is estimated to be in the first year of operation at Scarborough. [256028]

Ann Keen: This information is not held centrally.

The transfer of cardiac and acute medical admissions from the Bridlington and District hospital to the Scarborough hospital, which formed part of the proposals in the public consultation on the future of services at Bridlington hospital in 2006-07 has now been implemented in full.

Costs incurred through the reconfiguration of services are the responsibility of the local national health service. It is for the Yorkshire Ambulance Service NHS Trust to ensure it provides appropriate services to patients in response to the agreed changes to services.

Benzodiazepines

Dr. Naysmith: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make it his policy not to amend guidelines to doctors on the prescribing of benzodiazepines. [253453]

Phil Hope: In 1994, the Department issued copies of 'Guidelines for the Prevention and Treatment of Benzodiazepine Dependence', published by the Mental Health Foundation, to all health authorities and recommended their use by general practitioners. The Department issued another publication in 1999 entitled, 'Drug misuse and dependence—guidelines on clinical management (1999)', which reiterates these messages. A copy of this publication has been placed in the Library. The British National Formulary is also an important source of guidance on the management of benzodiazepine dependence.

The CMO Update 37, sent by the Chief Medical Officer (CMO) of the Department of Health to all doctors in England, issued in January 2004, issued advice reminding doctors that benzodiazepines should only be prescribed for short-term treatment. A copy has been placed in the Library.

The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence develops and publishes clinical guidelines and they may amend this advice in future in light of new evidence, but there are no current plans to do so.

Carers: Devon

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many adult social carers there were in Devon in each of the last 10 years; and if he will make a statement. [253944]

Phil Hope: The total number of adult social workers in Devon over the last 10 years has increased by 11 per cent. and the number in each year is shown in the following table.

	Devon
1998	185
1999	187
2000	190
2001	199
2002	203

Dementia: Coventry

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent steps the Government has taken to improve the provision of healthcare for people with dementia in Coventry. [255356]

Phil Hope: Dementia is one of the most important issues we face as the population ages. Around 570,000 people already have the condition in England and this number is set to double in the next 30 years, with the costs of dementia tripling. That is why the Department published the first National Dementia Strategy on 3 February 2009. A copy of the strategy has already been placed in the Library.

The Department will be providing a nationwide regional support programme to work closely with the national health service and local authorities in implementing the strategy. This is set out in an implementation plan, which accompanied the strategy. We have recently appointed a team of deputy regional directors with backgrounds in both health and social care to provide the local support needed for implementation. We will also be working closely with regional partners, including strategic health authorities, Government offices and regional improvement and efficiency partners to ensure delivery of the strategy.

Dementia: Devon

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many respite beds for people diagnosed with dementia there were in Devon in each of the last 10 years; and if he will make a statement. [255361]

Phil Hope: This information is not held centrally.

Better care for dementia sufferers and their carers is a key part of the National Dementia Strategy, which was published on 3 February 2009. A copy of the strategy has already been placed in the Library.

Dental Services

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what recent research he has (a) commissioned and (b) evaluated on the efficacy of allowing clinical dental technicians to provide dentures directly to members of the public; [255960]

(2) what guidance he has issued on the role of clinical dental technicians in the NHS; [255961]

(3) what assessment he has made of the role of clinical dental technicians in improving oral health in England; and if he will make a statement. [255962]

Ann Keen: Evidence from overseas countries like Canada, where clinical dental technicians (CDTs) have been able to work legally for much longer than in the United Kingdom, indicate that they can make a very worthwhile contribution to the treatment needs of patients with dentures.

The General Dental Council (GDC) provided for the registration of CDTs with effect from July 2006 and so far, some 80 CDTs are registered with the GDC. It is too early to make a detailed assessment of their impact, but we are examining the role of CDTs in relation to national health service primary care dental services. Currently a primary care trust may contract with a registered CDT to provide NHS primary care dental services under the personal dental services regulations or with a CDT, working in partnership with a dentist, under the general dental services regulations.

Dental Services: Fees and Charges

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will place in the Library a copy of the methodology his Department used to calculate the amount dentists were paid per unit of dental activity at the point at which the new contract for NHS dentistry was introduced in 2006. [255576]

Ann Keen: This information is contained in the Department's paper 'NHS Primary Dental Care Services, England: Methodology for Determining Contract Values and Units of Dental Activity Requirements at the Introduction of the New Dental Service Contract on 1 April 2006' which has been placed in the Library.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what changes his Department has made to the amount dentists are paid per unit of dental activity since the new contract for NHS dentistry was introduced in 2006. [255577]

Ann Keen: The Department does not determine the value of units of dental activity (UDAs). The Department determines the level of the annual uprating to be applied to all annual contract values for contracts in place on 1 April each year between primary care trusts (PCTs) and dental providers for the provision of primary dental care services, based on the recommendations of the independent Doctors' and Dentists' Review Body.

Any changes in the level of services expected under the terms of those contracts, whether measured by a specified number of UDAs or other service measures, are a matter for local agreement between the individual PCT and dental provider. The overall value of new contracts for primary dental services awarded in-year, and the associated service levels, are determined locally by the individual PCT which commissions the services.

Dental Services: Prescriptions

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what the net ingredient cost of prescriptions dispensed by dentists in (a) Hemel Hempstead and (b) Hertfordshire was in each year since 1997; [255642]

(2) how many prescription items were dispensed by dentists in (a) Hemel Hempstead and (b) Hertfordshire in each year since 1997. [255643]

Ann Keen: Information is not available in the format requested. However, information on prescribing by dentists is available from the Prescription Cost Analysis (PCA) system. It is available only for England as a whole. It is available by calendar year from 2003.

The number and net ingredient cost of prescriptions dispensed by dentists in each year is shown in the following table.

Calendar year	Number of items (thousand)	Net ingredient cost (£000)
2007	4,569	10,657
2006	4,481	10,078
2005	4,651	9,186
2004	4,706	9,154

Calendar year	Number of items (thousand)	Net ingredient cost (£000)
2003	4,768	9,231

Notes:
Definitions:
1. PCA Data: Prescription information is taken from the PCA system, supplied by the Prescription Services Division of the NHS Business Services Authority, and is based on a full analysis of all prescriptions dispensed in the community by: community pharmacists and appliance contractors; dispensing doctors; and prescriptions submitted by prescribing doctors for items personally administered in England. Also included are prescriptions written in Wales, Scotland, Northern Ireland and the Isle of Man but dispensed in England. The data do not cover drugs dispensed in hospitals, including mental health trusts, or private prescriptions.
2. The vast majority of these prescriptions are written by general medical practitioners in England; however, prescriptions written by nurses, dentists, other non-medical prescribers and hospital doctors are also included provided they were dispensed in the community.
3. The figures are taken from separate tables relating to prescribing by dentists only.

Departmental Plants

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much his Department has spent on (a) pot plants in 2008-09 to date and (b) flowers in each of the last three years. [254878]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department is unable to provide the detailed breakdown of costs as requested.

The Department has a contract with Resource FM to provide a cleaning, and landscaping service to the Department's buildings which includes provision of pot plants, flower displays and landscaping. This is a fixed annual cost.

During the period April 2008 to February 2009 the cost of this service has been £15,269.64.

Drugs: Rehabilitation

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many prescriptions were dispensed for subutex to persons held in prison in the most recent period for which figures are available. [253971]

Phil Hope: Specific information on the use of buprenorphine is not collected centrally.

Health Services: Elderly

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent steps the Government has taken to improve standards of geriatric medicine in Coventry. [255358]

Phil Hope: The Department's National Service Framework (NFS) for Older People in 2001 set out a 10 year strategy to improve services for older people, in all settings including in hospital.

One of the key aims of the NSF is to ensure that older people are never unfairly discriminated against in accessing national health service or social care. The NHS makes it clear that NHS services should be provided, regardless of age, on the basis of clinical need alone.

In addition, the NHS Constitution makes it clear that people will have the right not to be unlawfully discriminated against on the grounds of age once the Equality Bill comes into force.

Health Services: Males

Dr. Stoate: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make an assessment of the merits of developing a national men's health policy. [254539]

Dawn Primarolo: The Government's key priorities are improving the health and well-being of the population and tackling health inequalities. The Gender Equality Duty, effective from 1 April 2007, necessitates the assessment of all new and existing policies to show they meet the differing needs of both men and women. Government are therefore constantly assessing the health needs of men when developing national health policies. The Department is considering whether there needs to be an additional focus on specific areas.

Heart Diseases: Health Services

Julie Morgan: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the performance against objectives of the 24/7 primary angioplasty service. [254418]

Ann Keen: The Department's new guidance on treatment of heart attack in England was published on 20 October 2008. A copy has been placed in the Library and can also be found at:

www.dh.gov.uk/en/Publicationsandstatistics/Publications/PublicationsPolicyAndGuidance/DH_089455

It is based on a feasibility study from which it was concluded that roll out of primary angioplasty across England would be feasible, that a 24/7 service was likely to lead to best outcomes and that acceptable times to treatment were 120 minutes from patients call for help and 90 minutes from arrival at hospital. An impact assessment suggested that roll out would be feasible in three years for 97 per cent. of the population.

The status of this guidance is 'best practice' and so decisions about the pace of change are for local commissioners. The treatment times given are to guide local planning and local performance assessment. The Department has however worked with the national health service to put in place appropriate monitoring mechanisms to assess progress. A recent survey of the 31 cardiac clinical networks identified that 10 had achieved 24/7 coverage and that a further 18 had plans for the introduction of primary angioplasty.

www.heart.nhs.uk/heart/CardiacNetworks/tabid/105/Default.aspx#ss

Heroin: Rehabilitation

John Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment his Department has made of the merits of treatment of heroin addicts with morphine; and if he will make a statement. [255480]

Dawn Primarolo: As part of the Department-commissioned "Drug Misuse and Dependence: UK Guidelines on Clinical Management (2007)", the clinical guidelines expert group who developed the document commented on the potential role of slow release oral morphine (SROM) in the treatment of drug dependence. It stated that SROM is not licensed in the UK for the treatment of opiate dependence and should not normally be used in the community. A copy of the document has already been placed in the Library.

However, the clinical guidelines expert group also acknowledged European research that has shown that SROM can be effective in treating drug dependent patients who 'fail to tolerate methadone' but recommended that it should only be used in the United Kingdom by specialist clinicians who have the necessary competencies to do so.

Within UK clinical settings morphine is mainly used for the management of severe and chronic pain, especially in palliative care.

The Department commissioned the National Institute of Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) to examine and make recommendations on the most effective drugs for substitute opioid treatment. In 2007, NICE recommended methadone and buprenorphine as the most effective substitute opioids to be used in the treatment of opiate dependence.

Hip Replacements

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many hip replacements were performed within the NHS in (a) England and (b) Sefton in each year since 2003. [253411]

Ann Keen: The number of hip replacements performed within the national health service in England and the number of patients having a hip replacement procedure whose general practitioner's post code is within the Sefton National Health Service Primary Care Trust area are shown in the following table.

	Sefton Primary Care Trust	England
2006-07	601	89,254
2005-06	553	84,914
2004-05	518	82,919

Hospital Beds

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Health on how many days each NHS hospital trust has been placed on its highest level of alert because of a shortage of beds since 1 November 2008. [254399]

Mr. Bradshaw: This information is not held centrally in the format requested. The information may be available from individual trusts.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many single bedrooms are provided for patient use by each NHS organisation according to estates returns information collection data; [255578]

(2) how many single bedrooms have been provided for patient use by each NHS organisation according to estates returns information collection data in each year since 1997-98. [255579]

Ann Keen: The information is not available in the format requested.

Since 2002-03, the Department has collected annual data from national health service trusts on the percentage of the total number of available beds that are single bedrooms, through the Estates Returns Information Collection (ERIC). The actual number of single bedrooms is calculated by applying the percentage to the total number of available beds which is also collected by ERIC. The available data for each year since 2002-03 has been placed in the Library.

The proportion of single bedrooms across the national health service estate in England has risen from 22.6 per cent. in 2002-03 to 30.7 per cent. in 2007-08.

Hospitals: Cleaning Services

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) on what date the deep clean of Driffield Hospital took place; and at what cost; [256029]

(2) on what date the deep clean of Bridlington Hospital took place; and at what cost; [256030]

(3) what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of deep cleaning of NHS hospitals in reducing the incidence of MRSA infections. [256031]

Ann Keen: Deep cleaning is just part of a comprehensive range of measures to improve cleanliness and tackle infections set out in the strategy 'Clean, Safe Care: Reducing Infections and Saving Lives', a copy of which is already available in the Library.

The national deep clean programme was overseen by strategic health authorities (SHAs). Information about the specific timing and cost of each individual trust's deep clean was not collected centrally. On 17 January 2008, a written ministerial statement confirmed that out of 328 trusts, 263 had started their deep clean and that the remaining 65 trusts all had agreed plans in place. My right. hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Health (Alan Johnson) made a further written statement on 21 April 2008 marking the end of the deep clean initiative for 2007-08. The same statement confirmed that SHAs had made available all the funding promised for the programme, a total of £62.5 million. The spend for Yorkshire and Humber SHA was £5 million.

On completion of the national deep clean programme, SHAs took the lead in evaluating the impact of each trust's deep clean actions as each programme was different. It was recognised that no single measurement method would pick up all the benefits, particularly as trusts implemented a wide range of measures to improve cleanliness and tackle healthcare associated infections.

The Department subsequently worked with SHAs to draw up examples of where a deep clean had had a demonstrable effect in improving patient care and experience. A compendium of good practice, 'From Deep Clean to Keep Clean' was published in October 2008 to form the basis of shared learning across the national health service. A copy of the compendium has been placed in the Library and is available on the Department's website at:

www.dh.gov.uk/en/Publicationsandstatistics/Publications/PublicationsPolicyAndGuidance/DH_089716

Hospitals: Waiting Lists

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many patients in (a) West Chelmsford constituency and (b) England have had operations cancelled within a week of the scheduled date in the last 12 months. [254750]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department do not collect the number of operations cancelled within a week of the scheduled date of the operation.

The Department do collect data on the number of operations cancelled at the last minute[1] for non-clinical reasons. Data on last minute cancellations for non clinical reasons for Mid Essex Hospitals NHS Trust and England are shown in the following table.

[1] A last minute cancellation is one that occurs on the day the patient was due to arrive, after they have arrived in hospital or on the day of their operation.

Operations cancelled at the last minute for non-clinical reasons, Mid Essex Hospitals NHS Trust and England

	Quarter	Mid Essex	England

If a patient's operation is cancelled by the hospital on or after the day of admission (including the day of surgery) for non clinical reasons, the hospital will have to offer another binding date within a maximum of the next 28 days, or fund the patient's treatment at the time and hospital of the patient's choice.

Incontinence: Medical Equipment

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many items of correspondence he received relating to the Review of Part IX of the Drug Tariff from members of the public in (a) 2006, (b) 2007 and (c) 2008; [255652]

(2) when he plans to publish his Department's response to the most recent consultation on changes to Part IX of the Drug Tariff. [255653]

Phil Hope: The following table sets out the level of correspondence the Department received which related to the review of Part IX of the Drug Tariff.

The majority of this information will have come from members of the public.

	Number
2006	1,063
2007	1,254
2008	2,842

Details of the new arrangements under Part IX of the Drug Tariff for the provision of stoma and urology appliances—and related services—in primary care will be published shortly, together with a summary of the responses to the last consultation.

Mesothelioma

John Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what Government funding has been provided for research into mesothelioma in the last 10 years; and what funding for such research is planned over the next five years. [255475]

Dawn Primarolo: Over the last 10 years, the main part of the Department's research and development budget has been allocated to and managed by national health service organisations.

Those organisations have accounted for their use of the allocations they have received from the Department in an annual research and development report. The reports identify total, aggregated expenditure on national priority areas, including cancer. They do not provide details of research into particular cancer sites.

The National Cancer Research Institute (NCRI), a United Kingdom wide partnership between government, charities and industry, makes cancer research information available online via the International Cancer Research Portfolio database at:

www.cancerportfolio.org.

Details of current Departmental and Medical Research Council (MRC) site-specific cancer research can be found through this database.

The MRC is one of the main agencies through which the Government supports biomedical research. The MRC is an independent body funded by the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills.

MRC expenditure over the last 10 years on lung cancer research, including research relating to mesothelioma, has been:

	£ million
1998-99	0.3
1999-2000	0.2
2000-01	0.6
2001-02	1.6
2002-03	1.8
2003-04	2.1
2004-05	1.5
2005-06	1.6

These figures include funding to the MRC Clinical Trials Unit for the clinical trials in lung cancer programme which included support for the MS01 trial "(Active symptom control with or without chemotherapy for patients with malignant pleural mesothelioma)".

The usual practice of the Department's National Institute for Health Research and of the MRC is not to ring-fence funds for expenditure on particular topics: research proposals in all areas compete for the funding available. Future levels of expenditure on lung cancer research will be determined by the success of relevant bids for funding.

Motor Neurone Disease: Medical Treatments

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) when he expects the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence to produce guidance on the use of non-invasive ventilation in the care of those suffering from motor neurone disease; [255344]

(2) when the use of non-invasive ventilation in the care of those suffering from motor neurone disease was first proposed as a subject for National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence guidance. [255345]

Dawn Primarolo: Non-invasive ventilation for the treatment of motor neurone disease was first proposed as a topic for the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) in January 2006. NICE currently expects to issue a short clinical guideline for this topic in early 2011.

NHS: Drugs

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what reasons he has identified for the change in the number of prescription items (a) dispensed in the community and (b) dispensed in hospital since 1997. [255453]

Phil Hope: The reasons for the increase in number of prescription items dispensed in the community since 1997 are likely to include an increase in the numbers of patients being treated, improved access to medicines, the availability of additional treatments and demographic changes.

Information on the number of prescriptions items dispensed in hospitals is not available, but we would expect to see an increase in the number of items dispensed in hospitals for similar reasons.

NHS: Reorganisation

Dr. Stoate: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what progress his Department is making in bringing forward the pilot programme that was announced in the NHS Next Stage Review and the Primary and Community Care Strategy in 2008 to test and evaluate new models of integrated care; and if he will make a statement. [254547]

Mr. Bradshaw: I refer my hon. Friend to the written answer I gave the hon. Member for South Cambridgeshire (Mr. Lansley) on 26 January 2009, Official Report, column 247W.

Out-patients: Per Capita Costs

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary o[illegible]tate for Health what the average cost per outpat[illegible]ce was across all specialties in each year sin[illegible]98. [254532]

Mr. Bradshaw: The information requested is shown in the following table.

	Average cost, based on Trust or Trust and PCT data submitted	Average cost per outpatient attendance across all specialties[1] (£)
1997-98	[2]—	[2]—
1998-99	Trusts only	56
1999-2000	Trusts only	73
2000-01	Trusts and PCTs	78
2001-02	Trusts and PCTs	86
2002-03	Trusts and PCTs	92
2003-04	Trusts and PCTs	98
2004-05	Trusts and PCTs	105
2005-06	Trusts and PCTs	102
2006-07[3]	Trusts and PCTs	91

[1] The effect of inflation has not been accounted for in these figures. Were the figures to be adjusted for inflation (using the latest GDP deflator), this would give an average real terms increase in average cost of around 3.6 per cent. per year.

[2] Out-patient attendance cost data was not collected in 1997-98.

[3] 2006-07 is the most recent year for which data has been published.

National Schedule of Reference Costs

There have been a number of changes to the reference costs collection during the period covered by these figures. They generally fall into two key areas: (i) changes to the scope of the data collected (for example, over time an increased number of treatment function codes (TFCs) have been collected), and (ii) greater disaggregation over time (for example, separately collecting non-consultant-led activity from 2006-07). The changes over time mean that it is difficult to make comparisons between years without fully understanding the underlying changes. The figures presented are based on the full scope of outpatient attendance costs collected in Reference Costs in each year, and are therefore the most accurate reflection of the average cost per outpatient attendance in each year, based on the data collected.

PatientPak

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 28 January 2009, Official Report, column 627W, on PatientPak, (1) on how many occasions in the last 12 months NHS hospitals have provided in-patients with special soap and shampoo to prevent viral and bacterial infections; [255621]

(2) which proven antimicrobial formula is contained in the special soap and shampoo provided to in-patients by NHS hospitals to prevent viral and bacterial infections; [255622]

(3) under which circumstances NHS hospitals provide in-patients with special soap and shampoo to prevent viral and bacterial infections when such an infection (a) has and (b) has not been detected in a hospital. [255623]

Ann Keen: The decision to provide patients with antimicrobial soap and shampoo is a local one based on local infection prevention and control policies.

Information on which products are used and how frequently is not collected centrally, however the antimicrobial compounds used in these products include chlorhexidine gluconate and triclosan as the active ingredients.

Pharmacy

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what percentage of all prescriptions issued (a) in England and (b) in each primary care trust area have been dispensed in instalments through repeat dispensing in each of the last two years; [255505]

(2) what proportion of prescription items were dispensed through repeat dispensing arrangements (a) in England and (b) in each primary care trust area in the latest year for which figures are available. [255506]

Phil Hope: Information is not held on the number of prescriptions issued, only on the number issued and then dispensed.

In 2007 the proportion of all items prescribed in the community in England and dispensed in the United Kingdom through repeat dispensing arrangements was 1.4 per cent. of all items dispensed, taken from the Prescription Cost Analysis (PCA) system database. Figures for individual primary care trusts in the same period are taken from the Prescribing Analysis and CosT tool (PACT) system and have been placed in the Library.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will place in the Library a copy of the evaluation of patient drug record cards, referred to on page 35 of his Department's White Paper, Pharmacy in England, Cm 7431. [255508]

Phil Hope: A copy of An Evaluation of the Controlled Drug Recording System Pilot Final Report, commissioned by the Department and produced by the University of Birmingham Health Services Management Centre in March 2008, has been placed in the Library.

A working group is considering how the issues identified in the report can be resolved and effectively implemented.

Prescriptions

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 19 January 2009, Official Report, columns 1202-3W, on prescriptions, on how many occasions there has been a report of (a) an incident of overdose with a controlled drug and (b) other serious incidents reported to the Commission for Social Care Inspection involving a resident in a care establishment in Warrington; and to which individual service each report was made. [250893]

Phil Hope: The requirement for care homes to report incidents to the Commission for Social Care Inspection (CSCI) is set out in the Care Home Regulations 2001. Regulation 37 requires reports to be made to CSCI without delay of:

> The death of any service user;
> The outbreak in the care home of any serious infectious disease;
> Serious injury to a service user;
> Serious illness of a service user (other than in a nursing home);
> Any event in the care home which adversely affects the well-being or safety of a service user;
> Any theft, burglary or accident in the care home; and
> Any allegation of misconduct by the registered person or a worker at the home.

If a serious incident is reported to CSCI under Regulation 37 of the Care Homes Regulations, which governs notification of death, illness and other events in care homes, it is followed up by the CSCI regulation inspector or regulation manager associated with that service. Depending on circumstances, they may refer the issue to the pharmacist inspector. It is one of CSCI's referral criteria to contact a pharmacist inspector and this may result in inspection of the care home and a resulting report with requirements and recommendations. If the overdose is a result of an incorrect prescription from the general practitioner, the pharmacist inspector will liaise via the local intelligence network through the national health service accountable officer at the relevant primary care trust, who will deal with the issue.

We are informed by CSCI that there were 2,716 notifications to CSCI under Regulation 37 of incidents in care homes in Warrington in the years 2006 to 2008. The following table shows a breakdown of numbers of notifications between care homes. We are informed by CSCI that to extract the incidents involving overdose with a controlled drug from these notifications would involve disproportionate cost.

Prescriptions: ICT

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many prescription messages have been issued using the electronic prescription service in each quarter since the service became operational; how many prescription messages (a) were downloaded for dispensing, (b) resulted in a prescription being dispensed and (c) resulted in a prescription being dispensed expressed as a proportion of all prescriptions dispensed in the community in each such quarter. [255443]

Mr. Bradshaw: In release one of the Electronic Prescription Service (EPS), an electronic message is transmitted to the EPS in parallel with a paper FP10 prescription form which is handed to the patient. The following table provides the number of electronic messages transmitted through the service since its inception.

	Total number of EPS R1 prescription messages generated	Total number of EPS R1 prescription messages downloaded	Total number of EPS R1 prescription messages where dispensed status uploaded	Percentage of scripts generated via EPS subsequently shown as dispensed	Dispensed as a percentage of total scripts

No data are held to show the total number of prescriptions generated by EPS that are actually dispensed. This is because the dispenser is not required to use EPS Release one to dispense. The figures available show how many were downloaded by the dispenser and the number where the dispenser uploaded the dispensing status.

Spinal Injuries: North East

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many beds are allocated for patients with spinal cord injury in the North East. [254909]

Ann Keen: The information is not collected centrally. This information can instead be obtained direct from the South Tees Hospitals NHS Trust.

St. John Ambulance Association and Brigade: South East

Greg Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many times St John Ambulance provided an emergency response on behalf of the South East Coast Ambulance Service in each of the last 12 months. [255851]

Mr. Bradshaw: The information requested is not collected centrally. The hon. Member may wish to raise his query directly with South East Coast Ambulance Service NHS Trust.

Surgery: Bexley

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his estimate is of the number of patients in the London Borough of Bexley who have had operations cancelled within a week of the scheduled date in the last 12 months. [255718]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department does not collect the number of operations cancelled within a week of the scheduled date of the operation.

The Department does collect data on the number of operations cancelled at the last minute for non-clinical reasons.

JUSTICE

Civil Proceedings: Legal Costs

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice on how many occasions wasted costs have been ordered against the Crown Prosecution Service in magistrates' courts in each of the last five years; and what the total costs awarded were. [254261]

The Solicitor-General: I have been asked to reply.

The following table provides a summary of the total number and value of costs awarded against the Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) in the last three financial years. Records for the preceding years are not available due to a change in the department's finance system.

The CPS does not record the jurisdiction of the court making the order and therefore cannot disaggregate costs orders made in magistrates courts from the figures in respect of all courts.

The CPS's records do not distinguish between awards made under section 19(1) of the Prosecution of Offences Act 1985 and regulation 3 of the Costs in Criminal Cases (General) Regulations 1986, which provides for awards of costs between parties, and those made under section 19A, which provides for the court to order costs, or decide it is not appropriate and disallow a legal or other representative from being liable for costs.

Every effort has been made to ensure that the information is comprehensive and correct but a full reconciliation against the original transactions has not been performed because of time and cost constraints.

Coroners: Wiltshire

Robert Key: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the (a) average and (b) longest time was between a coroner being asked to hold a treasure inquest and the start of the inquest for finds from Wiltshire in 2007; and if he will make a statement. [255538]

Bridget Prentice: The Ministry of Justice collects statistics on the number of finds under the Treasure Act 1996 reported to coroners in England and Wales during each calendar year, the number of treasure inquests concluded during the year and, of these, the number of verdicts of treasure returned. Information is not collected on the time taken to conduct treasure inquests.

The statistics show that 16 finds under the Treasure Act were reported to the coroner for Wiltshire and Swindon during 2007. 11 treasure inquests were concluded during the year, all of which resulted in a verdict of treasure.

Courts: Internet

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will make it his policy for court transcripts to be posted on the internet; and if he will make a statement. [255361]

Bridget Prentice: The Government have announced their intention to open up the criminal justice system through the power of the internet by publishing the outcomes of criminal cases on a public-facing website. Further details on this will be brought forward in the spring. However this will not, include court transcripts.

The Government also plan to open up the family courts by increasing the amount and quality of information coming from the courts.

At present, anonymised judgments of the Court of Appeal, and in some instances of the High Court, are made public. But this is not the situation for the county courts or the family proceedings courts, which deal with the bulk of family law cases.

We have therefore decided to pilot the provision of written judgments when a final order is made in certain family cases.

The courts in the pilot areas—Leeds, Wolverhampton and Cardiff—will, for the first time, routinely produce a written record of the decision for the parties involved. In selected cases where the court is making life-changing decisions for a child, they will publish an anonymised judgment online so that the wider public can read it.

Judgments from the Civil and Criminal Divisions of the Court of Appeal, including the Administrative Court, selected by the Judge concerned, are available at no charge on the British and Irish Legal Information Institute (BAILII) database. If a High Court judgment is not available by this means, the court can be contacted direct for a copy.

Crown Dependencies: Financial Services

Mrs. Laing: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what steps his Department takes to facilitate co-operation between Crown Dependencies and HM Treasury on financial regulation matters. [255487]

Mr. Wills: There is regular contact at a senior level between officials in HM Treasury and the Ministry of Justice and between senior officials in the Ministry of Justice and the administrations in the Crown Dependencies. Where there is a need, Ministry of Justice officials ensure appropriate contact is made between HM Treasury and the Islands' administrations.

Departmental Impact Assessments

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many equalities impact assessments his Department has undertaken in the last 12 month period for which figures are available; and what estimate he has made of the cost to the public purse of such assessments. [255068]

Mr. Wills: In 2007-08 the Ministry of Justice completed and published 1,606 Equality Impact Assessments (EIAs). The cost for EIAs is not held centrally and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Drugs: Crime

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many (a) males and (b) females who were (i) under 17, (ii) between 17 and 21, (iii) between 21 and 25, (iv) between 25 and 29 and (v) over 30 years of age were convicted of drug offences in the Chelmsford division of the Essex police force area in each of the last 10 years. [254838]

Maria Eagle: Information showing the number of males and females found guilty at all courts for drug offences in Essex police force area broken down by age is given in the following table. Court data are not collected centrally by police force division.

The statistics relate to persons for whom these offences were the principal offences for which they were dealt with. When a defendant has been found guilty of two or more offences the principal offence is the offence for which the heaviest penalty is imposed. Where the same disposal is imposed for two or more offences, the offence selected is the offence for which the statutory maximum penalty is the most severe.

However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the courts and police forces. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.

Human Trafficking: Essex

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) how many (a) adults and (b) children in Essex were identified as having been trafficked in each of the last three years; [254782]

(2) what accommodation in Essex his Department and its agencies provide for those identified as having been trafficked into the UK. [254785]

Maria Eagle: The Government fund the Poppy project to provide adult victims that have been trafficked into sexual exploitation with safe, appropriate accommodation and a range of support services. Although the accommodation is based within the London region the project takes national referrals and provides an outreach service. This year's grant also includes a small flexible budget to temporary accommodate victims with other refuges if the project reaches capacity. We will be expanding the services available to adult victims of human trafficking this year.

Responsibility for the care, protection and accommodation of child trafficking victims falls within the designated responsibilities of local authorities for safeguarding and promoting the welfare of all children under the provisions of the 1989 and 2004 Children Acts.

Central Government do not hold a record on the number of victims identified as being trafficked by region. We are developing a national referral mechanism to help in the identification and referral of all victims under our implementation plans for the Council of Europe Convention on Action against Trafficking in Human Beings. This will also provide a mechanism for more co-ordinated national data collection on identified victims.

Land

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) who the absolute owner of land is in (a) England, (b) Scotland, (c) Northern Ireland, (d) Wales, (e) Cornwall and (f) the Isles of Scilly; [255057]

(2) who has responsibility for land in (a) England, (b) Scotland, (c) Northern Ireland, (d) Wales, (e) Cornwall and (f) the Isles of Scilly under circumstances in which deeds to land have been lost. [255058]

Bridget Prentice: : The Crown is the ultimate owner of all land in England and Wales (including the Isles of Scilly): all other owners hold an estate in land. Although there is some land that the Crown has never granted away, most land is held of the Crown as freehold or leasehold. If there is no other owner, land will belong to the Crown, the Duchy of Lancaster or the Duchy of Cornwall.

The loss of title deeds does not alter the ownership of land or responsibility for it in England and Wales (including the Isles of Scilly). Title deeds are evidence of ownership of unregistered land. If the deeds have been lost, other evidence could be used to prove ownership. Title to registered land is derived from the register of title maintained under the Land Registration Act 2002.

Responsibility for land law and succession law in Scotland and Northern Ireland is devolved. Questions about land law in these jurisdictions should be addressed to the Scottish Executive and the Department of Finance and Personnel in Northern Ireland respectively.

Legal Aid Scheme

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many firms undertook criminal legal aid work in (a) 2002 and (b) 2008. [255253]

Mr. Malik: The number of contracts held between the Legal Services Commission and solicitors' offices to provide legal aid under the General Criminal Contract was 2,909 at 31 March 2002. At 31 March 2008 the number of contracts held was 2,230. These figures do not include former providers with claims yet to be paid or those completing existing cases but not taking on new work.

Before the introduction of the Unified Contract for crime work in July 2008, solicitor firms practising from more than one office needed to hold a separate contract for each office that provided legal aid. However, from 14 July 2008 there were 1,799 providers contracted under the new contracts to offer criminal legal aid through 2,274 individual offices. The LSC has continued to maintain 100 per cent. coverage of its police station and magistrates court duty solicitor schemes through these providers.

The reduction in the number of contracts reflects the trend in the last several years of offices doing small amounts of legal aid work to drop out of the market or merge with other offices, so that the work is done in larger volumes at fewer offices. This has not affected the availability of legal aid to those that need it.

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much was paid by his Department for (a) criminal legal aid work and (b) other legal aid work in each of the last five years. [255259]

Mr. Malik: The Ministry of Justice funds legal aid through a grant to the Legal Services Commission (LSC). The following table shows the grant paid to the LSC in each of the financial years 2003-04 to 2007-08 for its provision of Criminal Defence Service (CDS) and the Community Legal Service (CLS). All criminal legal aid work is funded by the CDS grant, and all other legal aid work funded by the CLS grant.

Prison Accommodation

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners there were in (a) England and Wales and (b) Winchester Prison on the latest date for which figures are available; what the maximum prison capacity in England and Wales is; and what the maximum capacity of Winchester Prison is. [256278]

Mr. Hanson: At the end of January 2009, the latest date for which figures are available, there were 82,240 prisoners detained in all prison establishments in England and Wales and 701 prisoners in HMP Winchester. The useable operational capacity for all prison establishments in England and Wales was 84,902 and the operational capacity of HMP Winchester was 706.

Operational capacity for establishments is the total number of prisoners that an establishment can hold taking into account control, security and the proper operation of the planned regime.

These figures have been drawn from administrative IT systems, which, as with any large scale recording system, are subject to possible errors with data entry and processing.

Sark

Mrs. Laing: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what steps his Department plans to take in response to the Court of Appeal ruling on 5 December 2008 in the case of R (Barclay and others) v. Lord Chancellor and Secretary of State for Justice and others. [255488]

Mr. Wills: In a letter to the Seneschal, the Minister for the Crown Dependencies, Lord Bach, has made clear that both he and officials in the Ministry of Justice expect to be kept informed of the progress made in reforming the role of the Seneschal.

Special Educational Needs: Tribunals

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many appeals have been made to the Special Educational Needs and Disability Tribunal in each of the last 10 years; and how many of those appeals were successful. [255708]

Range[1]	Appeals Received[2]	Appeals Registered	Successful[3]
1998-99	2,595	2,412	921
1999-00	2,642	2,463	931

2006-07	3,370	3,110	673
2007-08	3,635	3,392	624

[1] The data relate to academic years, September to August.

[2] The SEND annual data are presented on the basis of: All Appeals Received and Appeals Registered. The Appeal Received data also include appeals received by SEND that fall outside of SEND jurisdiction. The Appeals Registered data include all the appeals that are accepted by SEND as falling within its jurisdiction and which are taken forward to hearing and disposal.

[3] The successful decisions issued do not relate to appeals registered in that particular year; this figure will include appeals which were carried over from the preceding year. The registered appeals are those which could be decided i.e. those which were within jurisdiction and within the time limits in which an appeal must be lodged.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Chelmsford Prison: Education

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many (a) prisoners and (b) young offenders obtained qualifications while at HM Prison Chelmsford in each of the last five years. [254753]

Mr. Simon: Qualifications at HMP Chelmsford are achieved by offenders in a variety of areas of the prison's work. Data are not recorded uniformly although we will improve this through the Learning and Skills Council's IT-based Learner Record system shortly to roll-out across prisons. As well as solving the longstanding problem of prisoner learner data not following them as they move from prison to prison, the new system will for the first time allow all learning outcomes, no matter by whom delivered in the prison, to be recorded on a single record for the learner.

Health and safety qualifications are delivered in the prison's workshops. 109 qualifications were achieved in 2005, 350 in 2006, 305 in 2007 and 325 in 2008. A further 734 qualifications, including in textiles and engineering, have been delivered in the prison's workshops since 2005. Food hygiene qualifications are delivered in the prison kitchens, literacy and numeracy qualifications through Learn Direct provision, parenting qualifications through the Ormiston Trust, a variety of information technology qualifications through a Prison ICT Academy (PICTA) workshop.

The physical education department at the prison has recorded the award of 272 qualifications in financial year 2004-05, 282 in 2005-06, 406 in 2006-07 and 438 in 2007-08. The information is not recorded by age.

Learning and Skills Council data for the 2006-07 academic year shows a total of 52 individual achievements recorded by the offender learning and skills service provider at HMP Chelmsford, of which 15 were achieved by those aged under 21. Final data for 2007-08 are not yet available, but indications are that there were a total of 524 achievements, of which 191 were achieved by those aged under 21. We believe there was significant under-recording of achievements in 2006-07, which we have now taken steps to resolve.

Prior to the 2006-07 academic year, education at HMP Chelmsford was provided by Norwich City College. Data from that period show there were 471 awards recorded against the HM Prison Service Key Performance Target for basic skills in financial year 2003-04, 1,123 in 2004-05, 1,241 in 2005-06 and 617 awards in the first four months of financial year 2006-07.

Departmental Impact Assessments

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many equalities impact assessments his Department has undertaken in the last 12 month period for which figures are available; and what estimate he has made of the cost to the public purse of such assessments. [255070]

Mr. Simon: In the last 12 months DIUS has undertaken four equality impact assessments. As this is part of routine policy development, I have made no separate estimate of the cost.

Departmental Plants

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much his Department has spent on (a) pot plants and (b) cut flowers in each year since it was established. [256117]

Mr. Simon: The Department occupies space in buildings that are managed by other Government Departments. The Department's contribution towards the cost of plants and flowers is:

2007-08	517
2008-09	1,722
Total	2,239

This includes expenditure on plant displays and maintenance, purchase of Christmas trees and Remembrance Day wreaths and flowers, and cannot be further broken down between pot plants and flowers.

Departmental Recruitment

Justine Greening: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many new recruits his Department took on in (a) 2005-06, (b) 2006-07, (c) 2007-08 and (d) 2008-09, how many of these were taken on as (i) permanent, (ii) temporary and (iii) agency staff; and what estimate he has made of the equivalent figures for (A) 2009-10 and (B) 2010-11. [254463]

Mr. Simon: The Department was created on 28 June 2007. 34 new recruits joined the Department up to 31 March 2008 and to date, 51 have joined since 1 April 2008. A breakdown of permanent and temporary staff could be produced only at disproportionate cost. The Department does not hold central records of recruitment campaigns as the majority of vacancies are managed locally by individual vacancy managers. A joint campaign was run on behalf of the DIUS and the Department for Children, Schools and Families for the Private Office in May 2008 which resulted in 16 executive officers being recruited on a permanent basis into the Department.

The number of agency staff engaged by the Department since its creation is shown in the following table. January 2009 figures are not available yet.

Financial year	Agency staff
July 2007 to March 2008	22
April 2008 to December 2008	19

We have no reason to suppose that figures for permanent or agency staff will vary significantly in 2009-10 and 2010-11 but we will continue to review.

Forward Commitment Procurement Model

Mr. Boswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what plans he has to develop the Forward Commitment Procurement Model for wider use in public sector procurement. [255015]

Mr. Simon: In November, DIUS launched the Innovation for Sustainability Competition to identify and develop Forward Commitment Procurement (FCP) projects in the public sector. The programme is designed to have a multiplier effect by creating a portfolio of FCP projects which can be used as exemplars and a broad base of public sector leaders and professionals who understand and can promote FCP approaches to sustainability and innovation.

We are working with BERR and OGC to take forward the recommendations of the recent report by Anne Glover—"Accelerating the SME Economic Engine", including wider use of outcome-based specifications across the public sector, for example through use of FCP.

Special Educational Needs: Young Offenders

Mrs. Moon: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps he is taking to ensure that when young offenders have previously been subject to a statement of special educational needs that the details of the statement are made available to the education department at the young offender's institution. [255439]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: I have been asked to reply.

The "Offender Learning Journey" sets out our core expectations for the delivery of education and training for children and young people in YOIs. It requires that the education provider working in custody must work in partnership with other establishments, such as the young person's previous school, to obtain relevant educational information including any statement of special educational needs and any psychologist's report on previous learning difficulties. The "Offender Learning Journey" also requires all young people should be diagnostically assessed within 10 working days of entry to custody and should be screened for specific learning difficulties.

The Apprenticeships, Skills, Children and Learning Bill which was introduced into Parliament on 4 February includes a clause which places a new duty on local education authorities in England and Wales with youth accommodation in their area to secure suitable education for those children and young people detained in custody. In carrying out this duty, local authorities will need to have regard to young peoples' special educational needs or learning difficulties. This duty is subject to the successful passage of the Bill through Parliament.

Students: Loans

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many people defaulted on student loan repayments in each of the last five years; and what action was taken in relation to such people. [255024]

Mr. Lammy: The data are shown in the following table.

Student loan borrowers in arrears status at the end of each financial year[1], England

	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08[2]
Income-contingent loan borrowers overseas in arrears	200	400	500
Mortgage-style loan borrowers in arrears[3]	85,800	83,800	81,900
Total borrowers in arrears[3]	86,000	84,200	82,400

[1] Figures rounded to nearest 100. Consistent information is not available for earlier years.

[2] Provisional.

[3] Mortgage-style loan borrowers with accounts in more than one status may be counted more than once. Figures exclude mortgage-style borrowers deferring repayments due to income below the repayment threshold with arrears on their accounts. In March 2008, there were 6,500 borrowers in deferment with arrears.

Student Loans Company.

Student loans taken out since 1 September 1998 have income-contingent repayment where borrowers repay at a rate of 9 per cent. of earnings above £15,000, usually collected by employers alongside income tax and national insurance contributions. It is not normally possible to default on these repayments, except where a borrower moves abroad and repayments are made direct to the Student Loans Company. In these cases, the company traces the borrowers and enforces the debt.

Borrowers with the older mortgage-style loans repay instalments to the Student Loans Company whenever their annual income exceeds the repayment threshold, currently £25,936, usually through direct debits. The company takes a number of steps to trace borrowers who are not repaying and to bring their accounts into order, and—as a last resort—will take cases to court. Exceptions are made for some vulnerable borrowers.

Vocational Training

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many businesses in (a) the London Borough of Bexley, (b) London and (c) England have signed the Skills Pledge. [253916]

Mr. Simon: The Skills Pledge is a voluntary, public commitment by employers to support their employees to develop their basic skills, including literacy and numeracy, and work towards relevant, valuable qualifications to at least level 2 (equivalent to five good GCSEs).

Since the launch of the Skills Pledge in June 2007 we have made excellent progress. The latest published figures up until November 2008, show that 12 organisations in the London borough of Bexley; 2,008 organisations in the London LSC region and 10,295 organisations in England have made the Skills Pledge. Please note that these figures include both public and private organisations.

TREASURY

Billing: Public Sector

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what progress his Department has made in ensuring that invoices for public sector contracts are paid within 10 days. [256182]

Angela Eagle: The Department has been monitoring its performance against the requirement to pay all invoices within 10 days. For the period between November 2008 and January 2009, 90 per cent. of invoices were paid within 10 days. All staff involved in the processing of invoices are receiving training and regular reports on directorate's performances are made to the Treasury Board and the Finance Committee.

Borrowing: Public Sector

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his policy is on the level of funding of the Government's borrowing needs. [254586]

Yvette Cooper: The Government's policy on funding the gross financing requirement is set out in the "Debt Management Review" 1995, published by HM Treasury and the Bank of England, which states that:

> "Beginning in 1996-97, the Government has decided to introduce a new framework to financing... The Government will aim to sell sufficient gilts of any maturity, Treasury bills and National Savings products to finance the CGBR (plus maturing debt and any net increase in the official foreign exchange reserves). All debt such issuance will take place within a set maturity structure, to be determined and published each year.... The Government has no current plans to make significantly greater use than at present of short-term debt issuance...."

The most recent expression of this policy was set out in paragraph 4.1 of the "Debt and reserves management report" 2008-09, published alongside Budget 2008, which states that:

> "The Government intends to continue to finance the central government net cash requirement (CGNCR) using the framework that was established in the 1995 Debt Management Review. The Government aims to finance its net cash requirement plus maturing debt and any financing required for additional net foreign currency reserves through the issuance of debt. All such debt issuance will take place within a set maturity structure..."

Business: Government Assistance

Mr. Ian Taylor: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will assess the merits of providing financial assistance to small and medium-sized businesses to meet their costs in respect of making redundancies during the recession. [255581]

Ian Pearson: The Government recognise the need of supporting small and medium-sized business during the recession. In the pre-Budget report on 24 November 2008, my right hon. Friend the Chancellor of the Exchequer announced a package of Government support for small and medium-sized businesses to help them through the current economic difficulties. Since then, the Government have been working alongside the banks, business organisations and financial organisations to ensure that we speedily transform this announcement into real help for business.

On 14 January 2009, as part of the Government's Real Help for Business, the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform announced that businesses can now access the full range of support. In particular, the Enterprise "Finance Guarantee" is designed to help good businesses, who are currently not able to access the finance they need, to secure loans of between £1,000 and £1 million through the Government guarantee. This scheme will enable banks to open additional lines of credit worth £1.3 billion, available to businesses with turnover up to £25 million. It is available from a range of high street banks.

Child Benefit

Steve Webb: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the cost to the Exchequer of increasing child benefit for the first child by (a) £1, (b) £1.50, (c) £2, (d) £2.50, (e) £3, (f) £3.50 and (g) £4 per week above indexation in 2010-11 in each of the next five years; and if he will make a statement. [255658]

Mr. Timms: The estimated annual cost of increasing the first child rate by the requested amounts are shown in the following table.

Estimated cost to the Department

£ million

Increasing child benefit for the first child by:	2010-11	2011-12	2012-13	2013-14	2014-15

£4	1,570	1,590	1,650	1,700	1,750

Child Tax Credit

Steve Webb: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the cost to the Exchequer of increasing the child element of child tax credit by (a) £10, (b) £20, (c) £30, (d) £40, (e) £50 and (f) £60 per year above indexation in 2010-11 in each of the next five years; and if he will make a statement. [255657]

Mr. Timms: Estimates of the cost of increasing the child element of child tax credit by (a) £10, (b) £20, (c) £30, (d) £40, (e) £50 and (f) £60 per year above indexation in 2010-11 in each of the next five years are provided in the following table.

Estimated cost of increasing the child element of child tax credit per year

£ million

Increase in child element in 2010-11	2010-11	2011-12	2012-13	2013-14
£10	80	60	80	80

£60	450	450	510	500

Estimates for 2014-15 are not available.

Departmental Plants

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much his Department spent on cut flowers in each of the last three years. [256174]

Angela Eagle: Prior to May 2008, HM Treasury contracted a supplier to provide fresh cut flowers for the reception area.

Financial year	£
2005-06	3,666.00
2006-07	3,666.00
2007-08	3,666.00
2008-09	562.45

The contract to provide cut flowers was terminated in May 2008.

Departmental Training

Mr. Hands: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 28 January 2009, Official Report, column 586W, on departmental training, what the (a) cost, (b) duration and (c) nature was of each of the courses undertaken; and which Ministers attended each. [254869]

Angela Eagle: As I set out in my answer of 28 January 2009, Official Report, column 586W, the three courses attended by Treasury Ministers in the period concerned were intended to enable Ministers to carry out their duties effectively in line with the Ministerial Code. Two courses lasted a day, and one 90 minutes. The total cost of the courses was £1,285. Identifying Ministers who undertake training would, or would be likely to, discourage participation in future training sessions, acting as a disincentive for Ministers to undertake formal professional development.

Loans: Energy

Gregory Barker: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment the Government has made of the merits of provision of loan guarantees by nationalised and part-nationalised banks for energy infrastructure projects. [255083]

Ian Pearson: Government have taken measures to recapitalise the financial sector and recently announced a package of support to address the cash flow, credit and capital needs. Taken together, these measures will provide a significant boost to companies seeking finance.

The Government are monitoring the effect of the current difficult economic circumstances on investment in large infrastructure projects.

Money Guidance Pathfinder Scheme

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what estimate he has made of the amount to be paid by his Department to AE4 in respect of its role as a face-to-face partner for the Money Guidance Pathfinder Scheme; [252234]

(2) which companies applied for contracts to act as face-to-face partners for the Money Guidance Pathfinder Scheme. [252235]

Ian Pearson: The £12 million Money Guidance pathfinder, jointly funded by HM Treasury and the Financial Services Authority, will launch this spring in the North West and North East of England. Delivery partners, which will offer Money Guidance on the telephone and face-to-face, were announced on 13 January. The Government cannot disclose the information requested about the tendering and contracting process for partners at this stage for reasons of commercial sensitivity.

Northern Rock

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the expected time scale for Northern Rock's repayment of its loans now is. [256220]

Ian Pearson: Last month, Northern Rock announced that in order to support the Government's policy to increase mortgage lending capacity in the market, it was slowing down the rate of mortgage redemptions and this will lead to it repaying its loan to Government at a slower rate.

Northern Rock is currently ahead of its loan repayment target having, on a net basis, reduced the amount outstanding to the Government by £15.4 billion to £11.5 billion at 30 September 2008 (from £26.9 billion at 31 December 2007).

Government are pleased with the progress Northern Rock has made in repaying the loan. We are working closely with the company to develop an updated strategy and business plan. A full statement will be made in due course once the strategic review is complete.

VAT

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the effect on (a) businesses and (b) the Exchequer of the doubling of value added tax (VAT) turnover threshold for the VAT cash accounting scheme in 2007. [255464]

Mr. Timms: The increase in the VAT cash accounting scheme threshold in 2007 was estimated to cost the Exchequer around £120 million in 2007-08, as published in table A1.1 of the Financial Statement and Budget Report 2007. This represents the amount of VAT receipts delayed from 2007-08 into 2008-09 as a result of increased membership of the scheme. The effect on individual businesses depends on their turnover and how quickly they make and receive payments in the course of their business activities. The overall benefit to business is equivalent to the cost to the Exchequer.

World Economy

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent discussions he has had with the US administration on the global economic downturn. [255849]

Ian Pearson: The Government's immediate priority are to continue to support the economy through these difficult times. As part of that, in addition to its regular monitoring of developments, HM Treasury has regular engagements with other Governments, including the US, on a range of issues relating to the economy.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Bookstart Scheme: Enfield

Joan Ryan: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many children in Enfield North constituency participated in the Bookstart programme in each year from 2002 to 2008. [248727]

Beverley Hughes: It is not possible to provide figures broken down by constituency. Booktrust tell me that the total number of free Bookstart packs issued to parents of children in Enfield local authority between April 2002 and March 2008 follows:

	Bookstart baby pack	Bookstart and packs	Bookstart Treasure Chest
2002-03	4,000	—	—
2003-04	4,000	—	—
2004-05	3,000	—	—
2005-06	3,300	3,630	3,520
2006-07	3,300	3,630	3,520
2007-08	3,300	3,630	3.520

Over the last two year period from 2006-08 we have provided £18 million for the Bookstart programme in England.

Children in Care

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many children in care from families resident in Scotland have been fostered through English local authorities in each year since 1999; [252668]

(2) how many children in care from families in Wales have been fostered through English local authorities in each year since 1999. [252667]

Beverley Hughes: Information on the number of children in care from families resident in Scotland or Wales who have been fostered by English local authorities in each year since 1999 is not collected centrally by the Department.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many children in care from families resident in England have been fostered under arrangements with (a) Welsh and (b) Scottish authorities in each year since 1999. [253325]

Beverley Hughes: There were 59,500 looked-after children in England at 31 March 2008, of which 42,300 were in foster placements. In total, 540 of the children looked after by English local authorities at 31 March 2008 were in placements outside England and 370 of these were in foster placements, this includes those in placements in Wales and Scotland. These figures exclude those children looked after under an agreed series of short-term placements.

It is not possible to provide figures for earlier years or to give figures for Wales and Scotland separately due to data availability.

Children: Databases

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether ContactPoint will record whether a child has previously been subject to a child protection plan. [253436]

Beverley Hughes: ContactPoint is an online tool to enable delivery of co-ordinated support for children and young people and ensure that they do not slip through the net. It will be the quick way for practitioners to find out who else is working with the same child. It will contain basic identifying information about all children and young people in England, up to their 18th birthday, and contact details for their parents/carers and for services working with a child or young person.

ContactPoint does not and will not record whether a child has previously been subject to a child protection plan, nor does it or will it hold any other case information. The data that can be held on ContactPoint is restricted by the Children Act 2004 Information Database (England) Regulations 2007.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what estimate he has made of the number of children whose information will be shielded on ContactPoint. [255713]

Beverley Hughes [holding answer 9 February 2009]: As in my previous response to the hon. Member for Basingstoke (Mrs. Miller) on 29 January 2009, Official Report, column 832W, we are not in a position at this early point to provide a definitive figure for number of records that may be shielded. However, early indications are that between a 100 records and 200 records on average may be shielded in each local authority.

Children: Poverty

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families when he expects to publish the initial results of the child poverty pilots announced in the 2007 Budget. [241458]

Beverley Hughes: The child poverty pilots announced in Budget 2008 will help lift children out of poverty and, importantly, will guide the Government as they work to eradicate child poverty. The pilots will run until April 2011. They will enable local authorities, and their partners, to use resources in the way that makes sense in their locality, test out new ideas and create an evidence base to inform the strategy to develop a sustainable solution to eradicating child poverty by 2020. Evaluation is an essential part of this process and we will ensure that all key findings are published and disseminated, including lessons learnt from the pilots as they progress.

Cross-Department Assessment Panel

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families who the members were of the cross-department assessment panel convened to assess bids for intensive intervention projects; and whether any members of the panel declared an interest. [240764]

Beverley Hughes: The assessment panel was made up of officials from Government offices, Youth Justice Board, CLG and Youth Taskforce. None of the people making the decision on the bids was an employee of the authorities or organisations being assessed.

Culture: Education

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what plans he has to provide all children with quality cultural opportunities in and outside schools; and what his Department's definition of quality cultural opportunities is. [253301]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Schools offer many cultural activities in the school curriculum, and there is much cultural activity taking place outside school and beyond the school day. The 'Find Your Talent' programme, launched in February 2008, will build on the cultural activities already taking place around the country, and work towards a position where all children and young people have the opportunity to access high quality cultural activities in and out of school. These will include: attending and taking part in top quality theatre and dance performances; attending national and local exhibitions, museums and heritage sites; learning a musical instrument and singing in ensembles; producing creative writing and artwork; and making films. 10 pathfinders are trialling ways of delivering a structured cultural offer. They will help us to establish what activities should be included, and how to define and ensure the quality of the activities. Young people will work with the very best of the professional cultural sector.

The Learning Outside the Classroom Manifesto supports schools in offering extra activities to pupils, including creative and arts activities. A Learning Outside the Classroom Quality Badge will be awarded to provider organisations who have demonstrated that they meet six quality indicators. There is also a considerable amount of investment by the Government in culture and arts programmes such as Creative Partnerships and the support given to enable museums to run educational programmes.

Departmental ICT

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families with reference to the answer of 28 October 2008, Official Report, columns 101-02W, on departmental ICT, what the (a) original expected cost was, (b) original expected delivery date was and (c) current expected completion date is of each ICT project listed; and if he will make a statement. [251093]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: With reference to the reply of 28 October 2008, Official Report, columns 101-02W, on departmental ICT, I have updated the information given on a best-fit basis to show the (a) original expected cost, (b) the original expected delivery date and (c) the current expected completion date of each ICT project listed. The costs shown are total project costs, which include ICT specific expenditure. The information is based on current plans and is subject to actual outturns. Some DCSF expenditure also includes elements relating to services provided to the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills following machinery of government changes that are not readily identifiable.

Departmental Recycling

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much (a) paper, (b) plastic and (c) other waste has been produced by his Department in each of the last three years; and how much of that waste was recycled. [253293]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF) was created on 28 June 2007.

The Department and its predecessors can only provide an aggregate total for waste produced and recycled which includes cardboard, metal cans, glass, fluorescent tubes, batteries and toners. It does not hold separate information on the itemised waste products requested. The aggregate total also includes waste from other occupiers in the Departments' buildings which is not separately accounted for. The breakdown of aggregate waste produced and recycled for each of the last three years is as follows:

All weights are shown in tonnes

		Recycled
	Overall total	Weight	Percentage
2006/07	810.457	371.123	45.8

Departmental Training

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families which external organisations his Department has engaged to provide training for fast stream civil service staff in the last three years; and how many civil servants in his Department have participated in provision of training for external organisations in that period. [252232]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Department was created on 28 June 2007. The names of external organisations engaged to provide training for the staff in the fast stream are listed below:

	Organisations
2007 (from 28 June 2007)	National School for Government
2008	National School for Government
	Stanton Marris Associates
	Westminster Explained
	Parity Training Limited
	PTS Consortium

The number of civil servants who have participated in training for external organisations since the Department's creation is not collected centrally and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much his Department spent on digital media training courses provided by the Internet Advertising Bureau in 2008; how many such training sessions were held in 2008; and how many staff in his Department attended at least one such training course. [252260]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Department did not attend any courses provided by the Internet Advertising Bureau.

Departmental Travel

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what expenditure his Department has incurred in providing transport for Ministers between Parliament and departmental premises in each year since his Department was established. [251884]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given by my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Transport on 26 January 2009, Official Report, column 6W. All ministerial travel is undertaken in accordance with the Ministerial Code.

Fines

Mr. Grieve: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether any administrative financial penalties may be levied by his Department. [253600]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: As a matter of general administrative policy the Department for Children, Schools and Families does not levy financial penalties against third party organisations or individuals.

First Aid: Education

Dr. Stoate: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps his Department is taking to improve the level of first aid training available to school children. [253852]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Personal, Social, Health and Economic (PSHE) education provides children and young people with the knowledge and skills they need to make informed choices in a range of contexts related to health and safety. Children learn about basic and emergency first aid, as well as where and how to obtain health information, how to recognise and follow health and safety procedures and ways of reducing risk and minimising harm in risky situations.

In October 2008, we announced our intention to make PSHE education statutory, in recognition of the key role it plays in equipping children and young people with the knowledge and skills they need to lead healthy and successful lives. At the same time we launched an independent review of how this might be achieved in the most effective and practicable way. Sir Alasdair Macdonald, the head teacher of Morpeth school in Tower Hamlets, is conducting the review and will report in April 2009. Proposals for the statutory implementation of PSHE education will be the subject of a full public consultation.

Free School Meals: North East

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many children receive free school meals in (a) the North East, (b) the Tees Valley and (c) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency. [253128]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Information on free school meal eligibility for the areas requested is shown in the following table:

History: Education

Martin Horwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps his Department is taking to ensure that the teaching of history includes the history of other countries, including their perception of the UK. [253725]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The history curriculum at key stages 2 and 3 provide plenty of scope for students to learn about the history of other countries. At key stage 3 in particular students will investigate Britain's relationships with the wider world and identify and analyse different interpretations of the past. This learning is complimented by elements of the citizenship curriculum.

Intensive Intervention Projects

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what criteria his Department plans to use to assess the effectiveness of intensive intervention projects. [240768]

Beverley Hughes: The evaluation of Intensive Intervention projects will seek to identify which techniques are most effective for delivering the outcomes as described in the reply given to the hon. Member on 11 November 2008, Official Report, column 1018W.

This will include analysis of statistical data and the gathering of qualitative case studies.

The tender for this work will be issued early in February 2009. The tender document will describe more fully the methodology and process for the evaluation.

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many (a) unique visitors and (b) hits the Sing Up website has received in each month since it was established. [254789]

National Assessment Agency: Ofqual

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what involvement Ofqual had in the procurement process that led to the award of the standard assessment test administration contract to ETS referred to at paragraph 2.50 of the Sutherland Inquiry report HC 62; [245829]

(2) for what reasons the meeting between the National Assessment Agency and Ofqual requested in May did not take place until July, as referred to in paragraph 6.96 of the Sutherland Inquiry report HC 62. [245825]

Jim Knight: The Department does not hold this information. Isabel Nisbet, acting chief executive of the Office of the Qualifications and Examinations Regulator (Ofqual) has written to the hon. Member and a copy of the response has been placed in both the Libraries.

Letter from Isabel Nisbet, dated 9 January 2009:

In his written response to you on the Parliamentary Questions listed above, the Minister of State for Schools and Learners stated that these were questions relating to the conduct of the new regulator Ofqual. He has therefore asked Ofqual to write directly to you in response to these questions. For ease of reference the questions were:

(245825) To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families, for what reasons the meeting between the National Assessment Agency and Ofqual requested in May did not take place until July, as referred to in paragraph 6.96 of the Sutherland Inquiry report, (HC 62).

(245829) To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families, what the nature was of Ofqual's involvement in the procurement process that led to the award of the SAT administration contract to ETS referred to at paragraph 2.50 of the Sutherland Inquiry report, (HC 62).

As you are aware Ofqual was created in April 2008 on an interim basis, within the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority (QCA). Before this time the regulatory functions were carried out by the Regulation and Standards Division of the QCA, and I was its Director.

In PQ 245825 you have asked about the accountability meeting that Ofqual held with the National Assessment Agency (NAA) in July 2008. In dealing with the issues of delivery in 2008 Ofqual advised the NAA in May 2008 of its intention to hold an accountability meeting. Its purpose was analogous to that of the formal accountability meetings held with the GCSE and A level awarding bodies a week before the results of those examinations are due to be announced. At these meetings the awarding body is required to provide assurances that the code of practice has been followed, that all papers have been marked and that results will be available on time. It is also an opportunity for the regulator and the awarding body to highlight concerns about any aspect of the past series.

With regard to the tests in 2009, Ofqual now holds quarterly formal accountability meetings with QCA, and the first of these was held on 2 December 2008. The third of these (planned for May 2009) will be an opportunity to bring together any emerging issues regarding problems with marking or preparation to deliver results.

To answer PQ245829, as the Sutherland Inquiry states at paragraph 2.48 'although the Regulator had not been formally involved in the procurement process, they were in July 2006 asked informally about how proposed changes to the National Curriculum test process might impact the Code of Practice'. Regulatory requirements were taken into account. Copies of the Regulatory Framework and the Code of Practice were supplied to all bidders by the NAA. The Regulation and Standards Division also offered all bidders the opportunity to contact them with any further queries. As Director of Regulation and Standards I was a member of the QCA Executive at the time the contract was awarded.

If you have any further questions please do not hesitate to contact me (contact details below) or Helen Knee on 024 7671 6705 and helen.knee@ofqual.gov.uk.

I am copying this letter to Kathleen Tattersall, Chair of Ofqual, and to Jim Knight, Minister of State for Schools and Learners.

National College for School Leadership: Parking

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether the workplace parking charges being introduced by Nottingham City Council will be required to be paid by members of staff in whole or in part in respect of National College for School Leadership offices located within the workplace parking charging zone. [253775]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: No decision has been taken by Transport Ministers on whether to confirm Nottingham city council's workplace parking levy scheme order, and it would not be appropriate to speculate on the implications for the National College for School Leadership.

Pre-school Education

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what proportion of children were working securely within each assessment of the foundation stage profile in the areas between (a) 0 and 10 per cent., (b) 10 and 30 per cent., (c) 30 and 50 per cent., (d) 50 and 70 per cent., (e) 70 and 90 per cent. and (f) 90 and 100 per cent. on the index of deprivation in each year since 2005. [249527]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry [holding answer 20 January 2009]: Information is only readily available for seven of the 13 assessment scales; these are personal, social and emotional development and communication, language and literacy. Further information on the proportion of children working securely within the additional six assessment scales and for earlier years can be compiled and checked only at a disproportionate cost.

Information on the proportion of children working securely within these seven scales of the foundation stage profile in 2008, by percentile groups of deprivation, can be found in table D1 as part of the additional information for Statistical Release 32/2008 'Attainment by Pupil Characteristics, in England 2007-08':

Primary Education: Nutrition

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what guidance providers of healthy eating his Department has issued to Early Years settings. [255638]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Statutory Framework for the Early Years Foundation Stage sets quality standards for learning and care for all settings looking after children aged from birth to five. This makes clear that where children are provided with a meal, snacks and drinks, these must be healthy, balanced and nutritious.

Supporting guidance offers a range of information on diet and nutrition for children in the early years, and refers providers to other relevant sources such as the DCSF guidance on Healthy School Lunches for pupils in Nursery Schools and the Food Standards Agency website which provides information on age-appropriate nutrition for young children.

Schools: Furniture

Mrs. Moon: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of health risks to children from incorrectly-sized or poor quality school furniture. [255438]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Department has not made a specific assessment of health risks to children using poor quality or incorrectly sized furniture. Schools are responsible for choosing good quality furniture of the correct size for their pupils.

The Department supports them in discharging this responsibility by raising awareness of the importance of buying furniture that is fit for purpose. We are supporting the development of an ergonomic furniture website tool to help users identify the appropriate size of furniture for each child. The delivery organisation for the Building Schools for the Future programme, Partnerships for Schools and DCSF are in the process of re-writing an output specification on furniture and equipment. This supports the expectation that furniture is specified to meet EN1729 (the new European standard for educational furniture covering both ergonomics and strength and stability). We welcome the British Educational Supplies Association agreement that all classroom tables will comply with EN1729 by April 2009.

Mrs. Moon: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will take steps to ensure that furniture purchased under the Building Schools for the Future programme conforms with the European Furniture Standard EN1729. [255742]

Jim Knight: The Department is working with Partnerships for Schools, the delivery agency for the Building Schools for the Future programme, on an updated comprehensive output specification on furniture and equipment. Within this specification, furniture which meets EN1729 is proposed as an expectation for those involved in the BSF programme. We know that members of the British Educational Supplies Association (BESA) have agreed that all classroom tables will comply with EN 1729 by April 2009 and we welcome this.

Social Services: Children

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families which local authority children's services were placed in special measures in each of the last five years. [241896]

Beverley Hughes: 'Special measures' is not a term that the Department uses with reference to its engagement with local authority children's services. Ministers may take action to engage with and intervene in local authorities where there is evidence of weakness in performance, for example as the result of 'inadequate' Ofsted judgment(s) in annual performance assessments (APAs) and joint area reviews (JARs). Such intervention can take various forms, from offering external improvement support, enhanced monitoring and challenge through to issuing an improvement notice (IN) in more serious cases. In the most serious cases, the Secretary of State may decide to make use of his statutory powers of direction and intervention.

In the last five years, Ministers have made use of their statutory powers of direction in relation to north-east Lincolnshire (2005), Stoke-on-Trent (2007) and Haringey (2008), and have issued improvement notices to Salford, Leicester City and Surrey. We have also intervened without the use of statutory powers or improvement notices in various local authorities, deploying a range of improvement support options, including external consultancy support teams, independently-chair improvement boards and enhanced monitoring arrangements. Special Educational Needs

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many (a) primary and (b) secondary mainstream schools were assessed as having inadequate provision for special educational needs in their most recent inspections. [252675]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: This is a matter for Ofsted. HM Chief Inspector, Christine Gilbert, has written to the hon. Member and a copy of her reply has been placed in both the Libraries.

Letter from Christine Gilbert, dated 2 February:

Your recent parliamentary question has been passed to me, as Her Majesty's Chief Inspector, for a response.

The inspection judgement relating to special educational needs sits within the Achievement and Standards judgement, 'how well learners with learning difficulties and/or disabilities make progress'.

Since the introduction of the current school inspection framework (commonly known as section 5) in September 2005, 16,873 inspections have been carried out in primary schools. The progress of pupils with learning difficulties and/or disabilities was judged to be inadequate in 467 (2.8%) inspections.

During the same period, 3,455 inspections were carried out in secondary schools. The progress of pupils with learning difficulties and/or disabilities was judged to be inadequate in 206 (6%) inspections.

A copy of this reply has been sent to Rt Hon Jim Knight MP, Minister of State for Schools and Learners, and will be placed in the library of both Houses.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many Key Stage 4 pupils who had (a) a statement of special educational needs and (b) unstatemented special educational needs attended (i) maintained, (ii) independent and (iii) independent special schools in each year since 1997. [253439]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The available information is shown in the table.

Data on national curriculum year group are only reliable from 2003 onwards. Therefore data prior to this are not available. Information on KS4 pupils with special educational needs is not available for independent schools. Information is given for non-maintained special schools. Information on other types of special schools is not collected.

Teachers: Crimes of Violence

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps the Government is taking to reduce levels of verbal and physical abuse towards teachers in primary schools. [249519]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Any verbal or physical abuse against school staff is totally unacceptable. While the overwhelming majority of schools are orderly places, the Government recognise that a small minority of pupils present challenging behaviour problems and back schools' authority to intervene to tackle bad behaviour and to stop problems from spiralling out of control.

Much has been done to protect teachers, in terms of promoting good practice to help reduce violence through behaviour management and school ethos, and through giving schools stronger legal powers to discipline and use legally reasonable force to restrain pupils. We are also helping schools form partnerships with other schools, police and other agencies to strengthen behaviour management.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Maternal Morbidity

7. Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what steps his Department is taking to reduce maternal morbidity in developing countries. [255791]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: Reducing maternal ill-health is the most off-track MDG and therefore a priority in DFID's country and global-level work. DFID has committed to spend £6 billion up to 2015 on health systems strengthening. The UK strategy has four priorities: Advocacy: Scaling-up evidence-based interventions; addressing the social and economic barriers to maternal health and developing new knowledge.

Advocacy gives voice to disempowered and vulnerable women. Scaling-up expands health services and the availability of neglected high impact interventions, safe abortion and contraception. We also invest in increasing girls' education, improving women's rights and increasing research capacity in developing countries.

Thailand

8. Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what plans his Department has for aid to Thailand. [255793]

Mr. Michael Foster: We have no plans for bilateral aid to Thailand, which is a successful middle-income country. We are, however, providing this financial year £1 million to the Thailand Burma Border Consortium to assist Burmese refugees in Thailand and internally displaced people in Burma, and £220,000 to three Burmese non-governmental organisations working in north-east Thailand. We are considering proposals for future assistance to organisations on the Thailand-Burma border.

Loans

9. Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what monitoring his Department has undertaken of the provision of development-related small loans and microfinance initiatives in developing countries in the last 12 months. [255794]

Mr. Michael Foster: DFID recognises the potential of microfinance to reduce poverty and contribute to the achievement of the millennium development goals. We are keen to ensure that the availability of microfinance is sustained through present global economic conditions.

DFID supports the overall monitoring of microfinance through the Consultative Group to Assist the Poor (CGAP), a multi-donor partnership working to expand access to finance to which DFID provided £250,000 in the current financial year. DFID contributes to, and relies upon CGAP's surveys of microfinance programmes. We are maintaining close contact with CGAP to monitor evolving trends in the context of the current financial crisis.

Guyana

10. Mr. Pelling: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development in what ways his Department is working with the government of Guyana to promote the preservation of the rainforest in that country. [255795]

Mr. Michael Foster: DFID contributed £100,000 to work by Guyana on a low carbon investment prospectus and implementation plan, including a costing of conserving Guyana's rainforests. The World Bank's Forest Carbon Partnership Fund (to which the UK contributed £15 million) is preparing a reduced emissions from deforestation and degradation readiness plan. Guyana is included in the Caribbean Regional Stern Review on the Economics of Climate Change, and also likely to be part of the Caribbean Pilot Programme for Climate Resilience (part of the climate investment funds to which the UK is contributing £250 million). DFID Officials regularly discuss forest protection with their Guyanese counterparts.

Anti-retroviral Therapies

11. Ms Keeble: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what steps his Department is taking to encourage pharmaceutical companies to develop infant formulae for anti-retroviral therapies for use for children in developing countries. [255796]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: DFID is supporting a major five year clinical trial implemented by the Medical Research Council (MRC) in Uganda and Zimbabwe, on the best ways to provide antiretroviral drug treatment for infants and children with HIV. Based on this work, new triple formulations for babies and small children were recently approved and are now being distributed to children in Africa. DFID also funds the work of UNITAID and the Clinton Foundation, aimed at developing and facilitating access to new paediatric drug formulations for tuberculosis and HIV.

Zimbabwe

12. Sir Nicholas Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what recent assessment he has made of the humanitarian situation in Zimbabwe. [255797]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The humanitarian situation in Zimbabwe is dire. Around 70,000 people have been affected by the country's worst ever cholera outbreak and over 3,000 have died. Water and sanitation systems and the health service are collapsing. Over six million people are receiving food aid and HIV/AIDS continues to decimate households. The international community is doing all it can to alleviate the situation and support ordinary Zimbabweans. The UK will provide £47 million in life-saving support this year and is one of the leading donors in the cholera response and the UN food programme. None of this aid goes through government of Zimbabwe systems.

Global Economic Downturn

13. David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assessment his Department has made of the effect of the global economic downturn on the conditionality of international development aid; and if he will make a statement. [255798]

Mr. Thomas: We have no plans to change the UK's conditionality policy. We assess whether partner governments show commitment to tackling poverty, upholding human rights and managing public money wisely. We may, and do, interrupt or stop aid if these commitments are breached.

The International Monetary Fund's emergency support to the economic crisis is being provided either unconditionally or with conditions limited to actions essential for ensuring stability.

The World Bank also provides increased lending when other sources of finance are constrained. All its programmes conform to its 2005 Good Practice Principles on Conditionality, which is regularly monitored.

Gaza

14. Natascha Engel: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what recent assessment he has made of the humanitarian situation in Gaza. [255799]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: The United Nations, with others, has recently completed a rapid needs assessment to determine immediate humanitarian needs and to inform the UN flash appeal which is available at:

http://www.reliefweb.int/rw/rwb.nsf/db900SID/EDIS-7NVP4B?OpenDocument

Further assessments are currently under way and a more detailed assessment is expected to be completed by the end of February.

Middle East: Armed Conflict

Mr. Breed: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what recent reports he has received from the Mines Advisory Group on the types of unexploded ordinance it has removed from schools in Gaza. [254514]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: There are 157 UNICEF-supported schools in Gaza, and work with the Palestinian Ministry of Education identified 40 as high risk in terms of potential unexploded ordnance (UXO) contamination. These schools have been visited by technicians from the Mines Advisory Group (MAG). During this clearance 40mm high explosive grenades, as well as 81mm and 120mm high explosive mortars, were removed. Remnants of exploded ordnance were also taken away, including parts of Hell Fire missiles and 155mm high explosive and white phosphorous artillery shells.

Sri Lanka: Politics and Government

Mr. Love: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what recent assessment he has made of the humanitarian situation in Sri Lanka. [255792]

Mr. Michael Foster: We monitor the situation through our high commission and other sources and by field visits. In October 2008 we announced £2.5 million of humanitarian funding through international agencies. We are sending another humanitarian assessment mission this week and have agreed a further £2.5 million humanitarian funding. We share the widespread concern at the plight of civilians trapped by the fighting and have called on both sides to cease fire and allow humanitarian access.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Christmas

Mr. Hollobone: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland with reference to the Answer of 26 November 2008, Official Report, column 1636W, on Christmas, for what reason his Department spent £33,000 on Christmas receptions in 2007-08; and if he will make a statement. [248588]

Mr. Woodward: Every year the Northern Ireland Office use Hillsborough Castle to host a series of receptions at Christmas time to bring a wide cross-section of the community together and to use these opportunities to build community confidence.

2008 was in exactly the same mould as previous years. The four Christmas receptions held in Northern Ireland in 2007 were attended by over 1,400 members of the public drawn from the criminal justice, policing, military, business, charity and community sectors. The guests included families of the security forces and serving personnel, representatives of victims groups, churches and businesses, as well as many others working in the community sectors across Northern Ireland.

These events provide some recognition of the tremendous contribution made by people, both individually and collectively, who have helped to transform Northern Ireland. We work hard to monitor costs at these occasions as we are mindful in Government of the need to provide value for money. Anyone with a close understanding of Northern Ireland will know the value of these occasions in bringing people together in a renewed political environment.

Departmental Domestic Visits

Mr. Paterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland pursuant to the Answer of 17 December 2008, Official Report, columns 772-3W, on departmental domestic visits, how many of the overnight visits involved staying in an hotel. [257264]

Mr. Woodward: None.

Departmental Lobbying

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland whether Ministers in his Department received representations from (a) Lord Moonie, (b) Lord Taylor of Blackburn, (c) Lord Snape and (d) Lord Truscott in the last seven months. [255235]

Mr. Woodward: No such representations have been received.

Weapons

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what recent estimate he has made of the number of guns held by (a) loyalist paramilitaries and (b) republican dissidents. [255272]

Paul Goggins: This is an intelligence matter and it is the longstanding practice of successive Governments not to comment on such matters.

WALES

Departmental Foreign Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales how many (a) EU foreign nationals and (b) non-EU foreign nationals are employed by his Department. [256197]

Mr. Paul Murphy: None.

Departmental ICT

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales which ICT projects initiated by his Department were abandoned before completion in each year since 1997; what costs were incurred on each project; who the contractors were; what the date of (a) commencement and (b) abandonment was in each case; and if he will make a statement. [256664]

Mr. Paul Murphy: I refer the hon. Lady to my answer of 12 January 2009, Official Report, column 192W.

Digital Broadcasting: Leeds

John Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what steps are being taken to increase levels of digital inclusion in Leeds West constituency; and if he will make a statement. [255468]

Mr. Paul Murphy: Several activities are taking place in Leeds to promote digital inclusion:

The Department for Children, Schools and Families Computers for Pupils programme has helped over 3,000 pupils in Leeds since its inception, and a further 400 learners will benefit from grant funding recently awarded under the new Home Access for Targeted Groups fund., West constituency host UK online centres, which act as 'Media Beacons', helping young people who are excluded from school to use new technologies such as music video software and to operate community radio stations, as part of their 'Interplay Theatre' programme. These centres also offer training on new media to staff in other parts of the UK online centres network.

Leeds city council provides public access and training in internet use throughout their network of libraries and community centres. A mobile learning vehicle offers internet access on a regular route around targeted communities, and the city's mobile library vehicles will shortly be fitted with wifi internet access.

In December, senior officers from the city council met to raise awareness of the impact that technology can have on communities and the advantages that it can deliver. A 'Digital Community Vision' is now being developed which will identify and capture the city's digital inclusion aspirations for the future, leading to an action plan for further digital inclusion work.

Legal Services Commission

Dr. Francis: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what recent discussions he has had on the future of the Legal Services Commission in Wales with (a) the Secretary of State for Justice and (b) the First Minister; and if he will make a statement. [255544]

Mr. David: I have discussed this issue with the Welsh Minister for Social Justice and Local Government and with colleagues at the Ministry of Justice. I have also corresponded with my noble Friend Lord Bach, Minister for Legal Aid.

My right hon. Friend and I will continue to work closely with the Ministry of Justice and the Welsh Assembly Government to ensure that where efficiency savings need to be made within the Legal Services Commission, the best solution for Wales is found.

TRANSPORT

A1: Road Traffic

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps he has taken to reduce congestion on the A1 in (a) Tyne and Wear and (b) Northumberland. [255768]

Paul Clark: The A1 through Northumberland suffers little in the way of congestion. Schemes to dual discrete sections of the A1 north of Newcastle are being considered for funding by the north-east region, as part of the current regional funding allocation process.

The A1 through Tyne and Wear suffers severe congestion at peak times, and this can extend to periods outside the daily peak, particularly if incidents occur. A number of measures have been carried out over the last few years to improve route performance. These include signing and lining improvements, a slow moving vehicle ban in peak periods, variable message signing (VMS), close circuit television (CCTV), the introduction of the traffic officers, free to customer breakdown recovery services, and the "Retriever" motorcycle which can get to incidents more quickly and tow vehicles up-to 1,600 kg in weight to recently built emergency refuges.

The Department for Transport publication "Britain's Transport Infrastructure: Motorways and Trunk Roads" in January 2009 stated that the Highways Agency will continue to work with local authorities to consider further the options for relieving congestion on the A1 around Newcastle and Gateshead.

Following the earlier government study the Highways Agency is looking at options for upgrading the A1 Newcastle and Gateshead Western Bypass. This work is being informed by the outcomes of the Tyne and Wear authorities "People in Motion" demand management study, and findings of the agency's work are expected to be considered in the first half of 2009.

Air Passenger Bonds

Mr. Brazier: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will publish the terms of the original Civil Aviation Authority insurance policy with American International Group on air passenger bonds. [253448]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Air Travel Trust Fund is currently structured to meet tour operator failure costs through a combination of cash, credit facilities and insurance. Cash is received primarily from ATOL Protection Contributions, and Barclays Bank plc provides credit facilities totalling £60 million, which includes a level of liquidity supported by a Government Guarantee.

The insurance policy placed by the Trustees of the Air Travel Trust with AIG UK Limited and Axis Specialty Ltd., is designed to provide the Air Travel Trust with access to funds in the event of a major tour operator failure where costs arising from refund and repatriation exceed £50 million in a year. The policy document is subject to a confidentiality agreement and the insurers have declined permission to disclose the terms of the policy.

Mr. Brazier: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will publish details of the PricewaterhouseCoopers financial model on air passenger bonds prepared for his Department and the Civil Aviation Authority. [253449]

Jim Fitzpatrick: A detailed overview of the financial model, of the Air Travel Trust, was included in appendix 4 of the "Consultation on Reform of ATOL Bonding Arrangements and the Replenishment of the Air Travel Trust Fund", published by the Civil Aviation Authority and Department for Transport in April 2007. The consultation document can be viewed at:

http://www.caa.co.uk/docs/33/Consultation_ATOL_Reform_2007.pdf

The model was produced by the Civil Aviation Authority (commissioned by the trustees of the Air Travel Trust), to assess the sustainability of a per passenger ATOL Protection Contribution in building up sufficient funds to meet potential refund and repatriation costs arising from the failure of tour operators, under different adverse scenarios. External forecasts from third parties such as travel companies, insurance firms and banks were used as the basis for assumptions. Information was received from a spread of ATOL license holders, including the four largest air travel tour operators, five medium sized operators and two online tour operators. The spread of firms accounted for more than half of all passengers covered by the ATOL protection scheme.

The Civil Aviation Authority engaged a professional services firm with expertise in economic modelling and the travel sector to review the model methodology, its fitness for purpose and a number of the underlying assumptions. The detailed overview in appendix 4 of the consultation paper took into account the work undertaken by the firm appointed by the Civil Aviation Authority.

Mr. Brazier: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what representations (a) his Department and (b) the Civil Aviation Authority have received on the adequacy of cover for bonding arrangements for passengers travelling by aircraft, with particular reference to the PricewaterhouseCoopers report on Reform of Air Travel Organisers' Licensing bonding arrangements. [253450]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The "Consultation on Reform of ATOL Bonding Arrangements and the Replenishment of the Air Travel Trust Fund", was published by the Civil Aviation Authority and Department for Transport in April 2007. The consultation document can be viewed at:

http://www.caa.co.uk/docs/33/Consultation_ATOL_Reform_2007.pdf

There were 88 respondents to this consultation and a summary of the responses is available on the Department for Transport website at:

http://www.dft.gov.uk/consultations/archive/2007/atol/summary

A large majority of responses supported the introduction of a £1 per passenger ATOL Protection Contribution (APC) to replace bonding as the main means of meeting costs from the failure of tour operators and to replenish the Air Travel Trust Fund. The decision to introduce the APC was announced to Parliament on 22 October 2007.

Biofuels

Mr. Slaughter: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps the Government is taking to foster the development of second generation biofuels. [256650]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Renewable Transport Fuel Obligation (RTFO) creates a market for first generation biofuels which in turn helps to set the right conditions for the development of commercially viable second generation biofuels. The UK will be required to modify the RTFO in order to implement the Renewable Energy Directive in 2010. The directive incentivises second generation biofuels through requiring member states to count their contribution towards renewable energy targets as twice those of first generation biofuels. We shall be consulting later this year about how to take forward the implementation of the directive in UK legislation.

In addition the Government have recently announced £20 million of funding for the Biotechnology and Biological Sciences Research Council's (BBSRC) new Sustainable Bioenergy Centre. This is a £27 million initiative aiming to build UK capacity in bioenergy research. Among other things, it will target research on the development of second generation bioenergy and biofuels. Last autumn the Government also announced that the Department anticipates contributing up to £3 million per year over the next two financial years to the Carbon Trust's Advanced Bioenergy Directed Research Accelerator. This will allow the Carbon Trust to further increase its advanced bioenergy research and development activities.

Bus Services: Chorley

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what funding his Department provided to Chorley Borough Council for the purposes of concessionary bus travel in (a) 2006-07 and (b) 2007-08. [254733]

Paul Clark [holding answer 9 February 2009]: Before 1 April 2008, funding for the statutory minimum bus concession was provided exclusively through the Formula Grant system, which is administered by the Department for Communities and Local Government (CLG). The Department for Transport therefore provided no direct funding to Chorley borough council for concessionary bus travel in 2006-07 and 2007-08.

The Department did however provide Chorley borough council with £69,004 in 2007-08 for the cost of producing and issuing the new England-wide bus passes to all their eligible people. In 2008-09 DFT will provide Chorley borough council with special grant funding of £280,000 for the improvement to statutory concessionary travel; this is in addition to the existing formula grant funding from CLG. The Special Grant Funding represents a 33 per cent. increase in funding over and above Chorley borough council's declared costs of £0.85 million for concessionary travel in 2007-08.

Delegated Examiners: Greater London

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many delegated examiners there are in the Greater London area. [256234]

Jim Fitzpatrick [Holding answer 11 February 2009]: There are 23 delegated examiners in the Greater London area working for fire and police authorities and bus and coach operators.

Heathrow Airport: Air Pollution

Mr. Meacher: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what percentage of (a) nitrogen oxides, (b) carbon dioxide and (c) other greenhouse gasses recorded at Heathrow were caused by (i) aircraft, (ii) cars and (iii) each specified other source in each year since 1995; and what percentage he expects to be caused by each source in each year up to 2020. [250531]

Jim Fitzpatrick [holding answer 22 January 2009]: The following sets out the information available:

Nitrogen oxide (NO_x) emissions

The White Paper set out the following strict conditions from 2010, in line with the current European Union directive on nitrogen dioxide (NO_2) related pollutants[1]:

Hourly limit value for the protection of human health: 200micro/m3 NO_2, not to be exceeded more than 18 times in a calendar year; and Annual limit value for the protection of human health: 40micro/m3 NO_2 annual average.

The Department for Transport's 2007 'Adding Capacity at Heathrow Airport consultation' document concluded that these conditions could be met.

Further information is available in the following documents:

'Air Quality Studies for Heathrow: Base Case, Segregated Mode, Mixed Mode' and 'Third Runway Scenarios modelled using ADMS'—Airport, 15 November 2007, Cambridge Environmental Research Consultants, Table 4.5-4.7; Table 4.12-4.13

http://www.dft.gov.uk/consultations/closed/heathrowconsultation/technicalreports/emissionsummaries.pdf

Carbon dioxide (CO_2) emissions

Published emissions data from DECC are at the national level only these are listed by source category, including breakdown by transport mode.

Published data at the UK national level can be found in Table 4a of 'Estimated emissions of carbon dioxide (CO_2 expressed as carbon dioxide) by IPCC source category: 1970-2006—last published 31 January 2008 at the following link:

http://www.defra.gov.uk/environment/statistics/globatmos/download/xls/gatb04.xls

Data based on fuel uplifted at Heathrow is reported—this is published in the Department for Transport's 2009 impact assessment 'Adding Capacity at Heathrow Airport', where aviation carbon dioxide emissions attributable to flights departing from Heathrow in 2005 are estimated at 17.2 $MtCO_2$ or 2.9 per cent. of total UK CO_2 emissions.

Data are not available regarding CO_2 emissions released specifically into the air surrounding Heathrow so the percentages by source are not available.

Other greenhouse gas emissions

Other greenhouse gas emissions are not currently reported specifically for the Heathrow area.

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the average (a) nitrogen oxide and (b) carbon dioxide emissions per passenger mile (i) were and (ii) are predicted to be for average aircraft using Heathrow Airport in (A) 1990, (B) 1995, (C) 2000, (D) 2005, (E) 2010, (F) 2015, (G) 2020 and (H) 2025. [253935]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The following information sets out what information is available for: (a) NO_x emissions; (b) CO_2 emissions, and (c) other greenhouse gas emissions:

Carbon Dioxide (CO_2) Emissions

There is limited data regarding past CO_2 emissions at Heathrow airport specifically. Published emissions data from DECC are at the national level only. However, data based on fuel uplifted at Heathrow are reported—this is published in the Department for Transport's 2009 'Impact Assessment Adding Capacity at Heathrow Airport', where aviation carbon dioxide emissions attributable to flights departing from Heathrow in 2005 are estimated at 17.2MtCO_2 or 2.9 per cent. of total UK CO_2. emissions.

Average CO_2 emissions from aircraft at Heathrow airport in 2005 are estimated from DfT modelling to be around 114 grams of CO_2 per passenger km. This is in line with the air transport conversion factors published by DEFRA in 2008 and reflects the mix of aircraft used and flights made from Heathrow in that year.

For future years, the Government have announced a new target to get UK aviation carbon dioxide emissions in 2050 below 2005 levels for the UK as a whole.

Once aviation joins the EU Emissions Trading Scheme (ETS) in 2012, CO_2 emissions from all flights departing and arriving at airports in the EU will be capped at 97 per cent. of average 2004-06 levels, with the cap tightening to 95 per cent. of average 2004-06 levels from 2013 onwards (the cap applies at the EU level, and not at individual member state or airport levels). Any aviation emissions above this cap will need to be accounted for by airlines securing reductions from other sectors within the EU ETS. So any change in the capacity of Heathrow in future years will not lead to any net increase in CO_2 emissions.

Heathrow Airport: Greenhouse Gases

Mr. Meacher: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what levels of (a) nitrogen oxide, (b) carbon dioxide and (c) other green house gases have been released in the air surrounding Heathrow Airport in each year since 1995; and what estimate he has made of the level of each at Heathrow in each year to 2020. Heathrow Airport: Road Traffic

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate he has made of the additional road vehicle movements which would result from (a) an increase from 67 to 122 million passengers a year and (b) an increase of 125,000 flight movements a year at Heathrow Airport. [252660]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Forecasts of surface access demand at Heathrow are set out in BAA's 'Surface Access Report', published alongside the 'Adding Capacity at Heathrow Airport' consultation document. This is available at the following link:

http://www.dft.gov.uk/consultations/closed/heathrowconsultation/technicalreports/surfaceaccess.pdf

The figure of 122 million passengers assumes around 702,000 flights a year in 2030, whereas we are initially supporting a maximum of 605,000 (an additional 125,000 a year). The additional number of passengers accessing the airport by road is therefore expected to be around 14 million, around half the number previously assumed.

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate his Department has made of the number of additional car journeys per day which will result from the establishment of a third runway at Heathrow, broken down by major road. [253936]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Forecasts of surface access demand at Heathrow are set out in BAA's 'Surface Access Report', published alongside the 2007 'Adding Capacity at Heathrow Airport' consultation document. This is available on the Department's website at the following link:

Table 36 reproduced below shows the daily traffic composition for the main road corridors (A4, M4 and M25) with a third runway in 2020 and 605,000 air transport movements a year, which is the limit we are supporting initially.

Passenger Focus

Sir John Stanley: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the cost to the public purse was of Passenger Focus in the latest 12 months for which figures are available. [256560]

Paul Clark: The total cost of Passenger Focus to the public purse in 2007-08 was £5.315 million.

Railways: Bus Services

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much his Department has spent on rail replacement bus services in each of the last 10 years. [247301]

Paul Clark: The information is not held by the Department for Transport and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Railways: Employment

Stephen Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether he has had any discussions with train operators about the effect on their businesses of a reduction in (a) UK GDP and (b) Central London employment levels. [256007]

Paul Clark: There are regular meetings with all operators to discuss all aspects of their performance. These discussions include, where appropriate, the impacts of UK GDP and central London employment levels on revenues.

Railways: Fares

Stephen Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether the RP plus one per cent. formula for regulated fares may result in a negative number. [256015]

Paul Clark: Yes, the RPI plus 1 formula for regulated fares may result in a negative number.

Railways: Franchises

Stephen Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assumptions about (a) economic growth and (b) passenger volumes were made in the franchise agreements for the (i) East Coast Main Line, (ii) East Midlands, (iii) South West Trains, (iv) South Eastern and (v) East Anglian franchises. [255979]

Paul Clark: The information requested is commercially confidential between the Department for Transport and the respective train operators.

Railways: Snow and Ice

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment he has made of the adequacy of contingency plans made by Network Rail and train operating companies to minimise disruption to rail services caused by severe weather events; when he next plans to review the implementation of those plans; and if he will make a statement. [255375]

Paul Clark: The handling of major disruptions to rail services is reviewed in detail by the industry to see what can be learned for the future. Ministers meet senior representatives of the industry regularly to discuss rail performance.

The Department for Transport will encourage the industry to implement any improvements to contingency planning which are identified following the recent bad weather.

Shipping: Carbon Emissions

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the Government's policy is on the development of a global emissions trading scheme for shipping under the auspices of the International Maritime Organization. [255177]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Government are clear that shipping emissions must be tackled and that the shipping sector must operate under carbon limits. We believe that a coordinated multilateral maritime carbon emissions trading system is the best option for delivering cost-effective reductions while maintaining a thriving shipping sector.

The Government actively support the development of such a scheme under the auspices of the International Maritime Organization. If this proves impossible we would support inclusion of maritime emissions in the EU Emissions Trading Scheme. However, because of the world-wide nature of the shipping industry, the Government believe that any action by the EU should be seen as a stepping stone to future global agreements on international shipping emissions.

We are working with industry and our European partners to develop further the maritime emissions trading concept.

Taxis: Disabled People

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment he has made of progress on implementation of new regulations covering access to taxis for people with disabilities. [255783]

Paul Clark: The Department for Transport published a consultation document about improving access to taxis on 2 February and this consultation will run for the statutory 12-week period. The consultation looks at ways to make taxi services more accessible to disabled people. We will consider in detail the responses to the consultation to inform the way forward.

Thameslink: Procurement

Stephen Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the latest expected timing is of the (a) (i) start and (ii) completion of Stage 1 and (b) the delivery of the new units to the Thameslink franchise for Phase 1. [255998]

Paul Clark: The Thameslink timetable change which comes into effect on 22 March 2009 marks the start of the Key Output One stage of the Thameslink Programme. This stage is due for completion in March 2012.

The first new Class 377 dual voltage unit was delivered to Southern trains on 30 January 2009. The remaining 22 units will follow over the next few months.

Transport: EC Action

Mr. Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what provisions of EU directives within his Department's responsibilities have not yet been transposed into United Kingdom law; in respect of the provisions of which such directives the UK has been subject to infringement action by the European Commission since January 2005; and what stage has been reached in such actions in each case. [255494]

Jim Fitzpatrick: There are 24 EU directives within my Department's responsibilities that have not yet been transposed into UK law. The stages of infringement proceedings are:

Five are the subject of Article 226 Letters.

Four are at the Article 226 Reasoned Opinion stage.

Four were the subject of infringement proceedings that have since been closed or withdrawn.

11 are not yet subject to infringement proceedings by the Commission.

Transport: Snow and Ice

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what discussions he has had with train operators about services which did not operate on 2 February 2009; and what steps are being taken to prevent a recurrence of those problems. [255908]

Paul Clark: Of the just over 18,000 trains due to have run on 2 February, nearly 9,000 reached their destination on time and another 2,000 ran but arrived late. The remaining 7,000 were cancelled, most of them on routes south of the Thames.

The provision of train services is a matter for operators and I am satisfied that they understand the need to have arrangements in place to deal with exceptional weather. Ministers have not therefore sought to discuss train performance on 2 February with them.

Vehicle Number Plates: Flags

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to the answer of 16 December 2008, Official Report, column 613W, on vehicle number plates: flags, when he plans to make an announcement on the way forward. [256130]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Government are bringing forward the new legislation to legalise the display of national flags on number plates in GB as soon as possible. It is expected, subject to the outcome of an informal consultation, that the revised regulations will come into force around the end of April 2009.

Wrexham-Bidston Railway Line

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what plans the Government has for the electrification of the Bidston to Wrexham railway line. [256269]

Paul Clark [holding answer 11 February 2009]: A cross-industry working group led by Network Rail is assessing the case for electrifying a wide range of lines. The group is expected to publish its conclusions at the end of March.

If costs can be reduced and funding identified, it would be for Merseytravel to consider whether a Bidston to Wrexham scheme is suitable to promote for major scheme funding via its local transport plan, provided that this is endorsed as a priority as part of the regional funding allocation process.

PRIME MINISTER

Departmental Consultants

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Prime Minister how many expert advisers, excluding special advisers, have been commissioned by his Office since June 2007; and on which topics they have advised. [254741]

The Prime Minister: I have nothing further to add to the answer I gave the hon. Member on 12 January 2009, Official Report, column 53W.

Departmental Internet

Mr. Harper: To ask the Prime Minister if he will publish a copy of No. 10 Downing Street's website accessibility plan. [257216]

http://www.number10.gov.uk/footer/accessibility

A copy of this web page has been placed in the Library of the House.

Departmental Public Appointments

Mr. Maude: To ask the Prime Minister which of the public appointments for which he is responsible are due to be (a) renewed and (b) filled in the next 24 months; what the (i) remit, (ii) salary, (iii) political restrictions, (iv) eligibility requirement and (v) timetable for each appointment is; and what records his Office keeps in respect of such appointments. [254263]

The Prime Minister: Information on public appointments I make are published on the No. 10 website and announced to Parliament where appropriate. More detailed information about individual appointments is set out in the relevant body's annual report. Vacancies may also be advertised on the Cabinet Office Public Appointments website at

The process for making a public appointment, including guidance on political activity and eligibility criteria, follows the Cabinet Office publication "Making and Managing Public Appointments". For appointments regulated by the Commissioner for Public Appointments, the appointments process also complies with the "Code of Practice for Ministerial Appointments to Public Bodies". Copies are in the Libraries of the House.

Energy and Climate Change

Gregory Barker: To ask the Prime Minister what work the No. 10 Policy Directorate (a) has undertaken and (b) plans to undertake on energy and climate-related matters. [255042]

The Prime Minister: The No. 10 Policy Unit covers all Government policy, including energy and climate-related matters.

Forfeiture Committee

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Prime Minister (1) on how many occasions the Forfeiture Committee has met since 1997; [256561]

(2) whether peerages fall within the terms of reference of the Forfeiture Committee. [256562]

The Prime Minister: Arrangements for the Forfeiture Committee are as set out by the then Prime Minister, the right hon. Sir John Major, on 2 December 1994, Official Report, column 923W

> "Cancellation is considered in cases where retention of the appointment or award would bring the honours system into disrepute. There are no set guidelines for cancellations, which are considered on a case-by-case basis."

Details of forfeitures are published in the London Gazette. Peerages do not fall within the terms of reference of the Forfeiture Committee.

Israel: Anniversaries

Mr. Amess: To ask the Prime Minister to what events held in the United Kingdom to commemorate the 60th anniversary of the founding of the State of Israel he has been invited; what such invitations he has (a) accepted and (b) declined; and if he will make a statement. [254992]

The Prime Minister: It is already a matter of public record. I attended the Embassy of Israel 60th Anniversary Reception on 12 May 2008 in London.

Ministerial Appointments

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Prime Minister under what circumstances Ministerial appointments may be made for a fixed-term period at the request of the appointee. [255817]

The Prime Minister: I have nothing further to add to the answer I gave my hon. Friend on 28 January 2009, Official Report, column 541W.

Peers: Lobbying

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Prime Minister whether he received representations from (a) Lord Moonie, (b) Lord Taylor of Blackburn, (c) Lord Snape and (d) Lord Truscott in the last seven months. [255236]

The Prime Minister: No.

Russia

Mr. Hands: To ask the Prime Minister (1) when he last met Russian President Medvedev; [256563]

(2) when he last met Russian Prime Minister Vladimir Putin. [256564]

The Prime Minister: I have regular discussions with the Russian leadership, including at G8 and G20 summits.

I have invited President Medvedev to the G20 in London in April.

Written Questions

Mr. Amess: To ask the Prime Minister how many parliamentary questions he has not answered since June 2007 on the grounds of disproportionate cost; and if he will make a statement. [254990]

The Prime Minister: The information requested is a matter of public record and can be found in the Official Report.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Prime Minister how many parliamentary questions for written answer he has transferred to other Ministers since May 2007; and if he will make a statement. [254991]

The Prime Minister: Questions are answered by the responsible Minister. Details of transfers can be found in the daily "Questions Book", copies of which are available in the Vote Office.

TREASURY

Tax Avoidance

8. David Taylor: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what HM Revenue and Customs' most recent estimate is of the annual cost to the Exchequer of tax avoidance in the corporate sector; and if he will make a statement. [256289]

Mr. Timms: Due to its nature, it is difficult to be precise about the scale of avoidance. The most recent estimate, published by HMRC last March but relating to the start of the decade, showed corporate tax avoidance to be in the range £2.1 billion to £6.6 billion per year. HMRC continues to close down loopholes as it becomes aware of them.

Banking Industry

9. Jo Swinson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his policy is on the remuneration packages for senior executives of banks which are in temporary public ownership or which have received recapitalisation funding from the public purse; and if he will make a statement. [256290]

Ian Pearson: For those banks that we recapitalised last October there were conditions imposed in relation to bank lending and restrictions on rewards for senior executives and on payment of dividends.

17. Lynda Waltho: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the effect on bank lending policies of his recapitalisation of the banks. [256299]

Ian Pearson: The measures that the Government announced on 8 October were to ensure the stability of the financial system and to protect ordinary savers, depositors, businesses and borrowers.

The Government's recapitalisation scheme has helped to reduce the inter-bank lending rate, and the cost of insuring inter-bank lending through credit default swaps. As a result the price of wholesale funding—the money the banks use to finance lending to their customers—has come down considerably.

As part of their investment, the Government have agreed with the banks supported by the recapitalisation scheme a range of commitments, including on lending.

19. Simon Hughes: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his policy is on remuneration packages for staff of banks which are in temporary public ownership or which have received recapitalisation funding from the public purse. [256301]

Ian Pearson: UK Financial Investments (UKFI) has been set up to manage the Treasury's shareholding in recapitalised banks. UKFI has a role in scrutinising banks compliance with the recapitalisation conditions, and also in scrutinising banks remuneration policies—to protect the interests of the taxpayer as a major shareholder.

The Government have rightly been closely involved in decisions on rewards for senior executives—those who made the decisions that brought the banks into difficulty. We have ensured that none of the banks accessing the recapitalisation scheme will award cash bonuses for 2008 to board members.

20. Derek Twigg: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the effect on bank lending policies of his recapitalisation of the banks. [256302]

Ian Pearson: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer I gave the hon. Member for Stourbridge (Lynda Waltho) today (256299).

Global Economic Situation

10. Hugh Bayley: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent discussions he has had with his European counterparts on measures to reduce the effects of the global economic downturn in EU member states. [256291]

Angela Eagle: The Chancellor of the Exchequer and Treasury Ministers attend regular meetings of EU Ministers, including the Council of Economic and Finance Ministers (ECOFIN). These discussions cover a wide range of issues including the co-ordination of measures among EU member states. The European economic recovery plan, as agreed by the December European Council, outlined a range of measures for member states to enact a co-ordinated response to the economic downturn.

UK Economy

11. Mr. David Amess: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent discussions his Department has had with the International Monetary Fund on the UK's economic performance. [256292]

Yvette Cooper: The IMF holds bilateral discussions with each of its member countries, usually every year as part of its country surveillance function, under Article IV of the IMF's articles of agreement. IMF staff last visited London in May 2008 and met with various institutions including HM Treasury to discuss issues relating to the economy. The Government of course continue also to work closely with the IMF and other international partners in responding to the financial crisis.

13. Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what forecasts of economic growth he has made for (a) 2009-10 and (b) 2010-11. [256294]

Mr. Timms: The Government's most recent forecasts were published at the pre-Budget report. We will publish updated forecasts at the time of Budget 2009, as is normal practice. This will include a full assessment of developments and prospects for the world and UK economies, based on all relevant factors.

Business Rates

12 Dr. Ladyman: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he next plans to review the liability of property owners for business rates on empty commercial properties. [256293]

Angela Eagle: In the pre-Budget report, the Government temporarily raised the threshold for exemption from national non-domestic rates on empty properties from £2,200 to £15,000 to take effect from 1 April 2009. As a result, an estimated 70 per cent. of empty properties will be exempt from business rates in the 2009-10 tax year.

Any further decisions on taxation are matters for the Chancellor at Budget.

Financial Markets

14. Dr. Pugh: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent representations he has received on the effects on financial markets of media reporting on those markets. [256295]

Angela Eagle: The Chancellor receives representations from a wide range of stakeholders on issues relating to financial markets issues.

In October 2008 the Government announced a comprehensive package of support for the financial system both to support the stability of the banking system and to protect savers and depositors. On 19 January the Government announced a second support package designed to reinforce the stability of the financial system and provide a longer-term solution.

I follow media reporting on the markets with interest. It is routinely of a high quality. I hope all commentators, whether from the financial markets or from the general media, will continue to report responsibly, and bear in mind that unsubstantiated speculation has the potential to undermine financial stability and harm savers and depositors.

Savers

15. Mr. Evennett: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what steps his Department plans to take to assist savers who are pensioners during the economic downturn. [256296]

Ian Pearson: The Government are committed to supporting pensioners through the global economic slowdown, providing support for all, but more for those who need it most. A range of measures was announced at PBR 2008 to support pensioners including an extra £60 payment, and an increase in the pension credit by more than indexation, on top of the additional support announced in last year's Budget.

Bingo Clubs

16. John Hemming: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will remove liability for value added tax from bingo clubs. [256298]

Angela Eagle: The Chancellor keeps all taxes under review and decisions about gambling taxation are made at the Budget alongside all tax and spending decisions. The Government take all relevant factors into consideration when establishing and maintaining fair gambling tax regimes. These include the state of the industry and wider conditions within the economy.

Miners: Tax

18. Paddy Tipping: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent representations he has received on the decision to tax miners with small pensions from April 2009. [256300]

Ian Pearson: HMRC intend to bring a number of previously untaxed pensions into tax under PAYE from April 2009. We have received representations about this from a number of pensioner lobby groups, but none specifically in relation to miners.

Budget Statement

21. John Howell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will update his forecasts for the public finances and economic growth in the UK before the Budget statement. [256303]

Yvette Cooper: The Government will publish updated forecasts at the time of Budget 2009, as is normal practice. This will include a full assessment of developments and prospects for the world and UK economies, based on all relevant factors.

Climate Change

22. Barry Gardiner: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what account he has taken of the effect of climate change on the economy in his preparations for the carbon budget. [256304]

Angela Eagle: The Climate Change Act requires the Secretary of State to take into account economic circumstances in setting the level of carbon budgets. Action to achieve environmental goals remains a high priority for the Government in the current economic circumstances. The Government will consider carefully the Committee on Climate Change advice on economic impacts of carbon budgets and announce the levels of the first three carbon budgets alongside Budget 2009.

State Pensions

23. Jeff Ennis: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will replace the 25p age addition to state pensions with an additional £25 on the winter fuel allowance for the over-80s as a Budget measure. [256305]

Ian Pearson: The Government provide additional support to older pensioners. Higher age-related allowances and free TV licences help those aged over 75, while households with someone aged over 80 receive a higher winter fuel payment. The Government keep all tax and benefit rates under review as part of the normal Budget process.

Company Taxation

24. Mr. David Hamilton: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent steps his Department has taken to ensure that companies in the financial sector are paying the appropriate levels of taxation. [256306]

Mr. Timms: It is important that all taxpayers pay their fair share of tax. Most corporates, including those in the financial sector, do pay their fair share. The Government will continue to tackle those companies who deliberately seek to evade or avoid tax. Each recent Budget has contained measures to close down avoidance schemes with a potential annual cost of £1-1½ billion a year.

Bank of England: Assets

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether the Bank of England has received requests to buy assets in all sectors. [256184]

Angela Eagle: As set out in its market notice on 6 February 2009, the Bank of England is currently consulting with the financial markets on the operational details of the asset purchase facility. The facility is expected to commence operation on 13 February 2009.

Banks: Finance

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the total monetary value of funds drawn down against the Bank of England Special Liquidity Scheme has been to date. [256179]

Angela Eagle: The drawdown period for the SLS closed on 30 January. The nominal value of Treasury Bills drawdown as of 30 January 2009 was £185 billion. The monetary value of Treasury Bills changes based on market prices.

Further details can be accessed via the Bank of England website:

http://www.bankofengland.co.uk/publications/news/2009/006.htm

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what monitoring his Department has put in place to determine whether additional bank recapitalisation may be necessary. [256180]

Angela Eagle: In addition to decisive actions taken last October, on 19 January the Government announced further measures designed to reinforce the stability of the financial system, to increase confidence and capacity to lend, and in turn to support the recovery of the economy.

The Government are now working to implement these schemes and will monitor the impact of these measures.

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what the expected exposure range for the Government's insurance scheme for banks for expected bad debts is; [256183]

(2) whether any banks have submitted applications for cover to the Government insurance scheme for banks for expected bad debts. [256189]

Mr. Timms: The Government will publish further details of the Asset Protection Scheme by the last week of February.

Banks: Government Shareholding

Mr. Bone: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) on what dates (a) ordinary and (b) preference shares taken by the Government in (i) Lloyds Bank, (ii) HBOS and (iii) Royal Bank of Scotland were subscribed; what type of share was issued on each such date; and how much was paid for each type of share; [256404]

(2) pursuant to the answer of 28 January 2009, Official Report, columns 587-8W, on Government shareholding, when copies of the placing and open offer agreements were placed in the Library; [256406]

(3) pursuant to the answer of 28 January 2009, Official Report, columns 587-8W, on Government shareholding, where in the documents referred to in the answer information is provided on whether the non-payment of preference dividends by the board of directors would be treated as an act of default entitling the Government to initiate proceedings for the winding-up of the company; [256407]

(4) pursuant to the answer of 28 January 2009, Official Report, columns 587-8W, on Government shareholding, for what reasons he did not bring forward proposals to (a) make the preference shares cumulative and (b) adjust the coupon on the shares to a lower rate; and if he will make a statement; [256408]

(5) pursuant to the answer of 28 January 2009, Official Report, columns 587-8W, on Government shareholding, where in the documents referred to in the answer information is given on (a) what happens if the board of directors decides to pass the preference dividends and (b) whether the lost dividend will be recoverable for the public purse. [256409]

Angela Eagle: On 1 December 2008, the Government purchased both 22.8 billion RBS ordinary shares at 65.5p and five million RBS preference shares at £1,000 each. On 19 January 2009, the Government, in consultation with UKFI, agreed to convert the RBS preference shares, plus accrued coupon and underwriting fees, into ordinary shares. The Government will acquire those that are not bought by existing shareholders in the placing and open offer process. The placing price is 31.75p.

As of 15 January 2009, immediately prior to the merger between Lloyds TSB and HBOS, the Government purchased 2.6 billion Lloyds TSB ordinary shares at £1.733 each and one million Lloyds TSB preference snares at £1,000 each, as well as 7.5 billion HBOS ordinary shares at £1.136 each and three million HBOS preference shares at £1,000 each.

The final placing and open offer agreements have been in the Libraries of both Houses of Parliament since 18 November 2008.

Schedule 1 of the preference share agreements makes clear that if a dividend is not paid the preference share holders 'shall have no claim in respect of such non-payment'. It also makes clear that the shares are non-cumulative, and therefore lost dividend is not recoverable.

The preference share dividend was required to be non-cumulative and discretionary to enable the investment to score as the best type of capital (tier one) and thereby to maximise the impact on financial stability.

Banks: Pay

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will make it his policy to (a) prohibit the payment of bonuses to staff of those banks in which the Government has a majority stake and (b) review the levels of remuneration packages awarded to those staff at the end of 2009. [256502]

Angela Eagle: As part of their investment, the Government have agreed a range of conditions with banks accessing the recapitalisation scheme, including restrictions on bonuses for senior executives—both for 2008 (when the Government expect no cash bonuses to be paid to board members) and for remuneration policy going forward, where incentive schemes will be reviewed and linked to long-term value creation, taking proper account of risk. In the future remuneration packages should reflect long-term sustainable success and not simply short-term gains.

Bradford and Bingley

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer on what date the decision to nationalise Bradford and Bingley was made. [255440]

Mr. Timms: I refer the hon. Lady to the answer given to the hon. Member for Wyre Forest (Dr. Taylor) on 27 January 2009, Official Report, column 365W.

Housing Market: Regulation

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the status of the consultation on regulation by the Financial Services Authority of house sale and rent-back schemes is; and when a decision is expected. [256185]

Mr. Timms: On 6 February 2009, the Government published a consultation document, proposing that companies offering sale and rent-back agreements are brought within the scope of Financial Services Authority (FSA) regulation. The consultation will close on 1 May 2009. It is available at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/consult_sale_rent.htm

The FSA has published a separate consultation alongside on the detail of its proposed new regime, available at:

http://www.fsa.gov.uk/pages/Library/Policy/CP/2009/09_06.shtml

Income Tax

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent estimate he has made of the number of people who are worse off as a result of the abolition of the 10p rate of income tax; and if he will make a statement. [255818]

Mr. Timms: An assessment of the impact of the Budget 2007 personal tax changes, and the subsequent reforms made to income tax, were included in the 2008 pre Budget report at paragraph 5.10.

Members: Correspondence

Norman Lamb: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to reply to the letter of 24 October 2008 from the hon. Member for North Norfolk. [256011]

Angela Eagle: Due to the large volume of correspondence received on these issues there has been a delay in sending some responses. The Financial Services Secretary hopes to be in a position to reply to the hon. Member shortly.

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to reply to the letter of 13 November 2008 from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire on NDFA investments via Lehman Brothers Treasury Company BV, Netherlands, PO reference: 1/63049/2008. [256810]

Ian Pearson: Due to the large volume of correspondence received on these issues there has been a delay in sending some responses. The Financial Services Secretary hopes to be in a position to reply to the hon. Member shortly.

Revenue and Customs: Buildings

Greg Clark: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will place in the Library a copy of the (a) display energy certificates and (b) advisory reports in respect of each property occupied by HM Revenue and Customs. [255932]

Mr. Timms: HM Revenue and Customs will place in the Library a copy of the display energy certificates and their associated advisory reports in respect of each property it occupies that requires a display energy certificate; that is, those of 1,000 square metres or above.

Revenue and Customs: Fines

Mr. Grieve: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what administrative financial penalties may be levied by HM Revenue and Customs. [253601]

Mr. Timms: HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) administer almost 20 different taxes and duties and several other collection and payment regimes such as tax credits, national insurance and child benefit. All of the regimes make provision for administrative financial penalties to underpin compliance.

Financial penalties are levied to address non-compliant behaviour in the following areas:

Failure to notify taxable activity;

Late filing or non-filing of returns;

Late or non-payment of taxes, duties and national insurance contributions;

Errors on returns due to negligence, carelessness or deliberate action;

Failure to provide information or to make business premises and records available for inspection;

Regime specific contraventions such as unauthorised issue of VAT invoices or unauthorised use of a customs warehouse.

The numerous existing regime specific penalties are being replaced by a smaller number of new generic administrative financial penalties, with no penalty charged for mistakes where the taxpayer has taken reasonable care. Significant reductions will be available for those who make unprompted disclosures, with smaller reductions for prompted disclosures. Most penalties will be charged as a percentage of the tax under-declared.

Revenue and Customs: North West

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the number of redundancies arising from the proposed closure of the HM Revenue and Customs offices at (a) Regian House, Liverpool, (b) Dukes House, Southport and (c) Birchen House, Birkenhead. [256520]

Mr. Timms: HMRC announced the planned closure of these three offices in February 2008. While we cannot rule out compulsory redundancies, our aim is to avoid them as far as is reasonably possible, and there have been none so far.

We have set up implementation teams to consider when and how to implement closures and other office changes. They will seek a solution for each member of staff affected, with the first choice being to transfer to another HMRC office. The teams will consult with staff and local unions and advise and support managers and staff affected by planned closures.

Taxation: Personal Savings

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much tax has been repatriated to the UK by each country adopting the withholding tax option under the EU Savings Tax Directive. [255258]

Mr. Timms: The amounts of tax paid to the United Kingdom by those countries adopting withholding tax under the terms of the European savings directive or equivalent agreements with third party jurisdictions for the years 2005-06, 2006-07 and 2007-08 are set out in the following tables.

The withholding tax regime is a transitional mechanism. The UK strongly supports, and is promoting internationally, transparency through exchange of information as the way forward in combating cross-border tax evasion.

VAT: Channel Islands

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the effect on value added tax (VAT) revenue of VAT-free goods coming through the Channel Islands into the UK in each of the last three financial years. [256410]

Mr. Timms: We estimate that the cost of the Low Value Consignment Relief on imports from the Channel Islands was around £70 million in 2006-07 and £80 million in 2007-08.

Insufficient data are available to produce comparable estimates for the year 2005-06.

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what steps he is taking to prevent value added tax-free goods entering the UK from the Channel Islands. [256476]

Mr. Timms: Over the last three years the Government have worked with the authorities in Jersey and Guernsey to address this issue. As a result, and to avoid potential damage to their international reputation, the authorities in Jersey and Guernsey have taken a number of steps to restrain the exploitation of the low value consignment VAT relief by UK companies. These are set out in detail in my speech to the House on 27 January 2009, Official Report, columns 275-76.

Welfare Tax Credits: Overpayments

Mike Penning: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many claimants resident in Hemel Hempstead were overpaid tax credits in each of the last five years for which figures are available. [256486]

Mr. Timms: Estimates of the number of families with tax credit awards, including information on overpayments by constituency, based on final family circumstances and incomes, for the years 2003-04, 2004-05, 2005-06 and 2006-07 are available in the HMRC publications "Child and Working Tax Credits Statistics. Finalised Annual Awards. Supplement on Payments. Geographical Analyses", for each relevant year. These publications are available on the HMRC website at:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/personal-tax-credits/cwtc-geog-stats.htm

Estimates for 2007-08 are not yet available.

Working Tax Credit

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the likely annual cost to the public purse of extending the working tax credit scheme to 18 to 25-year-olds; and if he will make a statement. [253297]

Mr. Timms: The annual cost of extending working tax credit to 18 to 25-year-olds is estimated to be around £285 million in 2009-10.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Biodiversity: Departmental Coordination

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs for what reasons the January meeting of the Inter-Departmental Ministerial Group on Biodiversity was postponed; how often meetings of the group are scheduled to be held; when the group's next meeting will be held; and what matters will be considered at that meeting. [255919]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The January meeting of the Inter Departmental Ministerial Group on biodiversity (IDMGb) was regrettably postponed because of a clash with other parliamentary business. However, the topics for discussion at the IDMGb were addressed over the subsequent week by correspondence between myself and the relevant Ministers from the Department for International Development (DFID) and the Foreign and Gommonweath Office (FCO).

Meetings of the IDMGb were originally intended to take place at intervals of six to nine months, but in practice have occurred less frequently, and more on the basis of clearly identified need. We are aiming to hold the next meeting in the spring, when the Government's proposed strategy for the conservation of biodiversity in the UK overseas territories will be discussed.

Farms: Inspections

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many people were employed to conduct farm inspections by each inspection body for which his Department is responsible in each of the last five years. [240666]

Jane Kennedy: The Veterinary Medicine Directorate employs five inspectors. This has been the case for the last five years.

The Plant Health Seed Inspectorate year-end figures for the last five years are:

Year end March	Number

Over the past five years, the Rural Payments Agency (RPA) has employed between 265 and 278 (full-time equivalent) (FTE) inspectors to conduct a range of farm and trader inspections under Common Agricultural Policy and United Kingdom schemes. Most of these inspectors are multi-skilled, trained to conduct single payment scheme and cross-compliance inspections, including livestock identification inspections, as well as rural development scheme inspections on behalf of Natural England. The number of farm inspectors, on an FTE basis, employed by RPA at the end of each of the last five financial years is as follows:

Landfill Allowance Trading Scheme

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what factors were considered before deciding not to include waste reduction through home composting in the landfill allowance trading scheme targets. [252727]

Jane Kennedy: A robust mechanism for determining the amount of waste diverted by home composting would be necessary to enable home composting to be included in the landfill allowance trading scheme. When the targets were set this was not available and that remains the case.

Waste Disposal: Fees and Charges

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Bromley and Chislehurst of 24 November 2008, Official Report, columns 853-854W, on waste disposal: fees and charges, which organisations are flagged as having an interest in the new charges for the collection of household waste on his Department's shared stakeholders database. [252203]

Jane Kennedy: The shared stakeholders database indicates the organisations from all interested sectors that responded to DEFRA's incentives for recycling by households consultation in May 2007.

DEFENCE

Afghanistan: Peacekeeping Operations

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he expects the agreement between the International Security Assistance Force and the European Union Police Mission in Afghanistan to be finalised; and what his assessment is of the effect of not having an agreement on on-going military and civilian operations in Afghanistan. [251648]

Bill Rammell: I have been asked to reply.

While there is no specific agreement between the International Security Assistance Force (ISAF) and the European Union Police Mission in Afghanistan (EUPOL), ISAF has procedures in place to provide support to other international organisations including EUPOL if needed.

EUPOL and ISAF continue to co-ordinate closely in theatre. Furthermore, there is much work involved in arranging technical arrangements between the two organisations, especially given that many ISAF members are contributing to EUPOL.

Nevertheless, the UK continues to emphasise to EU member states and North Atlantic Treaty Organisation (NATO) allies the importance of improved EU-NATO co-ordination.

Afghanistan: Reconstruction

Mr. Holloway: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which organisation has managed each project funded by his Department in Helmand province since 2005; what the budget of each was; how much has been spent in each case; what monitoring, impact assessments and evaluations have been undertaken; and if he will make a statement. [245775]

Mr. Hutton: I refer the hon. Member to the answer the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs gave on 4 February 2009, Official Report; column 1202W.

Military Aircraft: Training

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much training Royal Air Force (a) navigators and (b) flight engineers receive for their performance of those roles each year. [254921]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Aircrew are monitored for competency levels throughout their flying career and training continues for front-line aircrew after the initial award of Combat Ready status. The majority of flying training is achieved during routine flying hours and all flying tasks include an element of aircrew training; therefore it is not possible to show average flying training hours separately. All aircrew undertake regular periodic assessment by an appropriate examining body.

Multi-engine aircraft, Hercules C130K, VC10, Sentry, Sentinel R1, Nimrod R1, Nimrod MR2, have both Weapons System Officers (Navigator) (WSO(Nav)) and Flight Engineers as part of their crew. Tristar aircraft have only Flight Engineers. Figures for the average hours of flying for crews of the Sentinel R1 aircraft are not provided as the aircraft came into service only in November 2008. All figures in the table have been rounded to the nearest five.

Type of aircraft	Average hours of flying for crews in financial year 2007-08
Hercules C130K	305
VC10	390
Sentry	200
Sentinel R1	[1]—
Nimrod R1	470
Nimrod MR2	290
Tristar	410

[1] Not available.

Fast jet aircraft in the RAF fleet which have Navigators are shown in the following table. The allocated number of flying hours per crew flown in financial year 2007-08 is shown in the following table.

Type of aircraft	Allocated hours of flying for crews in financial year 2007-08
Tornado GR4	210
Tornado F3	210

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many training sorties for the (a) Hercules C-130, (b) Tristar, (c) VC-10 and (d) C-17 Globemaster were cancelled in each of the last two years. [255627]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The information requested is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Nuclear Weapons

John Hemming: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether the Orion laser is capable of (a) developing the nuclear warheads for the new generation of nuclear submarines and (b) producing warheads compatible with future US-designed missiles. [256194]

Mr. Quentin Davies: In the nuclear test ban era, laser physics is one of the principal areas of research essential to underwrite the safety and reliability of the UK's nuclear warhead stockpile. High-powered lasers enable the replication in the laboratory of the physical conditions present in a nuclear detonation on a minute scale, over a tiny fraction of a second.

The Atomic Weapons Establishment's HELEN laser has been operating for over 25 years and is now reaching the end of its technically useful working life. Its replacement, Orion, will enable us to continue to underwrite the safety and reliability of the Trident stockpile through the remainder of its service life.

There is currently no programme to develop a new UK warhead, although decisions are likely to be necessary in the next Parliament.

Whilst not specifically designed for the purpose, the Orion laser could have utility in any research employing laser physics in support of any possible future warhead design.

Warships

Jo Swinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the Answer of 5 February 2009, Official Report, column 1407W, on warships, what assessment the Royal Navy made of the merits of (a) compiling a shortlist of tenderers for the contract entitled Vessel Requirement S&MO CB/3193 and (b) inviting tenderers to visit the Falkland Islands to enable clear visibility of the requirement before being given the opportunity to revise or confirm any bid. [256667]

Mr. Quentin Davies: 13 companies submitted tenders for the provision of harbour support and coastal re-supply services to the Falkland Islands. In accordance with MOD and EU commercial regulations, as well as best practice, all tenders were evaluated against declared technical and commercial evaluation criteria. The three best tenders were subsequently short listed and these companies were offered the opportunity to visit the Falkland Islands but all three declined.

Jo Swinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the Answer of 5 February 2009, Official Report, column 1407W, on warships, what steps the Royal Navy took to assess tenderers for the contract entitled Vessel Requirement S&MO CB/3193 according to their understanding of the project requirement; what visits were made to the site for this purpose; and on what dates the requirement was discussed with the officer responsible for this operation. [256668]

Mr. Quentin Davies: Tenderers for the provision of harbour support and coastal re-supply services to the Falkland Islands were assessed against pre-determined technical and commercial evaluation criteria that were supplied to the companies when they were invited to bid for the requirement.

The tender evaluation panel included personnel who have visited the Falkland Islands on a number of occasions and who have therefore built up a good working knowledge of the requirement. The views of MOD personnel based on the Islands, who are responsible for the day to day operation of the service, were also obtained.

Jo Swinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the Answer of 5 February 2009, Official Report, column 1407W, on warships, what plans the Royal Navy have to proceed with the award of the contract entitled Vessel Requirement S&MO CB/3193 to Van Wijingaarden Marine Services B.V.; and what account the Royal Navy has taken of the expert opinion on the suitability of the interim vessel delivered on 2 February. [256669]

Mr. Quentin Davies: The contract for the provision of harbour support and coastal re-supply services to the Falkland Islands was awarded to Van Wijingaarden Marine Services B.V. on 23 January 2009 and the service is due to commence on 1 April 2009. Under the contract, the company will provide a temporary vessel which will result in an acceptable provision of an interim service until the arrival of new permanent vessels which are in the process of being built. As was made clear to all bidders in clarification advice that was provided to them during the tendering process, MOD recognised that complete solutions may not be in place before the contract was awarded and that interim solutions would therefore be acceptable.

A number of expert opinions, including from MOD personnel who are responsible for the day to day operation of the service, were sought about Van Wijingaarden's proposals for fulfilling the contract.

Jo Swinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the Answer of 5 February 2009, Official Report, column 1407W, on warships, for what reason the requirements of the Royal Navy contract entitled Specialist Vessel Requirement S&MO CB/3193 were changed to a tugging contract after the tender had been awarded. [256670]

Mr. Quentin Davies: The tugging elements of the requirement for the provision of harbour support and coastal re-supply services to the Falkland Islands have not changed since they were specified in the invitations to tender that were issued in October 2008.

ENERGY AND CLIMATE CHANGE

Carbon Emissions

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what proposals for capture of carbon dioxide emissions the Government has approved in each of the last five years; what recent assessment he has made of the commercial viability of carbon capture technology; and if he will make a statement. [253698]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 2 February 2009]: The Government fund projects on CO_2 capture via the DIUS funded Research Council's Energy Programme and the Technology Strategy Board. In addition, DECC provides support via the Environmental Transformation Programme.

The Research Councils support wide-ranging underpinning research and training in carbon capture and storage (CCS) through the Research Councils' Energy Programme and through their individual programmes. In the last five years 25 projects covering CCS totalling over £23 million have been funded, of which around 18 include $C0_2$ capture technologies. In addition CCS research is carried out at institutes and centres supported by the Research Councils, in particular NERC's British Geological Survey and Plymouth Marine Laboratory. Fundamental research is also supported by the councils which may feed in over the longer term to CCS technologies.

The TSB has identified carbon abatement technologies as a priority for funding and currently supports 11 projects with grant funding of £6.4 million, of which eight projects are specifically on capture technologies.

DECC's ETF supports one oxy-fuel combustion project under the Carbon Abatement Technologies demonstration programme with grant funding of £2.2 million.

There are three options for capturing carbon dioxide emissions; post-combustion, pre-combustion and oxy-fuel combustion. The Government have not undertaken a comparative assessment of the commercial viability of these options, although other organisations such McKinsey and Company have done some analysis http://www.mckinsey.com/clientservice/ccsi/pdf/CCS_Assessing_the_Economics.pdf.

The Government support the demonstration of all these technology options globally to meet our objective for carbon capture and storage technology to become commercially viable by 2020.

Carbon Emissions: Standards

Simon Hughes: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what plans the Government has to meet the EU's 20 per cent. carbon dioxide emissions reduction target by 2020; and if he will make a statement. [255391]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 9 February 2009]: The Climate Change Act 2008 puts in place a system of five-year carbon budgets that will set a legally binding limit on UK greenhouse gas emissions. Following advice from the Committee on Climate Change received in December 2008, the Government will set the levels of the first three carbon budgets, covering the period 2008 to 2022, by 1 June 2009. These must set with a view to complying with our European obligations, including the 2020 targets.

As the Act requires, the Government will lay a report before Parliament setting out their proposals and policies for meeting the first three carbon budgets in mid-2009. A key instrument to reduce emissions will be the EU Emissions Trading System (EU ETS). The combination of a more ambitious, EU-wide cap on emissions with an annually declining trajectory to 2020 and beyond will ensure that emissions reductions from the EU ETS will correspond to approximately two thirds of the effort the EU will need to make to reach the 20 per cent. target by 2020.

Coal: Imports

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change pursuant to the Answer to the hon. Member for Castle Point of 27 January 2009, Official Report, column 419W, on coal: imports, what estimate he has made of (a) the amount of energy consumed and (b) the volume of carbon dioxide emissions produced in transporting the coal imported into the UK in 2007. [254048]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 5 February 2009]: These estimates are not available. This is because we do not know all the details of the transport or other operations in the countries of origin, which will affect the energy consumed and hence the emissions.

Departmental Cost Effectiveness

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what efficiency savings have been made by his Department since its creation. [255198]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: As for all Departments, the Department of Energy and Climate Change will be required by HM Treasury under the terms of its comprehensive spending review 2007 settlement to deliver 5 per cent. per annum real efficiency savings in 2009-10 and 2010-11 compared to the baseline budget set for 2008-09. The administration budget for 2008-09 will be set in the upcoming spring supplementary estimate.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change how much capital expenditure has been brought forward in response to the economic downturn by his Department, agencies and non-departmental bodies to (a) 2008-09, (b) 2009-10 and (c) 2010-11; from which years such expenditure has been brought forward; and if he will make a statement. [251485]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Department of Energy and Climate Change brought forward £50 million of capital expenditure on the Warm Front programme from 2010-11 into 2009-10 and received additional funding of £50 million for 2008-09 and £50 million for 2009-10, also on the Warm Front programme, to support the economy, as announced in the 2008 pre-Budget report.

Departmental Standards

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change when his Department will establish a performance and efficiency programme. [255161]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Establishing a performance and efficiency programme is a key priority for DECC for 2009-10. This will follow on from the completion of the business planning exercise currently being conducted following the agreement of DECC's budgets for the remainder of the comprehensive spending review (CSR) period.

Departmental Travel

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what expenditure his Department has incurred in providing transport for Ministers between Parliament and departmental premises since his Department was established. [251879]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Transport on 26 January 2009, Official Report, column 6W. All ministerial travel is undertaken in accordance with the "Ministerial Code".

Departmental Working Hours

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what the policy of his Department is on granting staff time off in lieu for working (a) in lunch breaks, (b) in evenings and (c) at other times outside contracted working hours; and if he will make a statement. [252033]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Department of Energy and Climate Change has been formed by bringing together work previously covered by the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform and the Department for the Environment, Food and Rural Affairs. The final details of staff transferring from these Departments are yet to be confirmed.

However, it has not been the policy of these Departments to manage and monitor time off in lieu centrally. Authority is delegated to local line managers. The Department would incur a disproportionate cost if it were to manage this process centrally.

Energy Supply

Greg Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change if he will place in the Library a copy of (a) the agenda and (b) the minutes of the meeting he held with the main energy supply companies on 17 November 2008. [242486]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: I refer the hon. Member to the written ministerial statement of 18 November 2008, Official Report, columns 14-15WS in which my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State reported to the House on the outcome of the 17 November meeting.

Energy: Billing

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what steps his Department has taken to ensure that prepayment customers pay no more for their energy bills than those who are billed quarterly. [253975]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 3 February 2009]: Ofgem, the independent regulator, has investigated the charges for different payment methods made by supply companies as part of their recent probe into retail gas and electricity markets. It is now consulting publicly on remedies to prevent energy supply companies from charging unjustified premia for payment methods such as pre-payment meters. My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for DECC has; already told the House that should a satisfactory and timely resolution of this issue not be reached by Ofgem and the companies, he will not hesitate to legislate.

Energy: Housing

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what assessment his Department has made of the effects of power line communications in the home, as used by smart meters, on shortwave radio users. [254604]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Department has not carried out such an assessment.

As with all electrical and electronic products sold in the United Kingdom, Power Line Communications equipment is required to meet the relevant regulations before it can be placed on the market. In particular, it must comply with the Electromagnetic Compatibility Regulations 2006 (the EMC Regulations). The Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform is responsible for the EMC Regulations. Enforcement powers are delegated to local Trading Standards offices and to Ofcom where there is a radio spectrum protection or management issue.

The Government announced in October last year our intention to mandate the installation of smart meters in all households, with an indicative timetable of the end of 2020 for completion of the roll-out. Detailed work will be required on a range of issues, including communications technologies, in preparation for roll-out.

Energy: Meters

Charles Hendry: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change when he plans to announce the public consultation on the roll-out of smart meters. [255842]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 10 February 2009]: The Government announced on 28 October last year that we will mandate the provision of smart meters to all households. We are currently considering a range of policy issues which need to be developed further in preparation for the roll out of smart meters. We will make further announcements on these issues and the next steps towards roll out when we are able to do so.

Energy: Prices

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change if he will make arrangements for steel manufacturers to have access to energy supplies at sub-market prices. [253485]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change has no plans to make arrangements for steel manufacturers to have access to energy supplies at sub-market prices.

The UK has an energy market, regulated by Ofgem, who aim to ensure consumers benefit from energy prices set in a competitive market.

Environmental Transformation Fund

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change how much from the Environmental Transformation Fund has (a) been allocated and (b) disbursed since its inception; what criteria will be used to determine the disbursal of funds unallocated to date; when those funds will be allocated; whether such funds will be disbursed as grants; and through which bilateral and multilateral organisations such funding will be disbursed. [256671]

Mr. Thomas: I have been asked to reply.

The UK (DFID and DECC) has allocated the full £800 million Environmental Transformation Fund to the World Bank administered Climate Investment Funds.

The first instalment of funds (£100 million) will be disbursed to the Climate Investment Funds once the trust fund arrangement with the World Bank has been approved and signed by the UK (DFID and DECC).

The World Bank Climate Investment Funds secretariat will draw down on the £100 million (and further disbursements from the £800 million) in accordance with a pre-agreed encashment schedule.

The UK expects that up to 10 per cent. of the £800 million contribution to the fund will be disbursed as grants.

The funds will be managed by the World Bank with individual programmes implemented through any one of the multilateral development banks. We expect UN agencies to participate as delivery agents in country.

Fuel Poverty: Expenditure

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what proportion of the fund established to assist fuel poor individuals has been spent to date. [244696]

Joan Ruddock [holding answer 18 December 2009]: The £1 billion Home Energy Saving Programme announced by the Prime Minister on 11 September 2008 included new obligations on energy suppliers and electricity generators to improve household energy efficiency (estimated to be worth around £910 million) and £90 million of additional Government funding (£74 million for the warm front scheme and £16 million for cold weather payments).

From 1 October 2008 to 25 January 2009 the warm front scheme spent approximately £43 million (86 per cent.) of the extra £50 million provided for 2008-09. An estimated 5.8 million cold weather payments have been made this winter, totalling more than £145 million.

Government will shortly be consulting on the detailed provisions of the new energy efficiency obligations on the energy suppliers and electricity generators.

Natural Gas: Asia

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what steps he is taking with his EU counterparts to develop the southern corridor for gas supplies from Central Asia. [255195]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The EU has identified diversification of the sources of EU energy supply as a top priority. In this context, it identified the 'Southern Corridor' as a project of European interest in 2007, and appointed a European Co-ordinator. This commitment was underlined in the Commission's Second Strategic Energy Review of November 2008, which recognised the corridor as a priority project and proposed specific actions to aid its progress. At the Extraordinary Energy Council on 12 January 2009 member states again confirmed that diversification of routes and sources of supply must be a major criterion for selecting projects for European support. Additionally the Southern Corridor is a priority for the Czech presidency who will hold a high-level meeting on the subject in May.

The UK fully supports the development of a southern corridor for gas and continues to actively engage with EU partners and countries in the region to help make the concept a reality. The UK will continue to underline its importance to European colleagues at this month's Energy Council, and future EU meetings, as well as continuing to work closely with supply countries in the region on a bi-lateral basis

Recycling: Oils

Dr. Iddon: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what steps he is taking to encourage the production of renewable fuels from recycled cooking oil using gravity separation and filtration techniques; and if he will make a statement. [251153]

Jim Fitzpatrick: I have been asked to reply.

The renewable transport fuel obligation requires suppliers of fossil fuel to ensure that a proportion of the fuel they supply is renewable fuel. Under the scheme biodiesel made from waste cooking oil is an eligible renewable fuel.

The Renewable Fuel Agency administers the scheme and their January quarterly report summarises data on fuel supplied between April and October 2008. This report indicates that used cooking oil made up 3 per cent. (22 million litres) of the biofuel supplied over this period to meet the obligation. Their report is available on the RFA website at:

http://www.dft.gov.uk/rfa/

Serco

Mr. Flello: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what the value was of his Department's contracts held with SERCO since his Department was established. [253256]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 10 February 2009]: The Department is not at present party to any contracts, as the Transfer of Function Order related to the creation of DECC has not yet come into force. Existing contracts related to energy and climate change matters will remain with BERR and Defra respectively until the Transfer of Function Order comes into force.

Street Lighting

Willie Rennie: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change when he expects Ofgem to make an announcement following its consideration of proposals for central monitoring systems for street lights. [250761]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 26 January 2009]: In April 2008 Ofgem issued an open letter that sought views regarding whether it should seek to facilitate the development of Central Management Systems (CMS). Although there was substantial stakeholder engagement with the consultation, there was no clear consensus on whether there was a need for the changes proposed. I understand, therefore, that Ofgem is currently considering the way forward.

HEALTH

Alcoholic Drinks: Misuse

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) males and (b) females aged (i) 18 years and more and (ii) 17 years and less were admitted to each hospital in England in each of the last five years with an alcohol-related reason for the admission, broken down by primary care trust. [255752]

Dawn Primarolo: Tables which give the numbers of alcohol-related finished admissions by primary care trust (PCT) of residence and health care provider for the years 2002-03 to 2006-07, broken down by age and sex have been placed in the Library. These are the last five years for which data are available.

Some PCT boundaries changed between 2002-03 and 2003-04 and between 2005-06 and 2006-07.

Separate breakdowns have been provided for PCT of residence and healthcare provider, rather than a combined breakdown, to reduce the amount of information that has to be suppressed to prevent the disclosure of personal information.

Alcoholism: Health Services

Bill Etherington: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to assess the effectiveness of alcohol rehabilitation services in each strategic health authority. [255317]

Dawn Primarolo: It is the responsibility of primary care trusts (PCTs), local social services authorities, and their partner agencies to estimate the level and nature of need for alcohol treatment services for their local populations and the effectiveness of the services that they commission to meet these needs, as part of local commissioning.

From April 2008, a new indicator became part of both National Health Service Vital Signs and the National Indicator Set for Local Area Agreements. This measures change in the rate of alcohol-related hospital admissions and will help PCTs assess the effectiveness of the services that they are commissioning in relation to alcohol treatment. There are 99 PCTs and 76 local authorities which have included this indicator as one of their local priorities, setting out local targets and plans for reducing alcohol related hospital admissions.

The Department's World Class Commissioning Programme will drive forward real improvements in how services (including alcohol treatment services) are commissioned resulting in tangible improvements in outcomes and patient experience.

Autism: North East

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department is taking to address the needs of children with high levels of autistic traits in the North East. [254894]

Phil Hope: The Department is taking forward a programme of work to benefit children and adults with autistic spectrum conditions in all parts of the country, including the North East.

The National Service Framework for Children, Young People and Maternity Services (NSF), published in 2004, a copy of which has already been placed in the Library, included a series of exemplar patient journeys. These illustrated some of the key themes in the NSF and showed how some children and young people might access the services they need. One such exemplar covered children with autistic spectrum conditions.

Blood: Contamination

Mr. Meacher: To ask the Secretary of State for Health with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Cardiff Central of 30 June 2008, Official Report, column 652W, on blood products, if he will disclose the 35 documents wholly or partly withheld by his Department which relate to the infection of haemophiliacs by contaminated blood products. [256830]

Dawn Primarolo: These 35 documents were the only papers out of some 4,500 that were, after careful consideration, withheld under an exemption in the Freedom of Information Act 2000. The exemptions that applied are:

Section 38—Health and Safety—10 documents or part documents;

Section 40—Personal information—nine documents or part documents;

Section 42—Legal professional privilege—nine documents or part documents; and

Section 43—Commercial interests—seven documents or part documents.

For the avoidance of any continuing doubt in this matter, and given the time that has now elapsed, I have asked the Department's officials to review the seven documents withheld under Section 43 (Commercial interests), to see if there is another way that this information can be placed in the public domain.

In relation to the other three categories, these documents have been withheld for reasons that are clearly provided for within the FOI Act, and not in any way to withhold relevant information on the subject of contamination of blood and blood products.

Blood: Diseases

Mr. Burrowes: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will include provisions for care for Thalassaemia within his Department's standards for clinical care. [255387]

Ann Keen: The UK Thalassaemia Society produced, "Standards for the Clinical Care of Children and Adults with Thalassaemia in the UK" in June 2005 and updated them in October 2008.

The Department supports this document and encourages the national health service to use it.

Cancer: Coventry

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent steps the Government has taken to improve provision of the cancer services in Coventry. [255354]

Ann Keen: The Cancer Reform Strategy, published in December 2007, sets out guidance to the local national health service on how to improve cancer prevention, speed up the diagnosis and treatment of cancer, reduce inequalities, improve the experience of people living with and beyond cancer, ensure care is delivered in the most appropriate settings and ensure patients can access effective new treatments quickly. A copy of the strategy has already been placed in the Library. It is for primary care trusts (PCTs) to use the funds made available to them and work in partnership with strategic health authorities, local services, cancer networks and other local stakeholders to deliver these aims. Information on the work being done in the Coventry area can be obtained direct from Coventry Teaching PCT.

Through the Cancer Reform Strategy's National Awareness and Early Diagnosis Initiative, the Department, in partnership with Cancer Research UK, is co-ordinating a programme to support local interventions to increase cancer symptom awareness, and encourage people to seek help early.

Cardiovascular System: Screening

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what plans his Department has to extend the vascular checks programme beyond GP surgeries; [255744]

(2) what assessment he has made of the merits of carrying out vascular risk assessments and measurements in the workplace as part of the health, work and well-being strategy; [255746]

(3) in what setting vascular risk assessments and measurements will be provided for people between the ages of 40 and 74 years. [256014]

Ann Keen: The vascular checks programme has been designed to be undertaken in a variety of settings to ensure that those who are not regularly in touch with formal health care can access the programme. Primary care trusts will commission the programme to reflect the needs of their population and how they access services. Primary care trusts may, therefore, commission the service from general practitioners, pharmacies or other providers which their target group access. This could include running the programme in a workplace setting.

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how people aged between 40 and 74 years old will be notified that they are eligible for vascular risk assessments and measurements. [255745]

Ann Keen: As part of preparing primary care trusts for implementation, the Department will make available a standard invitation letter and leaflet about the vascular checks programme. Until the national call and recall system is developed, primary care trusts will decide locally who and how to call people first. Current vascular checks type activity across the country suggests that for some populations other methods of invitation e.g. through telephone calls generate a better take up. Working through NHS Improvement, we are making available learning on this and other aspects of the programme across the country. Once the call and recall system is developed, people will recalled every five years for their check.

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what steps his Department plans to take to measure the level of uptake of vascular risk assessment and measurements amongst people between the ages of 40 to 74 years; [255747]

(2) whether all primary care trusts in England will be required to implement the vascular checks programme from 1 April 2009. [256013]

Ann Keen: Many primary care trusts, especially in spearhead areas, already have vascular checks type programmes in place. The implementation of the vascular checks programme will be phased during 2009-10. All primary care trusts will be expected to have undertaken some activity to support the programme during this period. We are working with strategic health authorities to ensure all primary care trusts implement the programme. We are developing an evaluation strategy that will provide information on the rate and mode of implementation. As part of the evaluation, we will look at uptake amongst groups less likely to participate in the programme and those particularly likely to benefit since they are inherently likely to be at higher risk. These groups will vary from primary care trusts to primary care trusts.

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what steps his Department is taking in the implementation of the vascular checks programme (a) to ensure that hard-to-reach groups receive checks and (b) to evaluate uptake among these groups; [255748]

(2) what role the vascular checks programme will have in reducing health inequalities; and if he will make a statement. [256012]

Ann Keen: The vascular checks programme has the potential to reduce health inequalities and has been designed to form part of the Department's overall programme for tackling them. The assessment element of the programme has been designed to be undertaken in a variety of settings to help to ensure that everyone who is eligible can access the programme. In November 2008 the Department issued guidance to primary care trusts Next Steps' guidance for Primary Care Trusts which underlines the need for them to commission a programme that tackles and reduces health inequalities. A copy of the guidance has been placed in the Library.

Care Homes: Fees and Charges

Mr. Waterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what percentage of care home residents were asked to pay a top-up fee in (a) Eastbourne, (b) East Sussex and (c) England in each year since 2004. [257202]

Phil Hope: Information about top-up fees is not collected centrally. However, according to the Office of Fair Trading report, "Survey of Older People in Care Homes", published in May 2005, 33 per cent. of the 382 United Kingdom local authority funded residents interviewed said part of their fees were paid as a third party contribution or top-up.

Care Homes: Standards

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many and what percentage of care homes did not meet each of the National Minimum Standards for care homes in the year ended 31 March 2008. [255595]

Phil Hope: I am informed by the Commission for Social Care Inspection (CSCI) that its inspectors assess the performance of care homes against each national minimum standard (NMS) and rate them on a four-point scale. A score of 4 indicates that a standard has been exceeded. A score of 3 shows that it has been met. A score of 2 denotes that the standard has not been met with minor shortfalls—this indicates that one of the numerous subsections in the standard has not been completely met. A score of 1 means the standard has not been met.

The following tables show the scores of care homes against the NMS for care homes for younger adults and older people, broken down by number and percentage, for the year ending 31 March 2008.

Carers

Dr. Francis: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many carers in each county were (a) offered and (b) provided with an assessment of their needs in (i) 2006, (ii) 2007 and (iii) 2008. [255542]

Phil Hope: The NHS Information Centre for Health and Social Care collects and publishes information on the number of carers offered and receiving assessments or reviews from Councils with Adult Social Services Responsibilities (CASSRs). Data are not collected on a county basis.

Data for assessments only are not collected centrally. A table which shows how many carers have been offered an assessment or review of their needs and how many carers, by CASSRs, have had an assessment of their needs from 2005-06 to 2007-08 has been placed in the Library.

Charity Research Support Fund

Mr. Syms: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will review the effectiveness of the formula used to distribute funds from the Charity Research Support Fund. [256514]

Mr. Lammy: I have been asked to reply.

The Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE) provides a Quality Related (QR) block grant for research to higher education institutions in England. The QR grant is determined by adding together a number of elements. The "charity support element" is calculated by reference to institutions' levels of charitable research income. The funding that arises from this calculation is distributed to institutions within their overall QR block grant rather than as a separate fund. The detail of the QR formula is for HEFCE to determine.

Childbirth

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what assessment his Department has made of the risks of caesarean section delivery for (a) all women and (b) obese women; [256243]

(2) how many women with a body mass index greater than 30 have received (a) elective and (b) emergency caesarean section operations in each of the last five years. [256244]

Ann Keen: The most recent assessment of the risks of caesarean sections was set out in the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence guidance on caesarean section, published in 2004. The guidance does not suggest significantly greater risk for obese patients although it should be recognised that surgery generally carries greater risk for obese women. We do not collect centrally any statistics on the body mass index of patients undergoing different procedures .

The Confidential Enquiry into Maternal and Child Health are currently undertaking a project (2008-10) which will cover all maternity units in the United Kingdom. It includes:

a national survey of maternity services for women with obesity;

the development of consensus standards for care; and a national audit to:

1. determine prevalence of maternal obesity (BMI greater than 35) and
2. assess maternity care against consensus standards.

Dementia

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people have been diagnosed with dementia in (a) England, (b) the North East, (c) the Tees Valley and (d) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency. [254892]

Phil Hope: The Department does not have information on the number of people who have been diagnosed with dementia. However, the Dementia UK report, published in 2007 by the Alzheimer's Society, estimated that there are currently around 570,000 people in England.

The General Practitioner Quality and Outcomes Framework (QOF) for England has recorded the number of people with a diagnosis of dementia but this is available for only 2006-07 and 2007-08.

We are unable to supply information for all the areas requested as some are not health areas. Where this occurs we have supplied information for the health areas that best fit those requested.

The figures are given in the following table.

Dental Services

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the (a) name and (b) postcode location of each NHS dentist listed on the NHS choices website is. [255305]

Ann Keen: The NHS Choices service, launched in June 2007, is the Department's and National Health Service's primary online service to the public for health related information and advice. All data records published via NHS Choices, including 7,685 NHS Dentists with their contact details and location, are freely available to the public via the NHS Choices website at:

www.nhs.uk.

The name and postcode location of each NHS dentist listed on NHS Choices has been placed in the Library.

Departmental Foreign Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) EU foreign nationals and (b) non-EU foreign nationals are employed by his Department. [256208]

Mr. Bradshaw: A full identity and nationality check is carried out using documentary evidence prior to all appointments to the Department. A record of nationality is kept on individuals' hard-copy personnel files. The level of detail recorded on our central human resource information system is not sufficient to answer this question and it would involve disproportionate costs to examine all relevant individual files.

Departmental Lobbying

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether Ministers in his Department received representations from (a) Lord Moonie, (b) Lord Taylor of Blackburn, (c) Lord Snape and (d) Lord Truscott in the last seven months. [255230]

Mr. Bradshaw: No.

Departmental Recruitment

Justine Greening: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many new recruits his Department took on in (a) 2005-06, (b) 2006-07, (c) 2007-08 and (d) 2008-09, how many of these were taken on as (i) permanent, (ii) temporary and (iii) agency staff, and what estimate he has made of the equivalent figures for (A) 2009-10 and (B) 2010-11. [254467]

Mr. Bradshaw: The following table shows the total number of civil servants recruited to the Department in the years from 2005-06 to 2007-08. This information is taken from the published annual departmental reports. Information about the number of recruits who were temporary civil servants is not held in a way that can be used to address the question. Information from the Department's human resources (HR) system shows that 201 civil servants have been employed in 2008-09 as at 31 December 2008, of which 36 were temporary.

Financial year	All civil servants employed by Department
2007-08	175
2006-07	108
2005-06	162

Prior to 2008, the quality and coverage of information held centrally by the Department on the agency workers it engages was limited and unreliable. With the introduction of a new HR database, our recording has improved, and so far, in 2008-09 the Department has engaged 108 agency workers.

The Department is currently mid way through its business planning for 2009-11 and therefore cannot provide an estimate of likely recruitment for 2009-10 and 2010-11.

Diabetes: Children

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many children under the age of 16 years have been diagnosed with diabetes in (a) England, (b) the North East, (c) the Tees Valley and (d) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [254917]

Ann Keen: Data for the number of children of school age diagnosed with diabetes are not available. However, estimates suggest there are some 20,000 children with diabetes in England (the vast majority type 1 diabetes), and some experts suggest that there may be up to 1,000 children with type 2 diabetes in England.

Doctors: Foreign Workers

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the (a) number and (b) proportion of (i) hospital doctors and (ii) general practitioners working in the NHS who were non-UK nationals in the latest year for which figures are available. [254834]

Ann Keen: Nationality of national health service staff is not collected centrally. The following table shows the number and proportion of hospital doctors and general practitioners (GPs) by country of primary qualification.

General practitioners and hospital and community health services (HCHS): medical and dental staff by country of primary qualification, England at 30 September 2007

	Number (headcount) and percentage
	All NHS doctors	HCHS medical and dental staff[1]	General practitioners
All Countries of Qualification	128,210	91,790	36,420
All Countries of Qualification (excluding unknown staff)	123,802	87,850	35,952
Qualified in United Kingdom	82,957	54,978	27,979
Percentage[2]	67	63	78
Qualified outside UK	40,845	32,872	7,973
Percentage[2]	33	37	22
Unknown[3]	4,408	3,940	468

[1] Excludes medical hospital practitioners and medical clinical assistants, most of whom are GPs working part time in hospitals.

[2] This is a percentage of the total staff whose country of primary qualification is known.

[3] All dental staff are shown as unknown within the table. Information about country of qualification is derived from the General Medical Council. For staff in dental specialties, with a General Dental Council registration, the country of qualification is therefore unknown.

Data Quality:

Work force statistics are compiled from data sent by more than 300 NHS trusts and primary care trusts (PCTs) in England. The NHS Information Centre for health and social care liaises closely with these organisations to encourage submission of complete and valid data and seeks to minimise inaccuracies and the effect of missing and invalid data. Processing methods and procedures are continually being updated to improve data quality. Where this happens, any impact on figures already published will be assessed but unless this is significant at national level, they will not be changed. Where there is impact only at detailed or local level, this will be footnoted in relevant analyses.

Doctors: Pakistan

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many doctors from Pakistan attached to the NHS are (a) studying for post-graduate medical qualifications and (b) undertaking further training of another kind. [255382]

Ann Keen: The Department does not collect work force information by nationality. Information on doctors undertaking post-graduate study and working in equivalent grades in the national health service is available by country of primary medical qualification.

The following table sets out the number of doctors undertaking post-graduate study or working in equivalent grades, who gained their primary medical qualification in Pakistan, as at 30 September 2007.

All Doctors in training[1] and GP registrars by specified country of qualification[2,3] in England as at 30 September 2007, England

Number (headcount)

	Total headcount	Of which: obtained primary medical qualification in Pakistan[2,3]
Total	49,274	1,855
Doctors in training[1,2]	46,783	1,758
GP registrars[3]	2,491	97

[1] Doctors in training and Equivalents is the term used to refer to people in the registrar group, senior house officers, house officers and other staff in equivalent grades who are not in an educationally approved post.

[2] Information about country of qualification is derived from the General Medical Council. For staff in dental specialties, with a General Dental Council registration, the country of qualification is therefore unknown. Out of 45,855 doctors in training whose country of primary medical qualification is known, 1,758 qualified in Pakistan.

[3] In the 2007 GP Census return, 468 GP Registrars had no country of qualification data, this must be taken into consideration when analysing the above figures. Out of 2,023 whose country of primary medical qualification was known, 97 qualified in Pakistan.

Notes:

1. The Medical and Dental census and the GP census can only identify the two groups shown here as doctors who are undertaking post-graduate study and qualifications.
2. Data on nationality or country of origin are not available on the work force census. The data displayed here shows the country where a doctor received their primary medical qualification—which is not an indicator of country of origin or nationality.
3. Data Quality: Work force statistics are compiled from data sent by more than 300 NHS trusts and primary care trusts in England. The NHS Information Centre for health and social care liaises closely with these organisations to encourage submission of complete and valid data and seeks to minimise inaccuracies and the effect of missing and invalid data. Processing methods and procedures are continually being updated to improve data quality. Where this happens any impact on figures already published will be assessed but unless this is significant at national level they will not be changed. Where there is impact only at detailed or local level this will be footnoted in relevant analyses.

Doctors: Working Hours

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what projections his Department has made of the number of doctors at each grade that will be needed to enable compliance with the European Working Time Directive in each of the next 10 years. [255600]

Ann Keen: Local national health service organisations are best placed to assess the health needs of their local health community and plan the workforce they need.

It is for local NHS organisations to analyse their local workforce needs and develop plans, in liaison with commissioners, providers and service users, to deliver high quality, safe services and take action to secure the appropriate staff and skills to deliver these services.

Drugs: Rehabilitation

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many prisoners have (a) been treated and (b) successfully completed a course for drug addiction using subutex in each of the last five years. [253993]

Phil Hope: Specific information on the use of buprenorphine in prison and prisoners who have successfully completed a course for drug addiction using subutex in each of the last five years is not collected centrally.

Head Lice: Schools

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of trends in the incidence of cases of nits in primary school children in the last five years. [256763]

Ann Keen: Information on the incidence of head louse infestation is not collected centrally. Our policy, which is shared by the Department for Children, Schools and Families, is to encourage a 'whole school approach'. This entails encouraging parents to check their children and other family members for head lice as need arises and arranging treatment where necessary, with advice and support from the local primary health care team. We have no plans to reintroduce regular inspections in schools.

The Department has produced a leaflet containing guidance on the prevention and treatment of head lice. The leaflet is widely available from locations that include schools and general practitioner surgeries and on the Department's website at:

www.dh.gov.uk/assetRoot/04/ll/63/47/04116347.pdf

A copy of the leaflet has been placed in the Library.

Health Services

Rob Marris: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether his Department has (a) taken steps to meet the and (b) issued guidance to NHS trusts on meeting needs of adult patients who are in the (i) highest and (ii) lowest decile of body height; and if he will make a statement. [256604]

Phil Hope: The Department has not taken specific steps regarding patients who are in the highest or lowest decile of body height. On 30 June 2008, my noble Friend Lord Darzi, the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, launched "High Quality Care for All: NHS Next Stage Review final report", which makes clear that the NHS must meet the needs of all patients and to pay particular attention to groups or sections of society where improvements in health and life expectancy are not keeping pace with the rest of the population. A copy of the report has already been placed in the Library.

Health Services: Learning Disability

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department takes to prevent discrimination in the NHS against patients with learning difficulties. [254897]

Phil Hope: On 19 January 2009, my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Health published "Valuing People Now"—a new three-year cross-government strategy for people with learning disabilities. A copy has already been placed in the Library. It encompasses the Department's response to the key recommendations of "Healthcare for All"—the report of the Independent Inquiry chaired by Sir Jonathan Michael (DH, 2008)—and affirms that access to high quality health care is a right, and is essential in enabling people to lead healthy, active and fulfilling lives that are free from discrimination.

We will be establishing a time-limited Confidential Inquiry (CI) to investigate premature deaths of people with learning disabilities. This will help improve the clinical evidence-base that should underpin commissioning of local services. We are developing a specification for the CI and we expect to invite proposals from potential organisations in the coming months.

We will also establish a public health observatory to provide essential information at national and local level. This responds to the call for improved data, so that the national health service can target action to support people to have better health. It will support primary care trusts in assessing the needs of people with learning disabilities in their local population, assessing how these needs are being met and to understand comparative health outcomes for people with learning disabilities.

The Government accept the recommendations of the Independent Inquiry. We are now taking action that will lead to people with learning disabilities getting the equal access to health care that they deserve. The NHS is already improving the health of people with learning disabilities, for example, through establishing health checks and improving training.

"Valuing People Now" is supported by existing legislation. The Disability Discrimination Act (1995) places a legal responsibility on all health and social care organisations not to discriminate against disabled people or provide them with a poorer quality of service.

Health Services: Sexual Offences

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent steps the Government have taken to improve the provision of health services to victims of sexual crime in the West Midlands. [255357]

Ann Keen: The Department is working with the Home Office to deliver the Response to Sexual Violence Programme. The aim is to set up more sexual assault referral centres (SARCs) in line with the Home Secretary's commitment to increasing provision to one per police force area. SARCs are intended to provide a holistic service for the victims of sexual assaults, including meeting the victim's clinical needs as well as a forensic examination, counselling and the opportunity to give evidence anonymously.

Within the West Midlands area, there is already a SARC in Walsall. A second facility has also been approved, which will be located in Birmingham.

Hospital Beds: Elderly

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent assessment he has made of the adequacy of the supply of beds in hospital for elderly patients in North Yorkshire; and if he will make a statement. [255832]

Phil Hope: No assessment has been made of the adequacy of the supply of beds in hospital for elderly patients in North Yorkshire. It is the responsibility of the national health service locally to ensure that there are appropriate resources to enable all patients to be cared for in an appropriate clinical environment.

The Department's "National Service Framework (NSF) for Older People" published in 2001 sets out a 10-year strategy to improve services for older people, in all settings including hospital. A copy of the framework has already been placed in the Library.

One of the key aims of the NSF is to ensure that older people are never unfairly discriminated against in accessing NHS or social care. The NHS makes it clear that NHS services should be provided, regardless of age, on the basis of clinical need alone.

In addition, the NHS constitution makes it clear that people will have the right not to be unlawfully discriminated against on the grounds of age once the Equality Bill comes into force.

Hospitals: Food

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidance he has issued to the NHS on protected meal times for patients. [256261]

Ann Keen: The Department has not issued any guidance to the NHS on protected meal times for patients.

The protected mealtimes initiative (PMI) was introduced by NHS Estates in partnership with the Royal College of Nursing in 2004, as part of the Better Hospital Food programme. When NHS Estates closed in September 2005, lead responsibility for the protected mealtimes initiative passed to the National Patient Safety Agency (NPSA).

The NPSA has been working with key stakeholders in the development of a toolkit to assist NHS organisations in the implementation of the '10 Key Characteristics of Good Nutritional Care'. A factsheet relating to protected mealtimes was developed and launched in April 2008 and the NPSA will be launching the complete toolkit later this year.

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much was paid to the Chair of the Better Hospital Food Panel in each year since 2001. [256263]

Ann Keen: The chairman of the Better Hospital Food panel received no remuneration. There were no recruitment costs incurred in the appointment.

Hospitals: Hygiene

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many staff were dismissed from NHS hospitals in 2008 for failing to follow hygiene procedures. [255967]

Ann Keen: This information is not held centrally.

Learning Disability: North East

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people in (a) the North East, (b) the Tees Valley and (c) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency have learning difficulties; and what special measures are in place to address this. [255043]

Phil Hope: This information is not collected centrally.

Local authorities hold information relating to people with learning disabilities in their area who are assessed for support or receiving services. General practitioner practices are also encouraged to register people with learning disabilities and provide them with annual health checks.

It is the responsibility of local authorities in partnership with primary care trusts to ensure support and services are in place to meet the assessed needs of people with learning disabilities.

Medical Records

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what arrangements are in place for ensuring that a patient's medical records are accurate; and who is responsible for ensuring such accuracy; [254218]

(2) what his policy is on the frequency with which audits of patient data collections should be undertaken; what his most recent assessment is of the (a) security and (b) accuracy of patient data; how much was spent on auditing data collections in the last year for which figures are available; and what plans he has to review (i) procedures for and (ii) expenditure on audit of data collections; [254281]

(3) which (a) organisations and (b) staff are responsible for auditing medical records in order to ensure that they are (i) secure and (ii) accurate. [254282]

Mr. Bradshaw: As independent statutory bodies, each national health service organisation is responsible for ensuring that the information recorded in a patient's medical record is accurate, up to date and secure. All individuals who work in the NHS are responsible for any records which they create or use in the performance of their duties. This is in line with data protection legislation and guidance provided by the Department and professional bodies. David Nicholson the NHS Chief Executive has also written to all NHS Chief Executives to remind them of their responsibility for assessing risk to information and ensuring it is secure.

It is the responsibility of the management of each organisation to establish and implement procedures which ensure the accuracy and security of records. These procedures may include both internal and external audits of records. It is down to each individual NHS organisation to decide upon the frequency of such audits. There are also independent bodies who have powers to inspect and audit NHS records, and it is a matter for these independent bodies to determine the frequency of these inspections to whom they apply.

The Department does not collect information on the costs involved in auditing all data collections that occur within the NHS.

Mental Health Services: Coventry

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent steps the Government has taken to improve the provision of mental health services in Coventry. [255355]

Phil Hope: The "National Service Framework for Mental Health" (NSF), published in September 1999. established a 10-year programme of reform, to improve provision of mental health services in England, including Coventry. A copy of the document has already been placed in the Library.

The NSF was followed in 2000 by the NHS Plan. This identified mental health as one of the clinical priorities of the national health service and set precise and challenging targets for mental health services nationally.

The Mental Health Act 2007 makes a range of important changes to existing legislation to modernise and improve it in line with developments in practice. For example, the ability to provide intensive support in the community through the specialist community teams to strengthen patient safeguards and to remedy incompatibilities with the European Convention on Human Rights. The majority of its changes came into force on 3 November 2008.

Mental Health Services: Young People

Bill Etherington: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what steps he plans to take to improve services for young people who require (a) mental health support, (b) bereavement counselling and (c) individual counselling in the North East; [255311]

(2) what the average waiting time for young people to obtain (a) mental health support services, (b) bereavement counselling and (c) individual counselling services was in the North East in the latest period for which information is available. [255312]

Phil Hope: Data on average waiting times for young people to obtain mental health support services, bereavement counselling and individual counselling services in the North East are not collected centrally.

Counselling is one of the modalities of psychological intervention approved by the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) for treating depression and anxiety disorders. Other NICE approved psychological therapies include guided self-help, computerised cognitive behavioural therapy, behavioural activation and exercise. The Improving Access to Psychological Therapies (IAPT) Programme aims to help primary care trusts (PCTs) to implement NICE guidelines and improve access to psychological therapies in England for people with depression or anxiety disorders. This is supported by a significant national investment rising to £173 million by 2010-11. Its aim is to train 3,600 more therapists who will help to provide 900,000 more people with access to psychological therapies by 2010-11.

In addition, 11 pathfinder PCTs are now examining the needs of specific groups, including children and young people, new mothers, older people, black and minority ethnic groups, offenders, people with long-term conditions and those with medically unexplained symptoms, to see how access to a range of therapies for these groups could be further improved.

For more general information on the Government's plans to improve services for young people who require mental health support, I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave the hon. Member for Buckingham (John Bercow) on 16 December 2008, Official Report, column 683W, for details of the Government's response to the recently published independent Child and Adolescent Mental Health Services Review.

Mesothelioma

John Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment his Department has made of the implications of the findings of the (a) MS101 trial, (b) MALCS study, (c) MARS study and (d) VATS study for treatment of mesothelioma; and if he will make a statement. [255479]

Ann Keen: The results of all trials relating to mesothelioma will be discussed, when available, by the Lung Cancer and Mesothelioma Advisory Group, chaired by the National Cancer Director, Professor Mike Richards.

Midwives: Manpower

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many midwives worked in the NHS in each year since 1997; and how many worked in each NHS organisation in each of the last three years. [255596]

Ann Keen: The information is contained in the tables that have been placed in the Library.

NHS Direct

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many and what percentage of calls to NHS Direct were referred to (a) 999, (b) accident and emergency, (c) an out-of-hours GP service, (d) self-care, (e) pharmacy and (f) another service in each quarter since January 2003. [255432]

Mr. Bradshaw: The information is not available in the format requested. Such information as is available is in the following tables. These data include all calls to the 0845 46 47 line and other calls to services provided to national and local commissioners, including calls to The Appointments Line and locally commissioned services such as dental and out-of-hours services.

NHS Direct do not report separately on referrals to general practitioner (GP) out-of-hours services. All calls resulting in a GP referral are treated as a referral to primary care services. Data on referrals to primary care services are included within calls referred to another service, shown in the final table.

NHS: Pensions

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many members of the NHS Pension Scheme have received pension overpayments due to guaranteed minimum pension data not being properly transferred. [256405]

Ann Keen: NHS pensions are continuing to work with other organisations to confirm the numbers of members of the NHS Pension Scheme who have been overpaid as a result of the incorrect indexation of the guaranteed minimum pension. We estimate that around 51,000 pensioners will be affected. We anticipate that final figures will be known by the end of February 2009.

Nurses: Training

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what proportion of student nurses are studying for a (a) diploma and (b) degree; [255749]

(2) what support is available to nursing students studying for a (a) diploma and (b) degree. [255750]

Ann Keen: The actual number of student nurses studying degree and diploma courses is not held centrally. However, the number of training posts commissioned each year by strategic health authorities in England in the financial years 2005-06 to 2007-08 are as follows:

		2005-06 Commissions		2006-07 Commissions		2007-08 Commissions
		No.	Proportion	No.	Proportion	No.	Proportion
Nursing	Degree	3,238	0.16	4,006	0.19	4,062	0.21

Subject to meeting the eligibility criteria diploma level nursing students receive a non-means tested NHS bursary and degree level nursing students receive a means tested NHS bursary supplemented by a non means tested Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills student loan (approximately 50 per cent. of the full loan available to non-health care degree level students). Additional allowances are also available, subject to individual circumstances, for students with disabilities, others with dependants and to cover some childcare costs.

University Access to Leaning Funds, administered via most higher education institutions may be available to nursing students who have taken up their full entitlement to a NHS bursary and (if applicable) a student loan and are in need of further financial support. The basic NHS bursary rates for new students in academic year 2008-09 is shown in the following table.

NHS bursary rates	2008-09 (£)
Degree	—
London	Up to 3,306
Elsewhere	Up to 2,739
Parental Home	Up to 2,287
Diploma	—
London	7,629
Elsewhere	6,531
Parental Home	6,531

As part of the national health service (NHS) Next Stage Review the Department is undertaking a review of NHS student support to consider a wide range of options for student support, including addressing the anomaly under which nursing degree students receive different support from nursing diploma students. The review is being taken forward in partnership with key stakeholders including trades unions.

In addition to the basic NHS bursary, the NHS meets both diploma and degree level nursing students' liability for a national tuition fee contribution of £7,273 in 2008-09.

Patients Rights

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what procedures will apply to the imposition of financial penalties for hospitals which do not meet required standards of privacy and dignity for patients; [255302]

(2) with reference to his announcement of 28 January 2009 on mixed-sex accommodation in the NHS, what financial penalties hospitals may be liable for; and how he plans to define overriding clinical justification. [255368]

Ann Keen: From 2010-11 hospitals that treat patients in mixed sex accommodation will face significant financial consequences—unless there is an overriding clinical justification.

Officials are currently examining options for financial levers in the standard contracts from April 2010, and are also determining appropriate measures and definitions for "overriding clinical justification".

Physiotherapy: Manpower

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) physiotherapists and (b) speech therapists worked in the NHS in each year since 1997; and how many worked in each NHS organisation in each of the last three years. [255597]

Ann Keen: The information is contained in tables which have been placed in the Library.

Primary Care Trusts

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the (a) deprivation score, as recorded in the indices of deprivation, (b) forecast surplus in 2008-09 as a percentage of turnover, (c) revenue allocation in 2008-09 per unweighted head and (d) the number of GPs per 100,000 population is of each primary care trust. [255436]

Mr. Bradshaw: The information in the following table shows:

the index of multiple deprivation (IMD) 2007 score;

forecast outturn surplus or deficit as a percentage of turnover at quarter two 2008-09; the revenue allocation in 2008-09 per unweighted head; and the number of general practitioners (GPs) (excluding retainers and registrars) at 30 September 2007 per 100,000 unweighted population for each primary care trust (PCT).

Notes:

1. The IMD 2007 is published by Communities and Local Government and combines a number of indicators, chosen to cover a range of economic, social and housing issues, into a single deprivation score for small areas in England.
2. The forecast surplus or deficit at quarter two 2008-09 is published by the Department at: www.dh.gov.uk/en/Publicationsandstatistics/Publications/PublicationsStatistics/DH_091230.
3. The population used as the denominator is the PCT responsible population for 2008 from the 2004-based Office for National Statistics population projections, adjusted for cross border patient flows using 2007 GP registrations.
4. The number of GPs is from the general practice census published each year by the Information Centre for Health and Social Care at: www.ic.nhs.uk/statistics-and-data-collections/workforce/nhs-staff-numbers/nhs-staff-1997-2007-general-practice

Prostate Cancer

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what recent assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the programmes run by his Department to raise awareness of prostate cancer; [256124]

(2) how much his Department has spent on programmes to raise awareness of prostate cancer in each of the last five years; [256125]

(3) what advice his Department offers to the public on potential symptoms of prostate cancer; and what plans he has to initiate further public awareness campaigns. [256126]

Ann Keen: Raising the public awareness of prostate cancer is a key challenge. We want men to know what their prostate is, what it does, and what can go wrong with it. However, we have to raise awareness in a responsible way so as not to cause undue anxiety.

That is why the Prostate Cancer Advisory Group Public Awareness Working Group developed a definitive set of consistent key messages for the general public about the prostate, including prostate cancer. These messages provide men and their families with information about the prostate designed in such a way as not to cause unnecessary anxiety. The key messages have been agreed by 20 organisations, including charities, patient groups and professional bodies, as well as the Department. The messages are free for all organisations to use, and were published in 2008 in the Royal British Legion's Members Directory and in supplements to the Daily Express and The Daily Telegraph at a cost of over £5,000.

The Department invested £100,000 in a pilot public awareness programme of the prostate and its function, a joint programme with signatories to the Prostate Cancer Charter for Action who provided £50,000 of funding. The pilot took place in Coventry in 2006 to test the effectiveness of the key messages, the intervention used to promote the messages and the impact promoting the messages has on national health service (NHS) services. The final evaluation reports and recommendations of the pilot have been referred to the Cancer Reform Strategy National Awareness and Early Detection Initiative (NAEDI).

NAEDI aims to make the public and healthcare professionals more aware of the signs and symptoms of cancer, including prostate cancer, and encourage those who may have symptoms to seek advice earlier. An example of future work includes the Football Foundation's awareness raising project, which is part funded by the Department, which will work to raise awareness of the signs, symptoms and risk factors associated with bowel, lung and prostate cancers in men aged over 55.

Other investment in the public awareness of prostate cancer in the last five years has included:

investing over £100,000 in UK Prostate Link, the first comprehensive online source of information of its kind, to help the public, prostate cancer patients, their families and health professionals to find all the information they want to know about prostate cancer, including signs and symptoms. This is a collaborative project, co-funded with signatories to the Prostate Cancer Charter for Action;

providing £30,000 to the Men's Health Forum to help fund its publication, the "Men and Cancer Manual" in 2004; providing £29,000 to the Men's Health Forum to produce and distribute 'mini' "Men and Cancer Manuals", including detailed information on prostate cancer, in 2007 and 2008. A further collaboration is planned for 2009; and providing £105,000 to the Prostate Cancer Charity to improve awareness of the risks and symptoms of prostate cancer in African and Afro-Caribbean men between 2003 and 2006.

Prosthetics

Dr. Richard Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what provision is being made by the NHS to provide modern prosthetic technology to those people with thalidomide related impairments who rely on prosthesis for independent living and mobility. [255523]

Dawn Primarolo: It is for primary care trusts in partnership with local stakeholders to assess the needs of their local population and to commission services accordingly. This process provides the means for addressing local needs within the health community including the provision of prosthetic services.

Speech Therapy

Mr. Barron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health in what ways his Department monitors the quality of service of speech and language therapy; and how he plans to inform patients of the findings of such monitoring. [256767]

Ann Keen: The quality of speech and language therapy (SLT) services is not monitored centrally. It is for primary care trusts, working with local stakeholders, to monitor the quality of these services and to disseminate their results.

As part of the improved allied health professional (AHP) service offer, which includes SLTs, announced by my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Health in October 2008, we will ensure that as part of the work described in 'High Quality Care for AH' to develop an integrated set of quality metrics, there is a clear focus on metrics related to services provided by clinical teams inclusive of AHPs. The metrics developed through this work will be shared across the country.

Spinal Injuries

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many patients have been treated in NHS hospitals for spinal cord injuries in (a) England, (b) the North East, (c) the Tees Valley and (d) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency in each of the last 10 years. [254887]

Ann Keen: This information is not collected centrally.

Strokes: Health Services

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his policy is on (a) provision and (b) co-ordination of (i) transient ischaemic attack units, (ii) stroke units and (iii) hyper acute units in the same location to enable stroke response; what process is being followed to determine the adequacy of stroke care provision in North East London and the location of a new stroke care unit; what public consultation will take place as part of this process; and what provisions there are to challenge the outcome of the consultation. [253337]

Ann Keen: Policy for stroke services is set out in the national strategy for stroke services in England which was published in December 2007. A copy has already been placed in the Library. It provides a quality framework against which local services can secure improvements to services and address health inequalities relating to stroke over a period of 10 years. It also provides support and guidance for commissioners, strategic health authorities and others in the planning, development and monitoring of services.

How services are configured in response to the strategy is for local decision. Issues related to the provision of stroke services in London are a matter for NHS London and the primary care trusts (PCTs) within it.

The Health Overview and Scrutiny Committees jointly or individually can refer decisions to the Secretary of State if they consider them not in the interests of the health service locally. The Secretary of State may in turn seek advice from the Independent Reconfiguration Panel.

Suicide

Dr. Ladyman: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he is taking to achieve a reduction in the number of suicides; and if he will make a statement. [255547]

Phil Hope: The "National Suicide Prevention Strategy for England: Annual Report 2007" highlights action taken to reduce suicides, action planned for 2008 and statistical information on suicides in England.

Since publication of this report, further statistics on suicide "Mortality Target Monitoring" have been published and can be found at:

www.dh.gov.uk/en/Publicationsandstatistics/Publications/PublicationsStatistics/DH_088867

Copies of both publications have been placed in the Library.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

Afghanistan: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs with reference to the answer of 26 November 2008, Official Report, column 1742W, on Afghanistan: peacekeeping operations, when he expects to publish the results of the detailed periodic assessment of the Government's Afghanistan strategy. [246328]

Bill Rammell: As my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister announced to the House on 3 December 2008, Official Report, columns 28-29, a review of the Government's Afghanistan policy is under way, involving the Ministry of Defence, the Foreign and Commonwealth Office and the Department for International Development, and reporting to the Prime Minister. Once completed, the findings and implications of the review will be announced to the House.

Burma: Christianity

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent reports he has received of (a) closures of churches in Burma and (b) the treatment of Christians in that country; what recent representations he has made to the government of Burma on the matter; and if he will make a statement. [254176]

Bill Rammell: We are concerned that the Burmese regime has imposed restrictions on churches and other places of worship for religious minorities in Rangoon. We condemn the marginalisation or persecution of any community based on their religious beliefs. We also remain concerned about reports that the mainly Buddhist Burmese authorities restrict freedom of religion. There are Christians among a variety of ethnic groups in Burma, though their persecution by the authorities appears to be based largely on their ethnicity rather than their faith.

The regime's actions are part of a wider deterioration of the human rights situation in Burma and the UK will continue to ask the UN Secretary-General's Good Offices mission and representatives of the UN human rights bodies to raise our concerns with the State Peace and Development Council.

Central Asia: Nuclear Weapons

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the Government's policy is on the entry into force of a Central Asian nuclear weapon-free zone. [253390]

Bill Rammell: The UK supports the principle of a Central Asia Nuclear Weapon-Free Zone and welcomes Kazakhstan's recent ratification of the treaty of Semipalatinsk. The Government believe this gives the central Asian states the opportunity to amend articles IV and XII, the provisions of which pertaining to transit arrangements and the primacy of previous security arrangements are not in our view compatible with a nuclear weapon-free zone. Acceptable amendments to these provisions will enable the UK to ratify the protocol to the treaty.

Departmental Freedom of Information

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the average cost to his Department of responding to requests made under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 has been since 2006. [255679]

Gillian Merron: A report prepared for the Ministry of Justice by Frontier Economics Ltd. in October 2006 entitled "Independent Review of the impact of the Freedom of Information Act" estimated a figure of £254 for a central Government body to deal with an initial Freedom of Information request. Based on this figure, the Foreign and Commonwealth Office has spent an estimated £805,434 since 2006.

The report is available on the Ministry of Justice website at:

http://www.foi.gov.uk/reference/foi-independent-review.pdf

Departmental Surveys

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will place in the Library a copy of the latest annual survey of the UK's reputation in the US, China and India in the financial services, ICT, life sciences and energy sectors, as referred to on page eight of his Department's Autumn 2008 Performance Report. [246259]

David Miliband: A copy of the UK reputation benchmarking survey has been placed in the Library.

Departmental Telephone Services

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many telephone numbers for which callers are charged at the rate applicable to 0845 numbers are used by (a) his Department and (b) its executive agencies for public access to services. [246979]

Gillian Merron: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) and its executive agencies maintain one 0845 number. This number is provided as an alternative to the FCO website for users to access up to date travel advice. The FCO receives no financial benefit from this arrangement.

Egypt: Religious Freedom

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received of (a) attacks on the Abu Fana monastery in Egypt and (b) the risk of attacks on the Coptic community in Egypt; and if he will make a statement. [254177]

Bill Rammell: The Government have received reports of an incident which occurred at the Abu Fana Coptic monastery on 31 May 2008. The incident concerned the building of a wall on agricultural land disputed by the local village, Deir Abu Fana and the monastery. The dispute became violent when a mob attacked the monastery, killing a local resident. Two monastery workers suffered bullet wounds, two monks suffered injuries and three monks were taken by the mob and badly beaten. I understand that the disagreement has been settled through customary informal negotiations. We understand that no one has been brought to trial and 15 people remain in detention.

With at least 8 million Coptic Christians in Egypt, creating tolerance between Coptic and Muslim communities is essential. The Egyptian President is personally involved in efforts to promote tolerance and inter-faith harmony, and has taken steps to promote and protect the rights of Christian, such as appointing Christians to parliament and other senior government posts (including the Head of the National Council for Human Rights). But sectarian tension and discrimination does sometimes exist at grass roots level. We regularly raise our concerns about human rights with the Egyptian government, and will continue to do so.

European Union

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what financial facilities his Department has made available to the EU offices of the devolved Administrations; what sums were provided; and what period elapsed between payment and cost recovery in each case in each of the last five years. [242065]

Gillian Merron: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office's Joint Management Office (JMO) in Brussels provides management services including financial facilities to the three UK missions in Brussels: UK Delegation to the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation; UK Representation to the EU and our bilateral Embassy, as well as to the EU offices of the devolved Administrations.

Financial facilities are in place to provide services such as assistance with the finding of accommodation, recruitment of locally engaged staff, and sourcing health care provision.

Additionally, there is a financial facility in place for us to recover costs incurred on behalf of the devolved Administrations, such as for transport, and until last year a charge for management services provided by the JMO.

The JMO pay invoices on behalf of the devolved Administrations in Brussels. The JMO then recover the costs directly from the appropriate devolved Administration.

Information on charging is only available from 1 April 2004, and is set out in the following table.

Financial facility charges to devolved Administrations for the period 1 April 2005 to 31 March 2008 including management costs

	Amount (£)
National Assembly for Wales	45,953.82
Northern Ireland Office	4,772.63
Northern Ireland Executive	25,848.92
Scottish Executive	59,150.30

Information relating to the period elapsed between payment and recovery of costs is not available.

Gaza: Weapons

Martin Horwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions he has had with (a) his US counterpart, (b) his Israeli counterpart and (c) others to discuss the flow of weapons into Gaza. [253214]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 2 February 2009]: We are extremely concerned about the smuggling of arms and people into Gaza. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary met US Secretary of State Clinton on 4 February 2009 and Israeli Foreign Minister Livni on 21 January 2009 to discuss Gaza and the Middle East Peace Process, including arms smuggling. He has frequently spoken to his US, Israeli and other counterparts on ways to help prevent smuggling.

India: Foreign Relations

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when he next expects to meet his Indian counterpart. [253372]

Bill Rammell: There are currently no arrangements for my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary to meet Foreign Minister Mukherjee. They do and will continue to maintain regular contact.

Iraq: Asylum

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will take steps to seek to prevent the enforced and unlawful resettlement of residents of Ashraf city. [256111]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 10 February 2009]: I should clarify that it was the US, not the UK, who had sole responsibility for the security and administration of the camp. The responsibility for the camp was handed to the Iraqi authorities from 1 January 2009 by the US. Several hundred former residents have voluntarily returned to Iran in the recent past. Reporting leads us to understand that those who have returned have not been ill treated. Repatriations to Iran of those residents who wish to return will continue. But there is no evidence to suggest forced relocation of the residents in Iraq or elsewhere will take place. Whilst residents of the camp were treated as "protected persons", this was exercised at the good will of the US authorities in charge and was not granted through any legal obligation under international law.

Middle East: Armed Conflict

Dr. Starkey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment has been made by the European Union of the financial cost of damage or destruction of EU-funded facilities in the Palestinian Territories by Israeli military action since 1998; and whether compensation has been paid by Israel to the EU. [248496]

Bill Rammell: A full assessment of the humanitarian consequences and the damage caused by the military operation has yet to be made. Relief needs are expected to be huge. Activities in the Gaza strip will be part of an early recovery plan which will follow a joint needs assessment being coordinated with multilateral and international donors. The UK will welcome any contribution made towards the reconstruction of Gaza.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent reports he has received on allegations of Hamas fighters (a) shedding uniforms, (b) donning civilian clothing and (c) hiding within the civilian population in Gaza during Operation Cast Lead; and if he will make a statement. [252968]

Bill Rammell: We have received credible reports—including from human rights non-governmental organisations and from our own staff in Gaza—that Hamas fighters attempted to blend into the civilian population, that they conducted military activities in areas where civilians were sheltering and that they booby-trapped civilian infrastructure. UN Security Council Resolution 1860, which was proposed by the UK, was emphatic in its condemnation of all violence and hostilities directed against civilians and all acts of terrorism.

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if the Government will make representations to the Israeli government to fund most of the reconstruction work required in Gaza. [253108]

Bill Rammell: We would welcome an Israeli contribution to the wider reconstruction effort. The most essential Israeli action that we continue to press for is the immediate free and unhindered passage of humanitarian aid, construction materials and the staff of UN agencies and international non-governmental organisations through the Gaza crossings.

Pakistan: Marriage

Mr. Gray: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps his Department is taking to assist British nationals who are in violent forced marriages in Pakistan. [243673]

Gillian Merron: Where it is known that a British national has already been forced into marriage, staff from our high commission in Islamabad will attempt to contact the individual to offer support. This can vary from a welfare visit to assistance in returning to the UK. We work closely with both the central and local authorities in Pakistan in providing this assistance.

The Forced Marriage Unit in London can also help to arrange accommodation for victims when they return to the UK and can refer victims to counselling and support groups, refuges, and legal centres.

To help support victims of Forced Marriage, the Forced Marriage Civil Protection Act was introduced in November 2008. The Act allows the court the power to protect victims who have already been forced into marriage and also to make protection orders to prevent forced marriages occurring. A number of protection orders have already been used since the act's introduction. A copy of the Act is available on the Office of Public Sector Information at:

www.opsi.gov.uk/acts/acts2007/ukpga_20070020_en_1

The delay in responding was due to an administrative error.

Russia: Georgia

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his assessment is of the level of compliance by Russia with the terms of the 12 August and 8 September 2008 agreements on Georgia; and if he will make a statement. [242200]

David Miliband: On 12 August 2008, the EU and Organisation for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE) brokered a ceasefire between the parties. These points were supplemented by an implementation plan, again brokered by the EU and OSCE, and agreed on 8 September 2008.

Russia has met a number, though not all, of its commitments under the 8 August and 12 September 2008 plans. Though Russia withdrew from most of the areas adjacent to South Ossetia and Abkhazia within 10 days of the deployment of an EU Mission to Georgia, it retains a checkpoint at Perevi, which is in the rest of Georgia outside South Ossetia. And within South Ossetia and Abkhazia it has failed to withdraw to its pre-conflict positions: Russian forces are now stationed in the Upper Kodori Valley in Abkhazia and the Akhalgori region of South Ossetia. Neither area was under Russian control before hostilities began.

Along with our partners, we continue to call on Russia to meet its commitments to the international community in full.

I will write to the right hon. Member in more detail on Russia's commitments and compliance with them, and will place copy of my letter in the Library of the House.

South Georgia: Research

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the Answer of 2 February 2009, Official Report, column 884W, on Falkland Islands dependencies, how much it cost to maintain the two year-round research stations at South Georgia in the last 12 months. [256120]

Gillian Merron: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office and the Government of South Georgia and the South Sandwich Islands each provide the British Antarctic Survey (BAS) with annual funding of £550,000 for the operation of the research station at King Edward Point. The projected running costs for 2008-09 is £715,000.

The remainder of the annual funding is used to finance the annual resupply of the base, the costs of chartering a fisheries survey vessel, and BAS overheads such as insurance costs.

The research station at Bird Island is a British Antarctic Survey facility and its projected running costs for 2008-09 is £335,000.

Sri Lanka

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what (a) meetings and (b) other contacts he has had with groups representing the Tamil population of Sri Lanka in 2009. [254629]

Bill Rammell: On 27 January 2009, my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary and my noble Friend the Minister for Africa, Asia and the UN, Lord Malloch-Brown met a group of over 100 representatives from Tamil communities in the UK to discuss the current situation in Sri Lanka. Foreign and Commonwealth Office officials regularly meet groups representing Tamils, most recently in early February 2009.

Sri Lanka: Peace Negotiations

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps he is taking to seek to bring about a ceasefire in Sri Lanka; and if he will make a statement. [253467]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 2 February 2009]: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary made clear in a statement on 29 January 2009 the UK's concerns about the humanitarian situation in northern Sri Lanka. He urged the Sri Lankan Government to put an immediate humanitarian ceasefire in place.

The full text of that statement is available on the Foreign and Commonwealth Office website at http://www.fco.gov.uk/en/newsroom/latest-news/?view=PressS&id=12945591.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make representations to the Sri Lankan Government to stop its offensive in Tamil areas and to ensure that government forces respect human rights; and if he will make a statement. [253468]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 2 February 2009]: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary made clear in a statement on 29 January 2009 the UK's concerns about the humanitarian situation in northern Sri Lanka. He urged the Sri Lankan Government to put an immediate humanitarian ceasefire in place.

The full text of that statement is available on the Foreign and Commonwealth Office website at http://www.fco.gov.uk/en/newsroom/latest-news/?view=PressS&id=12945591.

Sri Lanka: Politics and Government

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his most recent assessment of the security situation in Sri Lanka is; and what assessment he has made of the likelihood of an end to terrorist violence in that country. [253980]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 3 February 2009]: The UK has serious concerns about the humanitarian and security situation in northern Sri Lanka. As my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister said in the house on 14 January 2009, Official Report, columns 209-210, we wish to see an end to the violence and agreement on the need for a ceasefire. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary repeated the Prime Minister's call in his statements on 29 and 31 January 2009 urging the Government of Sri Lanka to announce a humanitarian ceasefire. The UK has called on both sides urgently to make progress on a political solution which addresses the legitimate concerns of all of Sri Lanka's communities.

Sudan: Peacekeeping Operations

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he has made representations to the government of Sudan on bringing Sudan's National Security Act into line with the provisions of the Comprehensive Peace Agreement. [254359]

Gillian Merron: Revision of the National Security Act is essential for the conduct of free and fair elections which, under the Comprehensive Peace Agreement (CPA), are due in July 2009. The parties to the CPA agreed to extend the current parliamentary term until several pieces of legislation, including the National Security Act, have been enacted.

We urge the parties to the CPA to create conditions for free and fair elections through the Elections Donor Group and through the Power Sharing Working Group of the Assessment and Evaluation Commission (the international body mandated under the CPA to monitor implementation). My Right Hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary raised this with the Government of Sudan during his visit to Sudan in July 2008.

Tibet: Politics and Government

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs with reference to the Written Ministerial Statement of 29 October 2008, Official Report, columns 30-32WS, on Tibet, what undertakings the Chinese government gave prior to his Department's change of policy on Tibet; and if he will make a statement. [249325]

Bill Rammell: We did not consult the Chinese Government on the update to our policy on Tibet in the written ministerial statement of 29 October 2008, Official Report, columns 30-32WS.

Timor-Leste

John Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his most recent assessment of the political situation in East Timor is; and if he will make a statement. [255466]

Bill Rammell: East Timor has made slow but steady progress since the 2006 crisis. The security situation has stabilised following the February 2008 attacks on President Ramos Horta and Prime Minister Gusmao. Security sector reform, deep poverty and a weak judiciary remain key challenges. The United Nations Mission in Timor's mandate will be considered later this month and the UK will continue to encourage progress in the above key areas in order to achieve our ultimate goal of helping the people of East Timor stand on their own feet. Dr. Khare, UN Special Representative of the Secretary-General for East Timor, called on my noble Friend the Minister for Africa, Asia and the UN, Lord Malloch-Brown, on 21 October 2008 to discuss progress. The UK continues to provide support to East Timor, including through contributing £150,000 to the International Foundation for Electoral Systems to improve the functioning of Timorese election processes.

Western Sahara: Politics and Government

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make it his policy to seek to ensure that the people of Western Sahara have a referendum on self-determination before 2010. [253663]

Bill Rammell: The Government continue to believe that progress towards a negotiated solution to the dispute in Western Sahara which provides for the self-determination of the people of Western Sahara is best achieved under the auspices of the United Nations.

We continue to support the efforts of the UN Secretary-General and his staff to secure agreement between the parties on the future status of Western Sahara. The date and terms of any eventual referendum should be agreed by all parties to the dispute.

In this respect the Government welcome the appointment of the UN Secretary-General's new personal envoy to Western Sahara, Christopher Ross, and encourages all the parties to the dispute to enter into renewed negotiations in a spirit of realism and compromise.

Peter Bottomley: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received on the declaration of an exclusive economic zone by the Saharawi Arab Democratic Republic concerning the waters off Western Sahara. [254097]

Bill Rammell: The Government are aware, through press releases and media reports, that representatives of the Polisario have declared, on behalf of the Saharawi Arab Democratic Republic, an offshore exclusive economic zone in the waters off the coast of Western Sahara.

The status of Western Sahara remains unresolved pending the efforts of the UN Secretary-General and his staff to achieve a negotiated, lasting solution between the parties to the dispute, providing for the self-determination of the people of Western Sahara.

Zimbabwe: Politics and Government

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent assessment he has made of the humanitarian situation in Zimbabwe. [255373]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: I have been asked to reply.

I refer the hon. Member to the answer that I gave to the hon. Member for Macclesfield (Sir Nicholas Winterton) on Wednesday 11 February 2009, Official Report, column 2119W).

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent assessment he has made of the humanitarian situation in Zimbabwe; and if he will make a statement. [255650]

Mr. Michael Foster: I have been asked to reply.

I refer the hon. Member to the answer that I gave to the hon. Member for Macclesfield (Sir Nicholas Winterton) on Wednesday 11 February 2009, Official Report, column 2119W.

[255179]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 9 February 2009]: The last quarterly written ministerial statement on control orders, covering the period 11 September to 10 December 2008, was published on 15 December 2008. Mr. Woolas: Neither the Home Office, UK Border Agency or the Identity and Passport Service have used the Internet Advisory Bureau in any capacity.

Deportation: Sri Lanka

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assurances her Department has sought from the Sri Lankan government regarding the safety and well being of Tamils deported from the UK to that country; and if she will make a statement. [256509]

Mr. Woolas: All asylum claims including those from Sri Lankan Tamils are considered on their individual merits in accordance with our obligations under the refugee convention and the European convention on human rights. Those identified by the decision making process and the independent appeals process not to be in need of international protection are expected to leave the UK voluntarily. Failed asylum seekers can and do voluntarily return to Sri Lanka. Those who do not leave voluntarily may have their return enforced.

Provision is made for post arrival assistance of all failed asylum seekers we remove to Sri Lanka. We have not sought assurances from the Sri Lankan government regarding the safety of returnees but we do closely monitor the respect for human rights in all countries that we return to. We do not routinely monitor foreign nationals who do not need our protection in their own country, but if specific allegations are made that any returnee has experienced ill-treatment on return from the UK, then these will followed up through our high commission in Colombo.

Entry Clearances: Overseas Students

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what criteria are used to decide on the participating countries in the Youth Mobility scheme; and whether any countries not currently participating are seeking to participate. [255916]

Mr. Woolas: The Tier 5 Statement of Intent published in May 2008 (copies of which are available in the House Library), sets out the eligibility criteria for a country to join the Youth Mobility Scheme. As well as agreeing to be the sponsor of its participating nationals, each country needs to:

(a) have an acceptably low level of immigration risk, and not be subject to a mandatory UK visa regime;

(b) operate satisfactory returns arrangements with the UK; and

(c) provide reciprocal opportunities for young UK nationals.

Expressions of interest from countries to join the new Youth Mobility Scheme are confidential to the UK Government and the countries concerned. Discussions need to remain confidential in order for countries to feel able to explore their possible involvement and make any appropriate adjustments to fulfil all the criteria for inclusion in the scheme before any public statements about their involvement are made.

Immigration: Offenders

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many individuals with criminal convictions dealt with under the legacy exercise but not pursued for deportation have been (a) granted and (b) refused leave to remain since the exercise commenced. [256608]

Mr. Woolas: I refer the hon. Member to the last update to the Home Affairs Select Committee on 8 December 2008.

Immigration: Peterborough

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many uncleared cases there are of individuals in Peterborough constituency seeking indefinite leave to remain in the United Kingdom; and if she will make a statement. [253643]

Mr. Woolas [holding answer 3 February 2009]: The number of applicants who have an uncleared application for indefinite leave to remain in Peterborough constituency is 185.

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 27 January 2009, Official Report, column 284W, on deportation: Peterborough, what her estimate is of the cost to her Department of providing data on (a) received and (b) cleared cases in respect of individuals in Peterborough constituency seeking indefinite leave to remain; and if she will make a statement. [253647]

Mr. Woolas [holding answer 3 February 2009]: The cost of providing data on (a) received and (b) cleared cases in respect of individuals in Peterborough constituency seeking indefinite leave to remain is estimated to exceed the £750 threshold for information requests being refused. This is because the information is not stored in the format requested.

Members: Correspondence

Clare Short: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she plans to reply to the inquiry from the right hon. Member for Birmingham, Ladywood, of 23 October 2008, on the status documents of Mr Hassan Abdille Abdi, HO Ref. A130106Z. [254260]

Mr. Woolas: The UK Border Agency responded to the letter from the right hon. Member on 9 February 2009.

Police

Mr. Moss: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what discussions there have been between Cambridgeshire and Norfolk (a) police authorities and (b) constabularies on cross-border working involving Wisbech and King's Lynn police stations. [254163]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office is aware that discussions are taking place between Cambridgeshire and Norfolk police authorities/constabularies about the construction of a shared custody suite for Wisbech and King's Lynn police stations.

Our policy is to encourage collaboration where it is in the interests of improving the efficiency or effectiveness of the forces concerned or policing generally. We encourage police authorities to collaborate and expect them to be involved in scrutinising any proposals to collaborate.

Police Custody: Young People

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what data her Department collects on the use of appropriate adults to attend police questioning of minors. [253864]

Mr. Coaker: The use of an appropriate adult at a police station during the investigative process involving a juvenile is an operational matter based on the individual circumstances of the case. Information is not held centrally on the use of appropriate adults.

Police: Finance

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which police forces in England and Wales are receiving funding (a) above, (b) at and (c) below the formula funding level in 2008-09; and if she will make a statement. [256510]

Mr. Coaker: The information requested is in the following table.

All police authorities receive at least the "floor" increase of 2.5 per cent.

The damping mechanism exists to protect all authorities against financial instability and ensures all authorities receive an increase in grant at least equal to the "floor" level on a like-for-like basis year-on-year.

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the cost of employing police officers was in each police force in England as a percentage of the total force budget in 2007-08. [256694]

Mr. Coaker: The information requested is in the following table.

Prisoners: Diabetes

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people being held in custody have required treatment for diabetes in each of the last five years; and what procedure is used to provide such treatment. [251528]

Mr. Coaker: The information is not held centrally. Guidance for police officers and police staff on dealing with diabetes is set out in section 2.4.6 of the "Guidance on The Safer Detention and Handling of Persons in Police Custody" > http://police.homeoffice.gov.uk/publications/operationalpolicing/Safer_Detention_and_Handlin1.pdf?view=Binary.

Code of Practice C issued under the Police and Criminal Evidence Act (PACE) 1984 provides that the custody officer at the police must make sure that a detainee receives appropriate clinical attention if required or if requested by the detainee. If a detainee has medication in their possession relating to diabetes, the advice of the appropriate healthcare professional must be obtained.

UK Border Agency: Standards

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what data her Department collects to monitor the UK Border Agency's performance. [256227]

Mr. Woolas: A draft Framework Agreement for the UK Border Agency was published on the Home Office website in August 2008. That document sets out the arrangements for monitoring the performance of the agency. It places a responsibility on the agency to ensure that consistent, accurate and timely information on its performance is made available to Home Office Ministers, and to the Permanent Secretary and the Home Office Board.

The UK Border Agency's performance is monitored against the Government-wide public service agreement framework in relation to PSA three for which it has lead responsibility. It is also monitored against the targets and commitments that were set out in the 'UK Border Agency Business Plan, April 2008-March 2011'. The business plan is also available via the Home Office website. Other internal management data are also routinely collected, including on financial and commercial aspects of the UK Border Agency's performance, and data are provided on an ad hoc basis where there is a requirement to review performance in any particular area of its activity in more detail.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Community Development: Finance

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what funding her Department will provide to local authorities in respect of their new duty to promote democracy in the next 12 months. [254853]

John Healey: The anticipated extra costs to local authorities as a result of the duty to promote democracy were set out in an impact assessment published on the Communities and Local Government website when the Bill was introduced. I have placed a copy in the Library of the House. The relevant amount will be paid to local authorities in the financial year that the duty to promote democracy is commenced by order of the Secretary of State. We anticipate this to be in the financial year 2010-11.

Council Housing: Finance

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) how much per year pilot local authorities planned to spend on financing the £475 million prudential borrowing expected in their business plans submitted to her Department's modelling exercise on the self-financing of council housing services; and what rate of interest was assumed for this borrowing; [256235]

(2) how much each local authority has planned to spend on (a) new housing stock, (b) sustainability improvements to their housing stock and (c) stock maintenance over the 30-year period of the business plans included in her Department's modelling exercise on self-financing of council housing services. [256236]

Mr. Iain Wright: The report of the findings of the modelling exercise was published on 10 March 2008 and is available on the Department's website at:

> http://www.communities.gov.uk/publications/housing/selffinancingservices.

The exercise tested a range of scenarios and assumptions. The exercise was based on the principle that a self-financing local authority would be put in a position which broadly matched the level of resources that it would have received if it had remained within the Housing Revenue Account subsidy system.

Council Tax: Overpayments

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what her Department's policy is on the payment of interest in respect of overpaid council tax resulting from a Valuation Office Agency banding error. [254850]

John Healey: The legislative framework governing the administration of council tax does not include a specific provision on the payment of interest. The Government have no plans to change this.

Departmental Buildings

Greg Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will place in the Library a copy of the (a) display energy certificates and (b) advisory reports for public buildings issued in respect of each property occupied by (i) her Department and (ii) its agencies. [256042]

Mr. Khan: Communities and Local Government will place in the Library a copy of the display energy certificates and their associated advisory reports in respect of each qualifying property occupied by my Department and its agencies.

Departmental ICT

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Fareham of 15 July 2008, Official Report, columns 266-69W, on departmental ICT, what the purpose is of the (a) XML Schemas development, (b) RPD National Capability Survey Geodatabase projects and (c) Ordnance Survey GIS Development project. [252435]

Mr. Khan: The development of a single form for planning applications to replace a myriad of existing forms used across local government in various different formats is achieving significant benefits for local and central government, stakeholder organisations and the general public. The XML Schema development is required to bring the current schemas and associated standards up-to-date to enable the single form to be widely accessible from different IT platforms and personal computers

The National Capabilities Survey (NCS) is a key part of the UK Government's programme to increase the UK's resilience. The survey aims to assess current levels of capability and readiness across England. The results will identify gaps in event preparedness and be the baseline for judging priorities for future investment, exercising and policy development.

Ordnance Survey's GIS Development Project is designed to deliver a 'state of the art' technical environment for the National Geographical Database (NGD) to allow field editing, database transaction and data production management activities to take place in a seamless environment. The new systems will replace aging technology and enable Ordnance Survey to increase efficiency, reduce costs and deliver geographic information to market more quickly, with the improved content, currency and capability that customers demand.

Departmental Impact Assessments

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many equalities impact assessments her Department has undertaken in the last 12 month period for which figures are available; and what estimate she has made of the cost to the public purse of such assessments. [255078]

Mr. Khan: Over the last 12 months CLG has published one full Equality Impact Assessment for the White Paper "Communities In Control: Real People, Real Power" which is available on the Departmental website. In addition each of the thirty final Impact Assessments published by CLG in 2008 considered the impact of the proposal on race, disability and gender equality. In general the cost of Equality Impact Assessments or Impact Assessments are not distinguished from the total cost of a project.

Departmental Sick Leave

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many staff in her Department or its predecessors were on sick leave for (a) over 30 days, (b) over 50 days and (c) over 100 days in each of the last five years. [256320]

Mr. Khan: Information on sickness absence for 2004, 2005, 2006-07 for the Department for Communities and Local Government can be found on the civil service website:

http://www.civilservice.gov.uk/about/statistics/sickness.asp

From January 2008, information is provided by departments and collated by Cabinet Office on a quarterly basis. Figures for the 12 months to 31 December 2008 will not be prepared until March 2009.

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many staff in her Department were recorded as having been on sick leave for over 12 months on 31 December in each of the last five years. [256635]

Mr. Khan: Information on sickness absence for 2004, 2005, 2006-07 for the Department for Communities and Local Government can be found on the civil service website:

http://www.civilservice.gov.uk/about/statistics/sickness.asp

From January 2008, information is provided by departments and collated by Cabinet Office on a quarterly basis. Figures for the 12 months to 31 December 2008 will not be prepared until March 2009.

Housing: Databases

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether the information on domestic properties provided by the Rightmove interface to the Valuation Office Agency includes property attribute information on the number of (a) bathrooms, (b) bedrooms and (c) parking spaces as part of the property. [255290]

John Healey: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar (Mr. Pickles) on 28 March 2007, Official Report, columns 1596-97W.

Local Authorities: Debt Collection

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Welwyn Hatfield of 19 November 2008, Official Report, columns 509-10W, on local authorities: debt collection, whether the local authority enforcement powers for council tax include the use of bailiffs to undertake peaceful entry to collect unpaid council tax. [254768]

John Healey: Yes.

Local Government Finance

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what funding her Department is providing to each local authority under the most recent round of Growth Funding (a) in cash terms and (b) per capita. [254857]

John Healey: Allocations from the Growth Fund were announced in December 2008 to support the delivery of infrastructure in the growth areas (excluding Thames Gateway) and the growth points for 2009-10 and 2010-11. Allocations for 2010-11 are provisional and will be confirmed in early 2010. The Secretary of State will adopt a policy of only altering provisional allocations in exceptional circumstances, in line with the approach taken in relation to the local government settlement. A copy of the allocations has been placed in the Library of the House.

As funding from the Growth Fund is un-ringfenced, it is paid to the growth location's nominated lead authority for the payment of grant. It is for the growth area/point authorities to prioritise how the funding is divided at the local level. There is no per capita element: to the allocation methodology.

The growth fund is now being managed by the Homes and Communities Agency.

Local Government Finance: Bexley

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the percentage increase was in the local government finance settlement for the London Borough of Bexley in each year since 1997. [254803]

John Healey: The following table shows the increases for the London Borough of Bexley in formula grant on a like-for-like basis i.e. after adjusting for changes in function and funding.

	Prior year's adjusted formula grant[1]	Current year's formula grant[2]	Change

[3] Prior to 2006-07 support for schools was paid through formula grant. In 2006-07 funding for schools transferred to the Dedicated Schools Grant.

Local Government: Manpower

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many people were employed by each local authority in England in each year since 1996-97. [254761]

John Healey: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Dartford (Dr. Stoate) on 7 July 2008, Official Report, column 1360W.

Local Government: Powers

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether she has written to local authorities on the use of their powers under the Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act in the last three months. [254772]

Mr. Khan: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Beckenham (Mrs. Lait) by my hon. Friend the hon. Member for Gedling (Mr. Coaker) on 8 October 2008, Official Report, column 644W.

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether the combined authorities proposed in the Local Democracy, Economic Development and Construction Bill will have powers to levy (a) a council tax precept, (b) a congestion charge, (c) workplace parking charges and (d) local road pricing charges. [254773]

John Healey: The Local Democracy, Economic Development and Construction Bill allows for the establishment of combined authorities. These will be able to take on the functions of an Economic Prosperity Board (proposed in part 6 of the LDEDC Bill) and the functions of an Integrated Transport Authority (ITA).

The LDEDC Bill does not empower combined authorities to raise a levy to cover other, non-transport, costs, nor to set a council tax precept. Under the Local Transport Act 2008 the six existing passenger transport authorities in England became ITAs on 9 February 2009. These ITAs (and any new ITAs established under that Act) will have the levying powers which the PTAs have held since 1990 in order to allow them to deliver and invest in transport services in their area.

Mortgages

Mr. Meacher: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the number of houses mortgaged in (a) 2007 and (b) 2008 where the ratio of house price to earnings was (i) more than 6:1, (ii) more than 8:1 and (iii) more than 10:1, based on data from the Regulated Mortgage Survey and the Council of Mortgage Lenders. [256237]

Mr. Iain Wright: This information is not collected by Communities and Local Government. However for the UK we have made the following estimates based on data from the Regulated Mortgage Survey and the Council of Mortgage Lenders.

Data on the total number of mortgages for house purchase during 2008 will be available from CML on 12 February 2009.

Number and proportion of mortgages by price to income ratio, UK 2007

House price to income ratio	Number	Percentage
Less than or equal to 6	819,298	80.6
Greater than 6 but no more than 8	117,305	11.5
Greater than 8 but no more than 10	42,241	4.2
Greater than 10	37,555	3.7
Total	1,016,400	100.0

Non-Domestic Rates

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether she plans to make changes to the formula governing distribution of revenue from non-domestic rates to local authorities from 2010. [254766]

John Healey: I have already announced the provisional allocation of the 2010-11 formula grant, which comprises revenue support grant, redistributed non-domestic rates and principal formula police grant, where appropriate. In line with the Government's established policy on three-year settlements, it is not intended that this allocation will change other than in exceptional circumstances.

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to paragraph 4.16 of the pre-Budget report 2008, whether businesses which pay their liability in instalments will be required to declare backdated business rates bills as liabilities for accounting purposes. [255055]

John Healey: I have placed in the Library of the House advice from the insolvency service on this issue.

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many individual businesses have been notified by the Valuation Office Agency of (a) an increase in their rateable value and (b) a rateable value which previously was not levied in each of the 55 ports in England and Wales. [255216]

John Healey: The Valuation Office Agency does not hold the information requested in (a) above in this form and to assemble it would involve disproportionate cost. The aggregate effect of the review has been to increase the total number of properties (hereditaments) within ports that are separately rated at 1 April 2005 by 605 properties in England. Statistics for Wales have not been included as rates are a devolved matter.

The effect by each port is:

Port	Cumulative change Number of hereditaments (+/-)

Non-domestic Rates: Ports

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many port businesses had paid the first instalment of their individually assessed non-domestic rates by 2 February 2009; and on what date the full rates bill will fall due for those who have not paid this instalment. [256471]

John Healey: This information is not collected centrally, as the responsibility for issuing rates bills and collecting rates lies with the local authorities.

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government under what statutory powers payment of non-domestic rates on port businesses assessed in 2008 may be demanded retrospectively to 2005. [256472]

John Healey: Regulation 14(2) of the Non-Domestic Rating (Alteration of Lists and Appeals) (England) Regulations 2005 (SI 2005/659).

Non-Profit Making Associations

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many contracts have been awarded by her Department to social enterprises in each of the last three years. [255695]

Mr. Khan: Changes to the Department's finance system have only allowed the identification of social enterprises since September 2007. Since then three companies have been identified as social enterprises and one contract has been awarded to an organisation identified as a social enterprise.

Official Engagements

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many public engagements inherited by the Minister for Housing upon her appointment have subsequently been cancelled. [254765]

Mr. Khan: There is no such thing as an 'inherited engagement'. My right hon. Friend has accepted or declined a range of invitations since her appointment as part of her ministerial duties.

Redundancy

Justine Greening: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the answer of 26 November 2008, Official Report, column 1510W, on redundancy, what estimate she has made of the annual payroll savings resulting from staff exit schemes in (a) 2005-06, (b) 2006-07, (c) 2007-08 and (d) 2008-09 excluding the cost of severance packages; and what estimate she has made of the equivalent figures for 2009-10. [254461]

Mr. Khan [holding answer 5 February 2009]: The information requested on payroll savings resulting from staff exit schemes in each year since 2005-06 is not collected centrally, and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Such schemes bring benefits beyond reducing payroll costs. They enable the Department to strengthen its capability by ensuring that the skills profile of staff remains compatible with changing business needs.

Small Businesses

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what powers are available to local authorities to provide business rate relief to assist small businesses. [255291]

John Healey: Small Business Rate Relief is available for those ratepayers that meet the eligibility criteria in properties under £15,000 rateable value (or £21,500 in London). In addition rural rate relief is available for village food shops, and single petrol stations or public houses in designated rural areas, providing they meet eligibility criteria.

Local authorities also have the power to grant relief to Charities and Community Amateur Sports Clubs and other non-profit making organisations that may benefit the community as well as to support businesses in cases of hardship.

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps the Government has taken to ensure that local authorities pass on the reduction in the rate of value added tax to small businesses and council tax payers. [255292]

John Healey: The Government expect all councils to pass on the full cut in VAT where it makes financial sense to do so. In cases where the cost of implementing the change would outweigh the financial benefit, authorities may wish to use savings in other ways, such as to improve services or keep council tax down. In such cases authorities should be transparent about how the funds are being used.

Sustainable Development: Public Participation

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what guidance her Department has issued on whether panels of representatives of local persons set up under the Sustainable Communities Act 2007 can include elected councillors. [254769]

John Healey: Statutory guidance on the Sustainable Communities Act 2007 was published in July 2008 which can be found at:

http://www.communities.gov.uk/publications/localgovernment/strongsafeprosperous

Waste Disposal: Fees and Charges

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what powers a waste collection authority has to fine households who put waste out at times other than those specified by the authority. [251826]

Jane Kennedy: I have been asked to reply.

Section 46 of the Environmental Protection Act 1990 (EPA) provides powers to local authorities to specify the conditions of the waste collection service they operate and requires them to inform the recipients of the service of those conditions by way of a "section 46 notice".

Breach of the terms of that notice would normally be met with advice to the householder.

Only if the event of serious and persistent breach of the order causing a serious nuisance would powers provided by EPA 1990 s46(6) or the Clean Neighbourhoods and Environment Act 2005 (CNEA) be acted upon.

JUSTICE

Charities

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice to which (a) charities and (b) voluntary organisations his Department has provided funding in the last five years; and how much funding was provided to each. [247374]

Maria Eagle: The Ministry of Justice, created in May 2007, has collected information on direct funding to the third sector for the financial years from 2006-08.

	£ million
2006-07	37.6
2007-08	41.1

A full breakdown of the organisations funded over the past two years is shown in the following tables. These cover a wide range of organisations helping the Department deliver services in areas such as criminal and civil court services, legal aid and services for victims and witnesses. They include grant funding and contracting arrangements.

Departmental Temporary Employment

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much has been spent by his Department on (a) agency and (b) temporary staff in each financial year since its inception. [251428]

Maria Eagle: Expenditure by Departments on agency and temporary staff costs has been disclosed in departmental resource accounts since 2005-06.

The Ministry of Justice was established on 9 May 2007. The Ministry's first set of resource accounts for 2007-08 reported expenditure for the whole of the new Department as if it had existed since 1 April 2007 i.e. for the former Department for Constitutional Affairs (DCA), the National Offender Management Service (NOMS) and the Office of Criminal Justice Reform (OCJR). Expenditure prior to 2007-08 is disclosed within the Department of Constitutional Affairs (DCA) and Home Office resource accounts. It is only possible to disaggregate expenditure by NOMS and OCJR from the Home Office's accounts at disproportionate cost.

On this basis, expenditure on agency and temporary staff is as follows:

2007-08: Ministry of Justice—£137.4million (including NOMS and OCJR)

2006-07: DCA—£53.4 million

2005-06: DCA—£67.6 million

Expenditure on agency and temporary staff costs in the financial year 2008-09 has not been reported as the Ministry does not yet have full year audited figures to report. The use of temporary staff is something that the Ministry considers appropriate to cover short-term needs on a temporary basis.

HM Courts Service: Finance

David Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the answer of 12 January 2009, Official Report, column 512W, on HM Courts Service: finance, what assessment he has made of the accuracy of his Department's (a) estimate and (b) assumptions against the actual volume of cases handled. [254287]

Mr. Straw: The assessment of the accuracy of the assumptions and estimated income is revisited in the current financial year and is based on recent volatility of and identifiable trends in the volumes of cases in past and current years. Using prior year volumes, based on historical actuals, and multiplying the total by the fee charge provides the basis of the fee income forecast for the financial year. In addition the impact, on the forecasted fee income, is adjusted to take into account known impacts from proposed changes to fee policy in the coming year, for example new fee charges. Throughout the year the fee income forecast and the assumptions against volume are revisited on a monthly basis, using actual data captured. Any substantial changes to volume trends, that can be identified, are factored in and adjustments made to the income forecast.

Legal Services Commission: Wales

Dr. Francis: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what recent discussions he has had on the future of the Legal Services Commission in Wales with (a) the Secretary of State for Wales and (b) the First Minister; and if he will make a statement. [255543]

Mr. Malik: My noble Friend Lord Bach, Minister for Legal Aid, has briefly discussed this matter with the First Minister for Wales. He has also corresponded with Brian Gibbons AM, the relevant Welsh Assembly Minister, as well as with Wales Office Ministers.

My noble Friend and I will continue to work closely with the Welsh Assembly Government, the Wales Office and the Legal Services Commission to ensure that the final decisions on the Commission's efficiency savings take full account of the needs of Wales.

Monarchy: Succession

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the status of the UK's reservation to Articles 9 and 10 of the European Convention on the legal status of children born out of wedlock is in respect of matters relating to succession to the Crown; what attempts were made to renew the reservation in or prior to September 2007; and if he will make a statement. [253843]

Mr. Straw: The reservation referred to is in fact a declaration. When renewing other UK reservations to this convention, we have also taken the opportunity to reaffirm our understanding of the meaning of Articles 9 and 10. The UK reservations to the Convention were originally made in 1981, and were renewed in 1986, 1994, 1991 and 2002.

Offences against Children

Mr. Grieve: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) how many offenders (a) aged 18 years or over and (b) aged 21 years or over received a caution for sexual activity with a child under 13 in the last year for which data are available; [252812]

(2) what proportion of offenders (a) aged 18 years or over and (b) aged 21 years or over convicted of sexual activity with a child under 13 received (i) immediate custody, (ii) a suspended sentence, (iii) a community sentence, (iv) a fine, (v) a conditional or absolute discharge and (vi) other treatment in the last year for which data are available; [252813]

(3) what the average custodial sentence for those convicted of (a) rape of a female aged under 16 years, (b) rape of a male aged under 16 years, (c) rape of a female aged under 13 years and (d) rape of a male aged under 13 years was in the last 12 months. [252828]

Maria Eagle: Information on the number of offenders aged 18 to 20 and aged 21 and over cautioned for sexual activity with a child under 13 in England and Wales in 2007 (latest available) is contained in the following table.

The cautions statistics relate to persons for whom these offences were the principal offences for which they were dealt with. When a defendant has been cautioned for two or more offences at the same time the principal offence is the more serious offence.

The proportion of those given various disposals is shown as a percentage of those sentenced. Lags in time between conviction and sentencing may mean that the total numbers convicted and sentenced in a year may not match.

The average custodial sentence for the rape of males and females under the age of 16 and 13 is contained in the following table.

Average custodial sentence length (ACSL)[1] and number of determinate and indeterminate custodial sentences for rape of females and males under 13 and 16, 2007

	ACSL (months)	Indeterminate custodial sentences	Determinate custodial sentences
Rape of a female under 16	108.2	38	193
Rape of a male under 16	88.5	5	15
Rape of a female under 13	73.5	21	52
Rape of a male under 13	50.3	15	13

[1] ACSL excludes life/indeterminate sentences.

These figures have been drawn from administrative data systems. Although care is taken when processing and analysing the returns, the detail collected is subject to the inaccuracies inherent in any large scale recording system.

When calculating average custodial sentence length only determinate custodial sentences are included. This may have the effect of making the ASCL appear lower for offences where a larger proportion of offenders are given indeterminate sentences.

Office for Criminal Justice Reform: Costs

David Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much the monthly updates on the Criminal Justice System produced for the Prime Minister by the Criminal Justice Evidence and Analysis Unit of the Office of Criminal Justice Reform cost to produce in the last period for which figures are available; and if he will publish each of the monthly performance updates produced in 2007 and 2008. [247168]

Maria Eagle: This regular monthly report is no longer produced. The last report was submitted in March 2008. The reports will not be published as they contain policy advice which is covered by an exemption under the Freedom of Information Act Section (s36 2 (b) (i)).

Production costs are only available in respect of staff time undertaken each month to produce the report and as such it is not possible to provide an accurate or precise breakdown of these amounts.

Prisons: Wales

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) on what date his Department plans to open the new prison in Caernarfon; [256474]

(2) how many prison places there will be in the new prison at Caernarfon. [256475]

Mr. Hanson: Decisions on the size of the new prison at Caernarfon and the operational date will be taken at a later date.

Negotiations with the owner, confirmation that contamination on the site will not impede a prison development, and a successful application for outline planning permission will be the key issues on panel time scales.

Rape: Civil Proceedings

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many rape cases (a) reached court and (b) ended in the acquittal of the defendant in each of the last five years. [255435]

Maria Eagle: The number of defendants proceeded against at magistrates courts and acquitted at all courts for offences relating to rape, in England and Wales, 2003 to 2007 (latest available) can be viewed in the following table.

These data are on the principal offence basis. The figures given in the table on court proceedings relate to persons for whom these offences were the principal offence for which they were dealt with. When a defendant has been found guilty of two or more offences, the offence selected is the one for which the heaviest penalty is imposed. Where the same disposal is imposed for two or more offences, the offence selected is the offence for which the statutory maximum penalty is the most severe.

Court proceedings data for 2008 will be available in the autumn of 2009.

Re-offenders

Mr. Malins: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the re-offending rates in the 12 months following release were of inmates from (a) Oakhill, (b) Medway, (c) Rainsbrook and (d) Hassockfield secure training centre in the latest period for which information is available. [256470]

Mr. Hanson: Data are not available for the re-offending rates of young offenders released from individual secure training centres. Individual establishment names are not included in the datasets used to produce the re-offending statistics.

However, information on the rate of re-offending for all young offenders released from custody (either from Young Offender Institutions, Secure Training Centres or Secure Children's Homes) is available, covering the period 2000 to 2006. These data are shown in the following table.

Secure Training Centres: Young People

Mr. Malins: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many persons under 16 years old were released from secure training centres in each of the last three years for which figures are available; and how many of those returned to full-time education upon release in each such year. [256503]

Mr. Hanson: The following table shows the numbers of sentenced young people aged under 16 who have been released from secure training centres in the last three years. These statistics have been provided by the YJB.

Youth Custody

Mr. Malins: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many persons aged 16 to 21 were released from custody other than from secure training centres and secure children's homes in each of the last three years for which figures are available; and what percentage of those (a) entered employment and (b) returned to education or training upon release in each such year. [256505]

Mr. Hanson: Data of this nature are only available by entire establishment type and it is not possible to separate out specific age groups.

The National Offender Management Service did not start recording employment and education/training data separately until April 2007. The following table shows data for 2007-08 and for April 2008 to December 2008 (latest available figures[1]).

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Building Schools for the Future Programme

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much capital spending has been brought forward by his Department to (a) 2008-09 and (b) 2009-10 for (i) Building Schools for the Future and (ii) all other capital spending; and if he will make a statement. [255266]

Jim Knight: The Department is bringing forward capital allocations from 2010-11 to 2009-10 as part of its contribution to the £3 billion government-wide stimulus programme described in the pre-Budget report.

BSF typically involves the design and build of entire new schools which are less suitable for bringing forward quickly for construction in a 12 month period. The pipeline of business for BSF, however, continues to increase as planned. The Department is already committed to ensure build takes place as rapidly as possible, and it has not been practicable to accelerate this further.

It is planned to bring forward other capital allocations amounting to approximately £800 million from 2010-11 to 2009-10. The mix of programmes making this up will be determined by replies received from local authorities.

Children: Databases

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the answer of 29 January, Official Report, columns 833-34W, on children: databases, how much of such spending was incurred in each local authority area in each year. [255625]

Beverley Hughes [holding answer 9 February 2009]: I will make available a document which sets out grants provided to local authorities covering the period 2005/06 to 2009/10. Grants have yet to be decided for the financial years 2010/11 and 2011/12. This document will placed be in the Libraries.

Children: Day Care

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what proportion of staff in child care settings have achieved GCSE English grade C or above. [249699]

Beverley Hughes: The Childcare and Early Years Providers Survey collects information about the qualifications held by all paid staff working for child care and early years providers. The questionnaire is designed to pick up only qualifications that were relevant to working with young people and children. Qualifications are grouped together in the levels that they have been accredited with by the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority. Level 2 (intermediate level) refers to GCSE A*-C, Intermediate GNVQ, and Level 2 NVQ. Separate data for GCSE English A*-C is not available.

Tables 1 and 2 show the proportion of all paid staff qualified to at least Level 2, by type of provision, for 2007.

Children: Protection

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what percentage of (a) child protection and (b) looked-after children reviews were held within the required timescales in the last 12 months. [247386]

Beverley Hughes: In the year ending 31 March 2008, 99 per cent. of child protection cases were reviewed within required timescales. This figure has been taken from the statistical first release "Referrals, Assessments and Children and Young People who are the subject of a Child Protection Plan, England—year ending 31 March 2008", which can be found at the following link:

http://www.dcsf.gov.uk/rsgateway/DB/SFR/s000811/index.shtml.

In the year ending 31 March 2007, 85.3 per cent. of looked-after children reviews were held within the required time scales. This figure have been taken from the statistical first release "Children looked after in England (including adoption and care leavers) year ending 31 March 2007", which can be found at the following link:

http://www.dcsf.gov.uk/rsgateway/DB/SFR/s000741/index.shtml.

This figure for the year ending March 2008 is not yet available and will be published as soon as possible in the following location on the DCSF website:

http://www.dcsf.gov.uk/rsgateway/DB/SFR/s000810/index.shtml.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the answer of 29 January 2009, Official Report, column 837W, on children: protection, if he will place in the Library a copy of the letter. [255636]

Beverley Hughes [holding answer 9 February 2009]: The letter has been placed in the Libraries.

Letter from Beverley Hughes, dated 29 January 2009:

I have seen the final Annual Performance Assessment (APA) letter for Birmingham, which was published by Ofsted on 17 December 2008.

I was very concerned to see that inspectors have identified a number of issues around safeguarding services for children and young people in Birmingham and judged the "Staying Safe" strand to be inadequate. I am also concerned that four out of five Serious Case Reviews have recently been judged to be inadequate by Ofsted.

I recognise that you have taken a series of actions since April 2008 to address weaknesses in your children's social care service. I welcome that you have decided to personally chair a Task Force to address the weaknesses identified and to drive forward improvements in children's social care. I would like your Children's Services Adviser in the Government Office for the West Midlands, Kay Whyte-Bell, to be a member of this Task Force. She will report to me monthly on progress. I am also pleased that you are receiving support from your Regional Improvement and Efficiency Partnership to appoint an Assistant Director to your new management structure.

However, given the critical importance of managing risks to children's safety and the need to ensure that progress is made swiftly and decisively, I have instructed my officials to work with Birmingham to provide a package of intervention support. This package will consist of:

Bringing in an additional two interim Assistant Directors for your safeguarding service, as per your new management structure, through my Department's Children's Services Improvement Framework. The Department will contribute 50% of the costs towards these interim posts. GOWM will quality-assure the procurement process. I have also requested that they quality-assure the potential candidates for your Service Director post and your third Assistant Director post, for which you have received funding from your Regional Improvement and Efficiency Partnership.

A small team of external consultants to conduct a root-and-branch review of the Local Safeguarding Children's Board (LSCB) and provide recommendations on its operation and structure. This review will look closely at the organisation of Serious Case Reviews and whether changes need to be made to the handling of such cases. This team will also work with middle managers in your Duty and Assessment team and other front-line social care teams to develop performance management systems to ensure current work is on track and meeting requirements that will lead to the improvements necessary.

Enhanced monitoring from GOWM. I understand the Children's Services Adviser and Social Care Specialist Support Manager are receiving fortnightly progress reports regarding your Serious Case Reviews and the Secretary of State's commission to review SCRs judged inadequate by Ofsted. I have asked for progress on SCRs to be included in the monthly reports that will be provided to me by the Children's Services Adviser.

I am keen to see swift improvements in Birmingham and for children, young people and families to receive the service they deserve. I have decided therefore to underpin the improvement measures and progress I expect with an Improvement Notice. This will give Birmingham City Council twelve months to demonstrate robust and sustained progress, with a review after six months. Should improvement not be sufficient at either six or twelve months, I will need to consider the use of statutory powers to direct a solution. I am sure you will understand the necessity of this course of action, given we are dealing with safeguarding provision for vulnerable children and young people. My officials will be in touch shortly to discuss a draft Improvement Notice before I formally issue the Notice to the Council.

I know that we share a commitment to delivering improved outcomes for Birmingham's children and young people. It is vital now that we work together in order to achieve that goal.

I am copying this letter to Councillor Les Lawrence (Lead Member for Children, Young People and Families), Stephen Hughes (Chief executive) and the Director of Children's Services (Tony Howell). A copy will also be circulated to local MPs.

Connexions Service

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families which Catholic schools host the Connexions service; and if he will make a statement. [256728]

Beverley Hughes: The provision of Connexions services in schools is the responsibility of local authorities. We do not keep a central record of what advice is provided by Connexions Services to any particular school.

Education Maintenance Allowance: Telephone Services

Mr. David Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the merits of establishing a dedicated telephone line for hon. Members to call regarding the education maintenance allowance. [256260]

Jim Knight: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families has given no consideration to establishing a dedicated telephone line for hon. Members to call regarding issues with the education maintenance allowance. issues that are raised directly with the Department for Children, Schools and Families by hon. Members are referred to the Learning and Skills Council. The Learning and Skills Council has operational responsibility for the education maintenance allowance.

Education: Finance

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether it is the Government's policy that education spending should continue to rise as a share of gross domestic product; and if he will make a statement. [255287]

Jim Knight: The proportion of GDP being spent on education across the current period, 2008-11, was determined during comprehensive spending review 2007. There are no plans to change current levels of funding. The proportion of GDP to be committed to education thereafter will be determined by the next spending review.

Educational Psychology

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many educational psychologists there were in each local authority in 2008; how many children aged 18 years or under there were per educational psychologist; and how many children and young people aged 18 years or under with (i) statemented and (ii) non-statemented special educational needs there were per educational psychologist. [252674]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The following table provides the full-time equivalent number of educational psychologists (EPs) employed by each local authority in England in January 2008, the number of these per child aged 18 or under and the number per pupil in local authority maintained schools with statemented and non-statemented special educational needs at that date.

The National Strategies Primary Framework launched in October 2006 which includes a strand dedicated to presentation skills, including handwriting. This provides objectives for every year group from reception to year 6.

The letters and sounds materials (our phonics resource) which contains general guidance on the teaching of handwriting to young children.

[2] Figures shown are cumulative.

[3] The number of foster placements excludes any episodes of care where children were looked after under an agreed series of short term placements.

[4] Children who were, at the time they ceased to be looked after, were not in a foster care placement but who had previously been placed in foster care, have been included.

[5] To ensure that no individual can be identified from statistical tables, we use conventions for the rounding and suppression of very small numbers. National figures have been rounded to the nearest 100 if they exceed 1,000 or to the nearest 10 otherwise. Numbers at local authority level have been rounded to the nearest five and numbers at region level have been rounded to the nearest 10. Numbers of five or less have been suppressed and replaced with a hyphen (—) except where the number is zero.

Jim Knight: The requested information has been placed in the Libraries.

Home Schooling: Bexley

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the academic attainment of home-schooled pupils in the London Borough of Bexley. [250744]

Jim Knight: The Department does not collect information about the academic attainment of home-schooled pupils.

Israel: Arms Trade

Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what military equipment has been exported from the UK to Israel in the last three years; if he will take steps further to restrict UK exports of military equipment to Israel; and if he will make a statement. [249882]

Ian Pearson: I have been asked to reply.

The Government publish detailed information on export licences issued, refused and revoked, by destination, including the overall value and a summary of the items covered by these licences, in its Annual and Quarterly Reports on Strategic Export Controls.

The Government's annual reports, published since 1997, and quarterly reports, published since 2004, are available from the Libraries of the House and the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) website at http://www.fco.gov.uk/en/about-the-fco/publications/publications/annual-reports/export-controls1.

The Government do not approve any defence related exports if they judge that there is a clear risk that they will be used in contravention of the Consolidated Criteria, including for external aggression or internal repression. We routinely refuse export licences where we believe there is a risk of this, and have refused a number of licences to Israel on this basis.

Luton

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what grants his Department and its predecessors have made in respect of the Luton Borough Council area in each year since 1997. [252646]

Jim Knight: The tables showing the grants made by the Department for Children, Schools and Families to Luton borough council for each year since 1997-98, broken down between revenue and capital funding, will be placed in the Library.

The revenue grant totals for 2006-07 onwards are not comparable with figures in 2005-06 and before, because the introduction of the Dedicated Schools Grant (DSG) in 2006-07 fundamentally changed how local authorities are funded for education services.

Before 2006-07 local authorities were funded through Education Formula Spending (EFS). This formed part of the annual Local Government Finance Settlement. EFS comprised school functions and local education authority (LEA) central functions, whereas DSG only covers the school functions. The DSG is based on each local authority's spend on schools in 2005-06, uprated each year for cost pressures and adjusted for changes in pupil numbers. LEA central functions are still funded through the Local Government Finance Settlement but cannot be separately identified. Consequently, there is a break in the Department's time series as the two sets of data are not comparable. For information the EFS figures for Luton borough council for 1997-98 to 2005-06 were:

	£ million
1997-98	78
1998-99	83.6
1999-2000	87.6
2000-01	92
2001-02	96.5
2002-03	101.9
2003-04	111.1
2004-05	118.3
2005-06	124.9

Notes:
1. Before 2003-2004, called Education Standard Spending (ESS).
2. Figures reflect relevant sub-blocks of ESS/EFS settlements and exclude the pensions transfer to EFS and LSC
3. Where responsibility for funding a school has transferred from an authority, related funding no longer appears in the series.

The Reducing Class Size revenue grants and the Nursery Education Grant were transferred to Education Formula Spending in 2003-04.

The Teachers Threshold and Performance Pay Grant was transferred to Dedicated Schools Grant in 2006-07.

Children's Services grant transferred to the Formula Grant paid by the Department for Communities and Local Government in 2008-09.

Capital figures exclude PFI credit allocations, and supported borrowing allocations as part of Building Schools for the Future. Allocations for targeted capital projects are shown in the year the project started.

The tables do not include children social care services grants before 2004-05 as responsibility for children social care services was transferred to this Department, from the Department of Health, in 2004-05.

Members: Correspondence

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families when he plans to reply to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire of 16 December 2008 on the NSPCC's submission to Lord Laming's review of the Child Protection System in England. [254712]

Beverley Hughes [holding answer 9 February 2009]: The Department for Children, Schools and Families has no record of having received the hon. Member's letter. If the hon. Member would like to send me a copy of the letter I will be happy to respond.

Music: Teachers

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many people qualified as music teachers in each of the last five years. [255918]

Jim Knight: The number of teachers gaining Qualified Teacher Status (QTS) via secondary Initial Teacher Training (ITT) courses in Music for each of the last five years is given in the table.

Information on primary ITT courses by subject is not available.

Teachers gaining QTS via secondary ITT courses in music: Years 2002-03 to 2006-07, England

Employment based routes	50	80	120	130	150

Notes:
1. Mainstream figures include universities, other higher education institutions, SCITT and open university but excludes employment based routes and cases where QTS was granted on assessment-based teacher training.
2. Employment based ITT excludes cases where QTS was granted on assessment-based teacher training.
3. Numbers have been rounded to the nearest 10.

National Strategies Annual Plan Summary 2008-09

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the core subjects referred to in the second bullet point of page 4 of the National Strategies Annual Plan Summary 2008-09 document published by his Department are. [253939]

Jim Knight: The definition of core subjects referred to in the second bullet of page 4 of the National Strategies 2008-09 Annual Plan Summary, is to raise achievement of: literacy and numeracy in the early years and primary school phases; and English, mathematics and science in the secondary phase.

Nurseries

Mr. Kemp: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what recent estimate he has made of the number of children who will be in nursery care for the period 2010 to 2015. [256462]

Beverley Hughes: Estimates of the number of children who will be in nursery care for the period 2010 to 2015 are not produced centrally.

Childcare Sufficiency Assessments published by each local authority are helping to identify and address any gaps in the provision of child care appropriate to the needs of working parents and those looking to work in their areas. The assessment process is helping local authorities in their strategic planning of child care services by giving them the evidence and information they need to facilitate and shape a child care market that is flexible, sustainable and responsive to parents' needs. It will also help providers to plan by giving them improved market information.

Offences Against Children: Haringey

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the membership is of the panel for the second serious case review of the child known as Baby P. [255712]

Beverley Hughes: The membership of the second serious case review panel is available on Haringey council's website.

Parents: Personal Income

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the effects of parental income on educational attainment. [250443]

Jim Knight: While parental income does not determine the educational attainment of any individual child, there is a clear correlation between low income and average attainment, as is shown for example in the data published annually by my Department showing differences in attainment at ages 11 and 16 between children eligible for free school meals and the rest of the cohort. In a public service agreement for the current spending period the Government have set an ambition to narrow these gaps by 2011 and beyond.

Primary Education: Finance

Mr. Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what additional capital grant funding is available during the 2007 comprehensive spending review period for local authorities facing a funding shortfall owing to an unexpectedly high increase in demand for new pupil places in reception years; and if he will make a statement. [255437]

Jim Knight: The Government's strategy for supporting capital expenditure includes allocating as much of its capital resources as possible before the commencement of the comprehensive spending review (CSR) period, currently 2008-09 to 2010-11. This provides authorities with certainty of funding, which schools and authorities tell us they value when planning capital programmes. It also avoids the danger of the lost opportunity represented by national underspends.

We are providing £21.9 billion of capital funding across the CSR period to local authorities and schools for use on schools. This was announced in October 2007. Some £1.2 billion of the funding was allocated as basic need funding for new pupil places, with the allocations largely determined by local authorities' own forecasts of growth in pupil numbers.

We also give authorities significant flexibility within their other allocations to prioritise locally, including for new pupil places. We expect local authorities to give high priority to the provision of school places for their school-age population since this provision is a fundamental duty placed on authorities.

We do not hold any reserves for special situations and are not planning any additional funding for this spending review period.

Qualifications and Curriculum Authority: Manpower

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many people are employed by the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority; and how many work for (a) the Qualifications and Curriculum Development Agency and (b) Ofqual. [254544]

Jim Knight: The average number of people employed by the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority (QCA) up to the period for which the most recent figures are available (31 January 2009) was 614[1].

Ofqual has been established in interim form under existing legislation since April 2008. Prior to this, regulation was the responsibility of the Regulation and Standards division of QCA, which has now formed the basis of interim Ofqual. The average number of people employed by Ofqual up to the period for which the most recent figures are available (31 January 2009) was 123[1].

The Apprenticeships, Skills, Children and Learning Bill will seek to evolve QCA into a Qualifications and Curriculum Development Agency (QCDA), and establish Ofqual on a statutory basis as the new independent regulator of qualifications and assessment.

[1] Source: Qualifications and Curriculum Authority (QCA): February 2009.

Qualifications and Curriculum Authority: Pay

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what expenditure the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority incurred on salaries in the latest period for which figures are available; and how much was spent on (a) the Qualifications and Curriculum Development Agency and (b) Ofqual. [254545]

Jim Knight: The total salary cost for the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority (QCA) as disclosed in the 2007-08 annual accounts was £28.698 million.

Ofqual has been established in interim form under existing legislation since April 2008. Prior to this, regulation was the responsibility of the Regulation and Standards division of QCA, which has now formed the basis of interim Ofqual. The total salary cost for the Regulation and Standards division of QCA in 2007-08 was £4.324 million.

The Apprenticeships, Skills, Children and Learning Bill will seek to evolve QCA into a Qualifications and Curriculum Development Agency (QCDA), and establish Ofqual on a statutory basis as the new independent regulator of qualifications and assessment.

Schools: Armed Forces

John Howell: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what funding provision his Department makes for schools in England where the proportion of children of service personnel is over 90 per cent; and if he will make it his policy to ensure that such schools receive funding on a basis similar to that applicable to schools serving HM Forces bases overseas. [253814]

Jim Knight: The Government do not have specific funding arrangements for pupils attending service schools. We allocate revenue funding to local authorities via the dedicated schools grant according to the number of pupils they have on roll at the spring school census. It is then for the local authority to apply their local funding formula, which will have been approved by the Schools Forum, to allocate funding to the schools in their area and it is for the authority to ensure that their formula takes account of the individual needs and pressures of their schools.

We are currently undertaking a review of the formula for distributing dedicated schools grant. The aim is to develop a funding system that supports schools and local authorities to raise the educational achievement of all pupils and to narrow the gap in educational achievement between all children, including those from low income and disadvantaged backgrounds. As part of this work we will be looking at the issues for particular groups of pupils, including service children. We will consult fully on proposals before taking final decisions.

Schools: Carbon Emissions

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many zero-carbon schools have been built since 1 May 2005; and if he will make a statement. [256459]

Jim Knight: The Department does not hold information about the carbon use of all schools built since 1 May 2005. We are not aware of any schools that have yet been built in England that would be defined as zero carbon.

In December 2007 we announced an ambition for all new school buildings to be zero carbon by 2016 and we have appointed a taskforce to advise on how this goal can be achieved.

Last year we set a requirement that newly constructed schools meet a carbon emissions reduction of 60 per cent. relative to the energy efficiency standards in 2002 Building Regulations. To enable this requirement to be met, we have provided additional funding for more than 200 schools in Building Schools for the Future and the Academies programme to fund the implementation of energy efficiency and renewable energy measures on school sites. We have developed a 'carbon calculator'—a software tool which allows users to compare the likely effectiveness of various energy solutions, and to demonstrate how they would achieve the 60 per cent. reduction. We have received completed carbon calculators for 53 school projects currently in design.

Schools: Gloucestershire

Mr. Dhanda: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much each eligible school in Gloucestershire received from the National Challenge Fund allocation to the county. [256264]

Jim Knight: The total amount of National Challenge support that schools in the National Challenge programme in Gloucestershire will benefit from in 2008/09 is £754,500. This breaks down as follows:

Bishop's college	196,000
Brockworth Enterprise school	140,250
Cheltenham Kingsmead	97,250
Maidenhill school	79,750
Heywood Community school	67,250
Christ college	52,250
Beaufort Community school	48,250
Vale of Berkeley college	41,250
Pittville school	32,250

Schools: Inspections

Derek Wyatt: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many legal cases have been brought against Ofsted in relation to inspections it has conducted of (a) secondary schools, (b) primary schools and (c) nursery schools; [250495]

(2) how many legal cases have been won by nursery schools against Ofsted in relation to inspections undertaken by Ofsted; [250496]

(3) how many out-of-court settlements Ofsted has made with nursery schools in relation to legal claims brought by such schools against Ofsted in relation to inspections; [250497]

(4) how many nursery school inspectors have been made redundant by Ofsted since June 2007; [250498]

(5) what procedures apply to the retention by Ofsted of documents which it holds relating to the inspection of a nursery school after the inspection has taken place; [250682]

(6) what procedures govern the placing by Ofsted of its reports on a nursery school on its website in circumstances where the school has made a formal complaint about the inspection; and if he will make a statement. [250683]

Beverley Hughes: These are matters for Ofsted. The Chief Inspector, Christine Gilberts, has written to the hon. Member and copies of her replies have been placed in the Libraries.

Letter from Christine Gilbert, dated 28 January 2009:

Your recent parliamentary question has been passed to me, as Her Majesty's Chief Inspector, for a response.

Ofsted uses the term nursery school to denote a maintained school for children of nursery age, inspected under the current school inspection framework (commonly known as section 5). Children of nursery age may also attend childcare provision, within the categories of childcare on domestic premises' and 'childcare on non-domestic premises', such as a private day nursery. This response includes data relating both to maintained nursery schools and other nursery provision.

The current maintained school inspection framework took effect from September 2005 and I consider this to be an appropriate timeframe to cover this provider type for this response. Since that point, Ofsted's records of litigation show no instances of legal cases brought against Ofsted for secondary, primary or nursery schools inspected under the school inspection framework.

The previous inspection arrangements for childcare took effect from 1 April 2005 and I consider this to be an appropriate timeframe to cover this provider type for this response. Since that point, Ofsted's records of litigation show one legal challenge brought by a registered nursery against Ofsted that was directly related to a scheduled inspection.

A copy of this reply has been sent to right hon. Jim Knight MP, Minister of State for Schools and Learners, and will be placed in the Library of both Houses.

The two most recent reports of the inspections of maintained nursery schools inspected under the current inspection framework are published on Ofsted's website. Earlier reports are retained within Ofsted's internal database as public documents. Other documents relating to these inspections are retained by Ofsted for a period of three months following the inspection. Where a complaint has been made about an inspection, documents are retained until three months after the complaint has been closed, provided that no further complaint is received.

The most recent inspection report relating to childcare providers is published on Ofsted's website. Earlier reports are retained within Ofsted's internal database as public documents. Other documents relating to the inspection of childcare providers are retained by Ofsted for a period of six months after the inspection report is published. Where a complaint has been made about an inspection, the evidence base is retained until six months after the case is resolved or any appeal period has passed.

Ofsted would not normally delay the publication of an inspection report of any maintained school or other nursery provision when a formal complaint has been received about the inspection. If, having considered the complaint, Ofsted believes that the evidence gathered during the inspection does not support the judgments reached, it will declare the inspection 'null and void' and carry out a re-inspection. In such cases, the original inspection report is removed from the website and replaced. These instances are rare.

Schools: Leeds

John Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families which schools in Leeds West constituency have broadband access. [255476]

Jim Knight: All the maintained schools with the constituency of Leeds, West have broadband access.

Skills Funding Agency

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the annual budget of the proposed Skills Funding Agency will be. [256228]

Mr. Simon: I have been asked to reply.

The total planned DIUS spend for adult skills through the Learning and Skills Council is £4.5 billion for 2009-10.

The Skills Funding Agency will be in operation from April 2010. Decisions on the allocation of the DIUS adult skills budgets for 2010-11, including the budget of the Skills Funding Agency, will be made later this year.

Special Educational Needs

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many Key Stage 4 pupils who had (a) a statement of special educational needs and (b) unstatemented special educational needs attended academies in each year since 2003. [253440]

Jim Knight: The requested information is shown in the table.

Special Educational Needs: Young Offender Institutions

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what percentage of inmates in young offender institutions have special educational needs. [247854]

Beverley Hughes: Data on the number of people in young offender institutions (YOIs) assessed as having special educational needs (SEN) are not collected centrally. However, the Learning and Skills Council report the number of young people in juvenile accommodation in YOIs referred to special educational needs coordinators (SENCOs) for the period between August 2007 to July 2008 was 3,320. A referral to a SENCO does not necessarily mean that the young person has SEN.

Specialised Diplomas: Expenditure

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how much expenditure under each budget heading his Department has incurred on the introduction of diploma courses and qualifications in each year since 2005; [249971]

(2) what estimate his Department has made of its expenditure on diplomas in each of the next three years; and under what budgetary headings such expenditure is expected to be incurred. [249973]

Jim Knight: Expenditure for 2005-06 to 2008-09 on diplomas was made under the following categories:

development costs for diploma qualifications;

preparation funding to support consortia to deliver diplomas;

funding for local delivery and capacity building, including the diploma specific grant; work force development to prepare the work force for the delivery of diplomas; and supporting transport arrangements in the most rural areas.

The total spend on diploma qualifications for each financial year is:

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the answer of 9 December 2008, Official Report, column 186W, on specialist schools: languages, how many and what percentage of pupils in each of the 220 schools with language as a first specialism achieved a modern language GCSE at grades A* to C in the last year for which figures are available. [244903]

Jim Knight: The information is available on the Department's website at:

The information is also available in the Library.

Sure Start Programme: Blackpool

Mr. Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much his Department has spent on funding Sure Start centres in Blackpool since 1997. [253966]

Beverley Hughes: Sure Start local programmes (SSLPs) were introduced in 1999-2000. Details of expenditure on SSLPs and children's centres since that time, which totals £19.8 million, are shown in the following table.

Teachers: Qualifications

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many teachers of (a) physics, (b) biology, (c) chemistry, (d) mathematics, (e) history and (f) foreign languages did not hold a degree-level qualification in that subject in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [254513]

Jim Knight: Information on the number of secondary school teachers in maintained schools in England, their qualifications and the subjects they are teaching is collected in the Secondary School Curriculum and Staffing Survey (SSCSS). The most recent survey was carried out in February 2007; this is an occasional survey that does not provide a full time series.

The 2007 SSCSS survey estimated the following number of teachers teaching at least one period a week of the requested subjects, and the proportions holding different levels of qualifications:

Highest post A-level qualifications held by full-time equivalent teachers in the subjects[2] they taught to year groups 7 to 13 in 2007

	Number of teachers	Degree[3]	BEd	PGCE	Cert Ed	Other qual.	No qual.	Percentage without a degree, BEd or PGCE[4]
Mathematics	30,800	47	9	14	2	3	25	30
Biology	8,900	85	5	4	1	1	4	6
Chemistry	8,000	83	4	7	1	1	4	5

Spanish	5,200	50	1	10	—	—	40	40
Other modern languages	2,100	25	—	6	—	—	69	69

[1] Where a teacher had more than one post A level qualification in the same subject, the qualification level was determined by the highest level reading from left (Degree) to right (Other Qual.). For example, teachers shown under PGCE had a PGCE but not a degree or BEd in the subject, while those with a PGCE and a degree were shown only under Degree.

[2] Teachers are counted once against each subject which they are teaching.

[3] Includes higher degrees but excludes BEds.

[4] Totals may not sum to components due to rounding.

Note:

Number of teachers are rounded to the nearest hundred the nearest 100.

Teachers: Training

Mr. Boswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps his Department is taking to encourage teachers to take responsibility for planning their own continuing professional development. [254704]

Jim Knight: Since September 2007 the revised professional standards for teachers provide clear career pathways for teachers from qualified teacher status to advanced skill teachers. These clarify what is expected at each career stage, including expectations about teachers' ongoing engagement in their own continuing professional development (CPD).

To support this we have introduced revised and robust performance management arrangements in September 2007 which will ensure that teachers' performance is regularly reviewed and that all teachers have clear and robust development plans which take account of their own individual needs and the school's improvement priorities. Teachers play a key role in this process through engaging with their line mangers to agree their professional development plans.

The new performance management arrangements introduced in September 2007 are part of the broader cultural change agenda that has been transforming the school workforce since “Raising standards and tackling workload: a national agreement” was signed in 2003. They are a key part of the drive to create a “”new professionalism” and are designed to help schools raise standards even further by tying teacher performance with their professional development needs and a school's own improvement priorities.

Teenage Pregnancy: Nottingham

Mr. Allen: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much his Department spent on measures to reduce levels of teenage pregnancy in Nottingham in the last 12 months. [255583]

Beverley Hughes: Each local authority receives funding within its Area-based Grant to support delivery of its local teenage pregnancy strategy. The amount each local authority receives is based on a formula that takes account of the number and rate of teenage pregnancies, ensuring that areas which face the greatest challenges receive the most funding. In 2008-09, Nottingham received £295,000 within its Area-based Grant to support its local teenage pregnancy strategy.

Regional teenage pregnancy co-ordinators based in Government offices provide support and challenge to the local areas within each region. £100,000 is allocated to each Government office to support that function. While only a proportion of this £100,000 will be used to support activity in Nottingham, Government offices have been directed to differentiate the support and challenge they provide so that support is targeted on areas—like Nottingham—which have made least progress.

As one of the 21 local areas with high and increasing rates of teenage pregnancy, Nottingham has also received support from the Department of Health's national support team (NST). In monetary terms, the support received from NST is estimated to be around £20,000.

In addition, mainstream delivery partners within the local area—PCTs, schools, youth services and social services—use a proportion of their budgets to provide services that support local teenage pregnancy strategies. For example, schools support local teenage pregnancy strategies through their provision of sex and relationships education and targeted work with vulnerable young people to raise aspirations. It is not possible, however, to put a monetary value on these contributions.

Young Offenders

John Hemming: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what process is employed in issuing a youth conditional caution. [256500]

Beverley Hughes: We propose to introduce the Youth Conditional Caution in stages. Pilots for 16 and 17-year-olds will begin in summer 2009. Evaluation of the pilot schemes will inform implementation decisions on national roll out of the Caution for 16 and 17-year-olds nationally and its application to 10 to 15-year-olds. The draft statutory code of practice governing use of the Youth Conditional Caution for 16 and 17-year-olds is in the final stages of preparation and consultation on it will begin shortly. I will ensure that the hon. Member receives copies of the consultation documents.

Young People: Sports

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much (a) Exchequer and (b) lottery funding will be spent on the Physical Education and Sport Strategy for Young People in each of the next four years; and how much will be allocated to the Youth Sport Trust. [255727]

Jim Knight [holding answer 10 February 2009]: £783 million of Exchequer funding has been committed to deliver the PE and Sport Strategy for Young People over the three years to 2010-11. This works out at £261 million per year. This does not include any lottery funding. However, lottery funding may support sporting programmes locally.

Total grant of £13,460,576 has been allocated to the Youth Sport Trust for 2008-09 to fund their work in helping to deliver the strategy and other related policy areas. Funding for the Youth Sport Trust beyond the current financial year is currently under consideration.

Young People: Unemployment

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether the planned pilot of the variant of the Activity Agreement to offer personalised learning to young people as soon as they become not in education, employment or training has commenced. [247253]

Jim Knight: The White Paper 'New Opportunities—Fair Chances for the Future', published on 13 January 2009, announced the extension of activity agreements to March 2010. We will use this period to gather further information that will inform what support and incentives might be needed as we raise the participation age from 2013. From April 2009, therefore, the Activity Agreement offer will be targeted on engaging the very hardest to reach.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Charities: Finance

Mr. Boswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps he is taking to promote the work of the Charity Research Support Fund in the context of the current national economic situation. [254703]

Mr. Lammy: HEFCE's quality related (QR) block grant for research to higher education institutions includes a "charity support element". This element is calculated by reference to charitable research income, but is distributed as part of the annual QR block grant rather than as a separate fund. It is for institutions that receive QR to determine how to use that funding in line with their own research priorities.

OLYMPICS

Apprentices: Olympic Games 2012

Tom Brake: To ask the Minister for the Olympics how many people are undertaking (a) trainee apprenticeships and (b) work placements at Olympic venues. [256096][1]

Tessa Jowell: In addition to the existing commitment for 2,000 trainee, apprenticeships and work placements over the life of the project (of which 180 would be apprenticeships), the Prime Minister announced last month that 250 additional apprenticeships would be created on the Olympic Park and Village.

At the end of December 2008, of the 303 people undertaking training on the Olympic Park site:

(a) 27 people were registered as apprentices (on a recognised framework)

(b) 41 were on trainee work placements.

Contracts: Olympic Games 2012

Tom Brake: To ask the Minister for the Olympics whether an independent value for money audit of the bid by Lend Lease to build the Olympic Village was conducted prior to the award of the contract. [256116]

Tessa Jowell: Lend Lease was selected to be the preferred developer for the Olympic Village as a result of a competitive Official Journal of the European Union procurement. The detailed contract is still under negotiation. Before the contract is finalised, an assessment of the value for money of the proposed deal will be considered by the ministerial Funders Group.

Departmental Public Appointments

Mr. Maude: To ask the Minister for the Olympics which of the public appointments for which her Office is responsible are due to be (a) renewed and (b) filled in the next 24 months; what the (i) remit, (ii) salary, (iii) political restriction, (iv) eligibility requirement and (v) timetable for each appointment is; and what records her Office keeps in respect of such appointments. [254248]

Tessa Jowell: Information on public appointments to the Olympic Delivery Authority (ODA) and the Olympic Lottery Distributor (OLD) is published in the DCMS Annual Report and also on the DCMS website:

www.culture.gov.uk/working_with_us/public_appointments

The ODA and OLD also provide detailed information about appointments in their own annual reports. Public appointments vacancies are advertised on the DCMS website and the Cabinet Office Public Appointments website at:

www.publicappointments.gov.uk

The process for making a public appointment, including guidance on political activity and eligibility criteria, follows the Cabinet Office publication 'Making and Managing Public Appointments'. For appointments regulated by the Commissioner for Public Appointments, the appointments process also complies with the 'Code of Practice for Ministerial Appointments to Public Bodies'. Copies are in the Libraries of the House.

Fairtrade Initiative: Olympic Games 2012

Mr. Moore: To ask the Minister for the Olympics if she will bring forward plans to ensure that the 2012 London Olympics sources all relevant products on a fair trade basis; if she will hold discussions with the Secretary of State for International Development on the matter; and if she will make a statement. [255734]

Tessa Jowell: I refer the hon. Member to the answer that I gave to the hon. Member for Bath (Mr. Foster) on 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 115W, in which I set out the action that my officials and I had undertaken with other Government Departments, including DFID, in this regard.

In November 2008 the London Organising Committee of the Olympic Games and Paralympic Games (LOCOG) published a sustainable sourcing code setting out that it will seek to procure products and services for London 2012 that have been certified as ethically sourced, where they represent value for money and do not compromise other sustainability objectives. This code will be kept under review and DFID is one of many organisations which LOCOG will consult in that process.

The Olympic Delivery Authority (ODA) also seeks to work with suppliers which have a good track record in human rights and use goods and materials produced ethically.

Havering

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Minister for the Olympics when she last visited the London borough of Havering. [256568]

Tessa Jowell: I have not yet had the opportunity to visit the London borough of Havering in my position as Minister for the Olympics. I would be delighted to hear about ways in which the hon. Members constituents are engaging with the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic games.

Mass Media: Olympic Games 2012

Tom Brake: To ask the Minister for the Olympics who the owner of the media centre planned for the London 2012 Olympics will be once it has been completed. [255363]

Tessa Jowell: The International Broadcast Centre and Main Press Centre are being built on land owned by the London Development Agency, which will retain ownership after completion of the buildings.

Olympic Games 2012: Construction

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Minister for the Olympics for what reason problems with the foundations and ground conditions for the Olympic velodrome were not identified earlier; and if she will make a statement. [256480]

Tessa Jowell: Initial site investigation studies on the site of the Velopark were carried out throughout 2007 and continued into 2008, when the poor ground conditions were identified. As part of the review of the Masterplan for the Olympic Park, undertaken in 2007, the Velodrome was moved slightly to the west to help with the design and layout of the wider cycling facilities to be built in legacy. This movement exacerbated the ground conditions problem.

The July 2008 London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic games update report identified a £40 million cost pressure against other Olympic park venues, part of which was for the Velopark. The level of contamination on this site was more extensive than originally assessed and this contributed to the overall increase of £25 million in the Velopark budget to £105 million. Once the full extent of the ground conditions was known, design and ground modelling studies were undertaken which produced an accurate estimate of the potential costs.

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what plans there are for the use of the (a) handball venue, (b) sailing facilities and (c) aquatics venue after the end of the London 2012 Olympic games. [256569]

Tessa Jowell: Business plans are currently being developed for the legacy use of all permanent London 2012 sporting venues.

The handball venue will be a flexible, multi-use sports venue in legacy, with a capacity of up to 6,000. Through the provision of retractable seating, it will be possible to increase the field of play and reduce the seating capacity to 3,000. Facilities will include a field of play able to accommodate up to three basketball courts or 12 badminton courts, and a health and fitness centre. The venue will have the capacity to be used for a variety of indoor sports including volleyball, handball, ba[illegible]on, netball, football and basketball at both co[illegible]d high performance level. Further sporting use[illegible] also being pursued.

The Weymouth and Portland National Sailing Academy (WPNSA) will benefit from the improved facilities that the games will leave behind, providing a state-of-the-art facility for elite training, competition and local community use. Enhancements—which were completed in November 2008—include a new 250m slipway, race-boat parking, and lifting and mooring facilities. These provide an early legacy of world-class facilities for elite athletes and the local Dorset community to use.

The Aquatics Centre will have a capacity of 2,500 in legacy, increasing to 3,500 for major events. It will provide two 50m pools (for which there is an identified strategic need in London), a dive pool with multiple level dive tower, and facilities such as a crèche, cafe and dry side training. This is a state of the art building that will make use of sophisticated technology including moveable floors and booms. It will be a permanent elite and community swimming resource for east London that will be used by an estimated 600,000 visitors a year after the games.

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what plans there are for the use of the North Greenwich Arena (a) 1 and (b) 2 after the end of the London 2012 Olympic Games. [256572]

Tessa Jowell: North Greenwich Arena 1 is an existing privately owned arena and will be used for a temporary period to stage 2012 Olympics events. Post-games it will continue to be operated by the owners. North Greenwich Arena 2 was intended to be a new, temporary arena. Further to the recommendations of a report in December 2008 by KPMG, a review is being undertaken to consider suitable alternative existing venues and Arena 2 is part of that review. It is anticipated that decisions will be taken on remaining venue locations in March 2009.

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what plans there are for the use of the Olympic Stadium after the end of the London 2012 Olympic games. [256573]

Tessa Jowell: A business plan is currently being developed for the legacy use of the stadium. The stadium will be converted from an 80,000 to a 25,000 seat venue in legacy. Athletics will provide the core sporting legacy use, as promised to the IOC, at both community and high performance level. The stadium will be used to host domestic athletic events and as a world-class facility will enable the UK to bid for international events. This will be complemented by a range of other educational and sporting uses including a school with a sporting focus, the National Skills Academy for Sport and Leisure, and a high performance centre operated by the English Institute of Sport (including sport science and sport medicine services).

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what plans there are for the use of the velopark after the end of the London 2012 Olympic games. [256574]

Tessa Jowell: A business plan is currently being developed for the legacy use of the Velopark. The Velopark will be a unique cycling hub, incorporating all cycling disciplines and hosting events from world-class to community level. The Velodrome will retain its Olympic seating capacity of 6,000 in legacy. Other facilities on the Velopark will include a mountain biking track, BMX track, one-mile road cycle circuit and a cycle speedway, used for community and high performance level activities. The venue will be operated in legacy by the Lee Valley Regional Park Authority. British Cycling has been involved in the development of the Velopark and will use the facilities available.

Olympic Games 2012: Expenditure

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Minister for the Olympics how much had been spent on the handball venue at the latest date for which figures are available; and what the estimated final cost of the venue is. [256586]

Tessa Jowell: The contractor that will build the handball arena has not yet been selected and so it is not appropriate to announce budget or cost details while the procurement process is continuing.

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what cancelled expenditure items are contained under the headings (a) other transport capital projects and (b) other transport operating expenditure, in the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games Annual Report 2009, Table 2, page 49; and if she will make a statement. [256412]

Tessa Jowell: The two potential reductions in transport forecast expenditure included in the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games Annual Report 2009, Table 2, page 49, represent opportunities for savings—not reductions, omissions or cancellations of work.

These potential savings have been identified during contract negotiations and will be confirmed in due course once terms have been fully concluded. Due to the commercial element of the ongoing discussions, it is not possible to provide further details at this time.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Art Works: Loans

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what percentage of those who have taken advantage of the Own Art loan scheme fall into each of the scheme's eligibility criteria. [255904]

Barbara Follett: The Own Art scheme is run by Arts Council England and is open to all UK residents over the age of 18. The scheme aims to support, in particular, the following priority groups:

First-time buyers of contemporary art or craft

Those on income levels equivalent to or below the national average of £22,500 who might otherwise be unable afford to buy original works of art.

The Arts Council has advised that the percentage of customers who fall into each priority group is as follows.

				Percentage
Priority group	2004-05 to 2005-06	2006-07	2007-08	2008-09[1]
First-time buyers	29	27	25	25.4
Lower incomes	26	26	25	27.2

[1] April - December 2008

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many people have taken out loans as part of the Own Art scheme in each of the last three years; and what the total value of the loans was in each year. [255905]

Barbara Follett: The Own Art scheme is run by Arts Council England and launched in April 2004. The Arts Council advises that over 12,000 customers have used the scheme for the purchase of work of contemporary art and craft valued in excess of £8.2 million. Sales for the current financial year to date total £1.67 million (2,041 loans). Figures for the preceding three full financial years are detailed in the following table.

	Number of loans	Value of loans (£)
2007-08	2,596	2,217,584.25
2006-07	2,815	2,420,100.98
2005-06	2,725	2,066,068.46

Arts Council of England: Property

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what (a) buildings and (b) land are leased by Arts Council England; and what estimate has been made of the value of these assets. [250256]

Barbara Follett: Arts Council England has advised that it owns the freehold on a section of land in the London Southbank area covering the area of the Southbank Centre (SBC) and British Film Institute (BFI), and an area covering the Royal National Theatre (RNT). All the land is leased to the Southbank Centre, British Film Institute and Royal National Theatre at no cost to them. Arts Council England, as freeholder, has no development rights and cannot derive any revenue for the duration of the 150 years leases. They therefore advise that the land on the South Bank therefore has no realistic or bankable value to them, and that they have made no estimate of the value of these assets.

Where leaseholders sublet space and generate revenue, as in case of the Southbank Centre, information on the revenues received is primarily a matter for the body in question. Further information can be found in the relevant annual accounts. The most recent published annual accounts for the Southbank Centre are available at the following link:

http://www.southbankcentre.co.uk/about-southbank-centre

Arts: Finance

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport in respect of which projects (a) the Arts Council, (b) the Museums, Libraries and Archives Council, (c) Sport England and (d) English Heritage (i) received ring-fenced funding in 2008-09 and (ii) are planned to receive such funding in each of the next three years; and what estimate he has made of the cost of funding each such project in each year. [254592]

Andy Burnham: At the conclusion of Comprehensive Spending Review 2007 (CSR07) negotiations, the following funding depicted as being ring-fenced was approved:

Body	Purpose	2008-09	2009-10	£ million 2010-11
Museums, Libraries and Archives Council	Renaissance in the regions	46.21	47.46	48.74
Museums, Libraries and Archives Council	Government indemnity scheme	0.15	0.15	0.15

Additionally, the following amounts were agreed for project-specific work during the current CSR period (2008-09 to 2010-11):

Body	Purpose	2008-09	2009-10	£ million 2010-11
Arts Council England	Find your talent programme	Up to 2.50	0	0
Arts Council England	Two year programme of free theatre	0	Up to 2.50	0
Arts Council England	Museums and galleries education programme	0.30	tbc	tbc
Museums, Libraries and Archives Council	Museum strategic commissioning programme; regional museum education development and professional development programme	2.24	tbc	tbc
Sport England	Five-hour school sport offer	14.5	13.5	11.5
Sport England	English Institute of Sport high performance facility development and scientific equipment maintenance	2.70	0.70	0.70

Funding in 2011-12 for the four bodies in question falls outside of the current spending review period, and will be decided at a later date following detailed negotiation.

Broadband

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what steps he is taking to increase access to broadband for (a) lower income households with children of school age, (b) pensioner households and (c) people with a disability. [250605]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 22 January 2009]: I have been asked to reply.

The Prime Minister appointed the Secretary of State for Wales, as Minister for Digital Inclusion last year because the Government recognise this as a very important challenge facing the UK.

Since taking on the role, the Digital Inclusion Minister has formed a dedicated Cabinet committee, MISC 34, he has established a cross-government coordination unit, and Government have engaged a wide range of stakeholders in developing the cross-government report "Delivering Digital Inclusion—An Action plan for Consultation" http://www.communities.gov.uk/publications/communities/deliveringdigitalinclusion in order to have a coherent and concerted drive to address digital inclusion and increase access to broadband/digital technologies for (a) lower income households with children (b) pensioners households (c) people with disabilities.

The action plan details over 70 Government actions taking place to advance digital inclusion and future actions being considered by Government to facilitate access and skills to digital technologies for disadvantaged groups and individuals in The annex:

http://www.communities.gov.uk/publications/communities/digitalinclusionannex of the report. The consultation was launched on 27 October 2008 and was meant to close on 19 January but has been extended to 26 January at the request of stakeholders. Government are currently analysing responses to inform further progress.

Government are working with industry and Ofcom towards ensuring the right environment for the creation of innovative broadband content. We will set out guidance on broadband content procurement by the public sector, informed by an industry perspective. The Digital Britain report is looking at the issue of media literacy, future access to digital communications, availability of information, and the ability to interact with vast communities of people, regardless of location so the UK can remain a world leader in digital services. An interim report will be published in late January, early February which will lay out the road of travel. A full report will be published in the summer 2009.

Departmental Buildings

Greg Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will place in the Library a copy of the (a) display energy certificates and (b) advisory reports for public buildings issued in respect of each property occupied by (i) his Department and (ii) its agency. [256040]

Mr. Sutcliffe: My Department will place in the Library a copy of the display energy certificates and their associated advisory reports in respect of each property occupied by my Department and its agency, as soon as they are available.

Departmental Impact Assessments

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many equalities impact assessments his Department has undertaken in the last 12 month period for which figures are available; and what estimate he has made of the cost to the public purse of such assessments. [255077]

Mr. Sutcliffe: My Department has carried out seven equality impact assessments over the year 2008. Six have been published on our website; and one is awaiting publication.

We do not monitor the cost of carrying out assessments.

Departmental Public Appointments

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport which of the public appointments for which his Department is responsible are due to be (a) renewed and (b) filled in the next 24 months; what the (i) remit, (ii) salary, (iii) political restriction, (iv) eligibility requirement and (v) timetable for each appointment is; and what records his Department keeps in respect of such appointments. [254236]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Information on DCMS public appointments is published in the DCMS Annual Report and also on the website:

www.culture.gov.uk/working_with_us/public_appointments

DCMS public bodies also provide detailed information about appointments in their individual Annual Reports. DCMS public appointments vacancies are advertised on the DCMS website and on the Cabinet Office Public Appointments website at: www.publicappointments.gov.uk. The process for making a public appointment, including guidance on political activity and eligibility criteria, follows the Cabinet Office publication "Making and Managing Public Appointments". For appointments regulated by the Commissioner for Public Appointments, the appointments process also complies with the "Code of Practice for Ministerial Appointments to Public Bodies". Copies are in the Libraries of the House.

Departmental Sick Leave

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many staff in his Department or its predecessors were on sick leave for (a) over 30 days, (b) over 50 days and (c) over 100 days in each of the last five years. [256321]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The requested information is shown in the following table:

Staff on sick leave	2004	2005	2006	2007	2008
Over 30 days	11	11	14	7	0
Over 50 days	7	8	8	5	0
Over 100 days	4	3	4	4	1
Total	22	22	26	16	1

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many staff in his Department were recorded as having been on sick leave for over 12 months on 31 December in each of the last five years. [256633]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The number of DCMS staff on sick leave for over 12 months on 31 December in each of the last five years is zero.

Music: Young People

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many (a) adult and (b) peer mentors have been appointed as part of the Music Mentoring scheme in each of the last three years. [255906]

Barbara Follett: I refer the right hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 9 February 2009, Official Report, column 1551W.

Musical Instruments: Loans

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many people have taken out loans for musical instruments as part of the Take It Away scheme in each of the last three years; and what the monetary value of the loans was in each year. [255899]

Barbara Follett: The Take it Away scheme is run by Arts Council England and was launched in July 2007. Sales statistics are therefore available only for 2007-08 and 2008-09.

The Arts Council has advised that in 2007-08, a total of 5,962 loans were taken out for the value of £3,934,235. In 2008-09 (to December 2008), a total of 10,163 loans have been taken out for the value of £6,603,773.

Since the scheme's launch, more than 16,000 customers have used Take it Away for the purchase of over £10.5 million worth of musical instruments and equipment.

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what percentage of those who have taken advantage of the Take It Away instrument loan scheme fall into each of the eligibility criteria. [255900]

Barbara Follett: The Take it Away scheme is run by Arts Council England and is open to all UK residents over the age of 18. The scheme aims to support, in particular, the following priority groups:

Those buying an instrument for a child or young person under 18;

Those buying an instrument for the first time (of any age);

Those on income levels equivalent to or below the national average of £22,500 per annum who might otherwise be unable to acquire an instrument appropriate to their needs.

The Arts Council has advised that the percentage of customers who fall into each priority group is as follows.

Priority group	2007-08	Percentage 2008-09[1]
Young person under 18	28.2	25.9
Beginner/adult re-starter	46.4	45.0
Income less than £22,500	46.4	45.0
Customers that fall into one or more priority group	82.40	80.80

[1] 2008-09 figures are to the end of September 2008 only

National Lottery

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much revenue has been raised from (a) all National Lottery games and (b) the Olympic scratch card game in each year since the launch of the latter. [256159]

Barbara Follett [holding answer 10 February 2009]: The National Lottery Commission have provided the following table which shows total sales from all National Lottery games and separated out the total sales of all Olympic Lottery designated games (including Scratchcards) in each year since the launch of the letter.

Financial year	Total sales	£ million Total sales of Olympic Lottery designated games
2005-06[1]	3,504.0	61.5
2006-07	4,911.4	438.7
2007-08	4,966.3	540.4
2008-09[2]	3,797.7	410.2

[1] Eight months.
[2] Year to December 2008.

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what assessment he has made of the effect of the Olympic scratch card game on Lottery contributions to the National Lottery good causes since its launch; and if he will make a statement. [256160]

Barbara Follett [holding answer 10 February 2009]: The National Lottery Commission have advised that it is not possible to assess the impact of Olympic designated games on overall returns to good causes as it would not be possible to predict what sales would have been without a successful Olympics bid.

The best way to minimise the impact of Olympic Lottery games sales on The National Lottery Distribution Fund is therefore to maximise overall sales.

Public Libraries

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport with reference to the answer of 18 November 2008, Official Report, columns 255-6W, on public libraries, to what factors he attributes the difference between the number of libraries open for more than 10 hours in (a) 1996-97 and (b) 2006-07. [256645]

Barbara Follett: Although the number of libraries open more than 10 hours a week (excluding mobile ones) decreased by 17 between 1996-97 and 2006-07, the proportion of libraries open for more than 44 hours per week increased by 79 per cent. (369). A large increase in the number of static libraries open for less than 10 hours per week (from 0 to 86) during this period compensates for a reduction in the number of mobile libraries (-12 per cent.) and results in the total number of libraries (static plus mobile) increasing by eight between 1996-97 and 2006-07. These changes indicate that authorities have altered their library opening hours in accordance with the needs of their communities. This information is set out in the following table.

	Libraries open 60+ hrs per week	Libraries open 45-59 hrs per week	Libraries open 30-44 hrs per week	Libraries open 10-29 hrs per week	Mobile libraries	Libraries open 10+ hrs per week (incl. mobiles)	Libraries open <10 hrs per week	Libraries open (all hours)

Source:
Public Library Statistics (Chartered Institute of Public Finance and Accountancy (CIPFA))

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport with reference to the answer of 18 November 2008, Official Report, columns 255-6W, on public libraries, what consideration his Department has given to the central collection of information on the number of public library openings. [256647]

Barbara Follett: Information on the number of public libraries is published annually by the Chartered Institute of Public Finance and Accountancy (CIPFA) in Public Library Statistics. This is the most comprehensive source of data on public library services in the UK. In order to avoid excessive data burdens on local authorities, the Department for Culture, Media and Sport does not collate additional information about library service provision centrally.

Tourism

Simon Hughes: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what steps he is taking to promote the UK as a tourist destination to those overseas. [255562]

Barbara Follett: VisitBritain is currently formulating its new three-year strategy based on the many recommendations of the recent British Tourism Framework Review. This sets out the steps that VisitBritain will take between 2009-2012 to increase the visitor economy to £133 billion by 2018. The strategy was launched on 11 February.

VisitBritain announced a new marketing campaign 'Value for Money' at the Liverpool Tourism Summit on 8th January 2009 costing £6.5 million. This will include the promotion of London as a more affordable destination at the present time. In addition, the Government will continue to invest in skills and in tourism product itself. This will include the quality of accommodation; the Olympics and Paralympic games; the Cultural Olympiad; free museums and galleries; heritage and seaside resorts, which are all critical to meeting visitor expectations and their demand for an exceptional experience.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

AWE Aldermaston

Mr. Drew: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when the decision was taken to transfer RWE Aldermaston to Jacobs. [249572]

Ian Pearson: After consultation between BERR (then DTI) and the Ministry of Defence (MOD), the decision to undertake the process of selling the British Nuclear Fuels Limited (BNFL) one-third stake in AWE Management Limited (AWEML) was taken at the end of June 2007 and was announced to Parliament on 16 July 2007, Official Report, column 1WS, before the process commenced.

AWEML is the consortium of BNFL, Serco and Lockheed Martin) that has the 25-year contract with the MOD to manage and operate the Atomic Weapons Establishment on MOD's behalf. The Government have not transferred or sold any of its stake in the Atomic Weapons Establishment itself, which remains entirely owned by the MOD and in which UK sovereignty remains protected.

It became clear during the summer of 2008 that the bid from Jacobs Engineering Group was the most attractive and the decision to accept that bid was agreed by BERR Ministers on 25 September 2008 subject to finalisation of various contractual matters. The contract confirming the deal was finally signed by BNFL and Jacobs on 17 December 2008.

Bankruptcy

Anne Main: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many individuals were declared bankrupt in (a) St Albans constituency, (b) Hertfordshire, (c) the East of England and (d) England and Wales in each of the last 12 months for which information is available. [254226]

Mr. McFadden: Table 1 following shows the number of bankruptcies in (a) St. Albans constituency, (b) Hertfordshire, (c) the East of England and (d) England and Wales in each month of 2007, derived from postcodes provided by bankrupt individuals[1,2].

[1] Classifying bankrupts into administrative geographies is done using the postcode that the bankrupt individual provides. The use of this in assigning an individual to a borough is thus only as reliable as the postcode information provided.

[2] In particular, inaccurate or missing postcodes mean that the numbers in the aforementioned table will be subject to an element of missing data. Nationally, this proportion has been decreasing from about 12 per cent. in 2000 to less than 4 per cent. in 2007.

Mr. Vara: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many people have applied for (a) bankruptcy and (b) an individual voluntary arrangement in (i) North West Cambridgeshire, (ii) Cambridgeshire, (iiii) the East of England and (iv) England and Wales in each of the last 10 years. [254863]

Mr. McFadden: The following tables show the number of bankruptcies (table A) and individual voluntary arrangements (IVAs) (table B) in (i) North West Cambridgeshire constituency, (ii) Cambridgeshire, (iii) the East of England and (iv) England and Wales in each year between 2000 and 2007. This information is derived from postcodes provided by bankrupt individuals[1,2]. Earlier figures are not available on this basis and figures for 2008 are not yet available.

Bankruptcy: Cambridgeshire

Mr. Paice: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many businesses in Cambridgeshire were declared bankrupt in each of the last 12 months. [250238]

Mr. McFadden: Self-employed traders may be declared bankrupt (or enter into an individual voluntary arrangement (IVA)), however, registered companies are the subject of liquidation (compulsory liquidation or creditors voluntary liquidation (CVL)).

It is not currently possible, from information held centrally in electronic format, to count the number of insolvent companies in Cambridgeshire. However the following table shows the number of self-employed bankrupts in each month of 2007 (the latest for which information is currently available for Cambridgeshire), derived from postcodes provided by bankrupt individuals[1,2].

Similar information is not available for individual voluntary arrangements entered into by the self-employed.

Broadband

Mr. Crabb: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when he expects broadband internet access to be available for everybody who wants it nationwide. [249017]

Mr. McFadden: Broadband internet is available now to over 99 per cent. of households connected to a broadband enabled telephone exchange and broadband via satellite is geographically available nationwide.

Mr. Crabb: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much his Department has spent on enabling broadband internet access in each year since 1997. [249210]

Mr. McFadden: The Department has directly spent around £47 million on enabling broadband internet access since 1997, this excludes spending by the Department's agencies and non-departmental public bodies. This funding was to encourage '1st generation' broadband take up. The breakdown of the spending is set out as follows.

UK Broadband Fund: £30 million for projects to encourage broadband roll out in the regions across the UK from 2002-05

Broadband Task Force: £86,000 from 2004-05

Broadband Aggregation: £17 million from 2003-05

Community Broadband Network: Part funding of £30,000 in 2004

Broadband Awareness Portal Project: £40,000 in 2004-05

Mr. Evans: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what recent discussions he has had with (a) the National Endowment for Science, Technology and the Arts (NESTA) and (b) Ofcom on NESTA's proposal to extend the geographical scope of provision of high-speed broadband. [251207]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 28 January 2009]: I have not had recent discussions with the NESTA or Ofcom on NESTA's proposal to extend the geographical scope of provision of high-speed broadband.

Mr. Evans: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the likely effects on the economy of nationwide access to high-speed broadband. [251210]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 28 January 2009]: As part of the Digital Britain report the Department has made interim assessments of the likely effects on the economy of nationwide access to high-speed broadband by reviewing the range of reports and analysis available on this subject.

I recognise the potential importance of high-speed broadband and its potential to positively affect the UK's competitiveness. The Government believe that investment in new broadband networks opens the way to a whole range of job opportunities, both during and post construction of the new networks. The National Endowment for Science, Technology and the Arts (NESTA) estimates that universal super-fast broadband in the UK could directly create 600,000 new ICT jobs and add £18 billion to GDP over four years with even larger indirect benefit. The Information Technology and Innovation Foundation published a similar study of the impact investment in network infrastructures could have in the USA.

It is important therefore for the Government, under the Digital Britain Report to examine the impact of network improvements can have on the UK's employment and competitiveness in the digital economy.

Broadband: Rural Areas

Mr. Swire: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps he is taking to ensure high speed broadband provision in rural areas, with specific reference to East Devon; and if he will make a statement. [242160]

Mr. McFadden: The Government recently published the interim report on Digital Britain, which aims to help accelerate the rate of growth, and cement the UK's position as a world leader in the knowledge and learning economy. This set out our intention to develop plans for a digital Universal Service Commitment to be effective by 2012. Alongside the interim report, the Government also published their response to the Caio Review on broadband, agreeing to the recommendations in that report and setting out how we will act to implement them.

In addition, Ofcom is continuing to consult on the appropriate regulatory framework for next generation broadband.

Mr. Evans: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what recent representations he has received on the extension of provision of high-speed broadband access to rural areas. [251206]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 28 January 2009]: Since the announcement of the Digital Britain Report on 17 October, the Department has received representations on extension of provision of high-speed broadband access to rural areas in the form of correspondence from a Member of the Scottish Parliament and Members of Parliament, on behalf of constituents and from their own interest, as well as a parliamentary questions.

Departmental Internet

Grant Shapps: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform which websites are operated by his Department in addition to its main website; and what the operating budget for those websites is. [251422]

Mr. McFadden: Below is a list of websites operated by the Department in addition to the main www.berr.gov.uk site.

Regarding operating budgets, the Department does not hold this information centrally, and it could be obtained only at disproportionate cost. As of April 2009, all Government Departments will measure website costs in line with guidance from the Central Office of Information.

Departmental Public Appointments

Mr. Maude: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform which of the public appointments for which his Department is responsible are due to be (a) renewed and (b) filled in the next 24 months; what the (i) remit, (ii) salary, (iii) political restriction, (iv) eligibility requirement and (v) timetable for each appointment is; and what records his Department keeps in respect of such appointments. More detailed information about individual appointments is set out in the relevant body's Annual Report. Vacancies may be advertised on the Cabinet Office Public Appointments website at:

www.publicappointments.gov.uk

The process for making a public appointment, including guidance on political activity and eligibility criteria, follows the Cabinet Office publication "Making and Managing Public Appointments". For appointments regulated by the Commissioner for Public Appointments, the appointments process also complies with the "Code of Practice for Ministerial Appointments to Public Bodies". Copies are in the Libraries of the House.

Departmental Public Relations

Grant Shapps: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the cost of his Department's contracts with public relations consultancies was in each year since it was established. [251263]

Mr. McFadden: The Department spent the following via the Central Office of Information (COI) and directly with public relations agencies in the last full financial year 2007-08:

Geronimo Communications, Enterprising Britain: £172,630.27

Gavin Anderson (UK) Ltd, Renewable energy: £109,326.38

GCI London, Employing People: £30,030

Highlight PR, Queen's Awards: £17,254.61

Trimedia Harrison Cowley Ltd, Fireworks safety: £15,000

Trimedia Harrison Cowley Ltd, Consumer Protection Regulations: £73,000.

This includes spend by the former DTI before the establishment of the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform in June 2007.

Departmental Recycling

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much (a) paper, (b) plastic and (c) other waste was produced by his Department in each year since its establishment; and what proportion of such waste was recycled. [252871]

Mr. McFadden: Since it was formed on 28 June 2007, BERR has produced the following weights of paper, plastics and other waste on its HQ estate, with the proportion recycled shown in brackets:

Tonnes

	Paper	Recycled (%)	Plastics	Recycled (%)	Other waste	Recycled (%)
2007-08	335.7	(100)	6.9	(100)	378.6	(1.2)
2008-09 (Apr-Dec)	305.0	(100)	9.4	(100)	220.7	(5.8)

It is not possible to separate out the waste recycling figures for BERR and DIUS at Kingsgate House, since they are co-located.

Departmental Secondment

John McDonnell: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform on how many occasions (a) Ministers and (b) officials from his Department have (i) met and (ii) talked on the telephone to representatives of (A) Anglo American plc, (B) BHP Billiton plc, (C) Rio Tinto plc, (D) Vedanta plc and (E) Xstrata plc since April 2007; and how many staff from each such company have been seconded to his Department in that period. [245899]

Mr. McFadden: There were two meetings and one telephone discussion between BERR Ministers and Rio Tinto plc over this period. In addition we have identified two meetings and one telephone discussion between the Permanent Secretary and Rio Tinto. He also met with BHP Billiton pc on one occasion.

The Chief Executive of Anglo American plc is a member of the Business Council for Britain and has attended two meetings since her appointment at which BERR Ministers were present. The Permanent Secretary was also at one of these meetings. In addition, there has been one-face-to face meeting between the Chief Executive of Anglo American and BERR Ministers over this period.

No meetings or discussions with Verdanta plc or Xstrata plc have taken place since April 2007 involving BERR Ministers or the Permanent Secretary.

There has been regular contact between BERR officials and companies in the mining sector, but to identify all these discussions would incur disproportionate cost as this information is not held centrally. No staff from these companies have been seconded to the Department over this period.

Electronic Equipment: Waste Disposal

Mr. Chaytor: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will publish each of the producer compliance schemes established under the Waste Electrical and Electronic Equipment Regulations; and how much waste equipment (a) is required to be collected and (b) was collected in the latest period for which figures are available under each scheme. [251757]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 5 February 2009]: The Environment Agency in England and Wales and the Scottish Environment Protection Agency (SEPA) are responsible for approving Producer Compliance Schemes (PSC) under the Waste Electrical and Electronic Equipment (WEEE) Regulations. A list of approved PCSs is available at www.environment-agency.gov.uk.

The collection data requested are not available as they are commercially sensitive.

EU Internal Trade

Mr. Cash: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will bring forward legislative proposals to provide equal rights in employment for UK nationals in the United Kingdom to those afforded under (a) the EU Posted Workers Directive and (b) other EU legislation. [255449]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 9 February 2009]: Such legislation is already in place: all workers in the UK, whether they are UK citizens, migrant or posted workers have the same key employment rights.

Mr. Cash: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps the European Commission has taken since the Forum on Workers' Rights and Economic Freedom in October 2008 to safeguard the rights of posted workers within the UK. [255450]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 9 February 2009]: The Council of Ministers and the European Commission have invited the social partners to analyse the challenges posed by the expansion in the various forms of labour mobility in the Union and in particular of their impact on the European Union's competitiveness, protection of workers' rights, the functioning of national labour markets, and the various modes of industrial relations, taking account of recent rulings of the European Court of Justice. The Commission's high level committee of experts will examine ways to improve the implementation of the directive and to exchange information, experience and good practice.

Mr. Cash: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the conclusions of the expert committee on the posting of workers established after the meeting of the Employment, Social Policy, Health and Consumer Affairs Council on 9 June 2008. [255663]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 9 February 2009]: After the Council meeting on 9 June 2008, the Commission was asked to set up an expert committee to examine questions and difficulties which might arise in the practical application of the posting of worker legislation. The Commission published details of the Committee's remit on 18 December 2008 (Commission document C (2008) 8640 final). I look forward to the conclusions of this group.

Fire Services: Working Hours

Sir Alan Beith: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the potential effect of levels of fire cover provided by retained firefighters of the provisions of the EU Working Time Directive. [255388]

Mr. McFadden: The UK Government recognise that losing the individual's right to opt-out of the 48 hour working week as set by the working time directive, would have a detrimental effect on the hours which firefighters working the retained duty system could be available for duty, especially the substantial numbers who work full-time for their primary employer. Many other workers also use this important flexibility and so and we remain firmly of the view that this right should remain. We, along with a majority of other member states will be fighting for the retention of the opt-out as this dossier progresses through the European negotiation process.

Official both from my Department and the Department for Communities and Local Government have worked very closely with the Retained Firefighters' Union and will continue to keep them informed throughout the process.

Israel: Arms Trade

Dr. Starkey: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform which arms export licences for arms sales to Israel have been approved in each of the last five years; and which of those licences were for components intended to be incorporated into larger equipment for onward export to third countries. [254161]

Ian Pearson: The Government publish detailed information on export licences issued, refused and revoked, by destination, including the overall value and a summary of the items covered by these licences, in its Annual and Quarterly Reports on Strategic Export Controls. Information on export licences issued for incorporation before onward export is given separately for each destination in the Reports.

The Government's Annual Reports, published since 1997, and Quarterly Reports, published since 2004, are available from the Libraries of the House and the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) website at:

http://www.fco.gov.uk/en/about-the-fco/publications/publications/annual-reports/export-controlsl

Manufacturing: Government Assistance

Sir Nicholas Winterton: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what financial assistance the Government is providing to (a) commercial vehicle manufacturing companies and (b) JCB; and if he will make a statement. [254441]

Ian Pearson: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the statement I made on the support for the automotive sector on 27 January 2009, Official Report, column 165-67.

Members: Correspondence

Mr. Shepherd: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many responses to letters received in his Department from hon. Members were outstanding in each month since September 2008. [253813]

Mr. McFadden: To date the Department has the following letters from hon. Members outstanding:

	Number
September 2008	7
October 2008	18
November 2008	67
December 2008	281
January 2009	240

The majority of letters outstanding from December 2008 and January 2009 are concerns around the current economic difficulties faced by consumers and small businesses and are being answered as quickly as possible.

Sir Gerald Kaufman: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when the Secretary of State plans to reply to the letter of 22 December 2008 from the right hon. Member for Manchester, Gorton with regard to Mr. M. Gutteridge. [253873]

Mr. McFadden: The issue raised by my right hon. Friend falls within the portfolio of Her Majesty's Treasury, your letter was transferred on 5 February and you will receive a response in due course.

Mr. Malins: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when he plans to respond to the letter from the hon. Member for Woking of 25 November 2008 on Cookson Electronics. [254707]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 9 February 2009]: The matter raised by the hon. Member fell within the portfolio of the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs. The letter was officially transferred and the hon. Member was informed on 22 December 2008.

Minimum Wage: Social Security Benefits

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many people have had their benefits uprated as a result of the national minimum wage in (a) the UK, (b) England, (c) the North East and (d) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency. [252561]

Mr. McFadden: The answer given relates directly to the number of workers affected by the national minimum wage uprating in the form of higher wages and does not take account any change in state benefit.

Information on earnings is taken from the ONS' Annual Survey of Hours and Earnings (ASHE) dataset for 2008. Information for individual parliamentary constituencies is not readily available in the ASHE dataset, however, information is available on a Government office region basis.

(a) The number of workers in the UK that stand to benefit directly in the form of higher hourly wages from the October 2008 national minimum wage upratings is estimated to be around 1,125,000.

(b) The number of workers in England that stand to benefit directly in the form of higher hourly wages from the October 2008 national minimum wage upratings is estimated to be around 906,000.

(c) In the North East, 64,000 workers are estimated to benefit directly from higher hourly wages as a result of the October 2008 national minimum wage upratings.

Mobile Phones: Contracts

Derek Wyatt: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will review the decision of Ofcom not to require the UK's telecommunications sector to reduce its mobile termination rates, with particular reference to the likely effect of the decision on consumers. [250340]

Mr. McFadden: I do not intend to review Ofcom's action on mobile termination rates. In March 2007 Ofcom published a market review statement for the period 1 April 2007 to 31 March 2011 following a two-year market review and extensive industry consultation. This statement is currently subject to two appeals before the Competition Appeal Tribunal and the Competition Commission. The outcome of these appeals will determine the appropriate mobile termination rates in the near term.

Derek Wyatt: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether his Department has made a recent estimate of the cost to UK consumers of (a) maintaining the current mobile termination rate regime and (b) introducing the new rates proposed by the European Commission. [250389]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 22 January 2009]: Mobile termination rates are regulated by Ofcom and the benefit to consumers has a central place in reaching decisions on the appropriate rates. The Commission have issued a draft Recommendation for consultation and Ofcom and other European regulators are in discussion with the Commission about the approach taken. If the recommendation is issued, Ofcom will take the utmost account of the recommendation.

Mobile Phones: Rural Areas

Sir Robert Smith: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will make it his policy to require mobile telephone companies to maintain high standards of signal coverage in rural areas. [253822]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 3 February 2009]: There are currently no regulatory requirements for the mobile network operators or constraints under the terms of their 2G and 3G licences for provision of signal coverage in rural areas. Although a population coverage requirement is a condition of their licences, Ofcom are satisfied that this has in all cases been met. The Government believe that competitive pressure between each operator is fed by information about the markets in which they operate, providing the best basis upon which they can decide whether or not to build mast base stations in areas where signal coverage is poor.

However, the Government are keen to ensure that the benefits of digital technology are enjoyed by as many people as possible. As part of the Digital Britain Interim Report, published on 29 January 2009, we propose a universal service commitment for broadband data. By the publication of the final Digital Britain Report, we will develop plans for a universal service, which will include the role of mobile technologies. We will additionally consider further network, spectrum or carrier-sharing proposals from the operators, particularly where these can lead to greater coverage levels throughout the country.

Motor Vehicles

John Hemming: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will provide credit guarantee support for the purchase of vehicles to provide support for the motor industry. [248019]

Ian Pearson: I refer the hon. Member to the statement I made in the House on 27 January 2009, Official Report, columns 165-67.

Motor Vehicles: Government Assistance

Chris Huhne: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform with reference to the Statement of 27 January 2009, Official Report, columns 165-67, on the automotive industry, on support for the automotive industry, if he will ensure that the plan to be drawn up by Lord Davies on access to finance will include commercial vehicle financing. [253249]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 3 February 2009]: Financing for commercial vehicles will be included in the discussions on access to finance for the automotive industry.

Motor Vehicles: Manufacturing Industries

Gregory Barker: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether the support package for the automotive industry includes elements of support for the development of (a) plug-in hybrid electric vehicles and (b) vehicle to grid smart charging technology. [255207]

Ian Pearson: The package I announced on 27 January 2009 will provide loan guarantees to Britain's automotive manufacturers and large suppliers to support investment in low carbon plant and research and development. The criteria of the schemes need to be agreed with the European Commission, however it is intended that projects could include support for the development of plug-in hybrid electric vehicles.

On 15 January 2009, Secretary of State for Transport announced £250 million funding to encourage consumers to buy ultra-low carbon cars and electric vehicles and targeted support for electric vehicle charging infrastructure provision. In addition, the Department for Transport's £20 million public procurement programme will help demonstrate lower carbon and all-electric vans and the Technology Strategy Board's £10 million competition will showcase ultra low carbon cars.

Official Cars

Bob Spink: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what cars of what engine cubic capacity are (a) owned and (b) leased by his Department. [250032]

Mr. McFadden: BERR currently holds five leased vehicles, details of which are as follows:

	Engine cc
Peugeot 207 Diesel Hatchback 1.4	1398
Peugeot 207 Diesel Hatchback 1.4	1398
Peugeot 307 Diesel Hatchback 1.6	1560
Renault Clio Hatchback 1.2	1149
Ford Fiesta Hatchback 1.25	1242

I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Transport on 26 January 2009, Official Report, column 10W, about cars provided by the Government Car and Despatch Agency.

Overseas Companies: EU Countries

Sir Nicholas Winterton: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what UK-owned (a) companies and (b) construction companies are taking part in major infrastructure projects in each other EU member state; and if he will make a statement. [254947]

Ian Pearson: The Department does not collect this information.

Post Offices

Mr. Djanogly: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform on how many occasions the Ministerial Committee on the Post Office Network has met since its formation; and if he will make a statement. [256084]

Mr. McFadden: Information relating to the proceedings of Cabinet Committees, including when, how often and for how long they meet, is generally not disclosed; as to do so could harm the frankness and candour of internal discussion.

Redundancy

Mrs. May: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many notifications his Department and its predecessor received of businesses making redundancies of 20 employees or more in each (a) year since 1997 and (b) month of the last two years for which figures are available, broken down by (i) region, (ii) local authority and (iii) parliamentary constituency. [252920]

Mr. McFadden: Employers who propose to make 20 or more redundancies at one establishment are required to notify the Secretary Of State of the proposal under provisions contained in the Trade Union and Labour Relations (Consolidation) Act 1992. Information on those notifications is only held from January 2006. I have detailed in the following table the number of notifications received for each month from January 2006 to December 2008. The records are not maintained in the format the hon. Member have requested so I regret that I am unable to break them down by region, local authority areas, or parliamentary constituencies.

January	35,133	32,325	29,626

Regional Development Agencies: Public Relations

Mr. Hurd: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much each of the regional development agencies has spent on external public relations in the last 24 months; and what firms each contracted to provide such services. [250217]

Mr. McFadden: The following figures refer specifically to the corporate promotion of each RDA and their respective projects during the 24 month period of January 2007 to December 2008. They do not include expenditure on tourism initiatives, marketing of the region, printing, graphic design, or the production of required documentation such as annual reports or accounts.

During the past 24 months YF, EEDA, EMDA and ONE have spent nothing on external PR firms. These agencies manage their corporate promotion in-house.

RDA	PR firms	Total spend on external PR in the last 24 months (£000)

Renewable Energy: Export Credit Guarantees

Gregory Barker: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps he is taking to increase take-up of the Export Credits Guarantee Department's £50 million annual underwriting fund for the renewable energy industry. [255205]

Ian Pearson: ECGD cover remains available for UK renewables exporters and the Department continues to work with the Department of Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform, UK Trade and Investment and renewables trade associations to raise awareness of the support available. ECGD's engagement with, and research into, the market indicates that very few UK renewables companies currently plan to export to markets where ECGD support is relevant. The Department is, however, following up a number of potential longer-term prospects with the companies concerned.

Retail Trade: Yorkshire

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many retail enterprises were in operation in (a) the area covered by Hambleton and Harrogate councils and (b) Yorkshire in each of the last 10 years. [254259]

Ian Pearson: Statistical data relating solely to retail enterprises are not available at regional or district level. The estimated number of businesses in Standard Industrial Classification Group G (wholesale, retail and repair) registered for VAT at the end of each calendar year in Hambleton, Harrogate and the Yorkshire and The Humber region is set out in the following table. 2007 is the latest year for which data are available.

VAT stocks at year end in SIC Group G (wholesale, retail and repair)

	Local authority district Hambleton	Local authority district Harrogate	Yorkshire and The Humber Region
1998	720	1,420	33,035
1999	735	1,415	32,750
2000	735	1,410	32,555
2001	735	1,400	32,135
2002	735	1,385	31,905
2003	745	1,390	32,290
2004	750	1,390	32,570
2005	765	1,430	32,980
2006	780	1,455	33,150
2007	800	1,480	33,445

Note:
VAT figures do not give the complete picture of the number of businesses in the economy. Businesses operating below the VAT threshold are not automatically included, although some businesses do voluntarily register for VAT even though their turnover is below the threshold. It is estimated that at UK level 42 per cent. of businesses are registered for VAT.

Retirement: Age

Kerry McCarthy: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will bring forward proposals to (a) prohibit employers from operating a mandatory requirement age and (b) remove the national default retirement age provided for in the Employment Equality (Age) Regulations 2006. [254950]

Mr. McFadden: The UK does not have a national mandatory retirement age. Employers do not have to retire employees once they reach 65. They are free to continue to employ them as long as they like, and employees are entitled to request to continue working beyond 65. The default retirement age allows employers to use retirement at 65 as a tool for workforce planning. If an employer wishes to operate a normal retirement age that is lower than 65 they must objectively justify it.

We are monitoring the legislation as we said we would when it was introduced. We will take due account of all the up to date information available in ensuring we arrive at an appropriate outcome in our review planned for 2011.

Royal Mail

Mr. Djanogly: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much Royal Mail has set aside for modernisation projects. [256074]

Mr. McFadden: This is an operational matter for Royal Mail. I have therefore asked the Chief Executive of Royal Mail, Adam Crozier, to reply direct to the hon. Member.

The Government have made available £1.2 billion of loan facilities to enable Royal Mail to implement its modernisation plans.

Copies of the letter will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

Mr. Djanogly: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will place in the Library a copy of Royal Mail's Strategic Plan. [256076]

Mr. McFadden: Royal Mail's strategic plan is a commercially confidential document and it would therefore not be appropriate to place a copy in the Library of the House.

Mr. Djanogly: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what proportion of Royal Mail the Government plan to sell to a private sector partner; and what price the Government intends to charge for that stake. [256080]

Mr. McFadden: Government will maintain our manifesto commitment to a Royal Mail which remains in public ownership and will therefore retain a majority stake to safeguard the vital services it provides.

However, it is too early at this stage to speculate as to what the precise details of any minority share sale will be as they are subject to negotiations with the potential partner. Once we are in a position to announce such details we will do so.

Mr. Djanogly: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much will be paid annually to the new Chairman of Royal Mail in (a) salary, (b) pension contributions and (c) other expenses and allowances; and what the equivalent remuneration figures for his predecessor were. [256083]

Mr. McFadden: The new Chairman, Donald Brydon, will receive remuneration of £200,000 per year. There is no pension associated with this non-executive Chairman post. There is no set amount for expenses. This will be determined on an actual basis.

This overall package is the same as that for Allan Leighton.

Small Businesses: Bankruptcy

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many small businesses have closed in each quarter of the last five years. [249700]

Ian Pearson: Quarterly data on business closures are not available.

Data on enterprise closures from the Office for National Statistics Business Demography publication are available on an annual basis. Data for the years 2003 to 2007 are shown in the following table. Data for 2008 will be available in late 2009.

Thousand

Wind Power: Steel

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the opportunities which exist for the manufacture of wind turbines from steel made in the United Kingdom; and whether he has made an assessment of the implications for the United Kingdom steel industry of an expanded capacity of the on and off-shore wind power industry. [253327]

Ian Pearson: The UK steel industry is a key supplier of steel to wind turbine sector. Corus has supplied steel to the renewable energy sector for a number of years, including for the production of onshore and offshore wind towers. The Government anticipate strengthening demand for steel from this sector as our policies place target an increased use of renewable energy sources alongside reductions in greenhouse gas emissions from electricity generation.

The UK has the largest potential wind energy in Europe and the technology for both onshore and offshore wind power is currently one of the most developed and cost effective of all renewable technologies. Corus has key customers through the supply chain—from the tower fabricators to the wind turbine manufacturers. Corus will continue to work with its key customers and the Government to identify opportunities to maximise the value that can be obtained from the sector for the UK.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Departmental Impact Assessments

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many equalities impact assessments his Department has undertaken in the last 12 month period for which figures are available; and what estimate he has made of the cost to the public purse of such assessments. [255069]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: During 2008 the Department for International Development (DFID) undertook 11 Equality Impact Assessments. No estimate has been made of the cost of these assessments, as they were carried out by staff as part of their everyday duties.

Departmental Pensions

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what steps his Department is taking to advise staff of pension options available to them in relation to added years or additional voluntary contributions. [253267]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: Members of the Principal Civil Service Pension Scheme receive an annual benefit statement showing the pension built up to date, and also a projection of their pension on retirement if they continue in service to scheme pension age. The benefit statement prompts the member to consider boosting their pension and provides details of the civil service pensions website where staff can obtain further information, including options for making additional voluntary contributions and a calculator to work out costs for added pension (previously added years).

New entrants are informed of pension options in the employment offer and are provided with a pension information pack.

Cabinet Office provides leaflets that explain added pension and additional voluntary contributions for members. The information is also available in scheme booklets. These are available on the Civil Service Pensions website or on request from the member's pensions administrator. In addition to this, a notice outlining the added pension facility was displayed on the Department for International Development's (DFID) internal web pages on a number of occasions throughout January.

Departmental Redundancy

Justine Greening: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development with reference to the answer of 25 November 2008, Official Report, columns 1319-20W, on redundancy, what estimate he has made of the annual payroll savings accruing to his Department as a result of staff exit schemes in (a) 2005-06, (b) 2006-07, (c) 2007-08 and (d) 2008-09 excluding the cost of severance packages; and what estimate he has made of the equivalent figures for (i) 2009-10 and (ii) 2010-11. [254427]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: No estimates have been made of DFID's annual payroll savings as a result of staff exit schemes.

Departmental Working Hours

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many days off in lieu were granted to staff in (a) his Department, (b) its agencies and (c) its non-departmental public bodies for working (i) in lunch breaks and (ii) at other times outside contracted hours, in the last year for which figures are available. [252020]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: Information on the number of days off in lieu granted to staff in the Department for International Development (DFID) cannot be provided since the information is not centrally recorded.

Developing Countries

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development (1) how much of his Department's budget for 2008-09 has been spent on addressing the effects of climate change in developing countries; [256602]

(2) how much of his Department's budget for 2008-09 has been spent on combating (a) AIDS, (b) malaria, (c) cholera and (d) polio; [256600]

(3) how much of his Department's budget for 2008-09 has been spent on education in developing countries; [256590]

(4) how much of his Department's budget for 2008-09 has been spent on providing access to clean water in developing countries; [256595]

(5) how much of his Department's budget for 2008-09 has been spent on providing emergency (a) food and (b) shelter. [256594]

Mr. Michael Foster: Details of DFID's 2008-09 spending are not yet available but will be published in our 2009 annual report in July. The most recently available data can be found in Statistics on International Development 2008, which was published in November 2008 and is available online:

Global Partnership for Agriculture and Food Security

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development (1) what proposals his Department has brought forward for a Global Partnership for Agriculture and Food Security; how much funding his Department plans to provide to such a partnership; and if he will make a statement; [253991]

(2) what discussions he has had with his (a) EU and (b) G8 counterparts on the proposed Global Partnership for Agriculture and Food Security; which of these counterparts have (i) indicated a willingness to join the partnership and (ii) committed funds to it; and if he will make a statement. [253992]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: In June 2008 at the Rome Food Summit, the Secretary of State called for an international partnership for agriculture and food to deliver an ambitious and sustained increase in our collective efforts to tackle world hunger.

Subsequently DFID has worked intensively with other donors, the UN High Level Task Force on Global Food Security and other stakeholders to take this forward. The UK worked within the G8 to secure food security as a key priority for the Toyako summit in July. G8 leaders called for the establishment of a Global Partnership for Agriculture and Food and established a G8 Working Group on Global Food Security in which the UK has been proactive. We have also engaged closely with the European Commission through the Working Party on Development Cooperation (CODEV). The result is sold donor consensus on the need for more and better support for food security, social protection and agricultural development and for a global mechanism to help deliver a comprehensive and co-ordinated international response to hunger.

The recent "High Level Meeting on Food Security for All", hosted by Ban Ki Moon and President Zapatero in Madrid, agreed to launch a formal consultation process for the establishment of a "Global Partnership for Agriculture, Food Security and Nutrition" (GPAFSN) which will fully engage all relevant stakeholders.

Given the existence of the International Fund for Agricultural Development and the World Bank's multi-donor trust fund for rapid response to countries badly affected by the recent food crisis, the GPAFSN is not conceived as a new global fund. A small secretariat is envisaged, with its main role being to co-ordinate among the various UN agencies, donors, partner countries and other stakeholders who are serious and ambitious in stepping up joint efforts to reduce global hunger.

Over $15 billion of new funding has already been announced since the food crisis began last year. G8 leaders announced some $10 billion of new commitments at their summit in Toyako. A further $1.75 billion to tackle food security was announced at the UN High Level Meeting on the MDGs in New York in September. This included one billion euros from the European Commission. Spain pledged one billion euros over the next five years at the recent Madrid meeting. The World Bank has pledged to increase its annual spending on agriculture by some $2 billion per year. Within these figures, during 2008 DFID has committed over £900 million to addressing agriculture and food security, of which over £230 million has already been disbursed.

The GPAFSN will have a crucial role in promoting the co-ordination of this funding at country level where partner governments are willing to give sustained priority to this agenda. GPAFSN will also be a forum for identifying and addressing emerging international issues, such as global grain price volatility, not appropriate for other international forums.

HIV Infection: Finance

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much his Department has credited to the Global Fund for AIDS in each year since the fund's inception; and if he will make a statement. [254216]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The Global Fund to fight AIDS, TB and Malaria (GFATM) was established in 2002. Between 2002-08, the UK Government provided a total of £359 million as follows:

Financial year	£ million
2002-03	50
2003-04	25
2004-05	33
2005-06	51
2006-07	100
2007-08	100

In September 2007, the UK made an unprecedented long term commitment of up to £1 billion for 2008-15, on the condition that the Global Fund receives good quality demand, continues to perform well, and is demonstrating sustainable impact.

Human Rights

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what recent assessment he has made of the UK's contribution to the work of humanitarian organisations. [256034]

Mr. Michael Foster: The Department for International Development (DFID) undertook a detailed expenditure review last year—the "DFID Humanitarian Spend Report", showing where DFID humanitarian funds have been spent and through which partner organisations. This has been shared with non-governmental organisations. Copies of the report have been placed in the House of Commons Library.

We regularly assess the humanitarian organisations that we fund in order to verify the impact of our contributions. This includes monitoring their performance through telephone conversations and meetings, usually supplemented by a field visit to assess work on the ground.

DFID's core humanitarian contributions to United Nations relief agencies are accompanied by Institutional Strategies agreed with each agency. New Institutional Strategies include a performance framework which we use to assess annual performance and guide us in releasing funds.

Palestinians: Education

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assessment he has made of the operation of the staging area in Israel for the transfer of humanitarian aid into Gaza; and what account he has taken of the effect of the recent conflict and lack of accessibility on the delivery of this aid. [255047]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: Access to Gaza is a long-standing humanitarian issue which has been exacerbated by the recent conflict.

Staging areas are operating efficiently and have the capacity to scale up should access to Gaza and subsequent service demand from humanitarian agencies increase. As of 6 February the logistics cluster had dispatched 1,980 pallets of cargo to the Gaza strip through Kerem Shalom border crossing, for 22 humanitarian organisations. For example, the UN reports that only 20-25 types of relief items out of 4,000 needed are getting in.

The UK Government will continue to press for improved access so that humanitarian aid is able to reach those that most need it.

Palestinians: Overseas Aid

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development (1) what recent assessment he has made of the distribution of aid in Gaza; [255926]

(2) what recent discussions his Department has had with the United Nations Relief and Works Agency on the distribution of aid in Gaza; [255927]

(3) what steps his Department is taking to increase access to aid in Gaza; [255928]

(4) to what projects his Department has allocated the £27 million funding committed to meet the needs of the Palestinian people in Gaza; and if he will make a statement. [255950]

Mr. Michael Foster: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer given by my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State to my hon. Friend the Member for City of Chester (Christine Russell) on 11 February 2009, Official Report, column 1351.

Further information on the allocation of the £26.8 million of funding is available on the DFID website:

http://www.dfid.gov.uk/

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what steps his Department is taking to support the opening of crossing points to facilitate the movement of aid into Gaza. [256033]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: The UK Government, together with the EU and other actors, continues to call for immediate and unhindered access to Gaza for humanitarian aid and personnel. We continue to discuss the issue with the UN, as well as press the Government of Israel to open the crossings.

Peace Negotiations: Women

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development with reference to the UK National Action Plan on UN Security Council Resolution 1325, what steps the Government is taking to ensure the needs of Afghan civil society, with particular reference to local and national women's organisations, are taken into account in the reconstruction of Afghanistan. [246213]

Bill Rammell: I am aware of the difficult situation many women in Afghanistan still face. Our embassy officials regularly discuss women's rights with members of the Afghan government, non-governmental organisations (NGOs) and Afghan parliamentarians.

The Government work to enhance the status of women in three main ways: through policy engagement with the Afghan government; through support for national programmes and services, which benefit women; and through bilateral programmes. Despite the challenges, progress has been made: over a third of children now in school are girls and we have committed over £35million to support the Afghan government's micro-finance programme, giving women in particular better access to finance. 27 per cent. of seats in the Lower House of the Afghan Parliament are held by women.

Our main support is channelled through the Afghan government, since gender inequality is a deeply embedded and long-term problem which needs a strategic approach. We have worked, for example, with the government to ensure that gender equality is integrated into the Afghanistan National Development Strategy.

We are giving £500,000 to support a five-year Women's Empowerment programme (2005-10), implemented by the NGO Womankind. The programme focuses on promoting women's equal participation in governance; building awareness of women's rights among civil society and policy makers; and on providing educational, health, community and psycho-social support to women affected by violence and conflict. Womankind implements its programmes through local Afghan women's NGO's, helping to build Afghan capacity.

Since its establishment in 2002, we have given over £1.75 million to support the Afghanistan Independent Human Rights Commission (AIHRC), including £200,000 this year to support its 2009-10 Action Plan. The Commission is a cornerstone of Afghan civil society, with over 500 staff working to improve respect for human rights across Afghanistan. A large part of the Commission's work focuses on women's rights, including documenting and tackling violence against women.

The AIHRC now has representatives in Helmand province, who are helping support the new Women and Children's Justice group, established in Lashkar Gah in August 2008. Run by prominent female members of the community, the Group is developing and implementing practical programmes on the ground to support women and children's rights and justice issues.

More information on progress against the UK's National Action Plan, in Afghanistan and elsewhere, can be found on the Foreign and Commonwealth Office website, which is updated periodically:

Peers Interests

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development whether Ministers in his Department received representations from (a) Lord Moonie, (b) Lord Taylor of Blackburn, (c) Lord Snape and (d) Lord Truscott in the last seven months. [255232]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: Ministers at the Department for International Development received no representations from Lord Moonie, Lord Taylor of Blackburn, Lord Snape or Lord Truscott in the last seven months.

United Nations: Climate Change

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what (a) financial and (b) in-kind contribution his Department made to the United Nations Adaptation Fund in 2008-09; what allocation he plans to make to the Fund in each of the next three financial years; whether such contributions are earmarked for specific projects; and whether such contributions will be repaid. [256622]

Mr. Thomas: The Department for International Development (DFID) provided an advance of £500,000 to support the set-up of the Adaptation Fund (AF) in 2008-09 and has pledged up to £500,000 more if needed for the same purpose, making the UK the biggest contributor to the AF Board so far. Decisions on how our contributions are used are taken by the AF Board. The fund's main source of income will be from a 2 per cent. levy on proceeds from Certified Emissions Reductions generated by the Clean Development Mechanism. Decisions on contributions beyond the 2 per cent. levy to the AF will be made when it becomes operational, and when its future role and scale becomes clearer through the climate change negotiations. DFID is also providing advisory support with 20 per cent. of a senior adviser's time as the UK alternate member of the AF Board, and support by other DFID and DECC staff working on climate change.

Letter of correction from Mr. Jim Fitzpatrick:

An error has been identified in a written answer given to the hon. Member for Carshalton and Wallington (Tom Brake) on 17 November 2008. The answer given was as follows:

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department for Transport itself uses Airwave handsets. The following of the Department's executive agencies and sponsored non-departmental bodies are also users of Airwave handsets:

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

St. Helena

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many inhabitants of St Helena have taken up residence in the United Kingdom in the last five years. [240849]

[Official Report, 17 December 2008, Vol. 485, c. 879W.]

Letter of correction from Gillian Merron:

It has been brought to my attention that the written answer I gave to the hon. Member for Romford (Andrew Rosindell) on 17 December 2008 was incorrect. The full answer given was as follows:

Gillian Merron: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has not had any meetings with officials from St. Helena in the last two years. However, I had a constructive meeting with Councillor William Drabble during the Overseas Territories Consultative Council in October this year, and my hon. Friend, Meg Munn, then Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, met with Brian Isaacs at the same event in December 2007. Foreign and Commonwealth Office and other Government officials are in regular contact with St. Helena officials.

The correct answer should have read:

Gillian Merron: The British Overseas Territories Act 2002 conferred British citizenship on British Overseas Territories citizens with the exception of those who are a British overseas territories citizen by virtue only of a connection with the Sovereign Base Areas in Cyprus.

British citizens are free from immigration control in the UK. As such, the Government do not keep records of the movements of these citizens to and from the UK.

Olympic Games 2012: Construction

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what alternative sources of funding for the athletes' village (a) she and (b) the Olympic Delivery Authority is considering; and if she will make a statement. [246120]

[Official Report, 12 January 2009, Vol. 486, c. 260W.]

Letter of correction from Tessa Jowell:

It has been brought to our attention that, because the response to PQ 246120 was written in 2008, but published in 2009, the answer is misleading. A correction to the answer of 12 January 2009, Official Report, column 260W, is required. The full answer given to the question and the required change are as follows:

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what alternative sources of funding for the athletes' village (a) she and (b) the Olympic Delivery Authority is considering; and if she will make a statement. [246120]

Tessa Jowell: As a consequence of recent turmoil in the global financial markets, less private sector investment is available than originally envisaged, meaning that the Olympic Village deal needs to be restructured and additional public sector investment will need to be made. The details of that restructured deal are being worked through between the Olympic Delivery Authority (ODA) and Lend Lease under the terms of an exclusivity agreement and it would not be appropriate to reveal the details until that deal is concluded in the spring of 2009. Under the exclusivity agreement, the ODA may not negotiate with alternative development partners.

Animal Welfare: Codes of Practice

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which codes of conduct to be issued under the Animal Welfare Act 2006 the Government is currently working on; and which bodies have been appointed to advise on each code. [243291]

[Official Report, 12 January 2009, Vol. 486, c. 207-08W.]

Letter of correction from Jane Kennedy:

An error has been identified in the final paragraph of the written answer given to the hon. Member for Leominster (Bill Wiggin) on 12 January 2009. The final paragraph was as follows:

> Gamebirds: Animal Health, British Association for Sport Shooting, Countryside Alliance, Country Landowners Association, Game Conservancy Trust, Game Farmers Association, League Against Cruel Sports, National Gamekeepers Association, Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and two independent advisers. Representatives from the Scottish Executive and the Welsh Assembly Government will act as observers.

The correct answer should have been:

Jane Kennedy: DEFRA is currently consulting on three draft codes of practice to be made under the Animal Welfare Act 2006—cats, dogs and equines. We are also proposing to draft codes on the private keeping of primates and on the rearing of gamebirds for sporting purposes.

DEFRA has had the assistance and co-operation of the following stakeholders in the preparation of these codes:

> Cat: British Small Animal Veterinary Association, Companion Animal Welfare Council, Feline Advisory Bureau, Pet Care Trust, Peoples Dispensary for Sick Animals, Pet Food Manufacturers Association, Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and an independent veterinary adviser. Representatives from the Scottish Executive and the Welsh Assembly Government acted as observers.

Coroners and Justice Bill

Mr. Dominic Grieve (Beaconsfield) (Con): I am most grateful to the Secretary of State for his kind words of welcome.

Conservative Members welcome the appointment of a victims' champion, but would the Secretary of State care to comment on the fact that the victims' champion appears to be a temporary substitute in the absence of a victims' commissioner? I seem to recollect that a commissioner was first promised as far back as 2003 or 2004, yet we still do not have one. Is not the appointment of the champion an admission that the Government have not got their act together on this matter?

Letter of correction from Mr. Michael Foster:

An error has been identified in the written answer given to right hon. Member for Berwickshire, Roxburgh and Selkirk (Mr. Moore), Official Report, 3 February 2009. The figures cited for the funds committed to the EITI were incorrect. The correct answer should have been:

Mr. Michael Foster: The UK Government have been a leading supporter of the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI). DFID has committed over £14 million to EITI and has so far provided over £8 million of this since November 2002. Increasing transparency and knowledge of revenues from the extractive sector empowers citizens to hold Governments to account, so that mismanagement of funds away from sustainable development purposes becomes more difficult. In line with the EITI Global Conference's objectives, we will work with other stakeholders to take stock of EITI's progress; to address the challenges which EITI faces; to consider the next steps for taking forward the initiative.

The composition of the UK's delegation to the EITI Global Conference is yet to be finalised.

[Official Report, 3 February 2009, Vol. 487, c. 1055-58W.]

Letter of correction from Beverley Hughes:

An error has been identified in the written answer to the hon. Member for East Worthing and Shoreham (Tim Loughton), Official Report, 3 February 2009. My email of 9 February alerted the hon. Member to data errors in the answer my Department gave. I am now writing to provide the hon. Member with the revised figures.

I am assured by officials that these figures are now correct. Quality assurance procedures have been reviewed and improved to ensure that the chances of this happening again are minimised.

The revised tables are published below. The effect of the correction has been to reduce substantially the number of looked-after children who have a number of foster placements during the year.

A copy of my response will be placed in the Library.

Once again, please accept my apology on behalf of myself and officials in the Department.

[1] Figures exclude children looked after under an agreed series of short—term placements.

[2] Based on children looked after at 31 March 2008 and the number of foster placements during the 2007-08 financial year

[3] Rounding and suppression—to ensure that no individual can be identified from statistical tables, we use conventions for the rounding and suppression of very small numbers. At local authority level the England totals have been rounded to the nearest 100 if they exceed 1,000 and to the nearest 10 otherwise. Regional totals have been rounded to the nearest 10. All other numbers have been rounded to the nearest five, and the numbers from 1 to 5 inclusive have been suppressed, being replaced in the published table by a (-).
